PROFANE LANGUAGE BARRED IN THE CANADIAN LEAGUE

Special to the Review.

Toronto, May 30.—President J. P. Fitzgerald of the Canadian Baseball League, has received an interesting souvenir from the London Club. It is a copy of a report of the garnishee of the Club's gate receipts on May 25th by former President, Donald Ferguson. Ferguson held a bill against the Club for $70 for expenses, and it is claimed, took this method of collecting without previously notifying the secretary-treasurer of the League.

The language used by some players in the Canadian League has been reported to President Fitzgerald as being anything but chaste. He has issued instructions to Manager George Needham, of the Guelph team, which is the team of which particular complaint is made, that his players must cease to use profance language or get out of the team. The same rule, he says, will apply to all players in the League and unless it is lived up to he will suspend all offenders.

LEAGUE OFFICIALS MET LOCAL BALL CLUB DIRECTORS

President Fitzgerald and Secretary Robinson of the Canadian Ball League came to Peterboro' last night and met Manager Templin with his Board of Directors, when the local situation was gone over, and some details completed to the satisfaction of the local club, and the league officials.

President Fitzgerald was most optimistic when speaking of prospects for this, the second year of the Canadian League. While the weather conditions were a hardship to the clubs just now, he believed that all clubs were stronger than last year, and much better ball would be played. He was greatly pleased with the thorough manner the local officers and Manager Templin were taking up the game, and wished Manager Templin all success in the series at Ottawa.

DETROIT SCOUT AFTER PLAYERS

Bobby Lowe, a scout for the Detroit Tigers of the American Baseball League, is looking over the Canadian League teams, for the purpose of securing material for the Detroit Club to try out next season, or the latter part of this season.

Lowe was in the city yesterday, and went on to Ottawa.

WORK OF WHITE CAPS IN THE SIX GAMES AT HOME

Here are some figures which show the work of the regular White Caps in the six games played at Riverside Park:

	R.	SH.	1B	2B.	HR.
Schwartz, rf...	6	0	9	0	0
Beard, cf...	4	2	5	2	1
Templin, 2b...	3	2	7	0	0
Dolan, 1b...	2	1	4	3	0
Tully, ss...	4	0	4	0	0
Hartman, 3b...	5	3	5	0	1
Trout, c...	1	2	3	0	1

Thirty bases on balls have been given to the Peterborough team during the same number of games, and although Manager Templin has faced the pitchers 26 times, he is only scored as having gone to bat 20 times. Hartman at third base has had 21 assists, while Tully at short has had 20. Dolan is credited with 70 put outs.

BREEZES FROM THE DIAMOND

The Guelph Club has released Neher and Behan, two pitchers.

Fred Herbert will not be sold by the Senators as the Club feels the team needs his services for their long road trip. Quite correct, Ottawa.

The London Tecumsehs have been reinforced by the arrival of Fred Cocash, an ex-New York Highlander. London comes to Peterboro' Wednesday and Thursday, June 12 and 13.

Although all the clubs have been instructed that they must be within the salary limit by Saturday, June 1, President Fitzgerald will likely give the Peterboro' club a ten days' extension on this rule, and thus allow them time in which to round up the players needed to bring the team up to the standard required.—Hamilton Spectator.

Roy Keating, the star twirler of the 1911 Hamilton team, and who was farmed by the St. Lawrence Club of the New England League, has been sold to the New York Americans for $8,000.

Says the Ottawa Journal: "The loss of a game at Peterboro', while it did the Senators no harm, raised the drooping spirits of the Peterboro' fans mightily. To win a game caused joy, but to win a game from the league leaders, who had met with only one defeat in eight games, increased that joy a hundredfold. And, while we deplore the loss of even a single game, we cannot but feel that we would sooner lose to the Petes than to any of the other teams. It must be hard on the Peterboro' management to commence the season in a town just breaking into the game with an unbroken string of defeats.

Byron Nork, the College twirler, and Nasher, an infielder have arrived in the city and will be sent to Ottawa to-night.

Catcher Mooney may come to-night and also make the trip east.

SUMMER FAIR

come in order those representing the various Provinces of the Dominion; Nova Scotia, the Highlanders; Prince Edward Island, the Fisherman; New Brunswick, the Sailors; Quebec, the Peasantry; Ontario, the Farmers and Milk Maids; Manitoba and Saskatchewan, young ladies in white with Sheafs of Wheat; Alberta, by Indians; British Columbia and Yukon Territory, by the Miners. Then followed different ones representing the various Canadian sports, the Boy Scouts, the ladies in the different booths and those who were serving high tea in the winter booth. Each province carried a distinctive shield bearing the coat of arms.

A popular booth, when the crowd grows large, is the one in the southeast corner where Mrs. Dunsford and Miss Dorothy Hall dispense soft drinks to the thirsty ones. P. J. Grady kindly donated all the supplies for the booth and many complimentary remarks are made as to the excellence of the flavor of the various beverages. The ladies are gowned in a costume representing Rebecca at the well.

The Autumn Booth was the recipient of a big pail of Hooper's Cream Taffy yesterday. So great was the mand for it that the pail was almost empty when the evening was over.

There was a great run on pancakes at the Autumn Booth last night. The fact that Miss Steinhoff was to be the cook was a guarantee in itself that the pancakes would be first class. They were served at six o'clock and again at nine. The receipts from their sale were immensely gratifying to the ladies. The sum of yesterday's selling being $113.00.

Pancakes and maple syrup will be served at the Autumn Booth again on Friday evening.

Mr. A. F. Smith, a chef of wide experience and an accomplished culinary artist, is demonstrating rapid baking and cooking by means of gas, at the Peterborough Light and Power Company's booth in the Summer Fair. The head salesman is Mr. R. B. Snyder.

10% of all sales at McDermid & Jury's Rexall Booth at the Armouries will go to the Peterborough Health Association

WILL THE SUMMER FAIR BE CONTINUED?

It is being suggested that the Peterborough Summer Fair be continued for another week owing to the drawbacks that have been encountered through the unfavorable weather. The success which has been experienced in the face of the rainy weather seems to warrant financially the extension of time, for another week.

Captain Rostron Honored.

New York, May 30.—Not only was a silver loving cup presented to Captain Rostron yesterday by a committee representing Titanic survivors, but gold, silver and bronze medals, together with an engrossed set of resolution were presented to the officers and entire crew, which had been mustered in the saloon.

Hurt by Falling Body.

Chicago, May 30.—A window washer in a downtown office building was killed yesterday when he fell from the eighth floor and Rev. Henry H. Heck of Brooklyn was injured when struck by the falling body. Dr. Heck's ankle was broken and he was injured internally. He was removed to a hospital.

Captain Lord Not Dismissed.

New York, May 30.—A Liverpool cable says: General Manager Roper of the Leyland Line, yesterday positively denied that Captain Lord of the Californian had been relieved of his command. He has been on shore to testify before the British Titanic commission.

Rebels Operating Railway.

Los Angeles, Cal., May 30.—A great part of the funds to finance the Mexican revolution is being derived by Gen. Orozco from freight and express receipts on the Mexican National Railroad, according to E. R. Jones, vice-president of Wells-Fargo & Co. The total amounts to about $375,000 a month.

To Electrify Boston Railways.

Boston, May 30.—A movement for the electrification of steam railroad lines in the vicinity of Boston gained additional headway yesterday, when the joint legislative committee on railroads and metropolitan affairs reported a compulsory measure with six years as the time limit.

Keeping Out the Wind.

Willie was a smart boy and ambitious. His first job was a post in a local bank.

"Well, Willie," asked his uncle one day, "how are you getting on in business? I suppose you will soon be manager?"

"Yes, uncle," Willie replied. "I'm already a draft clerk."

"A draft clerk! Good boy! And what are your duties?"

"I open and shut the windows accordin' to orders," said Willie, "and close the doors after people that leave 'em open."—London Ideas.

Three Manifestations.

"You may give three important illustrations of the power of the press," says the teacher to the class.

The pupil who had not hitherto particularly distinguished himself was the first to reply:

"Cider, courtship and politics."—Judge's Library.

Wasted Effort.

"I don't like the way they reported my speech," complained the new congressman.

"Why, they sprinkled in plenty of laughter and applause."

"Yes, but how about all them gestures?"—Pittsburgh Post.

Shot Friend While Hunting.

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., May 30.—Mistaken by his best friend, Joseph Bond, for a bear, Alexander Blondin, aged 27, was shot dead Tuesday at Mile 71, up the Algoma Central Railway. The men were contractors and partners and left the camp to hunt a bear which had been hanging round. Bond is prostrated with grief, and became hysterical when he saw what he had done.

Royal Party's Narrow Escape.

Niagara Falls, Ont., May 30.—Members of the ducal party had a narrow escape Tuesday while inspecting the plant of the Electrical Development Co., when a heavy stone fell in their path. The duke and duchess and Princess Patricia had just passed when the heavy stone, which was being unloaded for the work, crashed down. Col. Lowther was only two feet from it when it hit the ground.

Jurer Accepted $400 Cash.

Los Angeles, Cal., May 30.—Bert Franklin's story of the alleged corruption of the McNamara jurors was continued yesterday at the resumption of the trial of his former employer, Clarence Darrow, for the alleged bribing of George Lockwood.

Continuing his story of the alleged bribery of Juror Robert Bain, Franklin said he called on Bain and repeated the proposition he had previously made to Mrs. Bain.

"Bain told me," said Franklin, "that he had but little money. He finally agreed to the deal and I paid him $400 cash."

The next day Franklin reported his success to Darrow, he said.

COLLECTOR THREATENS TO QUIT THE JOB UNLESS HE RECEIVES MORE MONEY

Appears Before Property Committee — Inspector Spence Answers Complaints Regarding the Collection of Garbage—He Advocates Certain Changes in System

The first disagreeable feature in connection with the collection of garbage, was aired last night at a meeting of the City Property committee, when Charles Scriver claimed that he was losing money on the work, and wanted more remuneration or he would quit the job immediately.

The matter arose out of a letter addressed to the committee by Sanitary Inspector Spence, advocating certain changes in the system of garbage collection.

SOME COMPLAINTS

Mr. Spence's letter stated that numerous complaints had been received about garbage not being collected regularly. The real reason of this the letter claimed, was owing to insufficient help, and also because people failed to place their garbage receptacles in a convenient position for collection, or close enough to the sidewalk. The letter advocated an amendment or change in the by-law being drawn up, making it absolutely compulsory for people to have their receptacles placed in such a position that the collectors would lose no time or have any trouble in emptying them into the wagons.

MR. SCRIVER SPEAKS

Mr. Scriver was present at the meeting with one of his drivers, and was given an opportunity to speak.

"The stuff isn't put in a convenient place" he said, "it is often 30 to 100 feet from the sidewalk, and we have to lug it that distance out to our wagons."

Mr. Scriver went on to tell the committee that the rates being charged were not high enough, but the members told Mr. Scriver that made no difference to him, as he was getting all that he asked for in his tender. The collector tried another tack, by saying he had insufficient help. He endeavored to shoulder the blame for this on Ald. Duncan, who is away on a trip, by claiming that the alderman told him to figure on two teams, when he was submitting his tender. Mr. Scriver was politely informed, that it made no difference what anybody told him; he had seen the published advertisements, calling for tenders, and he should have been guided by what it called for, when he figured on the cost of the work.

The root of the trouble is in the fact that Mr. Scriver appears not to have figured correctly.

Sanitary Inspector Spence, considered that three wagons were sufficient, if they were manned well, and no time lost in making the collection. He said that if the three rigs were on regularly, there should be no difficulty encountered in doing the work well.

Mr. Scriver was asked by Mayor Bradburn, if the suggested amendment to the by-law, advocated by the Sanitary Inspector, would facilitate his work any, and satisfy him.

LOSING MONEY.

The collector knew it would help a lot, but it would not make up for the money he claimed to be losing on the job. After paying for the up keep of his horses and paying his men, he claimed he had not a cent for himself.

"There is a lot to put up with on the job besides," he added, "people sneer at you often."

WORTH $25,000

"Why it would take $25,000 to do the job properly," he burst out suddenly after a spell of meditation. Later he came down to $6,000 at which figures the committee indulged in a hearty laugh.

Mr. Scriver was given plainly to understand that the council intended to hold him down to his contract despite his threat to quit the job right away.

His farewell declaration was—"Well I'll just tell you plainly, that I won't carry this stuff out any longer for the money I am getting," after which flare-up, he subsided into silence.

The committee decided to consult the city solicitor and discover if there is any reason why Mr. Scriver cannot be bound down to his contract, without recourse.

CABINET OF SILVER FROM ST. PAUL'S CONGREGATION

In connection with the Congregational meeting in St. Paul's Church last night a presentation was made to the retiring choir leader and organist, Mr. John Crane. After the business of the meeting had been transacted, Mr. Sheriff Hall eulogistically referred to the long and faithful services of Mr. Crane to the choir, and the pleasant relations which had always existed between Mr. Crane and the choir during the nineteen years of his connection with the church.

Mr. W. F. Nelson then read the following address, and Mr. D. H. Moore, at the proper moment, presented Mr. Crane with a handsome inscribed cabinet of silver.

"Mr. John Crane,
Peterborough.

Dear Sir,—We, the choir and congregation of St. Paul's Church, have learned with very great regret that you, the organist and choir master of the Church, feel compelled to retire from the position which you have filled with such acceptance during so many years.

"Few, (if, indeed, any) of the churches in Canada have been so highly favored in this respect as St. Paul's.

"You have shown yourself to be possessed of a high degree of musical taste and ability which has assiduously cultivated during the whole term of your office. No ripple of disagreement or want of cordiality has been apparent on the part of minister, congregation or choir, with the leader. Minister, Session and Congregation alike have had the rare satisfaction of knowing that so far as the service of praise is concerned, that part of the service would be conducted always with a due regard to the proprieties, and in a manner certain to give both pleasure and profit to all concerned.

"As some slight and altogether inadequate expression of their appreciation of your services, and of the loss sustained by the congregation by your retirement, they would ask you to accept the accompanying cabinet of silver.

"With heartiest wishes for Mrs. Crane's and your own future welfare, (Signed on behalf of the choir and congregation of St. Paul's Church),
D. H. Moore,
Jas. A. Hall,
Peterboro', Ont., May 29th. 1912.

The inscription was as follows:

"To Mr. and Mrs. John Crane, from the Choir and Congregation of St. Paul's Church, Peterborough, May, 1912."

It is unnecessary to state Mr. Crane's gratitude to the Choir for their thoughtful act of remembrance. He made a brief but appropriate reply, in which he neatly expressed his thanks and his appreciation of the Choir's kindness.

USING THE GARBAGE SYSTEM TO HAVE ASH PILES IN CELLARS REMOVED

At the Property Committee meeting last night it was reported that some unscrupulous citizens have been taking advantage of the garbage collection system to get rid of their surplus ashes, etc., which accumulated in their cellars during the winter. The sanitary inspector stated he had detected evidences of this in the loads of garbage taken from some residences.

The practice, which is to say the least, not at all fair or just, must be immediately stopped, else proceedings will be taken and the offenders made an example of in some way.

The inspector also asked that the dump on Water street, across from the National Hotel, be closed, as he has found deleterious matter deposited there. He was instructed to make an example of offenders in this respect the next time he discovered any person in the act of dumping refuse matter there, as one good reason would suffice to effectually prevent any repetition of such an offence.

LEGAL MATTERS WERE CONSIDERED BY COMMITTEE

A meeting of the city Legal Committee was held last evening at the conclusion of the Property committee session.

Mr. D. O'Connell again sent a communication to the committee, regarding the Peterborough Cereal Company. He asked that a deed be given the Company, in accordance with the by-law referring to the Company. The letter was referred to the chairman, who will consult with the solicitor.

Nothing was done in regard to a letter from Peck, Kerr & McElderry saying that the Campbell Flour Mills wagon was damaged by heaps of dirt on George street, and that the driver, W. Gray, was injured through the accident. The city engineer's report on the claim was attached.

Mr. M. H. Speneely, whose property was injured in the Spring floods, sent a letter through his solicitor to the committee, claiming $160 damages. His property was flooded rather heavily during the late freshets. It was decided to get a report from the City Engineer before taking any action.

George Stevens offered through solicitors Hall, Hayes and Hall, to pay 25 cents on the dollar in settlement of his account with the city. This proposal was not favorably considered and the solicitor will be informed that the offer will not be accepted, and that he make every effort to collect the amount.

There were present, Ald. Brown, chairman; Mayor Bradburn, and Ald. Gordon and Anderson.

Accident Insurance

Following the Titanic Disaster no one will think of travelling without first taking out an Accident Policy.

It is interesting to know that practically all the Canadians who lost their lives through the Titanic wreck carried Accident Insurance. The average amount to be paid by Accident Companies alone, is over $30,000 for each Canadian lost.

The Double Indemnity and Bonus feature of The Dominion of Canada and General Accident Assurance Company policies are worthy of investigation before placing your Insurance.

On Friday evening in Coronation Hall, the Public Library Concert brought out a bumper house. The company comprised about 40 performers and well filled the stage. The play presented was "The Bachelors' Congress," a three-act comedy. The prologue sets a love story in Jack Benton's home and troubles arise, with the result that Jack is lying in a hypnotic condition at the conclusion of the act. Act two is his dream, which gives the name to the play. Act three is the finale; the settling of love accounts to the satisfaction of all parties interested and the explanations of many amusing misunderstandings.

The committee of management have nothing but praise for each and every member of the caste. From an amateur standpoint, histrionically, the play was a signal success and because of the varied length and prominence of parts it would be difficult to make just comparisons.

Reeve Mulligan contributed a vocal selection to the program, and was encored, the response, to which was another captivating song. Mr. Moses Ruth, recited a very appropiate and well rendered patriotic selection. Mrs. A. C. Hodgett's solo, after the transformation, was a very difficult vocal, that showed the compass, timbre and resonance of her splendid voice. It was thoroughly enjoyed. The Bachelors were provoked by a band of militant suffragettes, till the former gave place to the latter, who held a meeting, the bachelors meanwhile, standing around and making fun of every unwary and antiquated act of the ladies. The suffragettes then put on a program. A burlesque vocal quartette was very funny, so was a piano solo by concertina Brown, and some recitation that were punctuated with local hits and provoked roars of laughter.

The Library Board wish to thank very much, every person who took part on the stage or in any other way assisted. The scenery confines the stage somewhat, but renders its appearance attractive. The new curtain, which is the work of Mr. Goodwin, of Lindsay, and was erected by him on Friday, is a handsome portrayal of Venetian scenery. The receipts reached up into three figures, there being about 600 present.

OUTCOME OF MARRIAGE HEARING NOT CERTAIN

Chief Justice Fitzpatrick Tells Hon. Wallace Nesbitt That He Has Not Benefitted by His Arguments—Quebec Solidly Opposes the Lancaster Bill, While Ontario Shows a Tendency in Its Favor.

Ottawa, May 31.—Contrary to expectations, the hearing in the Supreme Court on the reference of the Lancaster marriage bill questions submitted by the Government, did not conclude yesterday, although the court sat an additional hour in an endeavor to complete the hearing. All parties represented have now been heard. Mr. Hellmuth and Aime Geoffrion for the Province of Quebec, have asserted the province's objection to the passing of the bill.

Hon. Wallace Nesbitt, late yesterday afternoon, made his reply, and only Eugene Lafleur, for the promoters, and E. L. Newcombe, Deputy Minister of Justice, for the Attorney-General of Canada, remain to be heard. It is now expected that the hearing will conclude to-day.

Yesterday's hearing was of a decidedly interesting nature, in that the attitude of the two great provinces of the Dominion was revealed. Quebec, from the assertions of its attorneys, is unalterably opposed to any change in existing conditions, while, on the other hand, the Province of Ontario was, if anything, favorably disposed towards the enactment of the Lancaster marriage bill. The Deputy Attorney-General of Ontario contented himself with reading a clear and concise statement of the feeling of the Provincial Government, while the representatives of Quebec went into the whole question historically and at great length.

For the Province of Quebec, R. C. Smith made the assertion that the enactment of the bill would, in effect, create a nullity of scores of marriages, a condition, he held, that was never intended under the provisions of the British North America Act, which he said was quite clear as to the rights of the provinces to control the solemnization.

From a layman's viewpoint the various quotations put to the contending lawyers would seem to indicate that there will be a division on the decision of the court. Lawyers opposing the bill and others seem to be clear that the court will divide with only one justice dissenting from the decision, and that the decision may be that Parliament has not the constitutional or jurisdictional right to enact the law. In fact, Sir Charles Fitzpatrick, the chief justice, plainly intimated to Hon. Wallace Nesbitt that he had not been able to get any benefit out of the latter's lengthy reply to counsel opposing the bill.

At the morning session Edward Bayly, for the Province of Ontario, read the following statement of the province on the reference dealing with the marriage bill:

"While of opinion that it is difficult to give an unqualified yes or no to any one of the questions submitted in this case, and that the law on the subject is difficult to determine, the Province of Ontario favor a uniform general marriage law for the Dominion if so framed that the legislative authority of the provinces in relation to the solemnization of marriage is not thereby violated, and the Province of Ontario adopts so much of the argument of counsel for the Dominion as is consistent with the view above expressed, and no more.

"The Province of Ontario considers that an act of Parliament which renders valid throughout the Dominion marriages performed in a province by persons legally authorized by such province would result in consolidating and perfecting provincial authority throughout Canada, and on this view the passing of such an act by the Dominion Parliament would enlarge rather than encroach upon provincial jurisdiction."

Boy Scouts to Trek.

Hamilton, May 31.—An important movement of boy scouts throughout Hamilton district is being arranged by Scout Master C. W. Henning of this city for July 1. The boy scouts of Berlin will trek from that place so as to reach here on the morning of Dominion Day. A general parade for that date will include the boy scouts from Simcoe and several other nearby towns in addition to 300 picked scouts from the best Toronto patrols.

C.P.R. Land Co. Not Projected.

London, May 31.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—Sir Thomas Shaughnessy denies any intention of promoting a separate company to control the C.P.R. land holdings.

Sir Thomas told an interviewer that there are more advanced ideas in Canada than here regarding labor and capital relations. The London Globe editorially reminds him that there has been a great deal of labor trouble on the C.P.R. at various time. The Globe deprecates the C.P.R. policy of inviting American western farmers into the Dominion.

PACIFIC NEEDS NO SENTINEL

London, May 31.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—The Daily Telegraph says the agreement reached by the Imperial Defence Committee three years ago for a British fleet in the Pacific will not be carried out. The reasons are, firstly, the renewal of the Japanese alliance, which secures British interests in the Far East and Pacific; secondly, the unexpected pressure of European naval responsibilities.

"Under that agreement it must be admitted that while these ships may be regarded with pride by the commonwealth, they can have no immediate warlike purpose in the Pacific, where the British navy is supreme."

LONDON STRIKE NOT SETTLED

London, May 31.—It is evident that the joint conference to-day, whereby the Government hopes to arrange a settlement of the dock strike, is foredoomed to failure. The master carmen, the master lightermen, public wharfingers and barge owners have joined with the other associations of the employers in declining the Government's invitation to send representatives to take part in the conference, which will be held at the Board of Trade. In each case abstention is justified on the ground that the employers must retain their right to employ either union or non-union labor as they choose, and so long as the men's leaders insist that no settlement can be accepted which does not restrict the employers to union labor the negotiations will be futile.

That the Government is still planning to bring about a settlement is shown by the fact that, by invitation of the Government, representatives of the port of London employers attended a private meeting yesterday afternoon to discuss the situation.

The Chancellor of the Exchequer, David Lloyd-George, presided, and the other Ministers present were Sydney Buxton, President of the Board of Trade; John Burns, President of the Local Government Board; Reginald McKenna, Secretary of Home Affairs, and Sir Rufus Isaacs, Attorney-General. Another meeting has been arranged for June 3.

Meanwhile the wholesale markets continue to obtain abundant supplies of meat, transported from ships under police protection. The strikers are refraining from violence, and the leaders are contenting themselves with threatening a national tie-up unless their demands are soon conceded.

Special to the Review.

London, May 31 — Unless Labor leaders succeed in making a national affair out of the London dockers' strike, it appears bound to fail The number of non-unionists working on the docks, increases daily, and food supplies are being moved without interruption. The indications are that the sailors' and the firemen's unions will oppose the general extension of the strike, because of the depleted condition of their treasuries, but nothing definitely will be known till to-morrow. The Government called a joint conference for to-day but not an employer appeared. A proposal was submitted by the government to the strike leaders, that a joint conciliation board be set up with powers over all workers of the port, and the leaders promised to reply on Tuesday. The Government, it is understood is prepared to enforce the authority of the proposed Board by legislation.

His body was taken to the morgue where an inquest will be held by Coroner Singer at noon to-day.

MILITARY CAMP WILL BE DRY

Ottawa, May 31.—That the regulations concerning the consumption of liquor by men in camps will be rigidly enforced this year was the emphatic statement of Hon. Col. Sam Hughes, Minister of Militia, when asked if there were any new regulations this year governing the consumption of liquor in the training camps.

The sale of liquor of any kind is prohibited in camps and it is said that during this season's camp a strict watch will be kept for any "private supplies" being brought into the lines.

LAWSON GETS LIFE SENTENCE

Medicine Hat, Alta., May 31.—J. J. Lawson, homesteader, was given a life sentence by Chief Justice Harvey on a charge of attempted murder. Lawson and Byron Harpell were neighbors on homesteads south of Seven Persons.

The former has just finished a term of imprisonment in a fraud case in which Harpell was the complainant. Lawson secreted himself in Harpell's barn, and when he came in the morning to get hay, he shot him in the head with a revolver. Neighbors surrounded the barn until the mounted police arrived. Lawson surrendered without trouble. The bullet was extracted from the base of Harpell's skull. He will recover.

Teamster Killed.

Toronto, May 31.—Walking out on the tongue of a heavily loaded wagon, E. W. Bradfield, 434 Symington ave., a teamster employed by the Grant Contracting Co., slipped, and the horses becoming startled, began to run away. Bradfield fell directly in line with the wheels, which passed over his chest, crushing it terribly. The accident occurred near the corner of Lansdowne and Royce avenues. After the wheels had passed over him, he was taken into a store near by, but died in a few minutes. His body was taken to the morgue, where an inquest was opened on it last night.

New York, May 31.—A statement from Yuan Shi Kai, just received here from Pekin, outlines the Chinese leader's plans for building up an army which will be the equal of that of Germany. His plan is based on universal conscription.

WAITERS STRIKE IN NEW YORK

Special to the Review.

New York, May 31.—New York today faces a possible strike of every union waiter in the city. Two thousand waiters from the leading hotels and cafes are now out for higher wages, shorter hours and recognition of their union. Negroes are being brought from the South as strike breakers.

GENERAL BOOTH WILL LOSE SIGHT

London, May 31.—That General William Booth, the head of the Salvation Army, who recently underwent an operation for the removal of a cataract from his left eye, will henceforth be totally blind, is the opinion reached by the doctors after a consultation yesterday afternoon. An official bulletin issued by the surgeons says:

"It is now evident that there is little hope of the preservation of General Booth's sight."

The veteran's disappointment is all the deeper because the doctors at first were so positive as to the success of the operation. General Booth's spirits, however, are fairly well maintained and the general condition of his health is good. He is 83 years of age.

Crop Outlook Good.

Winnipeg, May 31.—A crop report covering the entire Canadian west shows satisfactory conditions.

Only 27 points reported the acreage actually curtailed by wet weather, and the percentages were small, running from as low as three per cent. to as much as 25 per cent. in a single instance. In nearly every case the land either has been or will be reseeded to some coarse grain.

Still there are sufficient of these exceptionally small acreages to reduce the tentative estimate of the late report by five per cent. This would bring the total area in wheat to 11,542,500 acres.

MURDERED FOR HIS MONEY

Halifax, May 31.—Thomas S. Donaldson, well known in Halifax, was murdered in his shop on the Bedford road at two o'clock yesterday afternoon. A man who is believed to be the murderer was arrested in Windsor last evening. Donaldson, who kept a roadside shop four miles out from the city, was reclining on a bed in a back room when murdered, having been shot twice in the breast.

Robbery is believed to have been the motive as Donaldson's till had been emptied.

Toronto, May 31.—For stealing $688 from the Receiver-General's Department, John M. McCarger, a one-time clerk in that department, was sentenced to spend six months in Central Prison as a penalty for his crime. Three hundred dollars of the stolen money had gone towards the purchase of a motor car. E. M. Green, the seller of the machine, agreed to pay back the money received in the sale.

DUKE AT THE PRISON FARM APPROVES HANNA'S METHODS

Praise for Catholic Church.

Kingston, May 31.—The Montreal Methodist Conference in session yesterday, adopted a pastoral address read by Rev. J. Douglas Richardson, Perth. The Roman Catholic hierarchy were congratulated for noble work in the temperance cause.

Referring to politics, it was stated to be an utterly false doctrine that politics are essentially harmful to religion.

On the church union question, it was noted that Presbyterians were not all in favor of union, but it was necessary to devise some means of closer and more effective co-operation of denominations.

BANK INQUIRY NEARLY FINISHED

Toronto, May 31.—The enquiry into the affairs of the Farmers' Bank proceeded yesterday morning before Sir William Meredith, and about noon F. E. Hodgins, K.C., announced that he was practically through except for the examination of witnesses to be conducted at Ottawa, and some testimony to be given by officials of the Trust & Guarantee Co. Hon. Col. Matheson, W. H. Greenwood, W. R. Travers, H. N. Clarkson and W. J. Lindsay were examined. Mr. Hodgins became involved in a rather disagreeable wrangle with the last named witness. Respecting the disposition of certain moneys received by the latter as commissions for selling stock of the Farmers' Bank, Mr. Lindsay stated that he had given $3,000 of this money to his wife and refused to say what disposition she had made of it. His lordship in the end sustained the witness, who protested that Mr. Hodgins was treating him unfairly.

"I am willing to admit that you imagine you are telling the truth," was the lawyer's parting shot.

Mr. Clarkson, the liquidator, put on record a statement respecting his attitude toward the Keeley Mine proposition and the advisability of the stockholders and depositors taking over the same.

Special to the Review.

Dr Beattie Nesbitt was present at the Farmers' Bank enquiry this morning for a few minutes, and promised to testify at a later date His counsel, H H. Dewart, K.C., told Commissioner Meredith that he did not think it would be fair to ask his client to testify at present with a trial of charges against himself arising out of bank affairs, pending. Sir William Meredith called attention to a paragraph in a Globe editorial of this mroning, which suggested that the loan by the Farmers' Bank to the World Newspaper, was made in consequence of the World's securing a deposit from the Provincial Government and declared that the evidence of yesterdayl was exactly opposite to that statement.

Three Drowned In Rapids.

St. Johnsburg, Vt., May 31.—Three young people of prominence here, Miss Hattie Ellis, Miss Helen Smythe and her brother, Herbert W. Smythe, were drowned in the Passumpsic River yesterday, when a canoe in which they were attempting to navigate the rapids overturned.

Under the Guidance of the Provincial Secretary the Governor-General's Party Visit Guelph Institution and the Prisoners Perform Their Tasks Under Inspection — Visitors Chat With the "boys."

Guelph, May 31.—Splendid weather and large crowds greeted the royal party here yesterday, when they paid their first official visit to the Royal City Prison Farm and the Ontario Agricultural College.

At 10 o'clock the special train pulled out of the siding where it had remained since its arrival at 3 a.m., en route for the inspection of the Prison Farm buildings, which are at present under construction. By 10.30 Their Royal Highnesses the Duke and Duchess, accompanied by Princess Patricia, Miss Pelly, Col. Lowther and several aides, disembarked at the specially prepared siding. Hon. W. J. and Mrs. Hanna, Hon. James and Mrs. Duff, Miss Norah Whitney, Warden Gilmour of the Central Prison, and several well-known Guelph and Toronto people were present.

The royal guests are evidently fond of walking, for, on leaving the siding, they disregarded the waiting motors, and walked direct to the new concrete bridge over the Speed River, which, as Warden Gilmour said, "The boys' erected themselves."

The motor cars were then pressed into service, and an extensive tour was made around the outskirts of the farm, leaving the main entrance, and along the York road, skirting the school house, where the children were in waiting to cheer the party, returning to the new building, which the guests "did" thoroughly.

Interest was taken in the 75 Holstein cows, which were stalled and feeding, Princess Patricia being very much attracted by the calves, in a separate pen. The construction of the building received considerable attention from the duke, who exacted complete descriptions of the new con stanchions, floors, and the mechanical feeding appartus.

Each individual building was visited and Dr. Gilmour was called upon to explain the general make-up of the administration building, which is to be the last word in the matter of office equipment, etc.

It was a gala day for the "boys," who thoroughly enjoyed the novelty of performing their tasks, for the special benefit of royalty, and when the dinner gong sounded, they soon proved that they had very material business on hand. The party then adjourned to a better point of vantage, where they could watch the prisoners, guards, and free labor trooping from all directions to the point of attraction, namely, the dining hall. After they had taken their places at the tables, Their Royal Highnesses walked down the central aisle, inspecting the tables as they went, subsequently "taking in" the cook house in every detail, and, after introduction to the chief cook, submitted many questions. The duchess and Princess Patricia walked up and down between the tables, speaking to first one man and then another, which brought forth an expression of deep satisfaction from those specially favored.

After a few words from His Royal Highness to the prisoners three cheers were given for the King and the meal proceeded.

GERMANY'S THREAT

The United States has two sources of alarm in the matter of naval equipment. Unlike England, who has regard only to the war-like preparations of Germany, Uncle Sam not only stands in some dread of the Kaiser but has a prospect of a strong and ambitious opponent in Japan.

Just now, however, the United States is chiefly concerning itself with the defiant attitude assumed by the Germans. Their national hobby, the Monroe Doctrine, preserved as a birthright for almost a century, is threatened. Germany is anxious to extend her territory and some of her leading papers urge the nation in its thirst for conquest to ascertain if toleration is to be extended to anything resting on so shallow a foundation as the doctrine by which the American nation holds that the extension or the acquisition of territory on this continent by an European power is to be construed as an unfriendly act.

Congress recently voted down an appropriation for the increase of the United States naval force and this has called forth a strong protest from the Navy League, the members of which have evidently read in a spirit of uneasiness the strong and defiant utterances of the German press.

With trouble in Mexico on the one hand and in Cuba on the other, in both of which broils the American nation is likely to become involved any day, and with the Germans referring to the Monroe Doctrine as nothing but national arrogance which it might be well to puncture, Uncle Sam's Congress is waking up to the fact that it might be in the interests of national safety to reconsider their refusal to add to the fighting power of the country.

From Japan, too, comes what is taken as a cool disregard of the Monroe Doctrine. Japanese interests are acquiring possessions in Mexico and the United States Senate has appointed a committee to ascertain if the letter or the spirit of the doctrine is being violated.

SIR WILFRID'S SPEECH

If Sir Wilfrid Laurier had been making a campaign speech against President Taft, when he addressed the Reform Club, in Montreal, he could not have assailed that rather unfortunate statesman with more bitterness. And the veteran leader may be pardoned his animosity, for it is but human nature to regard with hostility those who have been instrumental in bringing about our temporal downfall. It was President Taft who, with his historic "parting of the ways" took the wind out of Sir Wilfrid's sails and in a measure caused his bark to founder upon the shoals. Then, to use an expression of the times, the snap was further given away by the publication of the "adjunct" letter, and Sir Wilfrid and his friends were placed before the public in what was certainly a most ridiculous position.

Sir Wilfrid likens his hard fate to that which overtook Gladstone in 1886 upon the great question of home rule for Ireland, and the comparison seems to bring him hope and comfort. Gladstone, he said, for the principle involved in that policy lost power and popularity, but he adds, "down deep in the ground he has sown the seed." Sir Wilfrid is right. The seed was sown, and after a quarter of a century has germinated and brought forth a gnarled, a stunted and unsightly tree.

Sir Wilfrid in no manner indicated any disposition to recede from the position which he held to so little purpose before the election last September. He still believes that he was right and that vast majority of the people were wrong. His speech bristles with apologies for his policy and explanations of the means employed to bring about his overthrow.

Because at the last session of the Dominion Parliament no definite action was taken on the naval question Sir Wilfrid assumes that the Borden administration has straddled the question. If he takes that position the ground is already out from under his feet by the speech of Finance Minister White, at Toronto, when the attitude of the government was so clearly defined, and by the proposed early visit of Premier Borden and two of his ministers to England to confer with the British Government on the subject of Imperial defence.

Sir Wilfrid, in a word, calls upon his followers to stand to their guns, but those same guns have been so effectually spiked by the enemy that they are useless, and it behooves the silver-tongued orator and his followers to provide themselves with some other weapons.

Although the Montreal banquet was a love feast and was marked by frequent bursts of enthusiasm, the death of the party's hope was of so recent date that the whole affair, in spite of everything, must have borne some resemblance to a funeral feast. It is hard to rejoice at a wedding when so many members of the family were buried only the other day.

A QUESTION OF POWER

Stratford has long wanted a street railway, and is now likely to have its desire gratified as the C.N.R. has been brought to the point of building one in the Classic City, as a beginning to a radial system, which the railway company proposes to construct. The Stratford Council has asked Sir James Whitney for the required confirmatory legislation, but Sir James has witheld his final decision until the matter of what power to be used is settled. Stratford has the Hydro-electric but Sir Wm. Mackenzie does not wish to commit his company to the use of that power but desires a free hand in the matter. The whole matter is now up to Hon. Adam Beck.

If the deal goes through, Stratford will not only have a street railway, but will become the headquarters of a radial system, which will give that city direct communication with all the leading cities and towns in the province.

ONTARIO'S POSITION

Edward Bayly, K.C., solicitor for the attorney general's department, stated clearly and briefly Ontario's attitude on the marriage question, when the hearing on the stated case was resumed yesterday before the Supreme Court. He said that the province of Ontario favors a general marriage law for the Dominion if so framed that the legislative authority of the provinces, in relation to the solemnization of marriage, is not violated, and that Ontario adopts as much of the argument of counsel for the Dominion, as is consistent with this view. It is believed that the passing of such an act would enlarge rather than encroach, upon Provincial Jurisdiction.

The views of the Ontario Government as above expressed, looks like a rational and satisfactory solution of this most perplexing problem. If such a general law were passed, it would recognize as legal any marriage contracted according to the laws of the different provinces. Quebec, for instance, could legislate by declaring who has the authority to perform the marriage ceremony, and who has the right to enter into a matrimonial contract, and so could all the provinces in the Dominion. Once the marriage was solemnised, it would, by the proposed general law, be regarded as legal and binding and no court, ecclesiastical or civil, would have the power to question the validity of such contracts or to declare them void.

NOTE AND COMMENT

W. R. Travers tells us now how bank failures may be avoided. It is really too bad that the knowledge did not come to him sooner.

"Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire" is the new name of the organization that has done so much to foster Canadian patriotism.

It is now figured out that John D. Rockefeller's income is $140 a minute. Can it be possible that his love of gold is so strong as to lead him to wish that there were more than sixty minutes in an hour?

A Toronto woman married three times and each time the husband ran away after a short trial of the domestic life. Nothing daunted she made another venture and now finds herself charged with bigamy.

Champ Clark has been leading Governor Wilson in the Presidential nomination race ever since the latter refused aid from the money interests. Perhaps the man from Missouri did not in this case require to be shown more than once the politician's easy road to success.

Some people never will avail themselves of a warning. A correspondent berates the Toronto Star for failing to publish some verses which he sent in, never pausing to think what trouble might be saved him by the editor. Even Rudyard Kipling narrowly escaped indictment for giving free rein to his poetic fancy.

The Ottawa Journal asserts that there is not one volunteer in fifty who can hit a man at five hundred yards, one shot out of three. If the Journal man is willing to submit to a practical test by offering himself as a target, there are a score or so of volunteers in Peterborough who can convince him on the first shot that he is talking up a tree.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years, was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

CHAPTER XI.

The Parting of the Ways

When he came to think of it, Medenham decided to return at once to Symon's Yat. It was advisable, however, to inform the proprietor of the hotel that the Earl's denunciation of Dale as a pilferer of luggage was based on a complete misunderstanding of the facts. With that object in view he entered the office; another surprise awaited him there.

"Yes," said he, prepared now to see his name description blazoned across the west front of the cathedral.

"That you, Mr. Fitzroy?"

"Yes."

"I'm glad I caught you before you hurried away again. . . Er—that is—I suppose you traveled rather fast, you and the Mercury?"

He laughed. That was all. He did not intend to let her assume so readily that he had missed the first thought which bubbled forth in words. She well knew that he was not in Hereford from personal choice, but she had not meant to tell him that she knew.

"What are you sniggering at?" she demanded imperiously.

"Only at your divination," he answered. "Indeed, if a tire had not given out soon after I left Whitchurch I would now be well on my way to the Yat."

Suddenly he recollected the singular outcome of the incident. There was some reasonable probability that it might exercise a material effect on the course of events during the next few days.

So, after a little pause, he added: "That is one reason; there are others."

"Is something detaining you, then?" she asked.

"Mrs. Devar is much better. . . She is so sorry I remained indoors this morning."

"Mrs. Devar is cultivating angelic qualities," he said, but he murmured under his breath: "The old cat finds now that she has made a mistake."

"I want you to pay the hotel people for the rooms I reserved but have not occupied. Then, perhaps, they will hand you any mail that may have been sent after me. And please give them my address at Chester. Will you do all that?"

"Certainly. There should be no difficulty."

"Is Hereford looking very lively?"

"It strikes me as peculiarly empty," said with convincing candor.

"Shall we have time to see all the show places to-morrow?"

"We shall take time."

"Well, good-by! Bring the letters. I have not heard from my father since we left Bournemouth."

"Ah, there I have the better of you. I heard of, if not from, my reverend dad since reaching Hereford."

"Unexpectedly?"

"Oh, quite."

"Nothing wrong, I hope?"

"The old man's temper seems to be a trifle out of gear; the present attack is not serious; he will survive it—for many years, I trust.'

"You must not be flippant where your father is concerned. I believe he is annoyed because you came away with me, and so failed to keep the appointment fixed for Saturday in London. Eh? What did you say?"

"I said 'Well, I am surprised,' or words to that effect. As my name is George I cannot lie, so I must admit regretfully that you have guessed right. Indeed, Miss Vanrenen, I may go so far as to suggest, by letter, that before my father condemns me he should first meet you. Of course, I shall warn him that you are irresistable."

"Good-by again," said Cynthia severely. "You can tell me all about it after—oh, some time to-day, anyhow."

The Green Dragon proved to be most undragonish. No manner of doubt was cast on Medenham's good faith; he pocketed half a dozen letters for Cynthia, and one, unstamped, bearing the crest of the Mitre, for Mrs. Devar. By the merest chance he caught sight of a note, addressed "Viscount Medenham," stuck in a rack among some telegrams. The handwriting was his father's. But how to secure it without arousing quite reasonable suspicion? He tried the bold course.

"I may as well take that too," he said offhandedly.

"Is Viscount Medenham also in your party?" inquired the bookkeeper.

"Yes."

Again no demur was raised, since the Earl's repeated demands of information as to Miss Vanrenen's whereabouts showed that some sort of link must exist between him and the missing tourists.

Medenham sat in his car outside and read.

> My Dear George—If this reaches you, please oblige me by return to town at once. Your aunt is making a devil of a fuss, and is most unpleasant. I say no more now, since I am sure that you will be in Hereford before we meet.
>
> Yours ever,
>
> F.

"I can see myself being very angry with Aunt Susan," he growled in the first flush of resentment against the unfairness of her attitude.

But that phase soon passed. His mind dwelt rather on Lady St. Maur's bland amazement when she encountered Cynthia. He could estimate with some degree of precision her ladyship's views regarding the eighty millions of citizens of the United States; had she not said in his hearing that "American society was evidently quite English—but with the head cut off."

That, and a sarcastic computation as to the difference between Ten Thousand and Four hundred, constituted her knowledge of America. Still, he made excuses for her. It was no new thing for an aristocracy to be narrow-minded. Horace, that fine gentleman, "hated the vulgar crowd,' and Nicolo Machiavelli, fifteen centuries later, denounced the nobles of Florence for their "easy-going contempt of everything and everybody"; so Lady St. Maur had plenty of historical precedent for the coining of cheap epigrams.

The one person Medenham was really bitter against was Millicent Porthcawl. She had met Cynthia; she herself must have frowned at the lying innuendoes written from Bournemouth; it would give hime some satisfaction to tell Cynthia that the Porthcawl menage ought not to figure on her visiting list. But there! Cynthia was too generous-minded even to avenge her wrongs, though well able to deal with the Millicents and Maud and Susans if they dared be spiteful.

Then the coming of Dale with various leather bags roused him from the reverie by his father's curt missive, and he laughed at the discovery that he was fighting Cynthia's battles already.

The Mercury was raising a good deal of dust in the neighborhood of Whitchurch when its occupants noticed a pair of urchins perched on a gate, signaling frantically. It pleased Medenham to mystify Dale, who was if possible, more taciturn than ever since those heart-searching experiences at Gloucester and Hereford.

He pulled up some fifty yards or more down the road.

"You saw those boys?" he said.

"Yes, my lord, but they're only having a game."

"Nothing of the sort. Skip along and ask them if they have found out the answer. If they say 'a day and five twelfths," hand them a shilling each. Any other reply will be wrong. Don't talk. Just run there and back and pay only on a day and five twelfths."

Dale ran. Soon was back in his seat again.

"I gev' 'em a bob each, my lord," announced, grave as an owl.

While they were running slowly down the winding lane that led to the Yat Medenham determined to make sure of his ground with reference to Mrs. Devar.

"I suppose you left no room for doubt as to my identity in the mind of the lady to whom you spoke over the telephone last night?" he inquired.

"None whatever, my lord. She wormed it out of me."

"Did you mention the Earl?"

"Like an ijjit, I began by giving his lordship's name. Why, I was ordered to bed at eight o'clock, so's his lordship could smoke in peace, as he said."

"Then my father was determinne to stop you from communicatinng with me, if possible?"

"If his lordship knew that I crept down a back stairs to the telephone I do believe he'd have set about me with a poker," said Dale grimly.

"Strange!" mused Medenham, with eyes now more intent on the hotel than on the road. "Influences other than Aunt Susan's must be at work. My father would never have rushed off in a fever from town merely because of some ill-natured gossip in a letter from Lady Porthcawl."

His mind flew to the Earl's allusion to Marigny, and it occurred to him that the latter had used his father's name at Bristol. He turned to Dale again.

"Before this business is ended I shall probably find it necessary to kick a Frenchman," he said.

"Make it two of 'em, my lord, an let me take it out of the other one,' growled Dale.

"Well, there is a bottle-holder,' said Medenham, thinking of Devar "a short, fat fellow, an Englishman but a most satifactory subject for a drop kick."

"Say when, my lord, an' I'll score a goal with him."

Dale seemed to be speaking feelingly, but his master paid slight heed to him then. A girl in muslin, wearing a rather stylish hat—now, where did Cynthia get a hat?—had just sauntered to that end of the hotel's veranda which gave a glimpse of the road.

"Make yourself comfortable in one of the cottages hereabouts," was Medenham's parting instruction to his man. "I don't suppose the car will be needed again to-day, but you might refill the petrol tank—on the off chance."

"Yes—my lord."

Dale lifted his cap. The ostler who had helped in the cleaning of the car overnight was standing near the open doors of the coach-house. He might not have heard the words, but he certainly saw the respectful action. His eyes grew round, and his lips pursed to give vent to an imaginary whistle.

"I knew," he told himself. "He's a toff, that's wot he is. Mum's the word, Willyum. Say nothink, 'specially to wimmin!"

Bowing low before his smiling goddess, Medenham produced the packet of letters. It happened that the unstamped note for Mrs. Devar lay uppermost, and Cynthia guessed some part, at least, of its contents.

"IMPOSSIBLE TO HELP MY KIDNEYS"

Until I Used "Fruit-a-tives" Worlds Greatest Kidney Cure

Practically everybody in Toronto knows Professor J. F. Davis. For years, the elite of that city has taken lessons from Prof. Davis in the art of Dancing and Deportment.

But read Prof. Davis' letter—

563 CHURCH ST., TORONTO, ONT.
DECEMBER 29th. 1911

"I want to say that "Fruit-a-tives" is my only medicine, and has been for the past five years. Previous to that, I had been troubled with Rheumatism and Kidney Disease, and had taken many remedies without satisfactory results. Noticing the advertisements of "Fruit-a-tives" I adopted this treatment altogether, and as everyone knows, I am now—and have been since taking "Fruit-a-tives"—enjoying the best of health".

J. F. DAVIS.

If Rheumatism or Kidney Trouble is making you miserable, take "Fruit-a-tives" and get well.

ZAM-BUK CURED HIS ECZEMA

Within three days I felt much better, and within two weeks the sores were entirely cured."

For all skin diseases, eruptions, boils, scalp sores, etc., Zam-Buk is without equal. It is just as good for cuts, burns, bruises, blood-poison, piles, varicose ulcers, bad leg, inflamed sores, etc. All druggists and stores at 50c. box, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, upon receipt of price. A NEWSPAPER BORN EVERY THREE DAYS

Messrs. A. McKim Limited, the well known Advertising Agency of Montreal and Toronto, have just sent us a copy of the 1912 supplement to their Canadian Newspaper Directory. This work brings up to date the circulation ratings of all the important publications in Canada and shows the populations of the various towns and cities according to the last census. Taken in conjunction with the Canadian Newspaper Directory proper, this makes a valuable book of reference for the general advertiser. Hitherto this Directory has appeared every two years, but now the Canadian Newspaper field is spreading so rapidly and circulations are increasing at such a rate that A. McKim Limited, have decided to, in future, publish the Canadian Newspaper Directory annually in order to keep pace with the changes, and give both the advertiser and the publisher an up to date service.

In the year just passed, over one hundred newspapers made their appearance in the Dominion—a new paper about every three days. Even for a prosperous country like Canada that's going some. The firm of A. McKim Limited have for the past twenty-three years been the recognised leaders in the Advertising Agency business in Canada, and we have to compliment them on their policy in making the Canadian Newspaper Directory an annual instead of a biennial publication. We feel sure this change will be greatly appreciated by advertiser and publisher alike.

Director Heller of the Grafenstadt Locomotive Works, whose support of the French propaganda in Alsace-Lorraine led to the boycotting of the works by the German Government railroads, has resigned.

WILBUR WRIGHT DEAD

Noted Aviator and Inventor Succumbs to Typhoid.

After Several Days' Illness Widely-Known Dayton, Ohio, Man Who With His Brother Orville Perfected the Famous Bi-plane, Passes Away—Widespread Sorrow Is Expressed Throughout France.

Dayton, Ohio, May 31.—Wilbur Wright noted aviator, died at 3.35 yesterday morning of typhoid fever. He had lingered for days in the throes of a burning fever.

Seized with illness May 4, while on a business trip in the east, he returned to Dayton from Boston and took to his bed almost immediately, but it was several days before his case was definitely diagnosed as typhoid.

Wilbur Wright was born in Henry County, Indiana, April 16, 1867, being four years the senior of his brother Orville. The brothers attended the local school. They started a job printing office, and for a while published a small sheet that had a suburban circulation. They entered the business of manufacturing bicycles. They began studying the flying machine, acquired a knowledge of the underlying principles, and to them, it is said, is due the credit of first publicly demonstrating to the world the practicability of dynamic flight.

The two were former aviators in the United States, manufacturing aeroplanes of their own invention at their workshops, near Dayton, Ohio, and later giving demonstrations in Europe, as well as in many places in the United States. The brothers were presented with gold medals by the United States Government for their aerial achievements, and their services to the country in assisting in the development of military aviation.

Sorrow In France.

Paris, May 31.—The death of Wilbur Wright, the American aviator, has caused profound sorrow throughout France, where he was everywhere popular.

The newspapers contain long eulogistic speeches recounting his first flights in France at the beginning of 1908. They generally agree that France's supremacy in aviation is due to the fact that the Wrights showed the way.

What the Eyes Tell.

Hazel eyes show steadiness and power of constant affection. Black eyes show strong intellect and passions.

The eyes of genius are said to be of varying tints, like the sea—sometimes blue, tinted with green or orange; in certain lights, or when affected by emotion, deep and almost dark.

It should never be forgotten that eyes are more capable of misleading than any other feature.

Widely expanded eyelids see much without reflecting greatly. They live in the senses and think little beyond the present moment.

Eyelids half closing over the eye denote less facility of impression, but clearer insight, more definite ideas, greater steadiness in action.

Eyes set near together, especially when there are wrinkles across the nose, are a sign of cunning and meanness in small things.

Set wide apart, the character will be generous; if too wide, careless and extravagant.

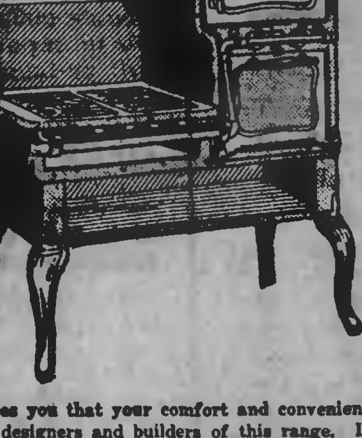
Cooking is a pleasure when you have a "McClary" Gas Range in your kitchen



You wouldn't think of lighting the furnace during the intense heat of summer. Why persist in cooking on a coal range during the hot weather? GAS is a much cheaper fuel than coal—far more convenient and easier on the cook in the summer time. Any McClary gas range pays for itself very quickly in the actual money it saves.

The first glance convinces you that your comfort and convenience have been studied by the designers and builders of this range. It is quite apparent that you can cook a big dinner on this range without being crowded. The big roomy Oven is placed high. The Broiler is also elevated. There is no "stooping or bending" over this range.

Like other "McClary" ranges, this model has the white enamelled broiler and drip pans. Also Anti-Rust linings which add to the life of the range. The body is finished in bright, black enamel, and is easy to clean.

Just see the many styles of "McClary" gas ranges at your dealer's. All "McClary" gas ranges can be changed from artificial to natural gas in a few moments if necessary—see them and pick out the gas range that suits you best. 543

Big Man in Salvation Army Work to Speak Saturday and Sunday

Commissioner George S. Railton, who is to visit this city for Saturday and Sunday, June 1 and 2, is one of the most notable officers of the Salvation Army. He is also one of the most talented literary spirits, having written several books of an intensely spiritual nature. His series of meetings in the S.A. Temple here will be of the old-fashioned, evangelistic character enlivened with plenty of singing, and quickened by the proclamation of the good old gospel truths preached with the unction of the Holy Spirit. Staff-Captain Walton, formerly stationed here, will assist in all the meetings, as follows:—Saturday, 8 p.m.; Sunday, 7 and 11 a.m., 3 and 7.15 p.m. A hearty welcome to the public to attend.

COME EARLY

RECEIPTS AT SUMMER FAIR FOR LAST NIGHT AMOUNTED TO $831

Ladies From Belleville Come to Investigate and Secure Information for Proposed Fair at Belleville -- Total Attendance is 4590.

As an evidence of the success, which is being attained by the ladies who are doing such splendid work at the Peterborough Summer Fair, the Review is pleased to publish the receipts of last night.

They amounted to the magnificent sum of $831. These figures are official. As stated elsewhere there were 2,352 paid admissions.

It was suggested that the Fair be continued and the officials have decided to add another day and the best local attraction Peterborough has ever had will be open to the public on Monday next.

Praise for the ladies is heard on all sides and among those prominently mentioned is Mrs. Jas. Kendrey, who has indeed been an indefatigable official in the interests of the Fair.

The attendance at the Fair last night was so great that many who went did not see nearly all the exhibits, nor buy half the amount of goods they had intended. But all who went were able to hear the band concert, and this is certainly one of the most enjoyable features of the Fair. The following program was rendered last night:

March—Simper Fidelis.
Selection—Semeremide.
Cornet solo—Polka, Band Sgt. Hughes.
Selection—Russian Folk Songs.
Intermezzo—Hobomoko.
Selection, from the "Chocolate Soldier."

The weather cleared and gave the Summer Fair a banner night last night. The attendance gives a good idea of the number of people who would have attended the Fair had the elements been more favorable. Last night there were 2,352 paid admissions at the Summer Fair. All the booths broke the existing records for money making and the finances of the Fair look, as a result, more promising than ever.

The total attendance is now 4,590.

The launch that the Peterborough Canoe Company is exhibiting at the Summer Fair, is perhaps the finest gasoline launch in this vicinity, either in or out of the water. It was built for Mr. K. A. McCleod of Edmonton and every part of it is equipped with the latest and best fixtures. The launch is a 30-foot boat, and is trimmed in solid mahogany, which is used on the bulwarks, both decks and the inside finishing. It is varnished with a slow drying varnish [illegible] made to withstand the effects of the water, and will not turn white as a result of continuous contact with it.

The boat is propelled by a 50 h.p. 4 cylinder Sterling engine and has a guaranteed speed of 19 miles an hour. Complete automobile control is used in steering it and regulating its speed. It is electrically lighted, having a generator working in conjunction with the engine and carried a complete set of storage batteries to supplement the magneto.

In short it is the last word in launch construction and should prove a good advertisement for this city in the far West.

COLEMAN BROS.

One of the most attractive and interesting exhibits in the Summer Fair is that of Coleman Bros., the popular confectioners and caterers, of George street.

Their booth is beautifully laid out, decorated in art shades of green and yellow. They have a fine showing of Fry's English Chocolate and Cocoa, they being direct importers of this firm's goods, also a fine display of Patterson's, Toronto, Chocolates, of which they are sole agents for the city. Samples of both of the above lines are being liberally distributed. They have also a fine showing of wedding cakes in their different stages of manufacture. These cakes are nicely displayed and make a most attractive exhibit to the prospective bride; it also gives the public an idea of the high state of art to which confectionery has obtained.

The most attractive feature of their booth is baking demonstrations of cooking. Both baking and hot plate work being done on the spot, all kinds of bread and cakes being made while you wait. Many complimentary remarks are being made, and many people are astonished at the number of eggs and the quality of butter used by Coleman Bros., and people who visit the Fair should not fail to visit this booth and its instructive demonstrations.

BRINTON CARPET CO.

One of the largest exhibits at the Summer Fair, is that of the Brinton Carpet Co., at the West end of the Armories. It includes a display of the products of the Company arranged in a manner that sets off each individual carpet to advantage, and oriental as well as western patterns are to be seen at their booth.

The space is not decorated with any other material except carpets yet in the arrangemnt the colors are so skilfully blended that the display is one of the nicest in the Armories.

QUAKER OATS

"The World's Breakfast" This is the sign which is displayed over the combined exhibits of Messrs. Matthews Co., and the Quaker Oats Company. It is appropriately chosen and is still further carried out in the display itself which includes a breakfast table with a dish of puffed rice at one end and a platter of bacon at the other. The walls of the Quaker Oats half of the booth, are banked with boxes of Quaker Oats, and in the booth one of the guns that shoot the puffed rice is seen with the following re-assuring inscription in its muzzle—"This gun is made to prolong life, not destroy it."

MOTOR CARS

Three Mitchell Motor cars are on show by the Carey Moher Co., and the neatness of the appearance of the cars are attracting considerable notice. One of the cars is a six cylinder 60 h.p., seven passenger car, the property of Mr. G. Walter Green. The other large one is a six cylinder five passenger auto and has been bought by Mr. A. W. Cressman. Besides these two there is a neat Mitchell runabout.

The Peterborough Lock Company have a good display of their work. Their booth is decorated with red white and blue streamers and contains a number of locks of different sizes, variety and prices. There are on show, locks to fit every known variety of door, and locks that would look well on doors of any color. One large brass lock is placed on a table in the centre of the booth. It costs a little over one hundred dollars.

TEA

The bright colored cans of John's tea draw the attention of the passers-by to Mr. J. John's exhibit of "Blended in Peterborough" tea. The booth given over to this exhibit is nicely decorated and the packages of tea are displayed in an attractive manner. All who so wish can have a steaming hot sample of the tea from a tea pot in the booth.

A dish one hundred years old is one of the features at the Home-made Candy Booth. It was loaned to the ladies in charge by Mrs. F. R. Yokome, Gilmour street, and when received was filled with tastey, home-made candy, nicely arranged in small colored paper bags, and trimmed with white and colored ribbon and pansies. The candy was as nice as the dish was ancient. The candy booth is doing a fine business and deserves to be well patronized.

Yesterday Messrs. Belleghems changed their exhibit at the Summer Fair and now they have arranged another fine display of furniture. A complete modern library is represented, the tones of the furniture and other equipments blending perfectly, and the most up-to-date appointments have been used. A dining room is also represented, a new Flanders dining room set being used. These sets are the very latest productions in furniture, and as something that is fast becoming fashionable is well worth seeing.

The Spring booth at the Summer Fair has all manner of useful articles for sale. Some high-class, home-made fruit jam is being offered, and don't forget that after to-day prices are reduced. The booth is in charge of Mrs. Cruikshang, Mrs. G. W. Nickels and Misses Burnham, Mary Elliott, Katie Leary, Lillian Rush, May Denne, Muriel Gladman, Lillian Morrow, Olive Pentland, Huldah Dobbin, Leah Roggers, Annie Erskine and Mattie Robertson.

Do not fail to see the Bugle Band Minstrels in the Theatre at the Summer Fair to-night. Their entertainment was put on at the opera house a few weeks ago and proved a great success. The members of the band will take part in the grand march this evening at eight o'clock.

The Bell Telephone Company have installed a pay 'phone for use of the general public. It is at the Grady booth at the southwest corner of the building. Mrs. Dunsford is in charge of the telephone and her two little daughters act as pages.

The ladies in charge of the Fair appreciate very much the kindness of the Allen Ice Company in supplying the ice.

At the Theatre to-morrow night the two farces which were given earlier in the week will be repeated. Miss Helen Davidson and Mr. Gerald Rackham will give a "Pair of Lunatics," while the "Girls' Club" will be put on by Misses Georgie Stevenson, Dorothy Dobbin, Amy Clementi, Grace Elliston, Phyllis Cumberland Margaret Stevenson and Geraldine Hooper.

The theatre is sure to be crowded as it has been all week.

The Curio Rooms of the Art Association have been crowded with interested spectators, for there is a wonderful collection shown. Do not neglect to see them yourself. The collections are well worth seeing.

The grand march last night was greater and grander than ever, both in numbers and arrangements. In addition to those whose costumes have been commented upon before, there were several new features. Miss Rush and Mrs. Fred Roy, wearing beautifully quaint old gowns with powdered hair and patches, gave an added interest.

Mrs. Hazen Ritchie and Mrs. R. R. Hall wore old gowns, that of Mrs. Ritchie being a valued heirloom in the family for many generations. The young ladies from the Cafe Chantant also formed in and with the representatives of the different booths lengthened out the marching line until it reached nearly around the building. Mrs. Ritchie and Mrs. R. R. Hall, who have had charge of the grand march should be highly complimented on the effective work they have produced.

CONCERNING YOUR EYES

Good eyesight is essential to health comfort and appearance. Have you ever noticed a strained look on your face, or your friend's? Usually this comes from eyestrain. More wrinkles are caused by eyestrain than by age. Thousands unconsciously squint in an effort to adapt the eyes to the surroundings. Success in relieving eyestrain depends entirely upon the OPTICAL SKILL of the Specialist who prescribes the glasses. Neglect of the eyes many times leads to surgical operations, which glasses worn in time may prevent. We correct errors of vision by means of properly fitted lenses.

We have every modern appliance for accurate eyesight testing, and we grind all our own lenses. Thus assuring you accuracy and promptness. All work guaranteed.

For the first time in many years there will be no meeting of the Anglican Synod in June this year. The diocesan committees, however, will meet on June 18. The reason for the Synod not meeting this year is that the ecclesiastical year has been changed from May 31st, to December 31st, the change going into effect this year. It is likely that hereafter the Synod will meet in February of each year.

FIRE, WATER AND LIGHT AND WATER COMMISSIONERS

A satisfactory agreement was arrived at last evening, between the Canadian General Electric Company, the Water Commissioners and the Fire, Water and Light Committee, in connection with the demand that the C. G. E. Company pay the sum of $1057 being the cost of laying a water main and two hydrants on that part of Townsend street required by the Company, west of Park street for extension purposes; in return for which property the C. G. E. Company have offered to convey to the city, a strip of land, directly north of their premises

Mr. E. G. Patterson, general superintendent of the Company was present at the meeting.

Mr. Matthews, chairman of the Water Commissioners, explained to Mr Patterson that he thought of was only right that the Company should give to the city a street upon which there are improvements to the same extent as upon the street which the city has handed over to the C. G. E. He thought moreover that the Company might buy the water main and hydrants on Townsend end street obtained by them, and with the proceeds thereby received by the city, the latter could commence the laying of a water main and putting in the two hydrants.

Mr Patterson in replying to this suggestion said that his opinion was diametrically opposed to Mr. Matthews. "We bought the property" he said, "for the sole purpose of extending our works later on." "Some years ago" he continued, "a concrete agreement was drawn up between the Company and the City Council, stating that in consideration of the Company erecting a new building the city would undertake to supply a main and hydrants to them for fire protection." "In view of that agreement" said Mr Patterson, "it is not fair that we should have to pay for the proposed mains and hydrants now."

"It would look like a breach of faith," he added, "if the city go back on that agreement."

Mr. Patterson also contended that the rate of $120 per foot, for the laying of the water main was also exorbitant.

After some further discussion, Mr. Patterson consented to entertain two propositions from the city, namely that the Company be allowed to pay the interest and sinking fund on the cost of laying the hydrants, interest at 6 1-2 per cent until the present thirty year debentures are retired which will be in about twenty years yet, or to have the right to pay outright the cost of laying the mains as proposed by the Commissioners, at the price submitted by them, at any time.

The two eminently fair propositions were quite acceptable to all present.

FIRE SUB STATION FOR THE SOUTHERN PART OF THE CITY

Chief Howard has in reports recommended the introduction of fire sub-stations, in order that better fire protection for the city could be assured. The Fire Underwriters also urge improvement.

The Fire, Water & Light Committee at their meeting last night, took up the question. The members agree that at least one sub-station is needed, and that in the southern part of the city.

Early action may be expected.

FIRE CHIEF NOT PERMITTED TO ATTEND BIG CONVENTION

Chief Howard's request last night to be allowed an appropriation and permission to attend the 49th Fire Engineers Annual Convention in Denver, Colorado, from Sept. 17th to the 20th, was flatly turned down by the Fire, Water and Light Committee.

"The Chief knows that I cut that out of the estimates," said Mayor Bradburn.

Ald. Anderson also moved that no action be taken. "I think it is a waste of money. It would be all right if the convention was somewhere closer, but to go away off to Colorado is too much."

Ald. Johnston— "The Chief knows of course that we decided not to provide estimates to cover expenses in connection with Conventions, but I suppose he thought he would try another crack at us."

The Chief inquired if the Committee would let him go, if he put up personally the amount of his expenses without being accompanied by any representative of the committee.

He was again refused.

"It's like this, Mayor Bradburn," said the Chief, "I have got to have a couple of weeks holidays pretty soon, and I don't want to miss the Convention.

No action was taken.

SUMMER FAIR

The babies for the baby show at the Summer Fair continue to be entered for the contest. The three bachelor judges of baby beauty have a big proposition on their hands when they come to pick the winners.

Mr. Fred Roy promised yesterday that he would photograph the baby who took first prize in third class, that is in infants whose ages range from one to two years. In addition to the winning infant being photographed, the mother will be presented with a dozen of the photos, besides getting the medal for the child. Mr. Roy also says that he will give the child's photo a prominent place in the Christmas edition of the Evening Examiner, devoted to photographs of beautiful children.

The holding of the Baby Show, says one of the ladies in charge, is a strong argument in favor of rearing fine, healthy children.

The registrations up to two o'clock this afternoon amounted to forty, evidencing the great interest being taken in this division of the Fair. The infants are divided into three classes, the age limit being two years. It is assumed to be an aggregation of the most beautiful babies in the city.

No School Monday

All the city schools will be closed on Monday, June 3, in honor of the King's birthday.

PROTECTION BY GATES AT RAILWAY CROSSINGS ON KING AND SHERBROOKE STREETS

So Board of Railway Commissioners Decided--Gates to be in Operation Within Three Months.

The Board of Railway Commissioners for Canada at a brief sitting in the Court House this morning, ruled that the Grand Trunk railway crossings at King and Sherbrooke streets shall be protected by the installation of a double set of gates, the same to be in operation within three months. The Board did not specify what the costs of the extra equipment would amount to, but reserved that matter, leaving it to be settled by representatives of the Grand Trunk Railway and the City, who will endeavor to come to terms satisfactory to both parties.

Mr. E. H. D. Hall, City Solicitor appeared before the Board in the interests of the city.

Mayor Bradburn and the City Clerk were also present.

The City had no objection, so the Solicitor informed the Board to having the gates installed, but they did not feel justified in bearing the expense of their maintenance.

The Board was represented by Commissioner D'Arcy Scott, Assistant Chief Commissioner S. J. McLean, Assistant Engineer Simmons and Acting Secretary R. Richardson.

Mr. A. E. Birchard Reid street, who wrote to the Dominion Railway Board regarding the danger at these crossings, was present at the hearing.

STREET RAILWAY CROSSINGS.

One other case of local bearing dealt with by the Board was in reference to an application of the Peterborough Radial Railway Company for authority to construct a Street Railway line across the tracks of the G.T.R. and the C.P.R. into the works of the Canadian General Electric Company on the west side of Park street.

The application met with no decided opposition, save that Mr. E. G. Patterson asked that one hundred and fifty feet of the track be planked at the crossings. The Board, however, ruled out this request, holding that all ordinary requirements would be satisfied if the crossings were flagged by the street car conductors, as is customary at all crossings and which suffices for common protection.

Mr. F. D. Kerr appeared for the Radial Railway Company. W. H. Moore for the C.P.R., and Mr. Foster, of Montreal, for the Grand Trunk.

BUILDING BY-LAW MAY BE AMENDED AND ENFORCED

That there are many glaring inconsistencies in the building by-law as it now stands was felt to be an only too pronounced fact by several of the members of the Fire, Water and Light committee, when the matter was mooted last evening.

A proposal to make a marked revision of the by-law seemed to meet general favor.

Ald. Johnston mentioned one clause in particular which seemed to be unfair and unnecessary. It was in reference to people who built small dwelling houses being required to build walls of the same thickness as are used in a big building, or else being liable to prosecution.

It was also pointed out that builders of houses often disregard the restrictions of the building by-law, and that it would require the watchful eye of a building inspector to see that regulations were adhered to in every respect. There seems at present to be considerable license allowed to people in the way they construct dwelling houses.

Some three years ago a committee spent about ten evenings in going over the by-law, but not much progress was made.

Ald. Gordon stated that unless a good, effective building by-law was in existence and was rigorously enforced, there was an encouragement for people to build shacks of a poor class of houses.

Ald. Anderson also stated that were he placed on a committee to make any alterations, he would advise some very drastic changes.

P.C. KIDD WILL TAKE HIS BRIDE TO BRAMPTON

CHANGES IN LAW FOR THE MOVING PICTURE HOUSES

Among the amendments to the law respecting moving picture houses and machines, is one that compels the proprietors to have placed around the walls a string of white incadescent lights of two candle power. These must remain lighted during the progress of the show.

Provision is also made whereby an apprentice can work in the machine cabinet with the operator, after first paying a license of $1. The license of the operator is increased to $5.

HALL—HUGHES

At 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon the Church of the Redeemer at Toronto was the scene of the marriage of Miss Dorothy Beatrix Hughes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John O. Hughes, to Mr. Alexander George Hall, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Hall of Peterboro.

The ceremony was performed by the rector, the Rev. C. J. James, in the presence of the immediate relatives. The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a blue silk traveling suit and blue hat, with white feathers. She carried a bridal bouquet of roses and lilies of the valley and wore the groom's gift, a diamond and aquamarine pendant. Miss Glenna Sherris attended as bridesmaid in pink and white, and she carried pink roses. The groom's gift to her was a gold bracelet. Mr. Ralph Corson was best man.

Mr. and Mrs. Hall after the ceremony, drove to the station and left for western points. On their return they will reside in Palmerston boulevard.

BREEZES FROM THE DIAMOND

Ottawa Journal:—Manger Louie Cook could give no reason for the unfortunate occurrence at Peterborough other than that the team didn't play as well some days as they did other days. The case happened to be one of the some days. He says that the Petes have a good club and will give everyone a run when they shake off the hoodoo which followed them until they scalped our pets down at the Lift Lock burg on Monday.

Ottawa Citizen:—The postponement at Peterborough gave Johnny Derr, the strongest twirler on the Templin staff, an opportunity to recuperate, and he will likely be sent back against the Ottawas in to-day's game. Derr is playing like a big leaguer and is certain to attract the attention of the scouts who have come up to get a line on other Canadian constellations. He furnished great ball against the Ottawa club in Monday's game, and would have won several previous matches had he been given any kind of support.

Hamilton Spectator.

President Fitzgerald and Secretary Robinson paid a visit to Peterborough yesterday. A conference was held with the Peterborough directors, and judging from the tone adopted at the meeting, if confidence and optimism count for anything, the White Caps are going to win the pennant. "We have had a bad break," said President Denham, "due to poor pitching and a little weakness at first base, but we are patching up the holes, and before the week is out will be as sound as any team in the league. And what is more," Mr. Denham continued, "we have one of the best ball towns in the circuit. Why, we played to over 3,000 people on the holiday, and I guess that was a pretty good showing for a team which had lost seven straight games previous to the holiday. There is no need to worry about Peterborough. We have every faith in our manager and in our town, and will be up there around the top before long. Better to hug the tail end this month than during the month of August."

Why are the fielding averages and in some cases, batting averages higher than they were twenty years ago?

Reason No. 1.—Mitts and gloves. The use of gloves, pads and masks greatly relieved the wear and tear on ball players. Protective apparatus has raised the fielding averages of catchers 20 per cent.

Reason No. 2.—Official scorers are much more lenient than they were 20 years ago. In the old days if a fielder got his hands on a ball, he was charged with an error. Now, nearly every time a batter reaches first he is accredited with a base hit. When a player misses a hard chance the batter gets a hit rather than the fielder an error. Twenty years ago this order of things was reversed. The fielder gets the benefit of the doubt.

Liberal scoring and protective apparatus have combined to boost fielding averages.

Batting averages have dropped because of the enforcement of the foul strike rule.

The great trouble with some baseball teams at present is they seem to be spending their time waiting for other teams to come back to them instead of endeavoring to catch up.

The Peterborough White Caps are playing a double header with Ottawa to-day, the first game commencing at two o'clock, with Derr pitching for the Petes, and McManus for the Senators.

The two teams will remain at Ottawa for the Saturday game.

Brantford comes to Peterborough on Monday for three games.

Len Dobson, assistant secretary, went to Ottawa at noon.

Make Your Own Rouge.

If you are dissatisfied with the rouge you are using try making your own. A very simple way of preparing a harmless rouge is by tinting a portion of a tried and true cold cream with carmine. Be sure that only the fruit or vegetable tint is procured for tinting purposes. If a poisonous tint is used where a minute break in the skin of the face or lips is present it is liable to result disastrously, causing blood poisoning or chronic skin disease. A vegetable or fruit carmine powder worked into cold cream (not the disappearing kind) until evenly distributed and placed in a rouge box is a safe and delightful toilet adjunct and a benefit to the skin rather than an injury. By mixing equal portions of faintly pink face powder and pure rice powder a wonderfully transparent blush tint is obtained. White, as a rule, shows plainly against the skin, especially if the complexion inclines toward ivory. Pink has the equally undesirable quality of causing a natural flush to appear almost florid, besides giving a note of artificiality to the face. By blending the two and applying the result with a piece of soft white velvet a clear, flesh tone becoming to almost every complexion is acquired.

FRANKLIN SAYS SOCIALIST PROVIDED BRIBE MONEY

State's Witness In Prosecution of Clarence Darrow, the Labor Lawyer, Says Late Candidate For Mayor of Los Angeles Put Up the Funds to Buy Juror—Lawyer Tried to Warn Franklin of Danger.

Los Angeles, Cal., June 1.—Job Harriman, late candidate for mayor of Los Angeles on the Socialist ticket, yesterday at the trial of Clarence S. Darrow for alleged jury bribing, heard himself accused of being the man who provided Darrow with the alleged bribe.

Later in the day he heard the same witness, Bert. H. Franklin, testifying for the state, quote Darrow as saying to him: "If you mention my name I want you also to mention what you know about Job Harriman."

Sensations were crowded thick into yesterday's session of the trial, culminating in the beginning of a rapid-fire cross-examination of the principal witness by Chief Counsel Rogers for the defence.

For the first time since the arrest of Franklin and the indictment of himself and Darrow, the names of prospective jurors, other than Lockwood and Bain, alleged to have been sought to be bribed were injected into the case.

Franklin said he had entered into negotiations with A. K. Kruger and he had been "turned down" by three others, Guy Yonkin, a Los Angeles cigar dealer; John S. Underwood, a local iron worker, and Frank Smith of Covina.

The witness exhibited much emotion when he related his conversation with Kruger in which he said Kruger had told him that another man had offered him $4,000 for his vote as a McNamara juror.

Kruger, he said, wanted to know if they were both working for the same side. He named a Los Angeles lawyer, heretofore not mentioned, in connection with the McNamara case which drew an indignant protest from Attorney Rogers.

He said that when he saw detectives near the scene of the meeting with Lockwood he knew he had been betrayed. Darrow's presence at the place of Franklin's arrest, the latter explained by saying that he had been informed that Lecompte Davis, one of the associate counsel for the McNamara defence, had telephoned to Darrow telling him that Franklin was about to get into trouble. Darrow, he said, had gone there to warn him.

57th REGIMENT GOES TO BARRIFIELD CAMP THURSDAY

All arrangements for the camp at Barriefield for the 57th Regiment have been completed, and it has been found that the local regiment is not required to leave Peterborough till Thursday evening of next week. The parade is called for the armories at six o'clock and it is expected that the regiment will entrain at seven o'clock. By this arrangement the men can complete practically all of their day's work on Thursday and will only be away from their employment Friday and Saturday, as the return trip will be made on Sunday instead of waiting till Monday.

The regiment too will in those two days go through all the work prescribed and therefor receive pay for five days and the pay will be received at camp.

Nearly all of the officers are going and from inquiries made it is ascertained that between 200 and 250 men will take in the camp.

The regiments at Barrifield will be the 14th of Kingston, 15th of Belleville, 41st of Brockville, 43rd of Ottawa, and 57th of Peterborough.

The advance guard of twenty-five, under Major Eastwood, leaves on Wednesday.

MR. T. H. ADAMS GOING OUT OF BUSINESS HERE

It will come as a great surprise to the citizens of Peterborough and district that Mr. T. H. Adams has decided to give up business in Peterborough. Mr. Adams has been actively connected with the dry goods business on George street for the past 25 years, and for many years was associated with a leading dry goods house.

Eight years ago Mr. Adams started in business for himself, in the store known to every lady in the city and district as Adams' "Exclusive Ladies Store." During those eight years he has built up a splendid business and enjoys to a marked degree the confidence of the general public, who will regret to learn of his removal from Peterborough. While the contemplated change in Mr. Adams plans has been under consideration for some time, the final arrangements were only completed a few days ago, and since then preparations for a mammoth clearing sale of the splendid stock of ladies' and children's garments and furnishings have been going on quietly, promising an event of most unusual interest to the buying public of Peterborough and district. The store contains a practically new stock of $25,000 worth of carefully selected goods, and to get this large amount of merchandise turned into cash, in a short time, will mean a big sacrifice in selling prices, and as the need for haste is urgent, in order to allow Mr. Adams to assume his new duties at the expected time the public may look for a veritable harvest of bargains.

Every effort will be made to reduce the stock to the smallest possible proportions, as quickly as it can be done, when the balance will be turned over in block. The sale starts at 9 o'clock on Saturday morning, particulars of which will be found in the large display advertisement on another page.

Mr. Adams wishes it distinctly understood that there is no fake about this sale but it is a genuine closing out event.

BIG SAWMILLS WIPED OUT

Heavy Loss Is Sustained by C. Beck Manufacturing Company, Penetang.

Penetanguishene, June 1.—A fierce fire broke out yesterday afternoon at the sawmills of the C. Beck Manufacturing Co. of Toronto, destroying the building and plant, and throwing about seventy-five men out of work. A definite estimate of the damage has not yet been made, but the loss will be very heavy, as the plant included a large quantity of new machinery. The fire started about three o'clock in the engine room, a brick building, and spread rapidly to the sawmill, which was a frame structure. When the fire brigade answered, the flames had gained such headway that it was several hours before they were got under control. It was not until 7 o'clock that the fire was extinguished.

Two houses adjoining the property were badly scorched, but the damage was chiefly to the property of the Beck Company, which is situated in that part of the town known as "New Keen."

The sawmill which is burned is near the Penetanguishen Hotel. The flames were confined to the mill, in which the fire originated.

Shankel's Body Found.

Stouffville, June 1.—The body of Wilmot Shankel of this village, who disappeared three days ago, was found yesterday in Boyer's pond near here, by a search party who had gone out to look for traces of the missing man. No signs of violence were found on the body, and it was quite evident that he had been drowned.

No cause can be attributed for the dorwning. Mr. Shankel's financial affairs were in good shape, and his home life ideal. He was a prominent Mason and Orangeman, as well as village councillor, and was respected throughout the entire countryside.

Mr. Shankel was born in Stouffville, where his father and mother still reside. He leaves a wife but no family. He had been in business here for over fifteen years.

FEARS TRAFFIC WILL BE DIVERTED

Special to the Review.

Quebec, June 1—The Board of Trade will hold a special meeting to discuss the probability of the Grand Trunk diverting to Boston traffic hauled from the West, over the Grand Trunk Pacific and intended for export from Quebec. This is what the arrangements for running rights over the Ontario Government Railway from Cochrane to North Bay may mean, since the Grand Trunk controls the line from North Bay to White River Junction in Vermont and thence to Boston.

ADMIRALTY IS NOW BLAMED

Special to the Review.

London, June 1.—The scientific journal, "Nature," places the responsibility for the loss of the Titanic on the British Admiralty through their refusal thirty years ago, and since to permit ships to use searchlights. The night of the disaster was so clear that with a strong searchlight working an iceberg could have been seen two or three miles distant by everybody aboard and the collision easily avoided.

Titanic Widows Dine Capt. Rostron.

New York, June 1.—Captain Arthur Henry Rostron of the Titanic rescue ship Carpathia, who has been embarrassed by the homage of all New York, yesterday found himself the hero of the exclusive social set as well, when he was invited to attend a "widows' luncheon" at the home of Mrs. John Jacob Astor at noon. The youthful widow of the late Col. Astor was the hostess, assisted by Mrs. John Bradley Cummings of New York and Mrs. John B. Thayer of Haverford, Pa. The husbands of all three went down with the Titanic.

Australia Will Not Split Fleet.

Sydney, N.S.W., June 1.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—Prime Minister Fisher, speaking yesterday in regard to the naval policy of Australia, which relieves British ships and crews for service in home waters, said:

"Australians have cheerfully undertaken to defend their country by sea and land and are prepared to make all personal and other sacrifices necessary. The suggestion that the Commonwealth should copy New Zealand and split the fleet unit is unpractical and unstatesmanlike."

Foss Would Curb Corporations.

Boston, June 1.—In a formal statement last night, Governor Foss laid down an ultimatum to the Legislature, declaring that he will not sign any railroad legislation passed by the general court unless that body sends to him a law providing for the establishment of a public utilities commission or some other measure giving to public authority a greater degree of control over public service corporations.

DR. NESBITT WILL TESTIFY

Doctor Says He Does Not Propose to Run Away From Farmers' Bank Investigation — W. F. Maclean, M.P., Says He and The World Had Nothing to Do With Provincial Government Depositing.

Toronto, June 1.—When the Farmers' Bank enquiry was continued in Osgoode Hall yesterday morning before Commissioner Sir William Meredith, Dr. Beattie Nesbitt was in attendance. His presence was brought about by a subpoena served upon him by the police at the instance of Frank Hodgins, K.C. Before the court was formally opened Hartley H. Dewert, K.C., asked Sir William to postpone Nesbitt's examination until he had time to confer with the crown with regard to the lines along which the doctor was to testify. Mr. Hodgins said that he was agreeable, provided the solicitor would undertake to produce the witness at the proper time. The doctor interposed with the remark that he did not propose to run away and would help the crown all he could.

The last time Travers was on the stand he had a dispute with Mr. Hodgins as to whether he had ever said there were four commission contracts originally. The examiner held that he never stated this, but yesterday Mr. Dewart produced notes from the police court case showing that the manager admitted it to the magistrate.

Dr. John Ferguson, a former director of the institution and the only one of the directorate, who was capable of managing a bank, was asked to look at the agreement between the board and Travers.

No 15 per cent. rate of commission was ever charged up by Travers when it should have been 10, as far as he knew, declared Dr. Ferguson. Sir William could not understand why there was a 15 per cent. agreement drawn up on the day of the one for 10 was made and why it was so completely forgotten by the different witnesses.

How the bank secured one of its largest deposits was related by Mr. Fred. Compton, a corset manufacturer. His first deposit was $150,000 and later he placed another account with the bank for $50,000.

The subject was first broached to him by Dr. Nesbitt, who was a relation, and Travers completed the arrangements. He was to deposit the money with the bank, obtain a deposit receipt and take out their circulation for the amount. A short time after he returned the deposit receipts and received the equivalent, to the money deposited in Farmers' Bank bills. These bills he gradually returned to Travers and received the cash. For the first $150,000 he got 3 per cent. and for the $50,000 5 per cent. was allowed.

"Is that all the benefit you got out of it?"

"I had the shares in the Keeley mine."

"What were they for?"

"They gave me 20,000 shares in the Keeley mine for making the deposits."

The bank later bought the stock back, but he afterwards returned the $10,000 that they gave him for it.

"Aside from that did you get any benefit?" pressed Mr. Hidgins.

"I got a small amount of money."

"$350 given to me by Dr. Nesbitt."

There was absolutely no part taken by either himself or The World newspaper in the attempt to get the Government to deposit money in the Farmers' Bank, stated W. F. Maclean, M.P., when questioned with regard to the placing of provincial money in the bank by Col. Matheson.

The hearing was then adjourned until Monday, June 10, at Ottawa, but in case any new witnesses turn up another sitting will be held here before that time. The commission will be back in Toronto on the 11th or 12th, and George Wishart will be given an opportunity to testify, if he decides to come to Toronto.

JUDGMENT HAS BEEN RESERVED

Ottawa, June 1.—Argument in the reference by the Dominion Government to the Supreme Court of questions with regard to its jurisdiction in enacting the Lancaster marriage bill was concluded at one o'clock yesterday afternoon, after a hearing of four days and a half. Judgment will not likely be rendered for some time.

The right of the Dominion Government to ask questions submitted in the reference, and its right to insist on a reply, was presented to the court at the closing session by Mr. E. L. Newcombe, Deputy Minister of Justice. He asked the court to answer all the questions, and also, if the question as to the jurisdiction is not answered in the affirmative that the court suggest or advise the Government in the matter.

Mr. Lafleur, K.C., for the promoters of the bill, followed Mr. Newcombe and closed the argument.

Sir Louis Davies suggested that the court had no power to answer question two, as the Hebert case made it sub judice. At its conclusion, the chief justice said that the court was extremely indebted to the leaders of the Bar participating in the argument, and stated that the court greatly admired the splendid courtesy which prevailed during the hearing.

SIR GEORGE GIBBONS URGES COUNCIL TO WORK FOR PEACE

Patriotism as Exhibited In Citizenship Is Theme of Last Assembly of National Organization In London —Playgrounds, Woman's Suffrage and Opportunities For Women Are Among the Topics Dealt With.

London, Ont., June 1.—The closing scenes in the annual meeting of the National Council of Women were among the most pleasing and enthusiastic of its history. Sunshine bathed the land and the hearts of the visitors and the ladies of London. Luncheon, given by the local council, was a function long to be remembered. Mrs. McNaughton of Montreal thanked the London ladies for this and the countless courtesies received during their stay. Mrs. Huestis seconded the motion, including the bevy of beautiful flower-like girls who had waited at tables. Mrs. Yorker of London, who had captained much of the whole arrangement, replied graciously on behalf of London.

"Patriotism as exhibited in citizenship" was the note of the evening meeting. The hall was crowded as never before, Rev. J. Gibson Inkster was in the chair and on behalf of himself and the whole Presbyterian world congratulated and wished well to the council.

"To speak on patriotism is not easy," declared Sir Geo. Gibbons, the first speaker. He deprecated war. It was the best men who were killed and who killed others. Times are changing, whereas resort to arms was the method of the past. The Hague, with its board of five men are now selected to settle any dispute, as was done in the late Nova Scotia fisheries case. The trades and labor unions of every country of Great Britain, Ireland, France and Germany were for peace.

Not long since 100,000 men had met to protest to the German Emperor against war. Sir George urged the council to use their influence that a permanent judicial quorum might be appointed to settle all disputes.

One of the world's recognized speakers, Miss J. G. Owen of London, England, was the next speaker. Patriotism was defined as the apotheosis of humanity. Patriotism stretches out from the individual to the nation. The influence of the women of a nation is like that of the great Niagara, without being switched on it was of no avail. When its force was brought to bear it had practical results.

Playgrounds and their effects were presented by Dr. Henry Curtis of the United States, now in London, for the purpose of establishing his system. "The best citizenship of the country," declared Dr. Curtis, "we are getting out of the play of the children. Teach loyalty to a team and you inculcate loyaty to the land, the boy who disregards the rules of a game is gaining the worst training possible in lawlessness. The plea for organized playgrounds was the strong note of this address.

The chairman introduced Dr. Augusta Stowe Gullen of Toronto as the first woman in Ontario to take a medical degree, and one of the first three elected to the Senate. Woman and suffrage was the theme of Dr. Gullen's address. In the past woman had been regarded rather as a supernatural being, requiring no education whatever, or an inferior creation, incapable of benefiting by instruction. The "disenfranchised classes must take in pay what the enfranchised choose to pay," and "men were always better than their laws" were among the epigrams of this address. Home and all that betters it both inside and out is woman's work. It is the unit of the nation which is an aggregate of homes. Man and woman make up the homes of a country, and to get the best of both, the vote for women is necessary.

A warm reception was given Mrs. Jean Blewett, who spoke on woman, her present status and possibilities. Solomon, the wisest of his kind, has declared that the price of woman is above rubies. Most of us were born into the world when the sceptre was held by a woman's hand. Mrs. Blewett said she was glad to know so many of the bright professional women of the country and urged on all better things. To a forgetfulness of pessemism the obliteration of littleness and work for the general ultimate good.

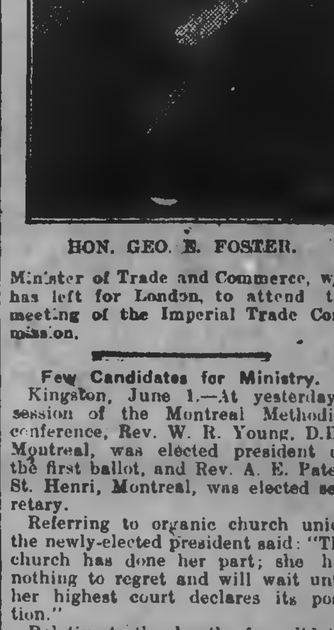
Votes of thanks were tendered the chairman and speakers by Mrs. Flora McDonald Denison, seconded by Dr. Margaret Gordon. In acknowledging the vote of thanks, Rev. Mr. Inkster expressed his indignation at the treatment being accorded Mrs. Pankhurst and Mrs. Lawrence, and said the ladies and men of the Empire should not rest until these women were released.

A vote of thanks was sent to the press for their excellent reports of the meetings. Mrs. Torrington presented a bouquet of carnations to Mrs. Radcliffe, wife of the principal of the Normal School, who had done so much for the comfort of the council, and again thanked all London citizens for the magnificent hospitality shown them. The meeting closed by the singing of "O Canada" and the National Anthem, sung by the choir of the First Methodist Church of London, who lent much grace to the occasion.

At the final session of the executive of the National Council, held yesterday morning, it was decided that next year's meeting would be held at Montreal.

Ellis Formally Committed.

Lindsay, June 1.—Another preliminary investigation into the killing of Louis D. Porter of Lutterworth Township, on the night of April 25, was held here yesterday, the first one having been irregular. Several witnesses were examined, including Detective Reburn.



HON. GEO. E. FOSTER.

Few Candidates for Ministry.

Kingston, June 1.—At yesterday's session of the Montreal Methodist conference, Rev. W. R. Young, D.D., Montreal, was elected president on the first ballot, and Rev. A. E. Pates, St. Henri, Montreal, was elected secretary.

Referring to organic church union the newly-elected president said: "The church has done her part; she has nothing to regret and will wait until her highest court declares its position."

Relative to the dearth of candidates for the ministry, the speaker said that, while most deplorable, other denominations were suffering similarly."

Shot School Girl and Self.

Phillipsburg, N.J., June 1.—Annie Lynch, a school girl, 13 years old, was attacked and slain near her home here yesterday by Frank Brown, a former private in the U. S. army. After shooting the girl Brown wounded himself. He may recover.

Brown went to the school where the girl was a pupil and told the principal that Annie's mother had sent for her. He departed, but hid in an alley not far away, where he attacked her. She escaped after a struggle and was shot while running away. After running two blocks she fell dead on her father's doorstep.

RATTLESNAKE FATALLY BIT CHILDREN; BABY DROWNED

Special to the Review.

Greenville, June 1.—Mrs. George Adams, a farmer's wife, sent her two little boys to the hen house to quiet a commotion among the feathered inmates. The cause of the disturbance was a rattlesnake which fatally bit both children. While the mother hurried to their assistance her baby, left behind in the house, fell in the wash tub and was drowned.

CRUSH THE CATERPILLAR

The attention of your readers has been called repeatedly of late to the great danger of a caterpillar scourge, if preventive measures are not taken at once to kill off this pest.

The citizens are asked to kill as many as possible in their own neighborhood, and in this way lessen to some extent what will be a great evil if not stamped out.

Prevention is of vital importance—Crush the caterpillar—Do it now—Every nest means thousands—Let everyone help.

Catarrhal Bad Breath

Corrected Quickly by the Use of Catarrhozone

Catarrh is an inflammation. Where there is inflammation there is always more or less offensive secretion. Inflammation may be of the very active sort, but it is often of the slow kind, and this is the particular form in which the breath is rendered offensive and the presence of the sufferer becomes an offence to every person of delicate sensibility.

Bad breath is in itself sufficient to urge you to correct it, because one dislikes to be unpleasant to their friends, but this form of catarrh is dangerous because it supplies a hotbed for the development of Consumption or of other diseases of the throat and lungs.

Bad breath is an evidence that the microbes have found a good resting place and are carrying on their evil inroads into the health of the body.

Catarrhozone acts at once and destroys these minute organisms, but it does more—it heals the inflamed surfaces in which they found a nesting place and consequently removes both cause and effects of their action.

If we only highly estimated the value of prevention and used Catarrhozone at the beginning of a cold or just before it becomes well seated, the deadly ravages of Consumption would be stayed and the terrible agonies of sufferers of Asthma or Bronchitis completely abolished.

There is no remedy as effective for bad breath, Catarrh, Bronchitis, Asthma, etc., as Catarrhozone. Besides being healing and soothing it is germ destroying. Nothing ever offered to the public can compare with it in its promptness, efficiency, and permanency of action, and you can buy it from any dealer in medicine throughout the Dominion of Canada, 25c, 50c, and $1.00 sizes. By mail from The Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Ont.

THE FARMERS' BANK

The people throughout Canada who lost their savings by the failure of the Farmers' Bank, have a gleam of hope of restitution, but it must be admitted that the gleam is a tenuous one. The unexpected may happen, and the Keely mine turn out a bonanza. In that case the depositors might get back at least a portion of what they dropped.

It would seem from the evidence of Liquidator Clarkson that the stock of the bank was largely held by farmers who were shy of confidence in the institution, and depositors were afraid to patronize it in consequence. But if Manager Travers had only kept out of the Keely mine investment, the Farmers Bank might have been a successful venture. Now, the best the liquidator can hope to do, even when the double liability feature is considered, is to pay the circulation. Still there is that chance that the Keely mine may yet turn out a stream of wealth.

The suggestion has been made that the depositors make an effort to recoup themselves by forming a company to work the mine, but such an attempt would probably be as futile as would one to start another bank with farmers as the chief stockholders. When the farmers suffer once they are slow about returning into that vicinity again.

NO REASON TO FEAR

Miss Agnes Laut, well known as a writer on social topics, has discovered what she is pleased to regard as a menace to the world, on the western coast of the American continent, Anarchism flourishes, in her opinion from California to the Youkon and the followers of the cult are flooding the west with their firebrand literature. One of the changes they advocate is the reduction of the work day to three hours. By this they hope to make labor so dear that in order to employ it the capitalist will be gradually separated from his financial accumulations and in time the possession of wealth would become general.

If Miss Laut would read aright the signs of the times she would find that although there may be here and there a crank who preaches such false economic doctrine as a workday of three hours, there is no immediate danger from the cult whose creed is lawlessness and disorder. Emma Goldman was not permitted to lecture in California and was ordered out of the State, while her press agent was tarred and feathered and told to fly.

Anarchism has never rallied from the blow it received when a bunch of its devotees paid the death penalty in Chicago in 1887. Spies, the leader of the followers of the red flag, and one of those executed, egotistical and bombastic to the end, said as the fatal noose was placed about his neck, "The voices from our tombs will be stronger than the voices you are strangling to-day."

But time has proved that Spies was neither a prophet nor the son of a prophet. If from his grave has come any word at all it has spoken a warning to the entire American continent that the pathway of law and order is after all the only safe one to follow.

SIR CHARLES TUPPER

It is fitting that the last years of the long and busy life of Sir Charles Tupper should be spent in the West where the best efforts of his prime were expended to develope the country. As he is called one of the fathers of Confederation so he may as appropriately be styled the maker of the West. It was largely due to his energy that the Canadian Pacific Railway was pushed to completion and a rush of settlers followed the laying of the steel. Few public men have lived so long, fewer still have been spared to see their life-work so abundantly crowned with success.

All around him, in the thriving cities and the prosperous farms of the prairie provinces, Sir Charles can see the fruition of the work to which he devoted the best years of a life time. And the West will always stand as a monument to his greatness, a monument at once grander and more enduring than marble.

THE TOBACCO MERGER

The tobacco dealers of Canada evidently believe that the proper weapon with which to fight Satan is fire and that it requires a trust to successfully cope with another combination of the same standing. It is given out that the Tuckett concern of Hamilton, and the Macdonald establishment of Montreal, are to unite their enterprises, and that the object of the new merger is to enter the lists with the notorious tobacco trust of the United States.

The new and powerful tobacco merger which will thus be formed in Canada will not adopt the tactics of the trust fighting forces across the line. If they did they would enlist the aid of the federal legal machinery and proceed to confiscate all the American tobacco now stored in this country awaiting sale, and would prosecute any person in this country who had a financial interest in the United States' trust.

This is the somewhat questionable course adopted by the American authorities in dealing with the coffee trust, and if persevered in, is likely to lead to trouble with Brazil. The Canadian combination, however will confine their efforts to the legitimate channels of business, and the fight is likely to be a bitter and exciting contest.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Champ Clark's ultra-admirers give as one indication of his intellectual greatness the fact that he never wore a speckled vest.

An exchange, in a burst of piety, declares that in the marriage case argument before the Supreme Court the lawyers quoted from the laws of all ages except the ten commandments. If that editor will read his Decalogue carefully he will fail to find there any reference to the marriage question.

Hampton's Suspends.

New York, June 1.—Hampton's Magazine has suspended publication, and the June number will not be issued. The company, which was organized after the failure of the consolidation of the first Hampton's and the Columbian magazines last fall, found it had no money to continue the business, and the directors decided to ask for a receiver in dissolution.

In the two companies which now pass out of existence, $2,787,000 was invested by stockholders all over the country, and for this, it is said, there is nothing to show.

Child Severely Burned.

Toronto, June 1.—Marguerite Lowe, 20 Frichot street, attempted to light a gasoline stove yesterday afternoon, and was severely burned, the fire igniting her clothes. The child's screams brought the mother quickly to the little one's assistance, and by wrapping a blanket about her she managed to extinguish the flames. The child was taken to the Sick Children's Hospital. Her condition is hourly improving.

Buzz Saw Burst.

Brockville, June 1.—Henry Graham of Lyn Village, who owns and operates a portable saw mill, was using the machine with a buzz saw. Suddenly it burst in four pieces, one of which struck him on the head with great force, making an incision in the skull about six inches long and penetrating the brain. His recovery is doubtful.

Gas Distended His Stomach

"My last wish will be," writes Harry P. Pollard, a well-known boot and shoe traveler of Hartford, "that everyone with a bad stomach may learn as I did, before it's too late, that Nerviline is the one remedy to cure. Why, I was in mighty bad shape, my digestion was all wrong, and every night I would waken with a start and find my heart jumping like a threshing machine. This was caused by gas on my stomach pressing against my heart. When I started to use Nerviline I got better mighty fast. It is certainly a grand remedy for the traveling man, keeps your stomach in order, cures cramps, prevents lumbago or rheumatism, breaks up chest colds and sore throat—in fact there hasn't been an ache or pain inside or outside for the past two years that I haven't cured with Nerviline. Do you wonder I recommend it?"

Testimonial No. 4880

For general household use Nerviline has no equal; it will cure the aches and ailments of the entire family—refuse anything but Nerviline, 50c per bottle, trial size 25c, all dealers or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

Cynthia's Chauffeur

By LOUIS TRACY

Copyright by McLeod & Allen, Toronto

"Poor Monsieur Marigny!" she cried. "I fear he had a cheerless evening in Hereford. This is from him. I know his handwriting. . . While father and I were in Paris he often sent invitations for fixtures at the Velo—once for a coach-drive to Fontainebleau. I was rather sorry I missed that."

Medenham thanked her in his heart for that little pause. No printed page could be more legible than Cynthia's thought-processes. How delightful it was to feel that her unspoken words were mirrors in his own brain!

But these lover-like beatitudes were interrupted by a slight shriek. She had glanced curiously at a postmark, ripped open an envelope, and was reading something that surprised her greatly.

"Well, of all the queer things!" she cried. "Heres' father in London. He started from Paris yesterday afternoon, and found he had just time to send me a line by paying a special postal fee at Paddington. . . What? . . . Mrs. Leland going to Chester! . . . Wire if I get this! . . ."

She reread the letter with heightened color. Medenhmam's heart sank to his boots while he watched her. Whoever Mrs. Leland might be—and Cynthia's first cry of the name sent a shock of recognition through him—it was fully evident that the addition of another member to the party would straightway shut him out of his Paradise. Mrs. Devar, in the role of guardian, had been disposed of satisfactorily, but "Mrs. Leland" was more than a doubtful quantity. For some kindred reason, perhaps, Cynthia chose to turn and look at the sparkling Wye when next she spoke.

"I don't see why Mrs. Leland's unexpected appearance should make any real difference to our tour," she said in the colorless tont of one who seeks rather than imparts conviction. "There is plenty of room in the car. We must take the front seat in turn, that is all."

"May I ask who Mrs. Leland is?" he asked, and, if his voice was ominously cold, it may be urged in extenuation that in matters affecting Cynthia he was no greater adept at concealing his thoughts than the girl herself.

"An old friend of ours," she explained hurriedly. "In fact, her husband was my father's partner till he died, some years ago. She is a ch[illegible]ing woman, quite cosmopolitan. [illegible] lives in Paris 'most all the time [illegible] I fancied she was at Trouville f[illegible] summer. I wonder . . ."

She read the letter a third [illegible] Drooping lids and a screen [illegible] eyelashes veiled her eyes, [illegible]een the fingers holding that [illegible]zzling note rested on the rail o[illegible] veranda again those radiant [illegible] eyes remained invisible, and the eloquent eyebrows were not arched in laughing bewilderment but straightened in silent questioning.

"Mr. Vanrenen gives no details," she said at last, and seldom, indeed did "Mr. Vanrenen" replace "father" in her speech. "Perhaps he was writing against time, though he might have told me less about the post and more of Mrs. Leland. Anyhow, he has a fine Italian hand in some things, and may be this is one of them. . . But I must telegraph at once."

Medenham roused himself to set forth British idiosyncrasies on the question of Sunday labor. He remembered the telephone, however, and Cynthia went off to try and get in touch with the Savoy Hotel. He withdrew a little way, and began to smoke a reflective cigar, for he knew now who Mrs. Leland was. In twenty minutes or less Cynthia came to him. It was difficult to account for her obvious preplexity, though he could have revealed some of its secret springs readily enough.

"I'm sorry I shall not be able to take that walk, Mr. Fitzroy," she said, frankly recognising the tactic pact between them. "We have a long day before us to-morrow, and we must make Chester in good time, as Mrs. Leland is coming alone from London. Meanwhile, I must attend to my correspondence."

"Ah. You have spoken to Mr. Vanrenen, then?"

"No. He was not in the hotel, but he left a message for me, knowing that I was more likely to 'phone than wire."

She was troubled, disturbed somewhat resentful of this unforeseen change in the programme arranged for the next few days. Medenham could have chosen no more unhappy moment for what he had to say, but during those twenty minutes of reflection a definite line of action had been forced upon him, and he meant to follow it to the only logical end.

"I am glad now that I mentioned my own little difficulty at Hereford," he said. "Since alterations are to be the order of the day at Chester, will you allow me to provide another driver for the Mercury there? You will retain the car, of course, but my place can be taken by a trustworthy man who understands it quite as well as I do."

"You mean that you are dropping out of the tour, then?"

"Yes."

She shot one indignant glance at his impassive face, for he held in rigid control the fire that was consuming him.

"Rather a sudden resolve on your part, isn't it? What earthly difference does the presence of another lady in our party make?"

"I have been thinking matters over," he said doggedly. "Would you mind reading my father's letter?"

He held out the note received at the Green Dragon, but she ignored it.

"I take it for granted that you have the best of reasons for wishing to go," she murmured.

"Please oblige me by reading it," he persisted.

Perhaps, despite all his self-restraint, some hint of the wild longing in his heart to tell her once and for all that no power under that of the Almighty should tear him from her side moved her to relent. She took the letter, and began to read.

"Why," she cried, "this was written at Hereford?"

"Yes. My father waited there all night. He left for town only a few minutes before I entered the hotel this morning."

She read with puzzled brows, smiled a little at "Your aunt is making a devil of a fuss," and passed quite unheeded the solitary "F." in the signature.

"I think you ought to go to-day," she commented.

"Not because of any argument advanced there," he growled passionately.

"But your aunt . . . she is a making—a fuss. One has to conciliate aunts at times."

"My aunt is really a most estimable person. I promise myself some amusement when she explains the origin of the 'fuss' to you."

"To me?"

"Yes. Have I not your permission to bring her to see you in London?"

"Something was said about that."

"May I add that I hope to make Mr. Vanrenen's acquaintance on Tuesday?"

She looked at him in rather a startled way.

"Are you going to call and see my father?" she asked.

"Yes."

"But—why, exactly?"

"In the first place, to give him news of your wellbeing. Letters are good, but the living messenger is better. Secondly, I want to find out just why he traveled from Paris to London yesterday."

The air was electric between them. Each knew that the other was striving to cloak emotions that threatened at any moment to throw off the last vestige of concealment.

"My father is a very clever man, Mr. Fitzroy," she said slowly. "If he did not choose to tell you why he did a thing, you could no more extract the information from him than from a bit of marble."

"He has one weak point, I am sure," and Medenham smiled confidently into her eyes.

"I do not know it," she murmured.

"But I know it, though I have never seen him. He is vulnerable through his daughter."

"You must be very careful in anything you say about me," she said with a praiseworthy attempt at light raillery.

"I shall be careful with the care of a man who has discovered some rare jewel, and fears lest each shadow should conceal an enemy till he has reached a place of utmost security."

She sighed, and her glance wandered away into the sun-drowned valley.

ENJOYING THE BEST OF HEALTH

"Fruit-a-tives" Cured His Rheumatism

PROF. J. F. DAVIS

563 CHURCH ST., TORONTO.

I want to say to the people of Toronto and elsewhere that "Fruit-a-tives" is my only medicine and has been for the last four years. Previous to that, I had been very much troubled with Rheumatism and Kidney Disease, and had taken many remedies as well as employing hot applications of salt bags etc., without getting satisfactory results.

Noticing the advertisement of "Fruit-a-tives", I adopted this treatment altogether and, as everybody knows, since taking "Fruit-a-tives", I have been enjoying the very best health and find it a pleasure to follow my vocation of Dancing and Deportment Instruction".

PROF. J. F. DAVIS.

Prof. Davis, the celebrated teacher of dancing and deportment in Toronto, is quite frank in stating that "Fruit-a-tives" alone cured him of distressing Rheumatism and Kidney Trouble.

50c. a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size, 25c. At all dealers or sent on receipt of price by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

BABY'S OWN TABLETS A MOTHER'S STANDBY

Mrs. Wm. Kernaghan, Cartwright, Man., says: "I always use Baby's Own Tablets and find them an excellent remedy for little ones." Thousands of other mothers say the same thing simply because they have found the Tablets the best medicine to give their little ones to make teething easy; to expel worms; relieve constipation and to make baby plump, healthy and strong. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

THE SPRING MODE.

Stripes Made by Stitching on This French Suit.

IN BLACK AND WHITE EFFECT

Though the material of this attractive little tailored suit seems at first glance to be of the black and white mixtures so fashionable this spring, a closer inspection reveals the fact that the fabric is really a very fine serge and the stripes are produced with rows of heavy machine stitching. This stitching slants obliquely away from narrow panels of stitching at back and front of the skirt, and a shawl collar with panels of the straight stitching at the edge has insets of wedgewood blue cloth stitched in black and white. Small white pearl buttons increase the smartness of this black and white costume.

New Field For Women Workers.

The woman who feels the attraction of photographs will be glad to hear of an opening which, if not exactly new, is more or less unknown to the average woman worker.

To begin with, a knowledge of practical photography is essential for those who want to become expert lantern slide makers—as, for instance, of developing and developers—for "it is not enough to be able to expose and develop a slide. The operator must know precisely what effect she is aiming at and just what developer will suit her purpose." Among the points for recommendation of this work are the following:

"There is no limit of age for this work, but it is essential that a lantern slide colorist should possess good eyesight and steady, sensitive hands. Indeed, it is apparently work peculiarly suitable for women." Like most other arts, it requires great concentration, skill and pleasure in the work, and also, like the others, rebuffs will probably be many before any measure of success is attained. Though women are often employed by lantern slide makers, few have taken up the work on their own behalf, and yet it is obvious that more and more of this method of illustration is being used for amusement, for instruction, for scientific purposes and for advertisement. There is no limit to its scope.

Lantern slide coloring should offer special opportunities to women, "for it requires a delicacy of handling and a keenness of artistic perception which are more usually met with in woman than in man, and to the woman who possesses a talent for painting, coupled with these necessary qualifications, the work becomes absorbingly interesting."

CHAMBERS ST. PAVEMENT TO BE PROCEEDED WITH AS SOON AS POSSIBLE

Twelve City Teamsters Ask for Increase from $3.65 to $4 per Day.

A deputation composed of Messrs. James Lynch, Vincent Eastwood and Mr. Lech, waited upon the Board of Works last night in regard to the paving of Chambers street, as asked for in a petition to the City Council last year. The petition was signed at that time by all of the Chambers street property holders and the Council stated at that time that it would be one of the first streets paved.

Mr. Lynch, as spokesman for the party, said that he merely wanted to know what was the delay. He wanted the Board to give him something definite that he could tell the other petitioners.

Mr. Lech endorsed what Mr. Lynch argued, stating that Chambers street was an excellent street to try the paving system on.

Mr. V. Eastwood also thought the same as the others about it,

Ald. Buller, chairman of the Board informed the deputation that a recommendation would go to the Council meeting on Monday night, ascertaining the class of pavement that will be laid on this street. Work would then proceed as rapidly as possible. Ald Buller admitted to the deputation that Chambers street was one of the first streets ordered to be paved, although nothing had been done.

Ald. Johnston—It seems to me that we were very anxious to get the front street paving con-.

Mayor Bradburn—We can't do anything about that, Ald. Johnston, until we get the poles removed and Ald. Buller knows that the reason of the latter still being up is owing to the refusal of the C.P.R. to remove three of their poles.

Ald. Johnston—I think this Council should carry out the work of last year's Council.

Mayor Bradburn—I'm satisfied to let the recommendation go into the Council on Monday night when they will decide upon the class of pavement to be put down upon this street.

After the deputation had retired it was moved that the Board proceed with the work on Chambers street as soon as possible.

WOODEN WALKS.

Mr. W. Mallory, 584 Bonacord St., applied for a crossing in front of his place connecting with Bonacord St.

A wooden sidewalk was instructed to be laid in compliance with the request.

Mr. Arthur Flowers also applied to the Board for a wooden sidewalk Dublin street, enclosing a diagram of where he wished it located. It was referred to the City Engineer to make a report on.

Ald Johnston thought that an old sidewalk could be put down to piece out in situations of this kind.

"The people up in that vicinity are kicking," he said, "and they don't seem to get any consideration at all."

Mayor Bradburn—Won't it be just as well to wait until we can put down a permanent pavement.

ASK FOR $4.00.

A communication was received from the teamsters on city work, twelve in all, asking for a four dollar a day wage, the increase to go into effect at once, or as early as possible. Some of the teamsters are on the watering wagons and the remainder on city contract work. Their present wage is $3.65 per day.

Ald Johnston—Let the letter be received for the present and be taken up at another meeting.

MORE POLES.

The Bell Telephone Company made application for permission to erect more poles, and on the recommendation of the City Engineer the request was granted.

Another request from the Bell Telephone Company for permission to draw water from their manholes into the city sewer came in for some exchange of opinion.

It was pointed out that there is not much water in the manholes, but that what is there affects their cables to some extent. Later it was moved that information be received from other cities to ascertain if the Bell Telephone is permitted to connect with the sewers, and then have the matter taken up.

The City Engineer submitted the list of streets upon which it was proposed to lay sewers this year.

The work includes a big trunk sewer line up Harvey street to serve the residents on Waterford street in place of a septic tank, which the Dickson Company have asked for for some time. This work would cost the city about $2,600. It will receive further consideration at Monday night's Council meeting. The sewers recommended by the Board of Health and those for which petitions were largely signed were recommended to be laid.

The City Engineer also submitted a long list of sidewalks to be constructed this year. Several streets for which sidewalks were petitioned for were added to the list. The walks more urgently needed will be constructed as early as possible.

COMPLAINTS OF FLOODING.

Several south end people complained by letter of their premises being flooded by the backing up of the sewer. Some of the places badly affected are the Matthews-Laing Company, and Mitchell's store. The City Engineer was instructed to make relief connections with the manhole at the Rink street sewer to the drain.

SEWER FOREMAN.

Mr John Ball was appointed sewer foreman at the rate of $3 per day.

Ald. Duffus lodged a complaint about the poor system of street watering, stating that it was badly needed in the northern part of the city last Monday, where a regular dust storm took place.

ILLUMINATED SIGNS.

The Trades and Labor Council by letter made a suggestion to the Board that the names of the streets be shown by illuminated signs at the street corners. The committee were favorably impressed with the idea, and the clerk was instructed to write the Trades and Labor Council, saying that the City Council would consider the suggestion at their next meeting.

HEAVY FINE

Illegal Fishing by Jessie Airess Costs Him $56.75.

A fine of $50.00 and costs, or $56.75 in all, was imposed upon Jesse Airess this morning in police court, for guilty of fishing out of season.

The offence was committed on May 16th, the charge being laid by Fishery Inspector Watt. Airess did not appear in court in response to this summons. The evidence, however, in the case was all taken and a conviction secured. The alternative to the fine is three months in jail.

RECEIPTS AT THE FAIR

The paid admissions at the Fair last night were 2,392, and the total receipts for the night $810, or $1641 for the last two nights.

CONCERT TO-NIGHT.

Mr. Rupert Gliddon has prepared a very attractive program for the band concert to-night in connection with the Summer Fair. It is as follows:

March—Selected.
Overture—Barber of Seville.
Baritone solo—Asa Huycke, with band accompaniment.
Selection—"Bobomoka," by request.
Novelette—"Rag Time Glide."
Reminiscences of Gounod.
Medley—"Popular Songs."

Worthy of special mention are the handsome fixtures in the booth of Messrs. Richard Hall & Son. They are perfect designs for living room and dining room, and harmonize to perfection with the other fittings of these two rooms. Needless to say they are a few of the many handsome designs from the show rooms of Alexander & Miller, who had charge of the lighting effect of all the important booths in the building, as well as the general lighting scheme in the armories.

RETIRING SALE

Mr. Robert Fair is now ready to give to the public the information that in view of his contemplated retirement, another drastic liquidation of the stock has been decided upon. The very successful sale which was held last fall, in preparation for this expected change, reduced the stock to such proportions that it was found necessary, pending the final action in reference to Mr. Fair's retirement, to add about $25,000 worth of new Spring and Summer goods of the highest quality to the stock. This was rendered imperative in order that the high standard of the business could be maintained till the final object was reached, and the renewed stock of new seasonable goods is now to be given up to the mercy of a bargain appreciating public and the interrupted retiring sale continued until it is reduced to the lowest possible proportions. Those who participated in the money saving opportunities afforded them during the first part of the sale, will know what to expect now that the final stage is being approached, and when they find the values are even greater than before, there is no doubt as to the response that will follow the announcement.

Stocks are heaviest in the carpet and house furnishing department, and it and the ladies' ready-to-wear millinery sections will be the scenes of the earliest activity, because in these three departments the prices will be simply irresistible, considering the high class of goods that is always carried by this store.

The establishment will put in two busy days behind closed doors on Monday and Tuesday, getting the stock ready for the rush that is bound to come, and a big staff of clerks will be on hand to look after the crowds, bright and early on Wednesday morning. Watch for the big announcement in Monday's paper.

Notice

The funeral of the late Mrs. Robt. Hamilton, whose death was announced yesterday, will take place Sunday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock from the late residence at Auburn, to St. Luke's church, and thence to the Little Lake cemetery. The Rev. Mr. Sawers will officiate.

REV. DR. GRAHAM TO SPEAK HERE

At the next regular meeting of the Peterborough Protestant Federation, to be held in the S.O.E. Hall, the first Friday in June, the Rev. Dr. Graham, Toronto, will give an address on Jesuitism. Members are asked to invite their friends.

WATER WENT UP YESTERDAY

Instead of lowering yesterday, the water in the upper lakes rose and it is now higher than it was a few days ago. As yet no resultant damage has been reported to Mr. McClellan of the Trent Canal office though the unusually high level may do much damage. All the government tugs are busy in their different localities.

THE WHY OF THE INCREASE IN COAL PRICES

New York, June 1.—The committee of the Merchants' Association to investigate the advance in the price of domestic hard coal is to begin its work next week, and several operators, it is expected, will be asked to come to the hearings and answer questions. Coal dealers also will be requested to appear.

This is the first time that the coal trade has undergone an investigation of this kind.

Henry R. Towne said; "We are not going off at half cock in this matter. It is best to know everything about the case. The price of anthracite has been increasing since 1900 and now 25 cents a ton is added, ostensibly because the wages of the miners have been increased a little over 5 per cent.

THE GENTLEMAN FROM MISSOURI

James Beauchamp Clark was born in Kentucky in 1850. He was an earnest youth and had gotten his college education and other youthful chores done before he learned how to strop a razor. At the age of twenty-three he was president of Marshall College, West Virginia. He was the youngest college president in captivity, and many a senior took occasion to say in discussion, "Mr. President, when you are as old as I am you will change your mind about these things."

Clarke presidented successfully until he had money enough to begin the practice of law, when he emigrated to Missouri and prepared for a glorious political career by ruthlessly amputating his name below the belt. When he emerged from the operation he was Champ Clark. He then donned the broad brimmed black hat and black frock coat which are indigenous to Missouri statesmanship, and was triumphantly elected Prosecuting Attorney of Pike county, remaining successfully and picturesquely in politics ever after.

LIFE OF ADVENTURE.

Clarke has had a life of adventure, particularly in Pike county politics with the utmost fearlessness, debating against General Grosvenor on Chautauqua and challenging him to deadly combat once a day with matinees on Wednesdays and Saturdays, and Champing furiously for many years as minority leader in Congress. Two years ago the Republican party hit an iceberg while in full career and went down with over 100 Congressmen on board, and Clarke inherited the speakership and the presidential boom which is a part of the perquisites thereof.

Clarke is a large taciturn man with neat white hair and broad smooth face. He has a curious, prehensile upper lip with which he cools his chin frequently while emitting grape and canister at the foe, and he also has a supply of wit which is as hard on the hide of his opponent as concentrated lye. He once had a leaning towards the ministry, but the only vestige of this which remains is his white string tie.

A PLAIN CITIZEN.

Clarke has remained a perfectly plain citizen for all his years, and has successfully avoided riddles, speckled vests, large stylish words, and republicanism in all its varied and insidious forms. He is now nearer the presidency than any Missourian has been since the days of Thomas Benton, and is about the only resident of the State who isn't excited about it.

Clark has captured the Arizona Democratic primary.

WHITE CAPS LOST BOTH GAMES TO THE SENATORS

The White Caps lost both games at Ottawa yesterday, but while there's life there's hope, and there's going to be a big reversal of form one of these days.

The first game with Derr twirling went to the Senators by 5—4 after ten innings had been played. Umpire Pearson was called upon for a close decision in the ninth when he called Robertson safe and caused the game to be tied, but as remarked before, incidents such as this make up the baseball game. It was a great game of baseball, and to all report the better team won. That's no disgrace for the White Caps.

The second game also went the way of Louie Cook with the count standing 7—0. The report from Ottawa is that Tracy, the new White Cap twirler, gave a clever exhibition of pitching, but the team failed to hold up their end of the doings. There was one muff in the garden which gave the Senators two runs. There were holes as big as drain pipes at short and third, and 'tis said that Manager Templin will make some changes. Nasher, the infielder, received a distress call last night and went east on the second midnight train. Catcher Mooney has returned, bring with him Bartho, a first baseman. The report from Ottawa is that Osborne, the new twirler, is the liveliest coacher ever seen around these parts.

BREEZES FROM THE DIAMOND

Dolan was there with a timely double in the sixth of the first game, scoring Hartman and Manager Templin.

A close decision allowed Robertson to score and tie the game in the ninth.

After their two runs in the sixth the Petes had a man on each bag, but Derr and Schwartz retired the side on infield clouts.

Derr made the only slipup when he failed to handle a well placed bunt on the third base line.

Now what about a ladies' day? Will some fan please name the "Dick Rudolph" of the White Caps.

There will be a morning and an afternoon game with Brantford on Monday.

Carl Thompson of the University of Georgia, six feet one inch in his stocking feet and holding a strike out record of 22 out of 27 men at bat in a regular nine inning game, has been added to the pitching staff of the New York Americans.

Toronto News. — President Denham, of the Peterboro Club, in the Canadian League, denies that there is any financial stringency in the baseball market thereabouts, and states that when the team is properly lined up, Peterboro will be strictly in the pennant race. The game at Ottawa yesterday, was again postponed on account of rain. A double-header is billed for to-day.

The game at Ottawa to-day was billed to start at 2.15 this afternoon, with the Capital and Montreal clubs going on at 3.30 o'clock.

Rube Marquard, the $11,000 lemon grown by McGrath, has won 10 straights.

Ottawa Free Press—"I have a club that's going to run well up in the first division, and I know it, and that's what makes it tough to see all those games that slipped out of my hands since the season started,' said Manager Curt Templin last night.

"Man for man I have a better club than St. Thomas, Guelph or Hamilton, and I'll beat them out before the season is half over. Most of our games were lost by one run, and we always went into the ninth inning ahead of the other club. My pitchers failed in the pinch. I let a lot of my young pitchers go, and they were all fellows who had lots of stuff, but blew up in a crisis. My mound stuff now is made up of experienced men and we will make them all hump."

Another Marvelous Cure by Dodd's Kidney Pills

Ludger Cote's Backache had Developed into Bright's Disease, and Pains and Aches were His Portion Dodd's Kidney Pills cured Him.

St. Yvon, Gaspe Co., Que., May 31. (Special)—Once more a wonderful cure has sent the name of the old Canadian Kidney Remedy ringing through the Province of Quebec; Mr. Ludger Cote, a well-known resident of this place, is the man cured, and the story of his cure in his own words is as follows:

"For four years I suffered from Backache, stiffness of the joints and finally Bright's Disease. I could not bend my right leg on account of the pain in my hip and knee. I had terrible pains in the region of the bladder. My eyes were swollen. I was always tired and nervous and took no pleasure in life.

"Finally, I decided to try Dodd's Kidney Pills and the effect was marvellous. Six boxes cured me completely."

Backache, neglected, develops into Bright's Disease. The one sure way to escape its tortures is to cure the Backache when it first starts with Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Testing Potatoes.

Dr. Pierre Berthault of Paris has discovered that a surprising variation exists in the cellular density of potatoes. Microscopic examination shows that edible varieties have small and numerous cells, while industrial varieties possess larger and coarser cells. Dr. Berthault says that potatoes of the finest flavor have the smallest cells. Those that have the largest cells should be used only in such industries as the manufacture of starch. If the structure is a sure indicator of the quality of the potato, as the French investigator declares, a choice of the best varieties for planting should depend largely upon simple microscopic tests.

SOME LATEST POPULAR SONGS

Many Catchy Songs to be Heard This Season.

The month of June is offering some extremely popular and catchy song hits, some of which have already attained great prominence and for which there is bound to be a great demand in the next few months at the very least. The list includes productions in all lines, classics, ballads, and sentimental songs and several have caught on to such an extent that everywhere they are being whistled.

A couple of breezy band marches have jumped into popularity, one of which is "Buffalo Bill's Farewell March," written by Wm. Sweeney, and first played by the New York military band. It is an extremely stirring selection, breathing the spirit of the West in every note of its swinging rhythm. Various Wild West effects add color to its rendition.

The Boston Commandery March, composed by T. M. Carter is another snappy march—an old timer — introducing "Onward Christian Soldiers," in capital martial time. This selection is a standard one and is yet tremendously popular.

In the sentimental vein, there is a a beautiful old time ballad which has been revived and which will be much sung next month. The title is "Say Au Revoir But Not Good Bye," written by Harry Kennedy, which seems destined to live forever in the hearts of the sentimental. It is a song that never fails to please, wherever performed. Will Oakland has featured this ballad in a manner that goes straight to the heart. In somewhat the same strain is a very pretty little song entitled "I Long to See The Girl I Left Behind," the composer being James Thornton.

Another favorite which has caught on is the "Texas Tommy Swing," featured by Harris Brown. The rhythm of the Grizzly Bear, the inspiration for the Loving Hug, and the abandon of the Turkey Trot all blend in the harmony of the Texas Tommy Swing. With an orchestra accompaniment it certainly is a rattling good composition.

A clever vaudeville skit called "Seated Around An Old Stove" is an inimitable piece of originality and wit. Great popularity is prophesied for this, during the summer months.

A "Rube" song which has sprung into instant favor is the "Missouri Houn' song, entitled "They gotta Quit Kickin' My Dawg Aroun.'' This is a song that has gained national prominence during the last few months. Its sudden popularity is due to its adoption by the Champ Clarke cohorts as a presidential slogan. The remarkable features of the song are the ridiculous words and the peculiar droning manner in which they are sung. Byron G. Harlan has caught the spirit of the song capitally and renders it in the approved Missouri fashion.

A new Indian song is also in the limelight, composed by Percy Wenrich, who won undying fame in his presentation of Silver Bell. This new Indian song is entitled "Golden Deer,' and is much similar in style to his earlier triumph and easily its equal in popular favor.

Irving Berlin has again broken out with a rag which is all the rage at the present time. In "Every Body's Doing It Now," he has scored probably the greatest success of his life. It has immediately jumped into line with his other great hits. As a dance number it cannot be beaten and it promises to reach a venerable age.

In the classic field the "Gypsy Love Song," taken from Victor Herbert's great success, "The Fortune Teller,' can easily be classed amongst the musial gems of the season. In the operatic realm "Mignon," from "Never the Maiden Dreamed," sung by Chas. Harrison is meeting with a most gratifying reception again. "Mignon," the most melodious opera ever produced, was written by Ambrose Thomas, and was first perofrmed at the Opera Comique, in Paris. 1866.

Tonic For White Hair.

Pour a half pint of boiling water over a tablespoonful of powdered castile soap. Add a pinch of borax, the beaten whites of two eggs and a teaspoonful of listerine.

Only lukewarm water should be used on white hair and no heat used in the drying process. Curling irons should never touch such hair, as the extreme heat will cause it to break and fall off, leaving it in a ragged, uneven condition. In rinsing white hair always use the coolest water possible, and to the last water add a little dissolved ultramarine blue.

English Amazons Now.

For the first time in England men and women are soldiering together on equal terms. The second London division of the Territorial army's Supply Corps camped for Easter training at Radlett, in Herts. Attached to it is a company, 30 strong, of the Women's Sick and Wounded Convoy Corps. The women erected their own tents and dug out their own camp oven. At night they post sentries, who march their beats carrying torches. Reveille is sounded at six o'clock and the women must all turn out for parade. They are put through several drills during the day at double-quick time.

Fruitarian Tobacco.

A fruitarian variety of tobacco has made its appearance in a few London shops. Though it would be idle to suggest that there is a tobacco flavor about the "weed," it is at least pleasant to the taste, and if a correspondent who has tried it and diagnosed hops as one of the ingredients proves correct in his suspicion, this fact ought to commend it, prima facie, to a big section of the public. It comes from the continent, is extremely light and rather bulky, probably costs no more than 50 cents a pound, judging by the size of the packet offered for four cents.

ROSEDALE LOTS

Most citizens of Peterboro, are aware that Rosedale, of Toronto, is the High Class Residential District of that city. Where naught but blue blood is to be found, and where residence therein is a passport to high society. It was sub-divided and put on the market by a Scotch syndicate about 35 years ago, at 20.00 per front foot, and it is now selling from $75.00 to $250.00 per foot. About the same time the high class citizens of Peterboro' determined to keep step with Toronto, quickly selected and sub-subdivided that beautiful block of land north of Smith Street, east of Jackson Park, west from Normal School, and Chemong Road. Having gone so far, they wearied of well-doing, leaving the task of putting on the market to your humble servant, in the late afternoon of life, and because of that lateness, and of the superior High Class Property, I am offering at a fraction of it's value five years hence. I most respectfully solicit your early investigation, believing that when you see the property, hear my price and terms, you will be pleased to accept at once.

Bear in mind I only own 38 lots in what I have properly named "The Heart of Rosedale", and you or your descendants will buy that property soon, or later at 5 or 10 times my price. Is it not in your interest to buy now, and use or sell later at big profits as many others have done? It is always safe to buy wheat or gold dollars, when they are offered at half value, and that is what you are doing when you buy lot in "The Heart of Rosedale."

Unavoidable delay compels me to name June 5th, as the opening day for sale of those lots. In the mean time, I suggest that every auto owner in the city, in his own interests, not only to go himself, but to take all his big friends with him, to carefully inspect and fully verify my statements.

Plans, and further information will be available in a few days.

$300 FOR CELEBRATION OF DOMINION DAY HERE

For the purpose of obtaining a grant of $300 from the City Council, to go towards a celebration in the city on July 1st, a deputation from the Canadian Club, the 57th Regiment, and the Board of Trade waited upon the Finance Committee yesterday afternoon.

The Committee thought that such a demonstration was a good innovation and felt justified in granting the request.

Mayor Bradburn and Chairman Anderson were appointed to represent the city in the expenditure of the money.

A disputed account with the Peterborough Light and Power Company amounting to $35.66, was held up by the committee until investigated by the chairman of the Board of Works. The bill is for power supplied to the "white elephant" at the pumping station.

"HECK" ELLIS IS AGAIN COMMITTED FOR TRIAL; TO BE HEARD NEXT FALL

The official preliminary hearing of the Ellis case came up yesterday at the Court House before County Police Magistrate F. D. Moore. The evidence was obtained through the direction of County Crown Attorney A. P. Devlin, Mr. T. E. Stinson, of McLaughlin, Peel, Fulton & Stinson, but principally Inspector Reburn, who in his evidence stated that Ellis' first confession made to him before being placed under arrest, was that the deed was done deliberately and because of Porter's treatment of Ellis' sister who is his wife.

The first evidence taken was that of Mr. Porter, Sr., father of the deceased, who stated as follows:

"My son, Louis D. Porter, bought hay from me and was down on Sunday and said he would help me cut some wood as soon as everything was all right at home. He came down on Tuesday. We came home to tea about six and left our place about sundown. When I was outside he took my gun, which is the one you are showing me. I caught a ballard but some a Remington I don't know what it is. It shoots a 44 ball, but I am not sure that the shell you have is one.

Louis told the little girl my grandchild, that he would be back on Thursday. He did not come, so we went to look for him on Saturday as Friday was bad weather, and found him on Sunday near the Cameron road (while searching with Chester Kellett and others. The body was left until Coroner Pogue and Constable Welch arrived.

The man who is charged with the crime is married to my daughter who died four years ago. I am not on friendly terms with Ellis. I saw Ellis before he was arrested at his home, and near the scene of the murder, while with a couple of reporters. Ellis had said to me "Suppose we look for the gun."

Mrs. Tripp, who was Miss Anne Jane Porter Locklin, in Snowden township. Had seen the prisoner at his own home and he would not go as he said he had chores to do and had to go to Minden the next day. He was afraid they might think that he did it, but I said I went down on Inspector Reburn's instructions. Some years ago Ellis had said that he would think no more of pulling a gun on Lew Porter than he would a dog. This was over a chain stolen.

Jas. Wesley Hounsell of Lutterworth, lived near the prisoner about two miles distant. I saw the prisoner at his place about six o'clock and gave him his mail. I saw the school inspector coming, and as a trustee I talked to him. About dark I saw the prisoner again, at my place. He came to the door and called me out and said, "I am in trouble; will you help me out?" He said, "I shot Lew Porter, but of course it was in self defence. He shot at me first." He had met Porter at the swamp, and asked if he had seen any cattle. Porter said, "Is it cattle you are looking for? I thought it was me," and shot at me, but I (Ellis) dodged behind some balsams.

Mr. Hounsell said Ellis was going to give himself up, and he said it was the right thing to do. Later he (Ellis) said he would not give himself up. I saw him again on Sunday evening when he wanted me to go over to his father's on Monday. I told him I would not go as I did not want to be drawn into it by having him hanging around.

The witness became so much involved in his story that it was difficult to get the trend of events.

Chester Kellett said he had searched the one day and had found the body Sunday. He described finding the blood and later discerned the body lying on its left side in a hollow some distance from the road. Ellis stopped when on the way to look for his cattle and talked some time.

Dr. White of Kinmount described the body, how it was stained with blood and mud, but there were no marks of violence, except the three bullet wounds. The course of the bullets was explained minutely by the doctor. The bullets were exhibited, being over an inch in diameter in their flattened state.

Chas Woods lives about 5 miles by road from Ellis' place. I heard five shots when going from my place to another's, at just about half past seven or eight. I heard two shots closely together (one minute apart) and had met the accused, but had The last three were pretty quick.

John Hulbig had searched on Sunday and went to Mr. Porter, sr.'s home and came to the blood on the road. Soon we heard yelling, and went and saw Porter's body where Kellett was, who had done the calling.

Mrs Porter, wife of Louis D., saw Mr. Porter, sr., the Sunday after the shooting. He said he had heard a shot on the right hand side.

Constable Welch, of Minden, told of going to the body on Sunday and the circumstances. He had a rig with him to take it to the court house, and then a pause of three minutes, not talked with him. Later he and Inspector Reburn had gone to Ellis' house. The Inspector had obtained a confession in half an hour and he (Welch) had placed him under arrest. Ellis made then a statement how he had killed Porter, saying how he had met him in a swamp and had been shot at. And then how Porter shot again later and he (Ellis) had killed him. The scene of the tragedy had been visited and the details given.

Ellis' gun was exhibited at this juncture and the message to his father also. The shell that was extracted from Porter's gun was shown.

Henry Reburn, Inspector, who has carried on the whole case in such a skillful and satisfactory manner, went into the box and gave evidence that clearly contradicted the self-defence plea of Ellis. This is the gist of the story the shrewd inspector told, that when he arrived on the scene he looked over the ground, and then went to Ellis' house with Constable Welch. There he found "Heck" working, and so he asked to see him inside the house, Constable Welch being outside.

Mr. Reburn told that as his house was right near the tragedy it was certain he must have heard shots. At first Ellis denied everything but finally said he had done the deed. He had seen Porter walking past his house and had followed behind and hidden in a tree. When Porter returned Ellis shot him three times and killed him. He did because he had blamed Porter for the death of his sister (Mrs. Porter) through ill-treatment. Then Reuburn took Ellis outside and Constable Welch arrested him.

The case then closed until some time in the fall.

PRESENTATION BY POLICE FORCE TO P.C. KIDD

Prior to his departure for Brampton, to fill the office of Chief Constable, Police Constable Alexander Kidd, became a bendict this morning his bride being Miss Elizabeth Todd, of Perth, Scotland. The ceremony was performed at seven o'clock by Rev. Robert Pogue in St. Paul's Manse, and was in every sense a pretty June wedding. The bride and groom were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. John Mebarry, who officiated as bridesmad and best man.

Immediately following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Kidd entrained on the 7.47 C. P. R., for their future home in Brampton.

The local police staff, showed their regret at Mr. Kidd's leaving, by presenting him with a handsome Morris rocker, beautifully upholstered. The gift was sent on to Brampton last evening.

P. C. Kidd was a capable officer in every respect, and his departure while weakening the local staff to some extent will be a decided acquisition to the town of Brampton.

The heartiest wishes of his many friends in Peterborough follow him and his bride to their new home,

ANOTHER BIG CROWD AT THE FAIR

Baby Show the Big Attraction This Afternoon.

The popularity of the Peterborough Summer Fair, continues to grow and last night another large crowd visited the armories. Several new features were added to the Historical March, one of these being the introduction of a real live son of Italy, who occupied space on the "Peanut" cart.

He was a handsome lad and appeared to take keen enjoyment out of his role.

The Conservatory Orchestra, under the leadership of Mr. Glddon, was heard again, and the clever musicians added much to the success of the evening. Miss Mary G. Chalmers' beautiful voice could be heard throughout the armories.

There is sure to be great interest in the Baby Show which commences at three o'clock this afternoon. The Fair will be open to the public tonight and also on Monday.

DIXON PLEADS GUILTY; SENTENCE WAS DEFERRED

Hamilton, June 1.—William Dixon, Peterborough young man who left his wife and two children in the lift lock city and came to this city and later left for Detroit, after alluring Florence Gee into following him, pleaded guilty yesterday at Detroit to the charge of violating the white slave law. He appeared before United States Judge Angell. He will be sentenced later. The maximum penalty for this offence is a fine of $5,000 and five years' imprisonment.

Florence Gee, the young girl he decoyed away, first met him when he boarded at her home. Later, when he was ordered from the house by her brother, he influenced her into meeting him. He left the city about two months ago, and about a week later Miss Gee followed him.

FACTORY GIRL GIVES UP

Too Sick to Work—Doctor Advised Operation. Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y.—"I run a sewing machine in a large factory and got all run down. I had to give up work for I could not stand the pains in my back. The doctor said I needed an operation for female trouble but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound helped me more than the doctors did. I hope that every one who is suffering will get the Compound. My pains, nervousness and backache are gone and I have gained five pounds. I owe my thanks to your medicine for it is the working girls friend, and all women who suffer should write to you for special advice."—Miss TILLIE PLENZIG, 3 Jay St., Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

When a remedy has lived for over thirty years, steadily growing in popularity and influence, and thousands upon thousands of women declare they owe their very lives to it, is it not reasonable to believe that it is an article of great merit?

We challenge anyone to show any other one remedy for a special class of disease which has attained such an enormous demand and maintained it for so many years as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

SANITARY AND HEATING ENGINEER

The following letter has been forwarded with the request that it be published:

Toronto May 25, 1912.

Gentlemen,—At the last annual meeting of the Canadian Society of Heating and Sanitary Engineers, the following resolution was unanimously carried:

Whereas,—We fully recognize that the public health and sanitary conditions of our country depends largely on the proper design and construction of sanitary fixtures and systems, whose engineering requirements demand the highest possible knowledge to maintain the present efficient sanitary standard reached through ages of practice and experience,

And whereas,—The installation of heating and ventilation systems also demands technical and engineering knowledge of a very high degree.

And whereas,—We are often called upon for advice by owners, architects, engineers and Boards of Health.

And whereas,—The term plumber implies a worker in lead, the use of which metal is rapidly passing out of use in sanitary systems, we therefore believe that the term Sanitary and Heating Engineer as applied to our calling describes it more accurately.

We therefore request that you publish this preamble in your much valued publication.

Yours very truly,
JOHN WATSON, Sec'y,
C. S. of S. & H. E.

Court Stanley, No. 7680, A. O.F., will meet at hall at 6 15 p m. Sunday, to parade to St. Andrew's church for divine worship. Queen Alexandra Circle meets at church. Visiting Foresters invited. F. Pratt, Chief Ranger.

RAIN PLAYED HAVOC WITH THE FARMERS

The loss to the farmers as a result of the heavy rains particularly during the past week will be very heavy.

Besides being held back in their outdoor work at this very important period of farm work the seeding has in a large number of cases, been rendered valueless.

Numerous farmers who came to the city to-day stated that they were afraid their potato crops would be greatly affected.

Did it ever occur to you that now is the future you longed for several years ago?

AN EASTER HOUSE PARTY

Some of the Guests Voted It a Great Success

By VIRGINIA LEILA WENTZ

The region of northern New Jersey is extremely beautiful. There are rolling hills, some of them approaching the dignity of mountains. There are splendid lakes, some of them closed in between the hills producing scenery to catch the eye of an artist.

There are country places that are veritable palaces, for many of the wealthiest and most fashionable New Yorkers have built them for their summer homes.

The most famous of all these localities is Tuxedo, where are gathered many whose ancestors were prominent when the state of New Jersey was a colony of King George III.

It was Easter week and Mrs. James Fenton was giving a little house party in one of these beautiful homes.

April was still weaving its birthday garments, spring's coronal of blossoms remained yet folded buds and song birds were not quite ready with their richest song.

But it promised to be a prodigal spring. In the woods the bloodroot and anemone were in bloom and the violets were peeping forth from their protecting leaves.

Now and then a cardinal or scarlet tanager would flash from the cedar trees. And in Mrs. Fenton's flower beds yellow daffodils, the white narcissus and blue hyacinths made sweet places.

Of course Mrs. James Fenton had gathered together all sorts of men, from the up to date man with a fad for motor science, talking grandiloquently of lubricators, radiators and pumps, gradometers, magnetos and odometers, to the rather old fashioned man with a fad for the camera boringly au fait on iris diaphragms and wide angle lenses, the telephote attachment and "hypo" and "solio" print.

Somewhere in between these two poles of contemplation came the ordinary, wholesome, every day man. Tom Ormsby, a handsome young widower, was one of them.

But although he was exceedingly nice to all his hostess' feminine guests, it could not be said that he was especially attentive to any one. At least not on the first day.

"Heigh oh!" yawned Miss Chase, in dressing robe and slippers as the maid brushed out the tawny lengths of her tresses that first night. "Well, tomorrow is another day. We'll see if we can't wake him up a bit tomorrow."

Miss Chase was a gay, enterprising beauty, all unused to the dull sensation of ineffective charms. And to her particular way of thinking Tom Ormsby seemed the only eligible man worth while in Mrs. Fenton's collection. He was a widower, but what of that? They always made the best husbands, did they not? So she said to herself, "Tomorrow."

However, when tomorrow came, so, also, did another guest. Miss Chase met her on the staircase as she was going up to her room after a little chat with her hostess. There was nothing unusually pretty about her, yet instinctively Miss Chase turned to look after the ascending figure.

"Who is she—your new guest?" she asked of Mrs. Fenton a little later.

"Molly Hargraves, a dear old school friend of mine, just back from the other side. You'll like her lots; everybody does." And Mrs. Fenton was off to attend to some of her numerous duties of hostess.

That afternoon while most of the guests were playing bridge Mrs. Fenton, Miss Chase, Miss Hargraves and Tom Ormsby strolled off for a little ramble through the woods.

"At the top of that slide of rock," said Ormsby to his hostess, pointing ahead, "there used to be a little colony of white violets. I'm going to look for them now."

He sprang up the slaty embankment.

"Just as they were long years ago," he exclaimed, fetching back a cluster in his hands. He divided the flowers between the women. As he handed them to Molly Hargraves Miss Chase heard him say:

"Do you remember the white violets in the myrtle bed by the old spring?"

An expression of tender remembrance flitted over the girl's face, but she answered with cold precision:

"That must have been long ago. And I have a poor memory."

"Humph!" ejaculated Miss Chase to herself, scenting a romance of bygone days. "And who would have suspected it?"

A heavy rain came on that night and was the beginning of a two days' deluge. It was hard on the house party. That dreadful gulf between luncheon and 5 o'clock may become impossible even to fascinating bridge. There were many who yawned.

Although it had been Mrs. Fenton's express purpose to bring Ormsby and Molly together, never once had she received the gratification of finding them alone. And Miss Chase watched in vain for the progress of her romance.

On the second day of the rain Molly was lying in a great cane chair reading, half screened by palms, out on the empty side porch. The dampness didn't take her hair out of curl, and she liked it. Mrs. Fenton happened to spy her and, like the kindly little woman that she was, gave Ormsby the hint.

Molly smiled rather enigmatically as he approached and gave expression to an easy commonplace or two, then her eyes dropped a moment to the open book on her knees. It was a volume of Bliss Carman's poems.

"Rather pretty, don't you think?" she murmured, handing him the volume and indicating the poem beginning:

> Make me over, Mother April,
> When the sap begins to stir—

She could think of nothing else to say, her heart was thumping so. And silence might lead to melodrama, a thing above all others that she hated.

"Look here," Ormsby said, closing the book gently, "this is the very first chance I've had, Molly, and there are some things I've been waiting to say to you for eight years."

There was a pitiful curve to the girl's lips, but her eyes smiled mockingly.

"Indeed?" said she.

"Ah, don't let us fence, little woman." The man's voice was almost a cry. "Life is so short that once in awhile surely we can afford to be blunt"—

"Can we?" broke in the girl. "I believe we can." Her soft eyes suddenly looked like a purple black cloud that has in its heart the forked lightning. "Well, then, before you tell me anything let me speak. Eight years ago I was more of a child than a woman, and I broke our engagement, Tom, because"—she moistened her dry lips—"somehow there had stolen in upon me the childish fancy that you had engaged yourself to me simply because you knew I loved you so"—

"Ah," broke in Ormsby hotly, "that was only an unreasonable sensitiveness that came between us, love. Now that you are a woman, you must surely know better."

"Yes," she answered simply; "I do. But when I received your wild, incoherent note a week after we'd separated, when you told me you'd married your cousin—well, all the sun seemed to have been stolen from the day and the moon and the stars from the night. That's all. Now, because it was my fault in the first place, I've done my duty. I've made my confession. Of course I was too proud to grieve long for another woman's husband, so at present you owe me no debt."

There was an icy hauteur in her voice which the trembling of her lips belied.

"I was true to her, dear, while she lived—indeed, at least," said the man reverently.

Tom Ormsby had a generous heart, and he never thought of his poor wife without a feeling of remorse for ever having felt harshly about the bonds that bound them. "But she's been dead now for nearly two years, and you've been traveling in Europe with your aunt for nearly three and"—

"We only arrived the week before Easter," said Molly casually, and then, changing her tone, "There is a child, is there not, Tom?"

"There is a little girl, and we call her Mollie."

He could say no more for a second. Then he crossed to Miss Hargraves' side, put his hand beneath her chin and lifted the oval face till her eyes looked into his.

"Sweetheart," he added huskily, "I would like nothing better on earth than to give her to you. But you'd have to take me too. Could you? Would you?"

Ah, the old mesmeric entreaty of his voice! She longed to throw herself into his dear, big arms and tell him that never, never once in all these years, though she had fought hard against it, had she forgotten him, that nowhere else in the whole world but with him could happiness be found.

He was wrapping her around with the old, old spell.

She made an effort to get out of her silence, but she found herself rooted to the spot as one is sometimes in dreams. A tide of rich, young blood surged over the delicate face and made the man's heart throb with inexplicable joy.

"Would you, dear?" he pleaded again, bending slightly over her.

Molly did speak finally, rising calmly and reaching for the book. And she said a wonderfully clever thing. Considering the fact that Miss Chase was at that moment curiously strolling out to the side porch, both the remark and the action were apropos:

"I know you'll like Carman's poem, and if the sun comes out tomorrow I'll read it to you down by that little colony of white violets."

The next day the sun came out.

"AH! DON'T LET US FENCE, LITTLE WOMAN."

Oft Forgotten Courtesies.

Many men no longer consider it necessary to rise when a lady enters the room. If they proffer a chair it is seldom done with the old time alacrity, and a few trips on a city car will be sufficient to convince the veriest skeptic of the truth of courtesy's decadence.

Be it said in favor of man, continually on the rack regarding these omissions, that he is by no means the greatest offender. Women who entertain will tell you of the scores of invitations to which they have never even received the courtesy of an acknowledgment. "R. S. V. P." at the end of a card or note means nothing to women too thoughtless or too ill bred to take five minutes for a reply. Such treatment of a social courtesy is an offense garish enough to cause the offender's name to be struck from the social list of the hostess.

GOOD HEALTH FOR YOUNG GIRLS

They Need the New Blood Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Actually Make.

Perhaps you have noticed that your daughter in her "teens" has developed a fitful temper, is restless and excitable. That she complains of weakness and depression; feels tired out after a little exertion, appetite variable complains of headaches and is growing pale. In that case remember that the march of time is leading her on to womanhood, and that at this period a great responsibility rest upon mothers. These are symptoms of anaemia—that is bloodlessness, and no time should be lost in increasing and enriching the blood supply. Unhealthy girlhood almost always leads to unhealthy womanhood. All young girls in their teens need the help of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which enrich and increase the blood supply, and give sickly drooping girls the brightness and charm of perfect health. In proof of this Miss Zola Gordier, Morrisburg, Ont., says—"I was pale and bloodless and suffered from many of the symptoms of anaemia. I would tire easily and suffered from frequent headaches. My appetite was poor and I was very pale and easily discouraged. The medicine I was taking did not seem to help me, and then one day I read the story of a young girl who suffered similarly and was cured through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I got three boxes of the pills and started to take them. Before they were done I began to feel better and look better. Then I got half a dozen more boxes, and before they were all used, I was enjoying the best of health, and have continued to do so since. My young brother was troubled with rheumatism, and they completely cured him."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all medicine dealers or can be had by mail at 50c. a box or six boxes for $2.50 from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

For Breakfast.

The simple dishes following will be found wholesome, nourishing and economical and an appetizing change from the stereotyped porridge, eggs and bacon, etc., for breakfast.

Oatmeal With Dates.—To each cupful of uncooked oatmeal add one cupful of dates, washed, with the stones removed and cut small. Cook in the usual way in a double saucepan and serve with milk without sugar, as the dates are sweet enough.

Kidney Fritters.—Take the requisite number of sheep's kidneys, half a pint of frying batter, seasoning and frying fat. Skin and cut each kidney in half. Take the frying batter and stir into it one teaspoonful each of minced parsley and shallot, a dusting of red pepper and a small pinch of powdered sweet herbs. Dip each half kidney in this mixture, then drop carefully into a pan of boiling fat, doing only a few at a time. When light golden brown in color, take out the fritters, drain carefully and serve as quickly as possible, garnished with parsley on a hot dish.

Scotch Scones.—Half a pound of flour, one level teaspoonful of cream of tartar, half a level teaspoonful of carbonate of soda, one ounce and a half of butter, one teaspoonful of sugar, a quarter of a pint of milk. Mix the flour, cream of tartar and carbonate of soda and sift them together; rub the butter into the flour, add the sugar and mix to a paste with the milk. Roll out and cut with a small round cutter or make a large round scone and cut into four sections. Bake in a good oven for about twenty minutes. The real Scotch scones are baked on a sort of griddle, and some housekeepers have been known to cook them on a well floured frying pan.

Compote of Rhubarb.—The early rhubarb is best for compotes and forms a most wholesome breakfast dish. Cut the sticks into two inch lengths and carefully wipe them. Make a sirup with cochineal and flavor with lemon peel. When boiling put in the rhubarb and simmer very slowly till tender. Remove the fruit, reduce the sirup and pour over the fruit. This should be made the previous day and served cold.

Women Do the Work In City of Froissy

In the little city of Froissy, sixty miles north of Paris, there is not a municipal job worth having that a woman doesn't occupy, from mayor down to "Mother" Lafarge, who tends the gate at the main street railway crossing. The conductor on the local train is a woman, Mlle. Duroc. The letter carrier is a woman, Mme. Daubois. The town crier is an old lady named Mme. Deuson, and the chief of police is a woman. The men are engaged in farming and fruit raising and leave municipal offices to spinsters and old women.

UNDER LOCK AND KEY.

But the Object of This English Prison Is to Reclaim, Not to Punish.

There is now in the course of construction on a breezy hill top near Newport, Isle of Wight, a prison which will be really more like a pleasantly situated and richly managed hotel than a penitentiary. The queer thing about this prison will be this—its occupants will be men who have finished their sentences and who, it would seem, had every right to go forth into the world as free men. In plain English, Camp Hill—that's what it will be called—is to be known as an institution of "preventive detention" and there will be carried into effect what one authority offers as the best solution of the case of the habitual criminal—"the indeterminate sentence which will detain veterans in custody till they prove fit for law-abiding lives." No one will be sent there for committing any specific crime. Every inmate must have been convicted at least four times. The system will work thus: Bill Sikes, indicted for burglary, will also be charged with being an habitual criminal. If he is convicted of the burglary the jury will then proceed to consider whether he has made a habit of crime. Let us assume they decide that he has. Then the judge passes sentence.

"Bill Sikes," he says, "for burglary I order you to be kept in penal servitude for three years. After that you will remain under preventive detention for five years longer." If Sikes had a particularly bad record his term of detention could be made ten years. That is the longest sentence of this kind that can be passed; the shortest is five. The kind of treatment the "detentioners" will get depends to a great extent upon themselves.

In each cell at Camp Hill there will be a big window of clear glass which can be opened and shut at will, instead of a small sheet of opaque glass placed high up in the wall and not made to open and shut at all. This is an immense boon. It largely takes away the "prison feeling." The cells are a little smaller than usual, but quite large enough, with pleasant, red-tiled floors. The occupant will be allowed plenty of books and can put up, if he likes, photographs or little pictures on the walls.

Still less prison-like than the cells are the refectories and the canteen. Hitherto it has never been thought wise to let prisoners assemble or talk freely. But at Camp Hill those who win a certain number of good conduct stripes will be allowed to have their meals together in large, light, airy rooms with wood-block floors and pleasant decorations. In the evenings they can sit here, too, play games, chat and look at magazines. Some d... it is posible the best behaved may be permitted an occasional pipe. The whole idea is to induce them to behave themselves.

At the canteen they can buy with "Camp Hill currency," which they will receive for the work they do (including work in market gardens of their own), small luxuries such as sardines, biscuits and potted meat. They can also send money to their families or friends or they can save it up against their hour of freedom. Visits are to be paid in a far more agreeable fashion than prevails at other prisons. In a comfortable room the prisoner and his friend can sit and talk at a table. A warder will be present, but visitor and inmate will not be compelled to stand several feet apart.

"The danger seemed to me, as I went through the partly completed structure," says a Londoner, "that the thing might be only too successful. Provision is made for periodical examination of the prisoners' records and for the release of those who seem to have really turned over a new leaf. But would they want to be released? And, if released, would they not soon begin to think wistfully of their 'sheltered life' on that healthy hill top with its glorious views over downland and deep vale?

"But just at that moment, as those questions were running through my head, we passed through a heavy, locked gate and were saluted by a warder with a loaded rifle. That is what will save Camp Hill from becoming an 'hotel.' It will, in spite of its differences, be a prison all the time."

SUFFERED FROM VIOLENT CATHARTICS

The Warning of Mr. Geo. C. Fox Is One That Should Be Heeded by All.

Few men on the road are better known than genial George Fox, whose friends throughout the West are legion In the following letter he expresses gratitude for signal services rendered by Dr. Hamilton's Pills. He goes on to say: "Until I used Dr. Hamilton's Pills and experienced their wonderful mildness and curative power, I estimated the value of every pill by its activity. Talking about this to a well-known physician I met on the train the other day, he explained there are different kinds of drugs that act upon the bowels, the most active being known as drastic. Except in extreme cases where the life of the patient depends upon speedy evacuation of the bowels, pills should never be drastic. Purgatives cause catarrh of the bowels and inflammation; their dose must be increased, causing even more harm. With such a clear explanation I could see why Dr. Hamilton's Pills are curative and not irritating, why they are mild, yet most searching.

"From my experience I recommend everyone that takes pills to give up the old-fashioned harsh, purging pill, and, instead, to use Dr. Hamilton's. They cure headache, billiousness, constipation, bad stomach, and keep the system in perfect condition."

Dr. Hamilton's Pills Cure Constipation

Irishmen Barred.

The reception given recently to the Irish students at Gray's Inn recalls a time when Irishmen were not so welcome at the Inns of Court. One of the earliest entries in the Bench Books of Lincoln's Inn is, says "The Law Journal," an order, dated 1437, "that no person born in Ireland should in future be admitted as a Fellow of the Society of 'Lyncollysyn'; and if anyone born there shall hereafter be admitted by any person or persons, he shall be expelled, such admission notwithstanding." The rule seems to have been in force in the four Inns, but appears to have been relaxed after a time by allowing special admissions. Lincoln's Inn permitted the admission of a limited number of Irishmen, but in the middle of the 16th century required that all Irish students should have chambers in one building, known as the "Dovecote." So late as the 18th century some disability attached to Irishmen. The fine on admission to the Middle Temple was £5, while other members paid only £4.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years, was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucuous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

Arrangements For a Card Party.

A hostess should always provide some prizes for a card party and thus show her guests that she does not expect them to play for money. To invite people to your house and then oblige them to do something of which they greatly disapprove is an unpardonable offense against good manners as well as good morals. It also shows a cruel lack of consideration for the young men who cannot afford to lose money. A girl can often escape by making some excuse, but for a man, who is supposed to be independent in money matters, this is more difficult. As gambling debts are very properly not recognized by the law and are therefore held to be debts of honor, a poor young man who is forced by a cruel or thoughtless hostess to incur such a liability is placed in a most unpleasant predicament.

Some excellent people think there is no harm in playing for small stakes—2 or 5 cents a point. But, whatever the personal views of the hostess at a card party, if she is a woman of good breeding she always arranges some tables for those who prefer not to play for money.

Since expensive prizes create envy and bad feeling it is better to select pretty trifles that please by their novelty, beauty or oddity rather than by their money value. The exact cost of these gifts will vary somewhat in accordance with the means of the giver and her friends. It would be in bad taste for the wife of a man living on a small salary to offer a prize that might be given without impropriety by the wife of a millionaire to her rich associates. Our circle of acquaintances usually know more accurately than we suppose the amount of our income and criticise any display of extravagance. The well bred hostess tries to avoid the two extremes of meanness and ostentation.

It is now thought best not to show the prizes until the end of the evening, and the consolation prizes are awarded by lot rather than to the poorest players.

It is important to have the seats of the right height so that the guests may be comfortable. Dining room chairs are better for the purpose than those usually found in a drawing room, the latter being too low and often too cumbrous. Light gilt chairs and card tables may be hired. If ordinary small tables are used they should be covered with a cloth to prevent the cards from slipping.

The supper may consist of chicken salad, ices and sandwiches, with hot coffee or wine cup. It may be more or less elaborate, as the hostess chooses. For an informal occasion among friends chocolate and cake or claret punch and some nice biscuits are sufficient.

The hostess herself does not play at a regular card party unless it should be necessary to fill a vacancy. It would be awkward for a late comer on her arrival to find every one deeply absorbed in cards and no one free to welcome and talk to her.

Answering a Dinner Invitation.

One rule will help the reader to make very few mistakes when answering any kind of a written invitation. If this be sent to you in a formal way, the hostess and host speaking of themselves and their guest—or using the "third person" for all names—then the reply should be sent in a similar form. For instance, if you have received an invitation that reads:

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gray request the pleasure of your company at dinner on Thursday evening,
February the tenth,
at eight o'clock.
54 Chester Avenue.

Then your answer must be as follows:

14 East Avenue,
February 2, 1912.
Mr. and Mrs. Edward King accept with pleasure
Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gray's invitation to dinner on Thursday evening, February tenth,
at eight o'clock.

This is written by you on plain note paper in the form shown and addressed to the hostess.

If you cannot accept a declination should be sent in this form:

Mr. and Mrs. Edward King
regret that they are unable to accept
Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gray's invitation to dinner on Thursday evening, February tenth,
at eight o'clock.

TRAMPED 60 MILES TO SAVE HIS CHUM

LARDER LAKE, ONT., MARCH 26th, 1911.

"I am writing to tell you the good GIN PILLS did me. I had been suffering for some time with my Kidneys and Urine. I was constantly passing water which was very scanty, sometimes as many as thirty times a day. Each time, the pain was something awful and no rest at night. I began to feel worn out. I heard of your GIN PILLS and decided to give them a trial at once. I sent my chum out to get them (about 60 miles)—and I am pleased to inform you that in less than six hours, I felt relief. In two days, the pain had left me altogether. I took about half a box and to-day I feel as well as ever and my kidneys are acting quite natural again. Thanking you for the pills which I always intend to keep by me. Yours respectfully,

SID CASTLEMAN.

WELCOME RELIEF.

We have never received a letter that pleased us more than this one. DYNAMITE EXPLOSION KILLS EIGHT ON NEW C.N.R. LINE

Foreman Northup, Aged 35, and Seven Roumanian Laborers Are Buried Under a Great Mass of Earth When Heavy Charge of Black Powder Goes Off Prematurely—Six Others Are Seriously Injured.

Kingston, June 3.—Eight men killed and six men in the General Hospital badly injured is the terrible toll of an accident which occurred in a construction camp for the Canadian Northern Railway, six miles east of Stone's Corners, Perth Road, twenty-five miles from Kingston, at 4.45 o'clock on Saturday afternoon.

The men were working in a rock cut and met death as the result of a premature explosion of black powder used to blast the rock. Of the eight killed, all were Roumanians with the exception of Prescott, Northup, aged 35, walking boss for the two miles of road in the vicinity.

Northup was engaged in setting off the blast and his body was blown to pieces. His home was in New Brunswick. All that was found of his remains was one hand with his working glove on it and parts of his clothing.

Eighteen men were working in the cut, which is on the farm of Walter Guthrie. They were loading a thirty-foot hole when the powder exploded before the time set for it through some cause at present unknown. Dr. D. M. Mundell, coroner, will open an inquest at the scene of the accident to-day.

When the blast went off it is stated that of the eighteen men only two escaped being killed or seriously injured. A massive pile of earth, estimated to be from 300 to 400 cubic yards, was thrown into the cut, burying the men and causing instant death to all but one of the eight men killed. One was just alive when pulled out and lived only fifteen minutes. Seven of the bodies had been recovered Saturday night.

The man who assisted Northup in loading the hole, a Roumanian, also met death. His body was found a quarter of a mile away from the scene. It had been driven against a rock and battered almost beyond recognition.

As soon as the alarm was given a large number of men in the next camp, a short distance away, came to the rescue, together with Walter Guthrie and his son, H. T. Guthrie, and the work of getting the bodies out was commenced.

The six men in the general hospital are in very bad shape, some with arms and legs broken as well as internal injuries. Some of them will likely die. They were driven into the city yesterday afternoon, arriving at three o'clock, after a drive of twenty-five miles, there being no train accommodation yesterday. The men spent six hours in a light wagon.

A horse used on one of the dump carts in the cut was killed and another escaped. A workman named McLaren, engaged as a teamster, escaped.

MEN LET THE BOY DROWN

London, June 3.—Norman Cockrill, eight-year-old son of Thomas Cockrill, was drowned in a little over four feet of water in the Thames, near Dexter's mill, Saturday afternoon about three o'clock.

It is said that four men stood by and listened to the little fellow's cries for help without offering to go to his assistance. The lad, with three companions, was playing at shipwreck, and was riding down the river on an old punt when he fell off. The body was recovered half an hour later.

Conservation Leaders to Speak.

Peterboro, June 3.—Hon. Clifford Sifton and Rev. Dean Fernow, Toronto, will address a public meeting in Peterboro, on Friday evening, June 14, under the auspices of the Central Ontario Conservation Association.

It is likely that a large number of delegates from the Trent district will be present.

LADY ROBBED WHILE PRAYING

St. Catharines, June 3.—Mrs. M. J. McCarron was robbed Saturday night of her silver chain purse containing about $15 while praying in the Roman Catholic Church. Children who were in church at the time saw a stranger acting in a peculiar manner near the pew, where the purse was left. The matter was reported to the police.

Queen Wilhelmina at Paris.

Paris, June 3.—Queen Wilhelmina of the Netherlands, and the Prince Consort arrived here Saturday afternoon for a three days' official visit. They were greeted by a great crowd at the railroad station and were cheered as they drove through lines of troops to the Foreign Office, where they will stay.

Big Publishing Deal.

Toronto, June 3.—One of the largest book and publishing transactions of recent years was put through on Saturday, when the Macmillan Publishing Co. of Canada, Limited, purchased the publishing rights and existing books of the Morang Educational Co. The price paid was not divulged, but a very large amount of money changed hands in the deal. Mr. Saull, who has been with the Morang Educational Co. for a long time, will be retained as editor of the educational books. It is understood that the Morang company will control the publication of the University Magazine and the Canadian Medical Journal, and several similar periodicals.

CHURCH MEMBERS CHARGED WITH ACCEPTING BRIBES

Kingston, June 3.—At the morning's session of the Montreal Methodist Conference, Rev. Dr. T. E. Shore, foreign missionary secretary, stated that he had heard laymen at this conference say that they had men on their official church boards who participated unblushingly in bribery in election. An usher in a church had been dismissed at the request of the speaker, as it was found that he had been engaged in the work of deporting girls from the Canadian to the American side.

He appealed to the members to save the girls. "We are responsible for the daughters of our congregation," he said.

Rev. J. W. Aikens appealed for more work along social and moral reform lines. Touching on the purity question, the speaker gave "Toronto the Good" a rap on the knuckles, when the health officer stated he found as many as 97 people in one house. "Just like pigs," he said. "God does not believe in having some men live in palaces and others in slums." He severely criticized the man who voted to keep open the bar on week days and sang "Rescue the Perishing" in the church on Sunday.

C.?.wans Looking Proud.

Ottawa, June 3.—A notable event for the capital on Saturday was the informal opening of the new Grand Trunk Railway hotel, the Chateau Laurier, and the new depot, each of which cost $1,500,000. Many local celebrities and outside newspapermen were at the opening, and a press dinner was given at the hotel Saturday night.

Langlois Again on Warpath.

Montreal, June 3.—The interdicted members of the French-Canadian citizens of the State of Maine who are in conflict with Cardinal O'Connell, have been refused admission to the coming congress of the French language which will soon open in the city of Quebec.

G. Langlois, M.P.P., in his newspaper Saturday protests against what he calls this official intervention on the part of the congress authorities.

"If this congress for the propagation of the study of French is a national movement," says Le Pays, "every French group in the country should be represented, but if it is simply a religious gathering then they should have the courage to say so."

ROYALTY PARTY VISIT QUEBEC

Quebec, June 3.—His Royal Highness the Duke of Connaught, Governor-General of Canada; the duchess, Princess Patricia and the members of their household, arrived in Quebec last evening on board the steamer Lady Grey, and proceeded in automobiles at once to the vice-regal quarters on the citadel. In accordance with the duke's request, there was no official reception, but many people assembled along the streets to greet the royal party as they passed. The royal party greatly enjoyed their delightful trip down the St. Lawrence.

The Lieutenant-Governor will call upon the duke at the vice-regal quarters on the citadel to-day, and the duke and party will subsequently visit H. M. S. Cornwall.

Roosevelt Leaders Meet.

Oyster Bay, June 3.—The Roosevelt line of battle for the national convention was formed yesterday. At a "council of war" on the top of Sagamore Hill, which lasted mostly all day, there was mapped out a campaign which, it is hoped, will result in the capture of the convention.

The first step is to be organization of the Roosevelt forces throughout the country. It is planned to send to Chicago a week or so in advance of the convention an executive committee from every state in which Roosevelt delegates have been elected, or in which there is a contest. By this method it is expected to mobilize and drill an organization which will act as a unit on every matter which comes before the convention.

TWO AVIATORS MEET DEATH

North Yakima, Wash., June 3.—Aviator Phillip O. Parmalee was killed while attempting a flight in an aviation exhibition Saturday. A gust of wind caught the tail of his aeroplane and overturned the machine.

Parmalee had been up about three minutes on his first flight of the day and had traveled almost three miles from the fair grounds at a height of 400 feet when a gust of wind struck the machine. The biplane crashed to the ground, crushing the aviator beneath it. His skull was fractured and he must have died instantly.

Before he prepared for his last flight, Parmalee was urged to postpone the exhibition, at least until the wind quieted, but he laughed at the persistent and fatal misfortune that had dogged aviators for the last week and climbed to his seat.

Killed With Passenger.

Bremen, Germany, June 3.—Albert Bauchstaetter, one of the best known of German aviators, and his passenger, Lieut. Stille of the German army, were killed yesterday when their monoplane plunged to the ground just after starting on the northwest aviation circuit of 425 miles.

The monoplane, guided by Bauchstaetter, rose and was taking a curve preparatory to straightening out for the long journey when the accident occurred. Apparently the aviator overbanked his machine. The monoplane dropped so heavily that it was half buried in the earth and had to be sawn apart before the bodies of the two men could be extricated.

SENATOR SMITH QUESTIONS THE TITANIC CHIEF FIREMAN.

CAPTAIN H. J. HADDOCK. SENATOR WILLIAM A. SMITH AND REAR ADMIRAL RICHARD M. WATT.

Senator William Alden Smith, chairman of the Senate Committee investigating the loss of the White Star line steamship Titanic, came to New York without advance notice with the purpose of arriving just as the White Star steamship Olympic was about to leave. He said that he wished to interview Frederick Barrett, head fireman of the Titanic, who he knew was aboard the Olympic.

MILITIA AT NIAGARA PLAY PRANK WITH FIXED BAYONETS

During a Sham Fight the Grenadiers of Toronto Put Bayonets on Their Rifles and Charged Highlanders, But Happily No Harm Was Done—Officers Will Hold an Inquiry Into Action.

Niagara-on-the-Lake, June 3.—The Queen's Own and the Royal Grenadiers, constituting the attacking force, could have, but didn't, demolish the 48th Highlanders, the defenders, in a lively skirmish four miles from camp yesterday. Undoubtedly the most interesting feature of the sham fight was when the Grenadiers, on receiving the order to charge, fixed their bayonets, which was entirely against the militia regulations, and rushed upon a company of Highlanders, who were stationed on a hill. This was the first time in many manoeuvres that anything of the kind ever happened. Adjutant Pellatt of the attacking force severely reprimanded the red-coats for having fixed their bayonets. Who gave the order or how it happened to be given is an unanswered question. It is surmised that someone in the ranks attached a bayonet to his Ross rifle and the rest thought it was a good idea and followed suit. Of course no one was injured, the Grens stopping their charge at the right moment.

In all the five days of this camp there were only two manoeuvres, and they were rather tame affairs, according to men high up in the militia.

Rev. Mr. Morneret eulogized the character of the Canadian militia, but said he was shocked by the blasphemy used by a few of the soldiers in camp. Major Arthur Peuchen, who was not in uniform, was seen in the gathering.

Brantford's Railway Bylaw.

Brantford, June 3.—The City Council, at a special meeting here, put through a bylaw to purchase bonds of Lake Erie and Northern Railway Co., to the amount of $125,000. The ratepayers will vote on the bylaw June 24. Representative citizens interviewed, declared themselves unanimously in favor of the measure by which this city will secure a new line to Port Dover and Galt.

Following the vote in Brantford, the bylaw will be submitted in Port Dover parish, Simcoe and Galt, for the purchase of $25,000 worth of bonds by each municipality.

Apocryhal, Says Hon. Mr. White.

Toronto, June 3.—Referring to a recent item in The World, Hon. W. T. White said yesterday that Wesley was a good name, but he could not claim it.

"The first name of the member for Leeds has been William, and the election return was correct. The despatch from Ottawa to the contrary was apocryhal," he added.

Harriman to Testify.

Los Angeles, Cal., June 3.—Job Harriman and Lecompte Lavis, both of whom were associated with Clarence Darrow in the trial of the McNamara brothers, will be witnesses for the prosecution in the trial of Darrow for alleged jury bribing. Harriman was served with a subpoena Saturday after the testimony of Bert Franklin, former confidential agent for the McNamara defence attornies, had been given.

Attorney Frank Fowler, who was mentioned in Franklin's testimony Saturday as the man who was said by A. K. Kruger, a McNamara talesman, to have offered him a bribe, was present in court Saturday morning.

He asserted that he had never been connected with the McNamara defence and did not know McNamara personally.

GRAFT CASES IN ATLANTIC CITY

Atlantic City, N.J., June 3.—The names of three more councilmen, accused of taking bribes to pass Detective Wm. J. Burns' concrete boardwalk ordinance were made public yesterday by affidavits filed with Attorney-General Edmund Wilson, who has taken personal charge of the Atlantic City graft exposure cases.

The three are: George Carmany, councilman at large, chairman of the council and right hand man of Boss Louis Keuhnle; Harry J. Mullock and John Donnelly of the South Ward.

The name of a ninth councilman is to be revealed at the proper time and that will end the disclosures in the particular case planted by Burns and his men.

TO REFIT MALTA AS NAVAL BASE

Malta, June 3.—The conference to decide Great Britain's future policy in the Mediterranean, which began here May 29, was concluded on Saturday. Among those who participated were Premier Asquith, Winston Churchill, First Lord of the Admiralty; Viscoount Kitchener and Gen. Ian Hamilton. An official statement issued Saturday evening says:

"The lords and commissioners of the Admiralty, having concluded an inspection of the Mediterranean fleet and naval establishment at Malta, desire to express their satisfaction at the efficiency of the organization. It is their intention to make full use of the facilities of this important and complete naval base, the value of which to the British navy is of permanent character. They propose to assign such proportion of refitting and repairing work to the dockyard as will keep it in normal condition of activity, and capable at all times of attending to the needs in peace or war of any fleet cruising or operating in the Mediterranean. Submarines will play an increasingly important part in the defence of the island."

DR. WALLACE HEARD BY LARGE CONGREGATIONS

Large congregations at Murray street Baptist church yesterday heard Rev. Dr. Wallace, of Baltimore, Maryland. It was expected that something good would be heard and the expectations were realized at both the morning and evening services. Added enjoyment was given the services by the combined and solo work of the choir.

A TREMENDOUS RUSH

The first day of our selling out sale was a regular avalanche. Mr. Adams feels that he owes an apology to the hundreds of customers who were unable to be served as well and promptly as they should have been. Our staff will be doubled this week so that better service may be rendered.

T. H. ADAMS.

KILL THE CATERPILLARS

The detestable caterpillars have arrived in perfect swarms and people are everywhere up in arms in the effort to affect their extermination as quickly as possible.

Residents in the western part of the city on Sunday morning, were astonished at the large number of nests of the abhorent reptiles which had gained headway in the trees in front and around their homes. The battle was immediately commenced, the implements being used taking the form of sticks, torches, brooms soaked in coal oil, etc., or anything convenient.

Saved the Carriage.

In his "Reminiscences of an Irish Land Agent" the author, Sam Hussey, tells of one of the earliest private carriages used in Kerry: "The vehicle in question had just been purchased by a certain Miss Mullins, who regarded it on its arrival with almost sacred awe. A dance in the neighborhood seemed an appropriate opportunity for impressing the county with her newly-acquired grandeur; but, the night proving wet, she insisted on reverting to a former mode of progression and rode pillion behind her coachman. The result was that she caught a violent chill, which turned to pneumonia. When her relatives were assembled round her deathbed the old lady exclaimed between her last gasps for breath, 'Thank goodness, I never took out the carriage that wet night!'"

Forbidden Fruit.

A request was once made to the authorities of one of the colleges at Cambridge that room might be found on the spacious lawns of their garden for the lady students of Girton College to play lawn tennis. Guessing clearly enough what would be the result of the admission of these students of the fairer sex among the undergraduates the master replied that it was ordered in the statutes of the college that the gardens must be devoted to the purposes of floriculture and must not be used for husbandry.

PARENTS CHARGE THAT CHILD WAS MOST CRUELLY TREATED

QUEEN MARY

A truly British Queen by birth and training; a lover of home and children, but who finds time for public duties and private benefactions.

Teacher at Swansea, Ont., Is Accused by Pupils of Having Put Five-Year-Old Frances MacLean on a Chair and Tied Her Head Back So That She Could Not Move It—Had an Attack of Hysteria.

Toronto, June 3.—Because she was addicted to that childish weakness, inability to resist the temptation to talk, Frances MacLean, a little tot not yet six years of age, received very harsh treatment at the hands of her teacher, a woman instructor in the public school at Swansea on Thursday afternoon, according to charges made at the meeting of the school board on Friday night. The youngster's head was tied to the back of a chair and she was forced to remain in that position from before recess until school closed. When finally released, the child was hardly able to walk, as her nervous temperament had worked her into a fit of hysteria. Two hours after the cords were loosened, the deep red marks made by the strings could still be distinctly seen, and there was also a mark over the eyebrows which appeared to affect her sight for a time.

A little boy who witnessed the occurrence, gave a graphic description of the means employed by the teacher to inflict the punishment. With a piece of stout cord, something similar to that used to bind cooked meats, the teacher passed a loop under the girl's chin. This was knotted at the forehead and passed over the eyebrows to the back of the head, where another tie was made. The loose ends were then fastened to the back of the chair, so that the child could not move her head without causing pain to her face. So highly unstrung was the child as a result of her punishment, that when children started to let off their fireworks on Friday, she again became hysterical and had to be carried to the house.

According to the boy's account Francis was placed on the chair sometime before recess, which is called at about 2.30 o'clock. Here she remained until after 4, while some of the other pupils stood around the open door. A boy uncle of the girl, who also attends the school, was called by one of the pupils, but despite his efforts he could not untie the cords, one of which had worked over the girl's eyes, obstructing her vision.

At the meeting of the school board on Friday night J. MacLean, sr., and Mr. MacLean, jr., attended and called upon Principal W. H. Clipperton to give an explanation. The master stated that he knew nothing about the affair at the time it occurred, but Mr. MacLean told him plainly that if he had been attending to his duties and visited the room he would have seen the child fastened. The teacher sent a letter to the board, which was read, wherein she stated that the little girl had given trouble since last September. The father contended that he should have been notified if this was the case.

Mr. Clipperton demonstrated how the string was tied. Both Mr. MacLean, sr., and Mr. W. MacLean, jr., severely criticised the principal, while the board sat mute. In apologizing, Mr. Clipperton said that he was very sorry that the news had traveled so quickly.

HAZELTON CASE IS RE-OPENED

Ottawa, June 3.—At a meeting of the railway committee to be held to-morrow the Hazelton townsite case, which was referred back to the board by the Governor-General-in-council, will be reheard. This is the case arising out of the application of Robert Kelly and associate of Vancouver for an order approving of the location of a station on lot 882, Cassiar district, and restraining the G.T.P. from locating on lot 851.

The late Judge Mabee gave a judgment in favor of Kelly, and the Government decided to have the case reopened on the grounds that the evidence of several material witnesses had not been heard by the board.

Blocked Hotel Transfer.

Brantford, June 3.—Brantford license commissioners have blocked the sale of the Prince Edward Hotel here by Alex. Howarth to Charles Seely of Toronto. At a special meeting the commissioners refused to transfer the license, and, although the deal had been consummated some weeks ago, Howarth, by the board's action, was forced to retain possession. Charles Benwell, representing a local syndicate, received a license for Benwell Hotel.

Brakeman's Injuries Fatal.

Cornwall, June 3.—Ernest Dorion of Montreal, a brakeman on a G.T.R. freight train, died in the Hotel Dieu Hospital here Saturday as the result of an accident he met with at Lancaster station. Shunting was being done and Dorion had one of his feet caught in the point of the switch. The train backed upon him before he could free himself and both legs were almost severed close to the thigh. His body was also badly mangled.

WILL BE MISSED FROM ST. LUKE'S

Reference Made to the Death of Mrs. Hamilton.

At the service at St. Luke's church yesterday morning reference was made to the death of Mrs. Hamilton. The rector said in part: "Dureing the past week the members of the congregation of this church have sustained a great loss in the taking to her final rest of Mrs. Robert Hamilton.

"oFr many years Mrs. Hamilton was a devoted member of the church, a regular attendant often at the cost of much effort, a faithful communicant who loved to be present at the Lord's Supper, a generous giver of her temporal means. She loved St. Luke's church, and was always anxious to assist in the work by every means in her power.

"And now after a long and eventful life she has been called to her eternal rest. She died in the full faith of her Saviour, and may we not say of her that which the Saviour Himself spake in great commendation of another woman, 'She hath done what she could.'"

GARMENT WORKERS TALK STRIKE

Special to the Review.

Montreal, June 3.—The Montreal clothing manufacturers have replied to the strike threats of the local garment workers by posting notices threatening to prosecute anyone caught attempting to intimidate help and have decided to run an open shop. The Union will call strike Monday next if settlement is not reached before then.

Important Case Ends.

Ottawa, June 3.—In the Exchequer Court on Saturday argument was completed in the case of the Foss Lumber Co. of Winnipeg v. the Crown, and judgment was reserved.

The case, which arises out of the collection of duty to the amount of $77 on a shipment of lumber brought in from Seattle, is of far-reaching importance, because it is a reference to the Exchequer Court by the Dominion Government. If the case is decided against the Foss Lumber Co. it means that henceforth lumber planed on one side only, but sized to uniform proportions by being sawn on the edges will be subject to a duty of 25 per cent. There will undoubtedly be an appeal of the case to the Supreme Court.

CRUSH THE CATERPILLAR

The attention of your readers has been called repeatedly of late to the great danger of a caterpillar scourge, if preventive measures are not taken at once to kill off this pest.

The citizens are asked to kill as many as possible in their own neighborhood, and in this way lessen to some extent what will be a great evil if not stamped out.

Prevention is of vital importance—Crush the caterpillar—Do it now—Every nest means thousands—Let everyone help.

The Daily Review

MONDAY, JUNE 3, 1912.

GOD SAVE THE KING

King George the Fifth, who, to-day has reached the age of 47 and who has been on the throne since the death of his father a little over two years ago, has never made any secret of the fact that he would rather be an officer in the navy than King of England. It was for a naval officer he was trained, because he was never heir-apparent to the throne until the death of his elder brother, the Duke of Clarence, in 1892.

But King George has given evidence of his ability and his devotion to the interests of his people. Opportunity for the exhibition of these qualities was not lacking. It is not so long ago, that England was threatened with a constitutional crisis on account of what was practically a dealock between the Lords and the Commons, the veto power of the former being the chief point in dispute. As a way out of the difficulty, the Liberal Government proposed the creation of new peers, sufficient in numbers to ensure the endorsation by the upper house of any important measure passed by the popular branch of parliament. In this grave situation, the King gave the impression that he could be depended upon to safeguard the rights and the liberties of his subjects.

Those who would award him the highest standard of praise, are wont to say that he is just like his father, than whom no sovereign ever lived who cared more for the peace and happiness of his people. When the late King Edward succeeded his mother, the South African war was still draining England of treasure and human lives. To end that war was the first public duty of note with which he charged himself. His wise counsel prevailed and the struggle was brought to a close on terms which time has proved, were beneficial alike to the conquerors and the vanquished and the late sovereign realised his fondest hope which was to be officially crowned King, when his Empire was at peace with the world.

King George famed for his quiet ways and love of the domestic life, while an earnest and outspoken advocate of world-wide peace, yet believes in the keeping up of the British navy for the reason that in powerful means of national defence, the safety of the Empire lies.

MR. TAFT'S BLUNDERS

For a man who is generally considered to be endowed with an almost perfect mental balance President Taft has probably made more blunders than any public man his own or any other country has ever produced. These mistakes, disastrous alike to his own success and exasperating and embarrassing to his friends, have in every case arisen from excessive zeal in a commendable effort to render his people some signal public service.

Mr. Taft committed his first great political sin when he selected his cabinet and placed in the important office of Secretary of War a Southern Democrat. This was a bitter pill for his supporters who believe, as they believe in life itself, that those who plant the trees should eat the fruit and those who set out the flower seed should be permitted to gather the first bouquets. That Secretary Dickinson was a Democrat was bad enough, but that he came from the South added to the bitterness of the dose ten fold. Mr. Taft's purpose was to placate the Southern race but it was so palpable a bid for factional favor that even those to whom the sop was thrown saw through the deal and referred to the oleaginous President as "Mr. Taffy Taft."

When Mr. Taft was elected he stood pledged to revise the tariff so as to bring about a general reduction. To expedite the work and redeem his pledge he called Congress together in extra session but that headstrong body, led by Payne in the House and Aldrich in the Senate, disregarded his official message would have none of his advice, and revised the tariff rather in an upward direction than anything.

The bill thus passed Mr. Taft was weak enough to endorse by attaching his signature to it. If he had vetoed it Congress could have mustered the required two-thirds vote to carry it over his veto and if he had refused to sign it, it would have become law in due time without his approval but he would have never committed himself to the measure which it is well known he recognised as a breach of faith with the masses of the people. He was in the same position as President Cleveland found himself when the Wilson tariff bill came before the latter, a measure which he refused to sign. Cleveland had moral courage among other admirable qualities, but Mr. Taft let slip an opportunity to do what principle dictated he should have done in an immergency.

Another attempt to render a great public service was his peace treaty with France and England. He regarded it as a masterstroke himself but it raised another commotion in his party taking as it did from Congress that highly prized prerogative, the power to declare war and leaving the settlement of international disputes to outsiders. Here was the beginning of the breach between him an ex-President Roosevelt, the first great question of policy over which they fell asunder.

We all know the result of his efforts to bring about Reciprocity with Canada and how this greatest blunder of all worked for his own undoing as well as helping to wreck the Laurier Government in this country. "His parting of the ways" speech betrays the unfortunate tendency he has to injure himself by inapt and untimely utterance.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier said at the Montreal banquet that Mr. Taft borrowed his famous "adjunct" phrase from the jingoes of Canada, but that is Sir Wilfrid's mistake. That celebrated letter was written ten days before the Reciprocity agreement was signed and sixteen days before it was made public. Mr. Taft could not have borrowed the expression from Canadian Conservatives seeing that the campaign had not yet been started. Apart from the question of honor involved in making public a private letter, that he revealed its contents at all was another blunder, and one for which Sir Wilfrid seems unable to forgive him.

There came the last grand mistake of his career, his entrance into the fight with Roosevelt. The President of the American Republic never before took part in a struggle so undignified at the outset and which has degenerated into a disgraceful squabble. If he had remained in Washington and treated the onslaught of his militant adversary with the contempt implied by silence he would have at least accomplished as much as he has done by lowering the tone and status of his high office in an unseemly strife for a second term.

AN AGNOSTIC IN COURT

A Montreal citizen, prominent in the business world, acknowledged without a blush that he is an agnostic and, as he probably knows best the condition of his own intellectual equipment, the public is likely to take him at his personal valuation of himself. When called as a witness in a court in that city he refused to take the prescribed oath on the ground that he did not believe in the bible and would not kiss it as required. He would give his word of honor to tell the truth, but further than this he declined to go. The judge would not consent to such procedure and the witness was excused.

Any man is entitled to his own religious belief, or disbelief, as the case may be, but there is nothing to warrant his avowal of it in a court of justice, nor can he expect the entire legal machinery of the country to be upset because he is pleased to assert his lack of faith in the existence of a Supreme Being. Had he taken the prescribed oath he would not have compromised his professions in any way, but would have simply put himself in the position of any other witness. He could have been prosecuted for perjury if it afterward transpired that he had not told the truth a power the court would not have held over him if he had simply passed his word of honor.

If the decision of the Montreal judge is likely to establish a precedent it certainly is a dangerous one and one which seriously threatens the power of our courts to elicit testimony from unwilling witnesses. Any one called upon to testify in court and not being inclined to tell what he knows of the case in dispute, has nothing more to do than declare he is an agnostic in order to be excused and saved from the ordeal of examination.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Why should the United States desire to clean house in Cuba while the Taft-Roosevelt scrimmage goes on without intervention?

Now that a New York state judge has sentenced a suffragette to jail for beating her helpmeet, henpecked husbands the world over will pluck up some courage.

The New York waiters fail to state whether it is the patrons or the employers, against whom they most complain on the score of compensation.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier is hard on the Nationalists but he should remember that the creed of that faction is an outcome of the teachings of the Liberal party.

An Ontario postmaster has been sued for $10,000 damages for alleged breach of promise to marry a widow. Probably he thinks that worse things can happen to a public official than the loss of his job.

It now looks as if Saskatchewan is to have no election just yet, although it was announced that voting would take place, June 14. The Regina Province says the Liberals are afraid to face the people, and plead Premier Scott's illness as the reason for delay.

R. T. Green, just elected member of the Dominion Parliament in Kootenay, was a short time ago cook in a lumber camp. Judging from the high wages claimed by good cooks these days, Mr. Green's new job is likely to prove less of a financial picnic than the one he has quit.

The Moose Jaw publicity commissioner will accomplish his object even if his profane postcards have been barred from the mails for that move on the part of the postal authorities will bring more fame to the Saskatchewan city than would the distribution of a car load of literature.

The great social problem which is just now troubling the good people of Toronto is whether women are to be allowed to smoke in public places where that privilege is accorded to men. A lady of that city brought the discussion to a point by smoking a cigarette in the box of a burlesque theatre.

An Alvinston editor leaned against a plate glass window to the destruction of the latter, and his own financial loss. He gets a week's grace to settle and makes a passionate appeal to his delinquent subscribers to help him out. When he desires to rest himself in the future, he will find a solid brick wall equally comfortable and much more to be depended upon.

Acute Dyspepsia

Restoration of Stomach Power Comes Quickly With the Right Medicine.

"My food seemed to decompose in my stomach," writes Mr. Ralph Clemmons, of Newbridge, P.Q. "I had a stomach that failed in some way to perform its work. Digestion seemed more or less arrested and I grew thin, yellow, nervous. The stomach became distended and impeded apparently the action of the heart, for often at night it would do great stunts. At times I would vomit a mucous mass, and at these times my head ached most terribly. A friend, who had been cured of a similar condition, advised me to take Dr. Hamilton's Pills regularly, which I did. The result in my case was simply marvelous. Dr. Hamilton's Pills removed the cause, strengthened the stomach, excited the liver to normal action, the kidneys were released of excessive work. Health soon glowed within me. I can now eat, sleep, and live like a live man."

Be advised—Use Dr. Hamilton's Pills—they are sure to do you good. 25c per box, at all dealers, or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Canada.

Cynthia's Chauffeur

By LOUIS TRACY

Copyright by McLeod & Allen, Toronto

"Such fortresses are rare and hard to find," she said. "Take my own case. I was really enjoying this pleasant tour of ours, yet it is broken in two, as it were, by some force beyond our control, and the severance makes itself felt here, in this secluded nook, a retreat not even marked on our self-drawn map. Where could one be more secure—as you put it—less open to that surge of events that drives resistlessly into new seas? I am something of a fatalist, Mr. Fitzroy, though the phrase sounds strange on my lips. Yet I feel that after to-morrow we shall not meet again so soon or so easily as you imagine, and—if I may venture to advise one much more experienced than myself—the way that leads least hopefully to my speedy introduction to your aunt is that you should see my father, before I rejoin him. You know, I am sure, that I look on you rather as a friend than a mere—a mere—"

"Don't be stupid. I mean that you and I have met on an equality that I would deny Simmonds or to any of the dozen chauffeurs we have employed in various parts of the world. And I want to warn you of this—knowing my father as well as I do—I am certain he has asked Mrs. Leland's help for the undertaking that others have failed in. I—can't say more. I—"

"Cynthia, dear! I have been looking for you everywhere," cried a detested voice. "Ah, there you are, Mr. Fitzroy!" and Mrs. Devar bustled forward cheerfully. "You have been to Hereford, I hear. How kind and thoughtful of you! Were there any letters for me?"

"Sorry," broke in Cynthia. "I was so absorbed in my own news that I forgot yours. Here is your letter. It is only from Monsieur Marigny, to blow both of us up, I suppose, for leaving him desolate last night. But what do you think of my budget? My father is in London; Mrs. Leland, a friend of ours, joins us at Chester to-morrow; and Fitzroy deserts us at the same time."

Mrs. Devar's eyes bulged and her lower jaw fell a little. She could hardly have exhibited more significant tokens of alarm had each of Cynthia's unwelcome statements been punctuated by the crash of artillery fired in the garden beneath.

During a long night and a weary morning she had labored hard at the building of a new castle in Spain, and now it was dissipated at a breath. Her sky had fallen; she was plunged into chaos; her brain reeled under these successive shocks.

"I—don't understand," she gasped, panting as if she had run across vast stretches of that vague "everywhere" during her quest for Cynthia.

"None of us understands. That is not the essence of the contract. Anyhow, father is in England, Mrs. Leland will be in Chester, and Fitzroy is for London. He is the only real hustler in the crowd. Unless my eyes deceived me, he brought his successor in the car from Hereford. Really, Mr. Fitzroy, don't you think you ought to skate by the next train?"

"I prefer waiting till to-morow evening if you will permit it," he said humbly.

Cynthia was lashing herself into a very fair semblance of hot anger. She felt that she was trammeled in a net of deception, and, like the freedom-loving American that she was, she resented the toils none the less because their strands remained invisible. Seeing Medenham's crestfallen aspect at her unjust charge with reference to Dale's presence, she bit her lip with a laugh of annoyance and turned on Mrs. Devar.

"It seems to me," she cried, "that Count Edouard Marigny has been taking an interest in me that is certainly not warranted by any encourangement on my part. Open your letter, Mrs. Devar, and see if he, too, is on the London trail. . . . Ah, well—perhaps I am mistaken. I was so vexed for the moment that I thought he might have telegraphed to father when we did not turn up at Hereford. Of course, that is sheer nonsense. He couldn't have done it. Father was in England before Monsieur Marigny was aware of our failure to connect with Hereford. I'm sure I don't know what is vexing me, but something is, or somebody, and I want to quarrel with it, or him, or her, real bad."

Without waiting for any opening of Marigny's note she ran off to her room. Medenham had turned to leave the hotel when he heard a gurgling cry:

"Mr. Fitzroy—Lord Medenham—what does it all mean?"

Mrs. Devar's distress was pitiable. Snatches of talk overheard in Paris and elsewhere warned her that Mrs. Leland would prove an unconquerable foe. She was miserably conscious that her own letter, posted overnight, would rise up in judgment against her, but already she had devised the plausible excuse that the very qualities which were excellent in a viscount were most dangerous in a chauffeur. Nevertheless, the letter, ill-advised though it might be, could not account for Peter Vanrenen's sudden visit to England. She might torture her wits for a year without hitting on the truth, since the summoning of the millionaire to the rescue appeared to be the last thing Count Edouard Marigny would dream of doing. She actually held in her hand a summary of the telegrams he had dispatched from Bristol, but her mind was too confused to work in its customary grooves, and she blurted out Medenham's title in a frantic attempt to gain his support.

"It means this," he said cooly, resolved to clear the ground thoroughly for Mrs. Devar's benefit; "your French ally is resorting to the methods of the blackmailer. If you are wise you will cut yourself entirely adrift from him, and warn your son to follow your example. I shall deal with Monsieur Marigny—have no doubt on that score—and if you wish me to forget certain discreditable incidents that have happened since we left London you will respect my earnest request that Miss Vanrenen shall not be told anything about me by you. I mean to choose my own time and place for the necessary explanations. They concern none but Miss Vanrenen and myself, in the first instance, and her father and mine, in the second. I have observed that you can be a shrewd woman when it serves your interests, Mrs. Devar, and now you have an opportunity of adding discretion to shrewdness. I take it you are asking for my advice. It is simple and to the point. Enjoy yourself; cease acting as a matrimonial agent, and leave the rest to me."

The residents in the hotel were gathering in the veranda, as the luncheon hour was approaching, so Mrs. Devar could not press him to be more explicit. In the privacy of her own room she read Marigny's letter. Then she learnt why Cynthia's father had hurried across the Channel, for the Frenchman had not scrupled to warn him that his presence was imperative if he would save his daughter from a rogue who had replaced the confidential Simmonds as chauffeur.

Forthwith, Mrs. Devar became more dazed than ever. She felt that she must confide in someone, so she wrote a full account of events at Symon's Yat to her son. It was tht worst possible thing she could have done. Unconsciously—for she was now anxious to help instead of hindering Medenham's wooing—some of the gall in her nature distilled itself into words. She dwelt on the river episode with all the sly rancor of the inveterate scandalmonger. She was really striving to depict her own confusion of ideas when stunned by the discovery of Medenham's position, but she only succeeded in stringing together a series of ill-natured innuendoes. Sandwitched between each paragraph of the story were the true gossip's catchwords—thus: "What was I to think?" "What would people say if they knew?" "My dear, just picture your mother's predicament when midnight struck, and there was no news!" Of course, one makes allowances for an American girl," and the rest.

Though this soured woman was a ready letterwriter, she was no reader, or in days to come she might have parodied Pope's "Epistle to Dr. Arbuthnot:"

Why did I write? What sin to me unknown
Dipped me in ink?—my parents', or my own?

BABY SHOW

Seventy-six Babies were Entered in Contests.

The big attraction at the Summer Fair on Saturday afternoon was the widely advertised and largely patronized "Baby Show." No less than seventy-six babies were entered in the competition and every one of them appeared before three o'clock the time set for judging. The babies presented a quaint appearance to the large crowd of spectators, having been arranged in their respective classes, all labelled accordingly, on the band stand in the centre of the armories.

PRIZE WINNERS.

Class A.—up to 6 months—1st. Ian Barrie, 6 months, 717 Bethune street. 2nd —— Sherwood 6 months, daughter of W. J. Sherwood, 490 Sherwood street.

Class B.—6 months to 1 year—1st. Donald Wood, 9 1-2 months, 561 Weller street. 2nd —— Price, 10 months son of J. Price, 57 Olive avenue.

Class C.—1 to 2 years—1st. Gwyneth Adele Northey, 19 months, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Northey, Lakefield. 2nd, James Robt. Houston, 15 months, Byersville.

The first prizes were silver cups, the second prizes, silver spoons. To class C., the first prize had in addition a special prize of one dozen photos, presented by Mr. F. M. Roy. Each mother was presented by the judges with a box of candy.

The judges were Messrs. F. D. Kerr, G. O. Wainwright and W. G. Morrow.

An especially interesting program has been arranged for at the theatre at the Summer Fair this evening. The little farce "A Pair of Lunatics" which met with such favor on two occasion last week, is to be repeated. The members of the Bugle Band are putting on a very laughable one act farce also and there will be several vocal and instrumental selections by the best local talent. Mrs. Ryerson Ritchie, who is an accomplished and pleasing vocalist, will give a solo. Admission, two for 25 cents.

The ladies of the Women's Art Association wish to thank Mrs. G. Evans Atwood for the large and interesting collection of curios, which she so kindly loaned to the Association. The collection contained a great many very valuable articles, among which was a Chinese flag and a beautiful Chinese Mandarin's coat.

High tea will not be served at the Winter booth to-night, but the ladies in charge have arranged to sell, instead, strawberries and cream.

At the Summer booth, the ladies have a large number of paper tulips which were used in decorating, to sell this evening, It is likely that they will be auctioned off at the close of the evening's performance.

All articles that remain to be sold at reduced prices. Many pretty things to be had yet.

WEDDING BELLS

COX—DUNNING.

In Toronto on Saturday afternoon a very charming and fashionable wedding was solemnized in St. Stephens church the occasion being the marriage of Miss Ethel Gladys Dunning to Mr. Frank Wallace Cox, son of the late Aaron Cox, of Peterborough. The church was very prettily decorated with marguerites, lilacs, palms and ferns.

Rev. Jas Broughall performed the ceremony, assisted by Canon Broughall. Dr. Howard presided at the organ.

The bride wore a suit of Copenhagen blue silk poplin, and a small cerise bonnet and wore the groom's gift, a five-stone diamond ring. Miss Morrial Dunning was bridesmaid and Mr. Wilfrid Cox groomsman.

Mr. and Mrs. Cox left on an extensive wedding trip to Vancouver, Victoria and the Pacific Coast, and on their return will reside at St. Andrews Gardens, North Rosedale.

UNWARRANTED CRITICISM

We regret to chronicle the fact that a couple of our local citizens have criticized the personnel of the three judges selected to make the awards at the baby show. Aside from the qualifications of the gentlemen concerned it is a serious thing to create a feeling of want of confidence in the Bench. The Bench is one of our institutions that we regard as sacred and if we create distrust in its decisions, where are we at? To say that the Bench was not competent, is to aver that which is not so. It is scoffed at on the ground of want of experience. Messrs Morrow, Kerr and Wainwright are bachelors. That is not a crime, only a misdemeanor. For that they are paying the penalty and missing a whole avalanche of the satisfaction of life. They will not be brought to repentance and see the error of their several ways by pitching into them. Better by kindly persuasion and entreaty.

After all it does not follow that the comparative merits of a baby can only be discerned by those who have—so to speak—raised them. Many a man is a good judge of a horse who never bred one, and about the poorest judge of the merits of a newspaper is the man who makes one. In our city council, the very men who should know what the city needs, are deaf by eye and ear to what is required.

The judges are to be commended—not reprimanded. They accepted an onerous and delicate duty and the only mistake they made was in not stipulating that they should turn in a sealed verdict and get at least ten minutes start; that would have placed them outside the danger zone

PATRIOTIC AIRS AT THE BAND CONCERT TO-NIGHT

Reminiscenses of England.

Descriptive—Voyage in Troopship.

BRANTFORD WON FIRST

The opening game of the double header at the Oval this afternoon went to Brantford.

The score was 3-1 in favor of Brantford up to the end of the eighth, neither team scoring in the last two innings. Nothing was in the ninth making final score 3-1 in favor of Brantford.

PETERBORO RANGERS PARADE TO ST. JOHN'S

With bright and stirring ostentation of scarlet uniforms and the clarion notes of the buglers, as they called the companies to order, the 57th Regiment Peterborough Rangers, mustering several hundred strong, and under command of Lieut. Col. Clegg, held their annual spring divine service parade to St. John's church Sunday morning. A large portion of civilian Peterborough were assembled along the line of march to witness a representation of her entire military resources. It was an inspiring moment when the advance guard of the parade turned down the main thoroughfare, to the stirring strains of the Regimental band. The men presented a splendid appearance as they marched past attired in divine service order and carrying side arms.

The troops were commanded by Lieut. Col. Clegg, who was accompanied by Brevet Major Walker. The following officers were also present, Major Medd, commanding officer of "B" Squadron, 3rd Prince of Wales Dragoons and Lieut. Greer, Major Young, commanding officer of the 24th Field Battery and Captain Fee, Lieut. Col. Arthur Stevenson, R. O.

The work of getting the troops into St. John's church, seated and ready for the service to begin, has probably never been handled with greater dispatch and precision, than yesterday. As usual, the regiment entered the church in double file formation and marched up the centre aisle to their respective seats, where the entire assemblage remained standing until the officers of the regiment and the standard bearers had taken up their allotted positions within the church.

Major Davidson, chaplain of the regiment, officiated at the service. Before commencing his discourse, the chaplain extended a hearty welcome to the regiment. His text was based on Joshua 18:3, "And Joshua said unto the children of Israel, How long are ye slack to go to possess the land which the Lord God of your fathers hath given you?"

"One of the first principles in military life," said the speaker, "is promptness in action and neatness in appearance. Slackness in these matters means failure to acquire discipline, and derogates from the true aims and objects of the service.

The words quoted in the text are from the teachings of the great military officer Joshua, who not only did his duty to God and man, but manifested a determination to exemplify the principles of promptness and uprightness towards his Divine Creator and fellow man.

It should be the desire of everyone of us, to make one united effort to put away slackness. Discipline and efficiency are imperative if we would aim to do our duty and uphold the responsibility which is entrusted to us.

We should take pride on the eve of our departure for camp, in going forth determined to uphold the honour of the regiment, and to so conduct ourselves, that we may bring no disgrace upon the uniforms which we wear, or upon the flag under which we serve.

The object of the service is peace, not war. To make not only soldiers, but men, and in order to properly appreciate and fulfill this object, we must be prompt and faithful to our duty towards God and man. If you are only a little religious, be religious up to the mark of that extent, don't allow slackness to pervade your lives, don't go down to eternal religious failure through slackness.

Do your duty unflinchingly at all times, and don't be afraid as soldiers of the Almighty God and Empire, to express reverence for Him who seeth and ruleth over all things.

Following the sermon, the offertory was taken up by the officers of the regiment. The National Anthem was then sung, after which the Rev. Mr. Price pronounced the benediction.

The troops left the church with as great precision as they had entered it, and forming into marching order, returned to the Armouries, where they were dismissed.

FIRE IN THE PULPITS; ICEBERGS IN THE PEWS

The Rev. James Price, of Toronto, occupied the pulpit of St. John's church yesterday at both the morning and evening services. The congregation was very deeply impressed with his sermons, which were eloquent, forceful and logical. In the evening he took for his subject the "Art of Listening," and in connection with it he remarked that men desired a certain amount of fire in the pulpit, which was very reasonable, but it was difficult to arrange if there were icebergs in the pews.

The Rev. Mr. Price also addressed the Sunday school and assisted in the morning service for the 57th Regiment.

LOCAL DELEGATES RETURN FROM CONVENTION OF AD. MEN

The local delegates to the great convention at Dallas, Messrs. H. B. Cowan, and C. F. Hardy, are back from Texas. They are mightily well pleased with their trip, with what they saw and learned, and they give a glowing account of the manner in which they were entertained by the Southerners, who are adepts at meting out hospitality.

In order that all who wish a first-hand report of the doings at the National Advertising Convention may have the same, the Peterborough Ad Club will give their regular monthly dinner Wednesday evening of this week, June 5th, at which both Mr. Hardy and Mr. Cowan will speak. The dinner will be on at 6.15 sharp, and all will be over before 8 o'clock, in order that those in attendance may get away to attend to other engagements for the evening.

The primal object of the Convention of the Association Advertising Clubs of America is the education of the members of the Ad Club, in order that they may return home and, in degree, educate their own city as to what the world is doing. Men go to these conventions at considerable personal expense, get inspiration and ideas, and go back and give out the benefits they have received. Nowadays as Elbert Hubbard says, we keep things by giving them away; the love we liberate in our work is the only love we keep, and our two local citizens who will address the gathering Wednesday evening are firm believers in this principle, and local business men may rest assured that there will be an interesting and profitable treat for them on this occasion.

The dinner will be held in Hooper's Palm Parlor as usual; tickets may be had from the Secretary, J. McNichol, at Cressman's Departmental stores, phone 1333. It is desired that reservations may be made early so that sufficient accommodation can be provided for all who desire to attend.

OBITUARY

The Late Mrs. Flaherty

The death occurred yesterday afternoon about half past three o'clock of Bridget Carew, wife of Edward Flaherty, of 115 Smith street, city. Mrs. Flaherty was seventy-two years of age and has lived practically all her life in this city. She was well and widely known and her death will be very deeply regretted.

She is survived by her husband Mr. Edward Flaherty, city, four sons and two daughters. The sons are, James and Jerry, of Chicago, Michael, of Minneapolis, Minn., and the daughters are Winnie of Toronto, and Minnie of Peterborough. Her sister, Mrs. Thos Flood, of Ennismore, is also left to mourn her loss.

All of the children will be in the city for the funeral, which will take place from the family residence, 115 Smith street, at 9 o'clock to-morrow morning, to St. Peter's Cathed-

LAID AT REST

The funeral of the late Mrs. Robt. Hamilton, was held Sunday afternoon, a large number of friends attending to pay their last respects to the deceased. A short service was held at the late residence of the late Mrs. Hamilton, and the funeral procession proceeded to St. Luke's church. The service at the church was conducted by the Rev. Canon Davidson, assisted by the Rev. R. B. Grobb. The Rev. Mr. Sawers was unable to be present and his regret was expressed by the Canon Davidson.

The service was largely attended by a number of the leading citizens of Peterborough and the congregation of the church. The Rev. Canon Davidson in his sermon, remarked that it was fitting that such a representative body should be present to do honor to Mrs. Hamilton, who has been a leading figure in Peterborough for many years. The hospitality of "Auburn" had been unstinted and many new citizens had been welcomed and entertained by her. She had among her friends many prominent ecclesiasticals, including the Primate of all Canada and many bishops. The service was an impressive one and the deep regret of those present, was noticeably manifested. The Rev. A.W. McKenzie of Lakefield was present at the service.

The pall-bearers were—Messrs. G.H. Hatton, Dr. Hammond, L.M. Hayes, K.C., R.W. Travers, R. B. Rogers, J. D. Collins, Morris A'Hearn and R.E. Wood.

The large number of floral tokens received were in the procession in the former carriage of Mrs. Hamilton, drawn by her own horse.

A most impressive funeral ceremony was conducted on Sunday afternoon in St. Peter's Cathedral in memory of the late Philip O'Brien, who passed away on Thursday. The last sad obsequies were conducted by Rev. Father McColl, who paid an eloquent tribute to the life of the deceased and his many sterling qualities. He particularly referred to the clean and upright life of the departed, and of his faithfulness to the pledge of total abstinence.

The funeral cortege left the late residence, 360 Downie street, at three o'clock, and proceeded to St. Peter's Cathedral, and thence to St. Peter's Cemetery.

The cortege was made up of representatives of the Patternmakers of the Canadian General Electric Co., the Catholic Order of Foresters, St. Peter's T.A.S. and the Church of Sacred Heart T.A.S., numbering in all about four hundred.

The bearers were Messrs. Joseph Clancy and Patrick Kane, of the C. O. F.; J. A. Sharpe and George Ahearn, of the T.A.S., and N. Munro and William Hill, of the C. G. E. Patternmakers.

The floral contributions were very extensive, including many spiritual bouquets.

JIMMIE BEARD TURNED PINCH TWIRLER AND SAVED THE GAME FOR WHITE CAPS

Behold in James Beard, the kingpin centre fielder of the Peterboro' White Caps, also our pinch hitter. There was lots of fun at Ottawa on Saturday when the Petes were putting over a defeat on the Senators. It had been decided to play but a limited time, in order that the lacrosse game might proceed, and when umpire Pearson, who was himself fifteen minutes late in arriving for the fray, called the game there were protests great and small. Orations were delivered by both managers, and several of the players had their chirp.

The score was then 3—1 in favor of Peterborough, and had his ump's decree held good the contest would have gone as no game. Pitcher Nork had been heaving handsomelym and as the big crowd was hearing addresses he hied himself away to the bench. When at last play was resumed he was cold, and failed to locate the plate.

With two out and three on bases, Manager Templin tore off a masterstroke. Sending Nork to the garden he beckoned Jimmie Beard to the mound. James at once proceeded to serve the batter and with two strikes and three balls he did exactly what Big Six, Chief Bender or other celebrities would have done under the circumstances—shot one over the plate and prayed.

"Four balls,j' sang the arbitrator.

"See a doctor," returned the batter as he ambled to first, and a man came in from third. making the score read 3—2.

Jimmie then for spite fanned the next man; the side was retired, and the Caps had the game.

CHANGES ON THE WHITE CAPS; THREE PLAYERS RELEASED

Several changes in the camp of the White Caps are announced by Manager Templin, and it is evident that everything possible is being done to give Peterborough fans a winning team.

Tully, Brode and Schwartz have been released, and the squad is now made up of Pitchers Derr, Schaeffer, Tracey, Nork and Osborne; catchers Trout and Mooney; first-base Barthold; second-base Templin; shortstop Nasher; third base, Hartman; left field, Jayes; centre field, Beard; right field Dolan.

Manager Templin will carry but four twirlers, and it is up to the five heavers now in business to show what they have.

Barthold will begin duty at the first bag to-day. He has seen service with the Philadelphia Americans and of late has been with the Tri-State Leagues. Between seasons he fills a uniform for the Philadelphia police department.

Nasher the new short stop, worked in the Saturday game at Ottawa, and the report is that he made considerable difference in the infield work of the team.

With Dolan in right garden, and ready to take the first station if necessary, this corner looks to be strong. Dolan's healthy larrups are also a big factor. There has and will be comment on the changes, but it should be remembered that the judgment of a manager covers more ground than that of the average fan who is as fickle as an eighteen year old miss with a new bonnet.

Manager Templin evidently doesn't believe in playing any favorites, and is out to give his best to the local fans.

The Caps and Brantford play another game to-morrow, likely at the Oval, and games for two weeks will be seen elsewhere.

FIRST OF DOUBLE HEADER PRESENTED TO SENATORS

Ottawa papers are not the least backward in intimating that the first of Friday's double header was practically presented to the home team through a decision at the plate of Umpire Pearson, who called Robertson safe.

The Journal says: With one run necessary to tie the score, Callahan doubled to the outfield, but Robertson hammered Derr for a double, Cook flying out to Beard. With two gone, Ottawa's chances looked slim, but Robertson reached third, and when Rowe dumped one in front of the plate, he darted for home. Catcher Trout threw high to Dolan in an attempt to check Rowe at first, and thus win the game, and Dolan hurled it back, his throw being erratic. Robertson appeared out at the plate, but Umpire Pearson, who rushed up, said he had slid under Trout's outstretched hands and waved both safe. Hopper went out at first and an extra inning was necessary.

The Free Press: In the meantime Robertson was rounding third like a streak of lightning, and with a hook slide got in under Catcher Trout, who took the throw from Dolan. To some fans it looked as though Red never touched the plate, but the umpire said his under foot streaked over it before the ball was put on him. At any rate it tied up the game.

Against Ottawa was a right hander called Tracey with a side arm delivery that made him as dangerous as Tracey the outlaw ever thought of being. Incidentally he had something on that ball, and don't forget it.—Free Press.

Woodmen of the World at George Street — C.O.O.F. at St. Paul's While A O.F. Attend St. Andrews

"We have a Summer Fair in Peterborough just now, and at it are being shown a number of things manufactured in Peterborough. As we look at them we are filled with pride and satisfaction. But when we pick up the evening papers, and read the police court news, when we see men drunk on the street before twelve o'clock—a thing I never saw before I came to Peterborough—we are not so proud of our city, of our police force, or of our license traffic. And when I hear of other things going on in this city of which I have not sufficient evidence to speak, it makes my blood boil and shows that we have right here in our city, a very large proportion of downright villainous men."

So said Rev. James Rollins last evening at St. Andrews church during the course of a splendid, inspiring sermon to the Ancient Order of Foresters who attended the church in a body and who were largely represented in spite of the disagreeable weather. Queen Alexandra Circle was also well represented.

Continuing along the same theme the pastor said: "Thank God for our ideals of manhood, thank God for men whose ideals of manhood are more precious than fine gold. Let us not go on complacently as we have been doing and allow vice and sin to thrive unmolested in our very midst."

The service was in every sense one appropriate for the occasion.

Before commencing his address the pastor welcomed the visiting society most cordially. He welcomed them because they were citizens, living together in a community, and in the spirit of fraternity, sisterhood and brotherhood. He also extended his welcome to those among the brethren who came from other churches.

"This church," remarked the pastor, "is seeking to do its work in the city in a spirit of the utmost good will with every other church.

"I welcome you also because of the principles at the foundation of the Order to which you belong. I find that your Order stands for the education of your members morally, socially and intellectually, and that, is the work near to the work of Jesus Christ. The financial part of your society work is also the very spirit of Christianity. You have established funds for the benefit of widows and orphans all of which breathes the spirit of goodwill and fraternity. In all of it you are but emphasizing the spirit of my text:

"For I will make a man more precious than fine gold."—Isaiah.

After the sermon Miss Olive Hewell sang very effectively a beautiful setting of "Nearer My God to Thee," in fine voice.

WOODMEN AT GEORGE ST.

The Woodmen of the World attended the George street Methodist church in a body last night. A large number of the society turned out and heard an appropriate and inspiring sermon preached by the Rev. Isaac Couch, pastor of the church.

In the beginning the pastor said that he was sure that one and all in connection with the church welcomed the Woodmen of the World to the church for their annual Divine service. There was, he said a certain character that endeared the members of the society to the church workers. He congratulated the fraternity of the largeness of their local branch and commended their work as being noble. The society he compared to the rope used by the guides on the mountains, which all the travellers hold, and if one slips the others draw him back into safety.

Continuing the speaker took his text from the 13th verse of the 9th Chapter of Matthew, which reads "But go ye and learn what that meaneth, I will have mercy, and not sacrifice; for I am not come to call the righteous, but sinners to repentance."

Mr. Couch showed the different conceptions people have of God, and remarked that he would deal with the compassionate side of His nature. He has a heart full of pity and love and compassion for us. Pity, and compassion, said the speaker, were the core of all the great religions in the world. He told the story of Budha to show that as Christ is the incarnation of Love, Budha was the incarnation of Pity. Budha thought only of salvation from sorrow and did not get the idea of salvation from sin. "There never was a person on God's earth as sensitive as the meek and lowly Jesus Christ."

C.O.F. AT ST PAUL'S.

The Canadian Order of Foresters, marshalled by Mr. E. J. Waterman, marched in a body to St. Paul's Presbyterian church, last evening, where they attended Divine worship. The prayers and hymns were suitable to the occasion, and at the conclusion of the service the National Anthem was sung in honour of the King's Birthday. The Rev. Robert Pogue preached an appropriate and inspiring sermon on the topic of the "Brotherhood of the Church," which was listened to with great appreciation by a large representation of the C. O. F. as well as a good attendance of the regular congregation.

"There is no organization or society in existence that commutes so strongly as the Christian Church," said the speaker. "Organizations are being formed everywhere and most of these organizations seem to be framed for the purpose of self preservation. But sometimes there is rivalry between them. Sometimes capital does not agree with labour, neither is labour always in harmony with capital. I hold that the only organization on earth where such a bond of fellowship is to be found is in the Christian Church. A brotherhood that is not based upon Christian charity is sure to be a failure. To instance this I may take your minds back to the French revolution. A man passing through the country just prior to the revolution, remarked upon the beauty of the new movement in that country, namely, Fraternity. The man was filled with joy—he was glad to be alive. But what was a Brotherhood without God and what was the result? That feeling was soon changed, as you well know, to a period of bloodshed, to the horror of all Europe. How was it that France changed her feeling of fraternity to "a current of blood," as Wordsworth terms it. That Brotherhood was based upon a purely natural foundation without God and without the Church.

Let me point out some principles of Brotherhood as found in the Christian church. They are chiefly three.

The Brotherhood of the Church is a brotherhood that is based upon a union in our common communion with Jesus Christ. Members of Christ's Church are bound in such fellowship as cannot be duplicated in any fraternal organization. That does not cast a reflection upon any Society. You have in you the life of Christ, and I have in me the life of Christ and that makes us brothers indeed. There is no bond so sweet and so binding as that found at the foot of the cross. It is that union which makes life worth living.

Then, secondly, the Brotherhood of the Church is a Brotherhood of love. It was common in the early days of the Christians to hear the words 'how these Christians love one another.' There cannot be a river without water, or a star without lustre, and there cannot be love to God where love to man is wanting.

It is sometimes the case that some of those affiliated with fraternal organizations are not connected with any church and they give as their reason that the church is too cold. Well, that may be true of certain cliques in the congregation itself, but not of the Church of Jesus Christ. I speak from the inside and I speak the truth when I say that there is no organization on earth where there is less class distinction than in the Christian church.

Now, the last thing I would like to say is that the Brotherhood of the Church is one of service. The Church of Jesus Christ has done much towards the physical wants of man, not directly, it is true, but it spreads influences which cause mutual help. No man can render his best services to society who keeps himself aloof from the church. I need not argue that. So I make you an appeal to-night for your service—for yourselves—for your lives.

SOME PETERBOROUGH MEN IN NORTH WEST WORK

For nearly a year, work has been going on to supply the city of Moose Jaw, Sask., with a water supply. Such water as it has been using and drinking came from a small creek, called Thunder Creek, and in the early days it gave a fair, but variable supply. Wells dug in the vicinity gave a water unpleasant to the taste, strongly impregnated with alkali and required boiling before being fit for table use.

Early last Spring, the Municipal Council, commissioned the engineering firm of Walter J. Francis & Co. to take up the project of a water supply. Mr. Francis in the well-known engineer, who largely designed and prepared the plans of the Hydraulic Lift Lock here, and the Council were assured that his services would be well worth retaining. The firm reported, after investigation that the most feasible way of getting water, was to sink collecting wells or reservoirs, along the bed of a creek about 18 miles from the city. Test wells, or borings made along the creek for a distance of over a mile showed that the ground was underlaid with a gravel water bearing strata that promised to deliver a sufficient quantity of water, unusually pure and palatable.

The work is now well advanced and it is hoped that it will be completed within contract time— end of July next. The sinking of the first collecting basin or well, was a work of considerable difficulty, owing to a deep strata of quicksand which was encountered about twenty-five feet from the surface. The work was covered in and carried on all winter, despite the severe frost.

To gather the water and bring it to the well, a line of porus pipe is laid for over a half-mile in the water bearing strata, the water collecting in the pipe and further on in the well. From there, it is pumped to a higher elevation, and is delivered through an 18 inch steel pipe main to the city reservoir. The pipe line parallels the roadbed of the C.P.R. The pipe line is laid in trenches cut by high ditching machines, at the rate of over 1500 feet per day. The system is being constructed as apart of the works to follow in the development of the city, and it is proposed to bring a larger supply direct from the Saskatchewan River, 65 miles from Moose Jaw.

Nearly all of the directing force on the work, are men from Peterboro or vicinity, and besides Mr. W. J. Francis, include the following—Peter Gillespie, at one time principal of the West Ward school, now Associate of Applied Mechanics, Toronto University, and who is engineer in chief of the whole sytem.

R. L. Dobbin, resident engineer at the head works,

Angus Richardson, son of Alex. Richardson, lockmaster at the Lift Lock, is one of the inspectors on the pipe line construction.

Grant Potter, son of J.G. Potter, former pastor of St. Andrew's church is also one of the line inspectors.

The two other inspectors are R.E. Green, and Ross Taylor, who are nephews of J. C. Shook of the Dickson Company.

J. Roseboro, formerly of Bridgenorth, who was at one time with H. P. Kennedy, is the general superintendent at the head works, near Caron.

The present time-keeper is Howard Clegg nephew of Sam Clegg. He has been living in Toronto lately.

The forman of the concrete is Ernest Belleghem, another old Peterboro boy, whose family lived at Auburn for many years, and are now living in Toronto.

The work consists of the following parts—

1 An infiltration gallery in the valley of Sandy Creek, about one mile long.

2 A reinforced concrete reservoir, holding 500,000 gallons.

3 A pipe line 18 miles long, consisting of 18 inch steel pipe. laid with 8 feet of cover to avoid frost, which penetrates the soil to a great distance. There are at present three large trenching machines on this part of the work. These machines are of the latest pattern and have a capacity of about 1500 lineal feet of trench per day, 10 feet deep and 30 inches wide.

5 A pumping station at Moose Jaw to pump the water into the city mains. There is also a pumping station at the head works to pump the water from the infiltration gallery to the reservoir, but it runs to Moose Jaw by gravity.

It is intended to supplement the supply at the works, by sinking several deep wells but these have not yet been started.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years, was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio. is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucuous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

THE GARBAGE SITUATION

"You can't take the pants of a highlander if he hasn't any on" was the way one of the aldermen sized up the Scriver garbage By-law situation to-day.

Mr. Scriver is not collecting garbage any more, and meanwhile the garbage cans are filling up. Some are overflowing.

It is said that the bondsmen for Mr. Scriver have not signed the documents and they cannot be held to account for Mr. Scriver's failure to continue with his contract.

And as Mr. Scriver didn't have the backing of the Standard Oil people behind him, it is not likely that legal proceedings would avail.

Mr. Scriver's accounts for work already done have not been paid.

BARRIE PEOPLE VOTE THE HYDRO-ELECTRIC POWER

Debenture of $7,000 Will Also Be Raised to Extend the Electric Light Plant For the Distribution of Power to All Parts of the Town—Engineers Will Begin at Once to Build a Feed Line Into Barrie.

Barrie, June 4.—The Hydro-electric bylaw was carried, here yesterday, only 48 votes being recorded against it. Another bylaw for the raising by debenture of $7,000 for the extension of the Barrie electric light plant for the distribution of Hydro power to all parts of the town was also carried, with only 46 negative votes. A third bylaw to expend $26,000 on permanent roadways carried with a bare majority of only 97.

This latter sum will be expended on building a tar macadam roadway, one mile in length, between Ward Six, Allendale and Elizabeth streets. This is one of the main thoroughfares of the town, and it is largely used for automobile traffic, being the main roadway leading from Toronto to the north. Another lake shore at the east end will be greatly improved and made into a beautiful waterfront driveway and walk.

The Hydro-electric engineers will immediately lay out the construction line from Waubaushene to Barrie, and it is expected that the streets will be illuminated and factory wheels be driven by power over Hydro-electric lines, from the Severn River by the middle of September. The Barrie electric light commissioners have made a canvas of the power users and were able to dispose of nearly all of the 700 horsepower to be sold to the G.T.R. for their divisional point works and private lighting system. The Board of Trade and the Town Council will inaugurate a campaign to secure new industries.

JIM HILL MAY INVADE CANADA

Winnipeg, June 4.—An evening paper yesterday published what it claims as reliable information on the plans of James J. Hill for capturing a big share of the transportation of the Canadian prairie west.

"He calculates," it says, "to gain possession of the carrier traffic eastward to Hudson Bay and the Great Lakes and westward to the Pacific coast for routing Canadian grain through the Panama Canal. His survey gangs are working in every province of the west and his charters are already secured. His associates at Fort William have purchased a large section of water front and he is laying his plans to get there from the heart of the prairies.

"In British Columbia he is building westward under the name of the Victoria, Vancouver and Eastern, and has almost pierced the Rockies, whence charters he holds will carry him through the great wheat plateaus into Winnipeg. Other charters furnish him an entrance into the Peace River country—the very last west—and a direct route to Fort Churchill on Hudson Bay."

THE NEW RECTOR WAS SHUT OUT

Toronto, June 4.—Considerable excitement has been caused at Fairbanks by the appointment of Rev. Mr. Lawrence as rector, to take the place of Rev. George Scott of St. Hilda's. Locks have been put on and taken off the church doors by both the factions. The wardens forcibly prevented the new rector from entering the church on Sunday. They held a service in the she dat the rear of the church and offered prayer for the return of Rev. Mr. Scott.

"We want our own minister. Give unto thy servant that which is just and equal" was written on a piece of paper and fastened on the church door.

G.T.R. Can Reach Boston.

Boston, June 4.—The bill which would permit the extension of the Southern New England Railroad (Grand Trunk) to this city was passed, to be engrossed by the Senate late yesterday, after the rejection of two amendments. An amendment adopted provided that the bonds be mortgage and not debenture. The bill has passed the House of Representatives, but the adoption of the amendment made it necessary to send it back to that body for concurrent action.

AMATEURS WILL BE DEALT WITH

Special to the Review.

London, June 4.—The second international conference on wireless telegraphy opened here this morning, with twenty-five nations represented by the delegates in attendance in the post office department of the British Government. All the nations represented have sea coasts and the business taken up will include a new set of rules governing the use of wireless at sea. The menace which amateur operators present in an accident like that which befell the Titanic will be discussed and an effort made to obviate such dangers in the future.

Robbed Policeman's House.

Toronto, June 4.—Even police inspectors are not immune from the visit of marauders. One of the best known men on the local police force, Inspector John Mulhall, 14 Havelock street, was visited Sunday by one of these gumshoe artists. The only clues left were a few footprints and some scratches on the wall leading to the kitchen window, which was the point of ingress. Sixteen dollars in bills was stolen. Not satisfied with this loot, the burglar crossed the street and entered the home of Frank F. Roper, at 15 Havelock street. In this case a ladder was used to get to the window into the dining-room. Only about $1 in silver was stolen. As only money was stolen it will be hard to catch the thieves.

Gave $10,000 to Captain Rostron.

New York, June 4.—On the deck of his ship yesterday morning at 11 o'clock, in the presence of all the officers and crew of the Carpathia, a check representing $10,000 in gold was handed to Captain Arthur H. Rostron, brave rescuer of the Titanic's 705 survivors. The purse, which had been contributed solely by the readers of The New York American, was handed to the Carpathia's captain by one of that paper's editors.

NEW PRISON FARM AT THUNDER BAY

Fort William, Ont., June 4.—With the intention of making a preliminary inspection preparatory to beginning actual work on the erection of the Thunder Bay and the Rainy River district prison farm buildings, for the construction of which $20,000 was appropriated two years ago by the Provincial Government, Dr. Bruce Smith, the provincial inspector of prisons and asylums, accompanied by J. R. Elliott and L. A. Law, officials of the Public Works Department, arrived here yesterday morning.

They inspected the proposed prison site, situated about six miles west of Fort William, in Paipoonge Township, consisting of 600 acres.

Clericals Victorious.

Brussels, June 4.—More complete returns from the Parliamentary elections emphasized the victory of the Clericals—the Government party—whose majority in the Chamber of Deputies is increased from six to fourteen or sixteen.

The Clerical newspapers accept the result as a triumph for their cause of placing free denominational schools on an equality with the state public schools, in which no religious instruction is given.

The Liberal organs, on the other hand, declare that the outcome was due to fraud and corruption, and the system of plural voting.

Convention Hall Seats 11,000.

Chicago, June 4.—For the third time since its erection thirteen years ago, the doors of the Coliseum will be thrown open June 18, for the accommodation of a Republican National Convention. In 1904 the Republicans nominated Col. Theodore Roosevelt for President in this building, and in 1908 under the same roof William H. Taft was chosen as the party's standard bearer.

About $40,000 was expended in preparing the building for the convention. The building has 11,188 seats, of which 7,988 are on the main floor and 3,200 in the balcony.

STAMBUL FIRE BURNED OUT

Special to the Review.

Constantinople, June 4.—Fire which swept the Stambul section of the city all day yesterday and last night burned itself out at midnight. One thousand residences, four mosques, seven schools and three Moslem theological seminaries were destroyed. Fifteen thousand persons are without shelter and many women and children are missing. The fire is believed to have been of incendiary origin.

LONDON STRIKERS' ULTIMATUM

Special to the Review.

London, June 4.—After a conference between the strike leaders and members of the Cabinet this morning, Ben Tillett, spokesman for the strikers, announced that he had delivered an ultimatum to the government demanding the creation of a joint board representing all interests of employers and insisting that employers as a body be responsible to employees, while the Transport Workers' Federation be prepared as a body to be responsible to employers. Work would not be resumed he said, unless all the men are reinstated. Meanwhile hundreds have already returned to work. The Government will see employers this afternoon.

TIN PLATE KING OF SOUTH AMERICA WITH FAMILY ON VACATION

Enjoying a holiday in New York city—the first vacation he has had in eleven years—with all the zest and enthusiasm of a boy, is Simon Ituru Patina, who may be properly called the Andrew Carnegie of South America. Eleven years ago he was a poor travelling clerk in Bolivia, but to-day his fortune is estimated at the lowest to be $60,000,000 and may even be as much as $100,000,000.

While unable to speak English Mr. Patina, who is most democratic in manner and appearance, through an interpreter, told a reporter that his fortune is due to the good advice of his wife as well as her courage in enabling him to obtain the money with which to purchase a tin mine, the first of its kind in Bolivia to be owned by an individual. It led to the possession of many more until to-day he is known as the "Tin Plate King" of South America, and European as well as United States manufacturers are imploring him for his product.

NEW MILITARY CAMP ISN W FORMED AT NIAGARA FALLS

Seven Corps Are Greatly Under Strength on Account of the Late Spring and Those Present Are Mostly Recruits—Prohibition Order In First Camp Had Little Effect Because of the Hotels Nearby.

Niagara-on-the-Lake, Ont., June 4.—Greatly under strength are the rural regiments, which arrived in camp yesterday for twelve days training. Not more than 2,000 men, consisting principally of recruits, are now under canvas, and fully 3,500 were expected by staff headquarters. The late spring is attributed as the cause of the poor showing, the farmers being unable to leave their work. Had the camp opened two weeks later things would have been different.

They are a good-looking bunch of lads in the seven regiments which came yesterday. According to the officers they size up better than ever before. Most of them are young and have never worn uniforms before. In a weeks time it is expected that the rough edges will be knocked off and they will be able to do their work in a fairly good way.

Before the rural men came the city regiments had returned to their homes, every man satisfied, looking tanned and healthy.

There is considerable hub-bub among the Royal Canadian Engineers, who have been on the grounds six weeks making all the necessary preparations for the coming of the troops. The engineers have lost their canteen. There are protests galore, but with no effect. There are only 23 engineers in the detachment. They are regulars attached to Stanley Barracks. They object to being treated like volunteers. Previous to the opening of camp, the men had their own canteen, but when the embryo soldiers arrived the lid was placed on it just the same as in the case of the militia, pursuant to the order of two years ago.

Is there a greater consumption of liquor now than when the canteens were wide open? is the live question now among military men. Opinion naturally differ. But many officers are outspoken in their views that instead of men taking a drink or two of beer at the canteen as of yore, they go around the corner of the camp and consume three or four, five or six, or even more. "Men who drink will drink despite the obstacles placed in their way," said one officer. True, there is not as much drinking in camp, but it all amounts to the same thing. The men drink elsewhere.

Just one hundred yards from the historic common, where the soldiers are located, is an hotel, which does a land office trade. Another a hundred yards away is another saloon. And not far from this one is another. Down near the wharf where the Niagara boats dock are two more liquor emporiums.

The moment the men are allowed to leave the camp confines there is a parade downtown. Of course this is not the case with all the troops. Many stay on the grounds and indulge in athletic sports, but a great number strike off on a road that generally leads to a bar where drinks are served.

TORONTO SURGEON TO NORTH BAY

North Bay, June 4.—Mrs. Eva Mabel Ferguson, wife of William W. Ferguson, to save whose life a special train with a Toronto surgeon was rushed here Sunday, died at 1.30 o'clock this morning at Victoria Hospital. Mr. and Mrs. Bishop L. Parks, Toledo, who came on a visit to their daughter for the first time since her marriage a year ago, will accompany the body to Toledo for burial.

FOUR MILITIA MEN WERE FINED

Niagara Falls, Ont., June 4.—"Let it be understood that while I am on the bench, none of you Canadian soldiers can come over here and raise a disturbance on the Sabbath," said Judge Stockwell in the police court on the American side yesterday to four privates of the Queen's Own from Camp Niagara, arrested Sunday night for assaulting a citizen on the street. "We respect Canada as a great and glorious country, but you disgrace the uniform which you wear."

James Chapman, who was the aggressor, was fined $25; Frank Murphy $10, John Graham $5, and John Campbell $3. "If you were in Canada you would not have the option of a fine, but would be sent to jail. They would not stand for any disturbance on the Sabbath in Toronto. You fellows can consider yourselves lucky to get off with a fine," concluded the judge.

REV. DR. McQUEEN FOR MODERATOR

Toronto, June 4.—Rev. Dr. McQueen, a brilliant graduate of Knox College, Toronto, will be elected moderator of the Presbyterian General Assembly, which convenes on Wednesday, June 5, at Edmonton.

Rev. Dr. R. P. McKay, foreign missionary secretary, the retiring moderator, has received word that so great will be the attendance of Presbyterians from all parts of Canada and from the young and rapidly growing cities of the western provinces, that the hotel and lodging house accommodation has already been pre-empted and the skating rinks are being fitted up with camp beds for the visitors to the general assembly.

Rev. Dr. McQueen, the next moderator, is an Ontario farmer's son, and spent his boyhood in the country. Since his induction to the ministry he has been continuously pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, Edmonton. He is regarded as a conspicuous type of the young Canadian who may go west and grow up with the country.

QUEBEC BISHOP SENDS LETTER TO CLERGY

Montreal, June 4.—Catholic Liberalism, political and social radicalism in general, and certain political tendencies in Canada are all severely condemned in a circular letter to his clergy by Bishop Archambault of Joliette. He says in part:

"The ideas of Catholic Liberalism were comprised in the political program of a political party in this country a good while since, or, at least, it was the program of many leading members of that party, yet, thanks to the breadth of view possessed by its leaders later on, these dangerous doctrines were put aside."

Still, he adds, many Catholics without realizing it are influenced by these principles. His lordship scored the pleasure-seeking school. The Catholic mentality, he says, is not so strong as twenty years ago.

His lordship says that "Catholic Liberalism bows before the church, salutes her not only as a religion, but a veritable society organized hierarchically; yet, at the same time it seeks to take away one by one every right properly belonging to a free and independent society. While Catholic Liberalism declares that a perfect entente should exist between the church and state, it exaggerates the rights of the state to such an extent as to wish the church placed under her absolute domination. Catholic Liberalism rends in two the conscience of the citizens, which, as a matter of fact, is one."

BERLIN'S NEW CITY CHARTER

Berlin, June 4.—One week from yesterday Berlin will be a city in reality. The charter is expected this week from the Ontario Government. A general friedenfest will be held, guns will be fired, fireworks will be displayed, and the ringing of bells will announce the event. The general celebration to which all the old boys on the continent have been invited will be held on July 17.

Waterloo Carries Bylaw.

Berlin, June 4.—Waterloo ratepayers carried a bylaw yesterday, voting a loan of $10,000 to Charles Kreutziger, who will build a box factory. The majority for the bylaw was 292.

Hydro-electric power took a holiday for four hours yesterday afternoon, seriously crippling the street car service. A transformer was burnt out at the station, causing the trouble.

To Supplant Finch.

Guelph, June 4.—The fire and light committee of the City Council have considered the forty applications for the position of fire chief and firemen. There were some hot words, and the report, as it will be presented tonight, will not be a unanimous one.

Chief Finch was not recommended for reappointment, but in his place Charles Chase, who has been a member of the Guelph fire brigade for 27 years. It is also proposed to do away with the call men altogether and add four more paid men to the present staff, making ten paid men and one chief. The committee are divided on both propositions.

To Protect U. S. Shipping.

Washington, D.C., June 4.—The House yesterday passed a bill designed to protect American shipping and commerce against alleged monopoly of the so-called foreign "shipping trust." The committee introducing the measure reported that 90 per cent. of all shipping entering American ports was in foreign pools and that no competition existed.

Refusal of clearance papers to "trust" ships, refusing entry to American ports and the imposition of heavy fines or the confiscation of such vessels, are among the penalties provided for conviction of violation of the law.

DUCHESS OF CONNAUGHT STRICKEN WITH APPENDICITIS

Floods Destructive In Quebec.

Scotstown, Que., June 4.—High water has done $40,000 damage. The Pemberton Lumber Co.'s dam has been swept away and the electric power station at the south end of the structure destroyed. The town will be without light for an indefinite period. Two hundred feet of the Canadian Pacific Railway tracks was washed out.

Gotham Boys' Real Desperadoes.

Niagara Falls, Ont., June 4.—Armed like real desperadoes, two New York boys, Roy Wallerth and Myron White, were picked up by Canadian immigration authorities after entering the country aboard a freight train. Their guns were confiscated and a $10 fine imposed. Their parents wired the money last night.

MR. BALL IS FOREMAN

Ald. Gordon Recommends Mr. Neary for Sewer Work

Board of Works Voted in Favor of Mr. Ball.

A couple of clauses were held up in the report of the chairman of the Board of Works last evening by Ald Gordon. One was Paragraph 9, relating to a cement sidewalk being laid on Princess street from Park street to Lock street. Ald. Gordon moved that the sidewalk be laid on the south side of Princess from George street to Lock. The motion carried. Ald Gordon contended that it was hardly fair to make certain property holders pay for a sidewalk on a stretch of vacant land.

Another clause objected to by Ald. Gordon was in Paragraph 22, relating to the appointment of Wm. Ball as foreman of sewer construction. Mr. Gordon moved that M. Neary be the foreman and if a second foreman is required, that Wm. Ball be taken on. Ald. Gordon's reason for thinking this the better plan, was, that he understood that Neary had had five years' experience on sewer work and had been highly recommended by the late Water Works Superintendent, Mr. Henderson. He therefore moved that the recommendations be reversed.

It was stated that Mr. Ball had put in an application for the position some time ago, although no trace of it could be found.

When put to vote, however, Ald. Gordon's motion lost, and Wm. Ball remains foreman.

THAT $300.00.

After Ald. Anderson presented the report of the Finance Committee Ald. Brown wondered if the granting of $300 to the July 1st celebration was a good move and if the $300 could not be spent to better purpose. Ald Brown was unfamiliar with what was proposed and on the Mayor explaining to him the objects in view, he withdrew his objection.

The bylaw authorizing the construction of cement pavements passed all three readings successfully.

A by-law authorizing the closing up of Townsend street or rather the part of it required by the C.G.E. and authorizing the conveyance of the same to the Company, went through all three readings without a hitch.

Ald. Buller read a letter received from the City Engineer, stating that Mr. Thomas Rutherford was building for Mr. Isaac Eastwood, a frame, brick veneered, building across the creek on Hunter street on the south side. Steel girders will be used to support the structure. This is an infringement of the building bylaw but as the engineer recommended it, seeing that there was no other way to go about it, the matter may stand. The question, however, will come up at the meeting of the Council on Thursday.

WAS NO NEED TO BRIBE JURY

Los Angeles, Cal., June 4.—That the arrangements of Clarence S. Darrow, the former McNamara lawyer, now on trial accused of having bribed jurors for the McNamara brothers to plead guilty had been made before the conclusion of the alleged negotiations for the bribery of Juror George N. Lockwood, was indicated yesterday. A special session of the county grand jury for the purpose of further investigation of the alleged corruption of jurors by the McNamara defence was the only important development in the trial of Darrow yesterday.

The grand jury session was designated by a member of the prosecution as a "fishing expedition" which might result in the return of several indictments against persons heretofore not charged with complicity in the alleged unlawful operations of the McNamara defence.

No Funds For Tariff Board.

Washington, June 4.—Provision for President Taft's tariff board was eliminated in the sundry civil appropriation bill as reported to the House yesterday. The annual appropriation of $25,000 for the President's traveling expenses was allowed, but the total appropriation was cut to a little more than $109,000,000, making heavy reductions in provisions for the Panama Canal, public buildings and other projects.

Dr. Garrow of Montreal Left For Quebec on a Special Train and It Is Said That He Has Been Called Upon to Operate on Her Royal Highness at Quebec—Duke Attends Banquet.

Montreal, June 4.—It is reported here that the Duchess of Connaught was seized with an acute attack of appendicitis at the Citadel, Quebec. At ten minutes to 9 a telegraphic order came for a special train to take Dr. A. E. Garrow, the well-known specialist in abdominal surgery, to Quebec as soon as possible. Orders were at once given, and at a quarter to 10 the train pulled out, with instructions that nothing should delay it, and that it must reach Quebec in three and a half hours, so that it should reach Quebec shortly after 1 o'clock. This is a very fast run for the 172 miles.

The train took Dr. Garrow, with two trained nurses.

Duke at State Dinner.

Quebec, June 4.—It was reported here yesterday morning that Her Royal Highness the Duchess of Connaught was indisposed and that appendicitis was feared. Later it was stated that the duchess was better, and was so well that the Duke of Connaught attended a state dinner given by his honor the Lieutenant-Governor, at Spencerwood, in honor of the birthday of the King.

During the evening, however, a message was sent to Montreal ordering the attendance of Dr. A. E. Garrow. It was, however, stated that this measure was taken as a matter of precaution, and that Her Royal Highness was resting easily. At midnight it was stated at the Citadel that the royal family had retired for the night and that all reports of serious illness were unfounded.

LATER

At noon the following official statement was given to the press at the Governor-General's quarters: "Her Royal Highness, the Duchess of Connaught, is suffering from a mild attack of catarrhal appendicitis. Dr. Garrow was called in in consultation, and it has been decided to move her Royal Highness to the Royal Victoria Hospital, Montreal, to-day for observation. Signed. H. C. Lowther, Lieut.-Col., Military Secretary."

BOOK ROOM TO TAKE MORE CARE

Woodstock, June 4.—How a now celebrated though publicly nameless book happened to be issued from the Methodist Book Room when in character it was not adjudged fit for circulation was explained to the Hamilton Methodist conference yesterday afternoon by Rev. Dr. Wm. Briggs, book steward. The issuing of this book was harshly criticized by Rev. J. W. Aikens Sunday, he believing it to have been published by the Book Room.

Dr. Briggs, who reported that the Book Room business had yielded $23,000 to the superannuation fund, said the book in question came in the ordinary course from a very reputable publishing house in London.

"The book has no imprint upon it of our house, but of the London house," said the doctor.

Rev. J. W. Aikens replied that the book had been advertised with the name of Wm. Briggs after it and his wife, who had started to read the book before she knew its character had described some parts to him and they were not fit to be described in conference. This kind of thing had happened in the Book Room before, and must not happen again if it were possible to prevent it.

Rev. Dr. Smythe of Wesleyan Theological College, Montreal, announced that $250,000 had to be raised to erect and equip a new college.

Various reports were given, and the church union vote was reported, the total vote for being 31,280 and against 5,341, or six to one in favor.

Is a Devoted Teacher.

Toronto, June 4.—James Wilson, chairman of the Swansea School Board, has issued a letter to the press in reference to the punishment given to Frances MacLean, the little girl who was tied in a chair by a teacher on Thursday last. Mr. Wilson states that Miss Stewart bestows very motherly attention upon all the pupils under her charge, as was well shown during the severe days of last winter. The writer also says that upon the assurance of the board that the teacher had taken the action without any malicious intention, in lieu of using the strap, the parents of the girl were satisfied to let the matter drop. The board admits that the method of punishment was unfortunate.

ELECTION RIOTS IN BELGIUM

Special to the Review.

Brussels, June 4.—The election, which began yesterday in Belgium, has taken on a revolutionary character, following troubles in Liege and Ververs, where gendarmes fired into a crowd, killing and wounding over fifty. To-day there came news of outbreaks in the large centres of almost every province. A number of Jesuit colleges and Catholic institutions were attacked by mobs and gendarmes, charged the rioters at several points with broadswords.

Rev G. S. Jury, formerly of Bowmanville, was inducted pastor of the Cobourg Baptist church.

THE AD. CLUB DINNER

Messrs. H. B. Cowan and C. F. Hardy, the delegates to the recent Ad Men's Convention in Dallas, Texas, will give a report of their trip at the dinner which the local Ad Club will hold in Hooper's Palm Parlors to-morrow evening. These reports will be something worth hearing containing as they will valuable information, not only of the business transacted but of the country at large and what steps have been taken to advertise Ontario. Peterborough was well represented by its delegates to the great convention and what they saw and did cannot fail to interest all those who may be fortunate enough to attend the dinner.

OUR CITY STREETS

It was a solid, substantial and prosperous looking deputation that the Auto Association sent to the City Council last night to ask for better streets. The members of it who spoke were moderate in the statement of their views and reasonable in their requests. All they ask for is that the city streets be kept free from ruts and holes and that some improvements be made to the approaches of the railway crossings.

The auto owners are not alone in the position which they take. Liverymen and teamsters join in the complaint of rough city highways and the milkmen say their article of commerce is almost churned into butter at the crossings as their waggons make their rounds.

Mayor Bradburn with a few words satisfied the members of this influential delegation. He told them the board of Works had been up against it this spring on account of the excessive rain but that their intention was to do the best they could with all speed and to confer with the railways about the improvements of the crossings. Gravel suitable for road repairing cannot be got within a radius of six or eight miles from the city according to Ald. Buller but provision is being made to bring it here.

Apart from their value as a means of locomotion automobiles have served another important purpose. Good roads both in city and country, the world over, follow their use for wherever autos are owned then comes the agitation for better highways. Peterborough's streets are not of the worst by any means and now we have the assurance of the City Council that they are to be made much better.

THE CARTIER CENTENARY

The movement to commemorate in 1914 the birth of the late Sir George E. Cartier by erecting a monument to his memory is meeting with a generous response throughout the country. Among the most liberal subscriptions received to date are $20,000 from the Dominion Government, $10,000 from the Quebec Legislature, $5,000 each from the Ontario and Manitoba Legislature, $10,000 from the city of Montreal, $100 from the Canadian Club of Halifax, and $50 from the Canadian Club of Victoria, B.C. Premier Borden, Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Sir Lomer Gouin have each sent three personal subscriptions for $100. Lord Strathcona has written from London his entire approval of the movement, after cabling his acceptance of a place on the membership committee, and has also subscribed $2,500.

All classes of people throughout Canada are sending in contributions which are duly acknowledged by the committee, of which Mr. E. W. Villeneuve, of Montreal, is president, his address being Box 188 in that city.

The late Sir George Etienne Cartier was one of Canada's statesmen who fought so valiantly for the confederation of the provinces, and who was great enough to rise above all petty strife of creed and party. The late Sir John A. Macdonald once said of him: "Cartier was as bold as a lion but for him Confederation could not have been carried." Sir Charles Tupper, now the only surviving father of that political triumph, says: "Without Cartier there could have been no Confederation, and therefore Canada owes him a debt which can never be repaid."

The City Council of Peterborough was asked for a donation some time ago, but although no action has yet been taken, the request will no doubt meet with a generous response, and a contribution from the local Canadian Club is also being talked of.

SEEN THROUGH ALIEN EYES

Jefferson M. Levy, congressman from New York, evidently knows a good thing when he sees it and when he looks about him for a model upon which he would fashion the legislation of his country his eye naturally rests upon his Canadian neighbor. Mr. Levy supports a bill to create a legislative body and confer other benefits upon Alaska with a view to the development of that territory.

Mr. Levy in a recent speech to congress owned up that it was as gall and wormwood for him to admit that Canada can pursue a wiser policy in any directon than the United States but a strong regard for truth compels him to do so. Canada has, he says, opened up the resources of the great West, principally by pursuing a liberal policy in the building of railways, a policy which Mr. Levy is anxious to see adopted by his own country. Figures are quoted to show what Canada spends in railway construction, while her mining policy is also held up as an example.

Mr. Levy, who is a Democrat, could not conclude his speech without a reference to reciprocity. He says that when the party of which he is a member stood for reciprocity it was with no thought of political union. They were simply desirous of freer trade relations as befitted a party whose chief tenet of faith is free trade. To have a friendly and independent nation to the north of him, acting as it does as a buffer for the aggressions of any foreign power, is safer, Mr. Levy thinks, for his country, than to have Canada a part of the American union.

With Senator Beveridge, Governor Wilson, and all the other notable Americans who see in the administration of Canadian affairs many points worthy the emulation of Uncle Sam Mr. Levy is now enrolled and a valuable press agent for this country he has proved himself.

Meaford is to have its first fair on Tuesday, June 11.

NOTE AND COMMENT

American brewers have tried to introduce their product into the new Chinese Republic, but the Celestial palate will have none of it.

Guelph is having trouble with the fire department and a thorough reorganization is proposed. If the Royal City authorities are looking for a model, all they have to do is to come to Peterborough and see a fire brigade in the full pink of perfection.

General Booth may lose his sight but that active mind and vigorous spirit, not to be impaired by either blindness or age, will to the last direct and control the immense organization, which is the result of his life's work.

William Jennings Bryan, in his paper, the Commoner, says Roosevelt will be the Republican candidate and that either Wilson or Clark can beat him to the post. Mr. Bryan has made so many incorrect forecasts that he has lost caste as a prophet.

The increasing study of the works of Browning is winning new friends for that poet and Toronto University proposed to mark the centenary of his birth, by placing a stained glass memorial window in that institution and establishing a Browning scholarship, in connection with the study of English literature. The necessary funds will be raised by popular subscriptions.

THE MARKET

Latest Quotations in Grain Dairy Products, Live Stock Etc.

Liverpool and Chicago Wheat Futures Close Higher—Live Stock—Latest Quotations.

CHICAGO, June 3.—Irreparable damage, said to have been inflicted on thousands of acres of wheat in Kansas and Nebraska, sent the price of the cereal to-day to a much higher level. It was declared by experts that the rainfall which was supposed to have broken the drought had been altogether insufficient over a large portion of the two states named, and that moisture now for such districts would be without avail. The close was firm within a shade of the top figures reached, 1⅞c to 2c net advance. Corn finished ¼c to ⅝c up, oats with a gain of ⅝c to 1¼c, and provisions dearer by 27½c to 50c.

The Liverpool markets closed to-day ⅛d higher to ⅛d lower on wheat, and corn ⅛d to ⅝d lower. Berlin closed ⅝c lower on wheat, and Antwerp unchanged.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, June 3.—At the Montreal Stock Yards, West End Market, the receipts of live stock for the week ending June 1 were 900 cattle, 600 sheep and lambs, 2500 hogs and 1100 calves. The supply on the market this morning for sale consisted of 400 cattle, 125 sheep and lambs, 1500 hogs and 300 calves.

A stronger feeling prevailed in the market for cattle to-day and prices advanced 25 per cwt., owing to the fact that the run was 250 smaller than a week ago, which is due to the steadily increasing scarcity of finished stock thruout the country and the keen competition for the same between American and Canadian buyers.

There was no change in the condition of the market for hogs since last week, but prices are 25c to 30c per cwt. lower than they were this day week, owing to the increased receipts.

Butchers' cattle, choice, $8 to $8.25; butchers' cattle, medium, $6.75 to $7; common, $5 to $5.50; choice cows, $6.50 to $7; medium, $5.75 to $6; bulls, $6.50 to $7; milkers, choice, each, $80 to $90; common and medium, each, $65 to $75; springers, $50 to $60.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years, was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucuous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

Address—F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

Guessing Proverbs.

This proverb contest is a little "different." To play it each man or girl names the subject or moral of some proverb and one of the words used in its original form. Thus a player having in mind the adage "Straws show which way the wind blows" would say, "Subject, importance of trifles; word, way." Another, "All is not gold that glitters," would say. "Subject, danger of judging from appearances; word, gold." The player first to guess the proverb wins a point toward the game, which may be any number previously agreed upon.

"Fruit-a-tives Saved my Life"

NIAGARA FALLS, ONT., JULY 26th, 1911.

"For thirteen years, I was a terrible sufferer from the tortures of Sick Headache, Indigestion, Constipation and Vomiting. I could not retain much food, and this, together with the pain, and headaches, was driving me to the grave.

Then I used "Fruit-a-tives" and almost at once I got relief.

"Fruit-a-tives" stopped the vomiting, relieved the Constipation, toned up the stomach, and gave me the first relief in years. I feel that I owe my life to "Fruit-a-tives" and for the sake of other victims of Indigestion and Headaches, I will allow this statement to be published."

HARRY DICKINSON.

Cynthia's Chauffeur

By LOUIS TRACY

Copyright by McLeod & Allen, Toronto

Not content with her out pouring to Devar she dashed off a warning to Marigny. She imagined that the Frenchman would grin at his broken fortunes, and look about for another heiress! And so, abandoning a meal to the fever of scribbling, she packed more mischief into an hour than any elderly marriage-broker in Europe that day, and waddled off to the letter-box with a sense of consolation, strong in the belief that the morrow would bring telegrams to guide her in the fray with Mrs. Leland.

Medenham sent a short note to his father, saying that he would reach London about midnight next day and asking him to invite Aunt Susan to lunch on Tuesday. Then he waited in vain for sight of Cynthia until, driven to extremes by teatime, he got one of the maids to take her a verbal message, in which he stated that the climb to the summit of the Yat could be made in half an hour.

The reply was deadening.

"Miss Vanrenen says she is busy. She does not intend to leave the hotel to-day; and you will please have the car ready at eight o'clock to-morrow morning."

Then Medenham smiled ferociously, for he had just ascertained that the local telegraph office opened at eight.

"Kindly tell Miss Vanrenen that we had better make a start some few minutes earlier, because we have a long day's run before us," he said.

And he hummed a verse of "Young Lochinvar" as he moved away, thereby provoking the maid-servant to an expression of opinion that some folk thought a lot of themselves—but as for London shuffers and their manners—well there!

CHAPTER XII

Masques, Ancient and Modern

The clouds did not lift until Cynthia was standing in front of that remarkable Map of the World which reposes behind oaken doors in the south aisle of Hereford Cathedral. During the run from Symon's Yat, not even a glorious sun could dispel the vapors of that unfortunate Sunday. Cynthia had smiled a "Good-morning" when she entered the car, but beyond one quick glance around to see if the deputy chauffeur was in attendance—which Medenham took care he should not be—she gave no visible sign of yesterday's troubles, though her self-contained manner showed that they were present in her thoubhts.

Mrs. Devar tried to be gracious, and only succeeded in being stilted, for the shadow of impending disaster lay black upon her. Medenham's only thrill came when Cynthia asked for letters or telegrams at the Green Dragon, and was told there was none. Evidently, Peter Vanrenen was not a man to create a mountain out of a molehill. Mrs. Leland might be trusted to smooth away difficulties; perhaps he meant to await her report confidentially and in silence.

But that square of crinkled vellum on which Richard of Holdingham and Lafford had charted this strange old world of ours as it appeared during the thirteenth century helped to blow away the mists.

"I never knew before that the Garden of Eden was inside the Artic Circle," said the girl, gazing awe-stricken at the symbolic drawings of the eating of the forbidden fruit and the expulsion of Adam and Eve from Paradise.

"No later than yesterday I fancied it might have been situated in the Wye Valley," commented Medenham.

The cast was skilful, but the fish did not rise. Instead, Cynthia bent nearer to look at Lot's wife, placed in situ.

"Too bad there is no word about America," she said irrelevantly.

"Oh, even at that date the United States were on the other side. You see, Richard was a person of intelligence. He anticipated Galileo by making the earth round, so he would surely get ahead of Columbus in guessing at a New World."

They were the only tourists in the cathedral at that early hour, so the attendant verger tolerated this flippancy.

"In the left-hand corner," he recited, "you see Augustus Caesar delivering orders for a survey of the world to the philosophers Nichodoxus, Theodotus, and Polictitus. Near the center you have the Labyrinth of Crete, the Pyramids of Egypt, the House of Bondage, the Jews worshiping the Golden Calf——"

"Ah, what a pity we left Mrs. Devar at the post-office—how she would have appreciated this!" murmured Medenham.

Still Cynthia refused to take the fly.

"May we visit the library?" she asked, dazzling the verger with a smile in her best manner. "I have heard so much about the books in chains, and the Four Gospels in Anglo-Saxon characters. Is the volume really a thousand years old?"

From the Cathedral they wandered into the beautiful grounds of the Bishop's Palace, where a brass plate, set in a boundary wall, states in equivocal phrase that "Nell Gwynne, Founder of Chelsea Hospital, and Mother of the first Duke of St. Albans," was born near the spot thus marked. Each remembered the irresponsible chatter of Saturday, but neither alluded to it, nor did Medenham offer to lead Cynthia to Garrick's birthplace. Not forty-eight hours, but long years, as measured by the seeming trivialities that go to make or mar existence, spanned the interval between Bristol and Hereford. They chafed against the bonds of steel that yet sundered them; they resented the silent edict that aimed at parting them: by a hundred little artifices each made clear to the other that the coming separation was distasteful while an eager interest in the commonplace supplied sure index of their embarrassment. And so, almost as a duty, the West Front, the North Porch the Close, the Green, the Wye Bridge were duly snap-shotted and recorded in a little book that Cynthia carried.

Once, while she was making a note Medenham held the camera, and happened to watch her as she wrote. At the top of a page he saw "Film 6, No. 5: Fitzroy poses as the first Earl of Chepstow." Cynthia's left hand hid the entry just a second too late.

"I couldn't help seeing that," he said innocently. "If you will give me a print, I shall have it framed and place it among the other family portraits."

"I really meant to present you with an album containing all the pictures which turn out well," she said.

Fitzroy poses as the first Earl of Shepstow

"You have not changed your mind, I hope?"

"N-no, but there will be so few. I was rather lazy during the first two days."

"You can trust me to fill in the gaps with exceeding accuracy."

"Oh, don't let us talk as if we would never meet again. The world is small—to motorists."

OSHKIGMONG NEWS

Special Correspondence.

Oshkigmong, June 3.—Mr. E. Menace, of Sarnia, was here last week collecting some traditions and mythology relating to Indians of years gone by which is but vaguely remembered by the present generation. However, Mr. Samuel Lute, one of the oldest in the reserve, was fortunate enough to have preserved some very interesting stories about the ancient Indians, and gave him some very important facts.

Misses Lavenia Wheltung and Lucy Paudash of Hiawatha, were here for a few days last week biddings goodbye to their friends prior to their departure for Toronto, where they intend to make their home for a time.

Miss Alice Jane, daughter of David and Elizabeth Taylor, celebrated her birthday on the 22nd inst., with a large number of young folks, and also some older people, numbering altogether about forty. A splendid luncheon was provided for the guests, which was liberally served, after which some games were indulged in to the hearts' content of every participant. The main feature of the evening was when the little lady was honored by a gift of an Indian name by Mr. Jeremiah Crow, of Hiawatha, who performed the ceremonial ordinance in the usual manner customarily performed by ancient Indians. Alice now assumes a very beautiful name, which means "Beautiful dawn of day," "Peabegahndahpenoqua."

Victoria Day was spent here very quietly. The children, of course, furnished all the sports. At night there was a grand display of fireworks. Our ball team played a friendly game with the Lakefield nine.

Mr. Richardson, of Lindsay, preached in our church last Sunday morning from the words found in St. John, 15th chapter, 12, 13, 14 verses.

CITY FATHERS DISCUSS PAVING QUESTION BUT THE POLES ARE IN THE WAY

At the session of the City Fathers last night, the matter of street paving for Peterborough came in for a thorough discussion. Ald. Buller outlined all the steps that had been taken with a view to getting the work under way in the city as expeditiously as possible. His purpose in gonig over everything was to show to the people, who are continually asking what is being done that the Board of Works have not been asleep or in any way inactive in the matter.

When it was agreed in the first place to pave George street and Charlotte street an arrangement was entered into with Mr. Duckworth of Toronto for the removal of all the G. N. W. telegraph poles on George st for the sum of $350.

THE POLE QUESTION

The C. P. R. have also signified their willingness to remove their cable poles at the Simcoe street corner. The Peterborough Light and Power are willing to take their poles off the east side of George street, and put in iron poles for trolley power and lighting the stores. They would be willing to go ahead and double track also as soon as the Council was ready to do the street paving.

"So you can see we have'nt been sitting down doing nothing," said Ald. Buller.

None of these people however have got busy in carrying out their promises apparently.

"I think" he added, "if we are going to do any street paving this year we had better get busy, or else drop it for another year.

"One thing must be done, and that is to have all those poles belonging to the Auburn Power Company, the Otonabee and the Peterboro Light and Power Co. removed. "There is only one power company in Peterborough now" said the people's candidate, "and why do all those poles be allowed to stand there."

Mayor Bradburn told the Council that the C. P. R. Inspector had been here three week sago, and had promised to get their cable diverted through the arcade way at the back of the Nova Scotia Bank.

Mr. Lytle superintendent of aerial and underground construction work was present and stated that he had been inveigled into the contract of removing the G. N. W. telegraph poles, as soon as the city decided to pave. He had been told however, he said, by Mr. Duckworth's chief clerk in Toronto, that the city did not intend to pave this year. If that were the case, a big contract in another city was waiting for him.

Ald. Johnston—"As long as we sit back and let these people ride over us they are going to do it. What are we here for? It seems to me we are just figure heads."

After this discussion the Council then adjourned and went into committee of the Whole.

THREE WAGONS TO BE USED TO CONTINUE THE WORK OF MR. SCRIVER

The fly in the honey of municipal matters just now, seems to be the garbage question.

The City Fathers reviewed the situation last evening and endeavored to discover just where they were at. The Mayor informed the Council that Mr. Scriver had abandoned for good the collecting of garbage, and that he had given authority to Mr. Spence the sanitary inspector, to engage some collectors until the Council could come to some better arrangement. Mr. Scriver having so suddenly has left the city in bad shape, as far as the garbage situation is concerned.

It appears that Scriver signed his papers, but failed to get any bondsmen to go good for him.

Ald. Johnston—"To my mind, gentlemen, this garbage question is in worse shape than it ever was."

Ald. Morgan—"While Mr. Scriver may not have been the best man for the job, he was the only man in Peterborough who volunteered to look after the garbage. On thinking it over he thought that Scriver could hardly be blamed for quitting the work at the contract price he had submitted. Ald. Morgan said he saw a load of garbage on Waters treet that would fill one wagon alone.

Ald. Graham said that he felt that Ald. Gordon was responsible for it all.

Ald. Buller—"I think myself that Scriver figured too cheaply. You could hardly expect him to collect for the amount he tendered." Regarding a place to dump the garbage now, Ald. Buller thought that Spaulding's Bay could yet be utilized. He had not heard of anybody dying from the effects of what had been thrown there. Ald. Buller commended the sanitary inspector for the good work he was doing. He felt that the officer was doing all he could to care for the garbage as satisfactorily as possible.

Ald. Morgan, expressing his opinion, said that this garbage system was going to be the greatest rent raiser that had ever struck the city. It benefits the larger fellow with the larger house more than the smaller fellow with the smaller house.

Ald. Anderson introduced a suggestion which presented some sensible aspects. He favored having a man engaged to go around with a large dump cart and collect the garbage from who ever wanted it done.

This man could tender so much for the privilege, the same as tenders are received for collecting the market tolls. He could go around in the area laid down and call upon any who wanted their garbage removed, and also go outside this district if need be. Many residents, said Ald. Anderson, have so little garbage that it is no nuisance: while others will continue to have their refuse removed by private carters as they have been accustomed to having it done. This plan, suggested the East City alderman, would do away with the garbage problem to a large and appreciable extent.

INCINERATOR NEEDED.

Mr. Spence was present and was asked to give his opinion.

"I would like to go on record, gentlemen," he said, "as saying that you will never have a satisfactory garbage disposal system here until you get an incinerator."

Mr. Spence was told that this was an impossibility for the Council to consider just yet. Next year maybe they would be able to put a by-law to the people for this, but not now.

OTHER CITIES

Mr. Spence then submitted some interesting statistical figures showing the amounts of garbage that are collected in the average city. The average American city of 18,000 produces about 57 cubic yards of garbage in a single day. Toronto produces about fifty cubic yards in a day, to every 18,000 citizens. He estimated that about 50 cubic yards accumulated in a day in Peterborough. One cubic yard of garbage weighs about 1,100 pounds. Mr. Spence maintained that with three rigs out in Peterborough the garbage could be all collected. Three teams could easily collect three loads of garbage a day in Peterborough, said Mr. Spence.

Until some further arrangements are made, Ald. Buller moved that the chairman of the Property Committee be given authority to hire rigs to collect the garbage till a better plan is formulated. This motion passed.

The little wayward winsome child,
So eager just to win the game,

To think, and oftentimes to pray—
Since each and all will there be found

ROMAINE STREET RESIDENTS COMPLAIN TO THE COUNCIL

Members of Motor Association Ask That Roads be Improved.

Several residents from Romaine st. waited upon the Council last evening and aired a complaint about the objectionable state of that street at the present time, just west of the railroad track. It appears that there is no way of draining off the surplus water which has accumulated there in some sections in regular miniature lakes, flooding cellars and causing the street to be impassible. One of the deputation said that he had three feet of water in his cellar. The Mayor explained to the deputation the Council's position in the matter and of the efforts that will be made to remedy the conditions. He told them it was their intention to put a culvert underneath the Grand Trunk track if they could secure the permission of the company and carry off the water to the Park street drain. They were assured that the Board of Works would make every effort to effect relief there as soon as possible.

MOTOR ASSOCIATION

The motoring fraternity were also largely represented at the meeting.

Mr. G. E. Patterson, acting as the first spokesman for the Motor Association advanced a plea for better better crossings and roads in the city, seeing that there were seventy-five to a hundred auto owners here, who found the roads in very bad condition in many places, being either bumpy or having depressions.

"We think our roads and crossings are in a scandalous condition" he remarked.

Mr. A. H. Stratton also stated that the roads were not in over good shape He thought if some of the depressions were filled in and a little levelling work done it would improve matters materially. Dr. Halliday said that he had often wondered why so little attention had been paid to the streets where there were depressions and other objectionable features, which he thought could be easily remedied.

Mr. T. F. Matthews suggested furthermore that the police be instructed to keep watch for offenders of the traffic by-law, to compel motorists and other vehicles to keep to the proper side of the street.

Replying to Mr. Matthews, Ald. Buller said that the roads that the Water Commissioners leave after them cost the city the largest amount of money to restore to good condition.

If the Water Commissioners and the Gas Companies look after the roads left by them, conditions would be much improved.

He also stated that it had been suggested dividing the city into four divisions, and having a cart detailed to look after each division doing road repair work. One difficulty the Board of Works were up against however was that of securing gravel any where near the city.

Mayor Bradburn — "Gentlemen of the deputation, it is pretty hard for us to do more than we have been doing towards road repairing. The rain has prevented us to a large extent. We have about seventy-six miles of streets in the worst condition. However, we hope to get the streets in better condition as rapidly as possible."

Mr. A. E. Coulthard suggested also that some action be taken towards repairing the railroad crossings. He did not know of one railroad crossing which was in any way decent for an auto to pass over.

HYDRO-ELECTRIC

It was exactly eleven o'clock last evening when the City Council adjourned to go into Committee of the Whole for a discussion of the Hydro-Electric situation. The press were excluded from the second meeting. The conclave resulted from certain communications dealing with the cost of production of hydro-electric power for Peterborough.

In connection with the question the following letter has been received from the Hon. Adam Beck, chairman of the Hydro-Electric Commission:

To the Mayor and Council of the City of Peterborough—

Gentlemen,—In compliance with the request of the City of Peterborough for an estimate of the amount of money necessary to enable the Council to submit a by-law to the ratepayers, receiving authority to issue debentures to acquire the system of the Peterborough Light and Power Company and change the present lighting system to a series Tungsten lamp system, it is estimated by the engineers of the Commission that this with extensions will cost $58,000. To install an underground system in the business section of the city with an ornamental street lighting system, $30,000, or a total of $88,000. I may say that a large amount of the money necessary for the underground system could be covered by a local improvement tax on the district affected.

I regret that we have been unable to give you the estimates at an earlier date appreciating the necessity of your requiring information, owing to the fact that you purpose doing some permanent paving and require to decide regarding the placing of the conduits underground in time to proceed with the work during the present season.

Yours truly,
HON. ADAM BECK.

Some communications to the Council last evening were as follows:

From the City Engineer, regarding the Dickson Dam, stating that the old bridge is in a very dilapidated condition and that the approximate cost of a six foot bridge for pedestrians would be $850.00.

From Joseph P. Cleal, of Toronto, applying for the position of Industrial Commissioner for Peterborough. —Referred to the Manufacturers' Committee.

From residents of Gilmour street and Homewood avenue, a petition largely signed asking that Babb's Lane be widened.—Referred to the Board of Works, with power to act.

Mr. W. J. Henry on behalf of the petitioners, appeared, to urge some action being taken in the matter.

From C. H. Williamson, secretary-treasurer of the Horticultural Society, asking a grant of $600.00 for the care taking and up keeping of Central and Victoria Parks this year.

The following petition was also read, signed on behalf of the petitioners by Mr. J. Hanna:

The residents and petitioners whose health is endangered by inhaling poisonous gas, and who are continually annoyed by showers of oily soot settling down on their lines of freshly washed clothes, coming into the houses covering the beds, soiling everything it touches, covering the food we eat and getting into the water we drink, spoiling wearing apparel, etc., and all this accompanied by blackening smoke which frequently has a sickening smell with it, etc., etc., desire to again petition our honored Council for the removal of this nuisance which continues to get worse and worse.

It is simply unbearable and if we suffer so much now, what will it be when, as we understand, it is the Company's intention to construct another gasometer, and so increase the nuisance?

The M.H.O. strongly counsels, and rightly so, opening windows and doors for fresh air, but when we comply with his wise counsel in place of fresh air we get our houses filled with poisonous gas smoke and oily soot, which will not brush off, but stays wherever it lights.

And, by the way, we are at a loss to know why the M.H.O. when invited to do so, did not take this evidence from the sufferers when making his investigation, and not consult with the Gas Company. Is it fair? We have only actions from which to judge.

Gentlemen we respectfully submit that this is an unsanitary and annoying nuisance in the full sense of the term and we look to our honored Council to protect our rights.

Mr. Hanna was present to back up the assertions of the petition. If need be, he said, he could go on and talk for an hour on what the people in that vicinity have to put up with.

Mr. Hannah's petition was referred to the Board of Health who will consider the matter in conjunction with the Council Health Committee. If they are unable to bring about the change for the better, the complaint will be sent on to the Provincial Board of Health.

Dr. McNulty wrote the Council asking to have his resignation accepted as chairman of the Board of Health owing to lack of time to attend to his duties.

Another communication was received asking if it were possible for a good bandmaster to make a living in Peterborough.

The Clerk of the township of Smith wrote, complaining of the garbage dump, stating that it was a nuisance to the residents. Referred to the Property Committee.

The City Clerk was given authority to attend the meeting of the Ontario Municipal Association in Toronto on June 18th and 19th.

A communication from the Horticultural Society was received, asking that some drastic action be taken to protect fruit trees from the caterpillars.

WHITE CAPS DROP BOTH GAMES AND SEND KANE'S MEN ON TOP OF LEAGUE

Osborne Pitched Great Ball in First Contest and Deserved to Win, But His Team Couldn't Hit — Brantford Took Second Game Through Hits and Errors.

Ambrose Kane's clouters from Brantford went after the White Caps for two games yesterday afternoon at the Oval,

And it was easy picking.

In the first game Connolly endeavored in six of the nine innings to present the Petes with the game, but they didn't want it. In those half dozen rounds, the Brantford heaver allowed the first White Cap to reach first bag. He passed nine men and hit one.

At the same time Lank Osborne, one of Templin's recruits, was pitching clever ball, and with an ordinary village nine behind him, would have beaten the visitors by a dozen runs.

A lusty hit by Peterborough at almost any stage of the game would have brought the game Osborne's way, but there was nothing doing. Jayes was the only man to get a clean out hit, and that came in the third, when a pass and an error at first gave the Caps the only run.

Barthold sent a hard drive to centre in the seventh, and is credited with a single, although Burrill let the hard chance get away from him. That was all the Petes could do with Connolly.

Brantford hit in two of their runs and got the other on a wild peg to third by Hartman.

Peterborough had a great chance to bag the game in the seventh, following Barthold's hit and two passes. With two gone and all bags working the best Jimmie Beard could do was a grounder to the pitcher.

SECOND GAME.

Schaeffer took the box for Peterborough, and Tasker for Brantford, and the first three men went out in order, Jimmie Beard making the best play of the two contests by going into the crowd and getting after a long fly.

With Jayes passed and Nasher out to the catcher on a fly foul, Beard smashed the first pitched ball to the tall pines, and the White Caps had two runs as a start. Templin walked. Dolan sacrificed and Hartman ended with a fly. Brantford proceeded to get the runs back. Ivers and Burrill singled in turn, and both advanced on Gainer's sacrifice, Templin taking the bag as Barthold was playing close in. The ball went to the pitcher. Elcock's single scored both runners. The next two grounded out.

On the other hand, the Brants hit Schaeffer, and assisted by the amateur work of the Caps, Kanes' men took four more runs. Trout batted for Schaeffer in the fifth, but did nothing. Nork finished the game and held the enemy safe.

COAL IS HIGHER

Increases Are Due Strike of The Pennyslania Miners.

Consumers of coal during the month of June will probably wonder at the high price they will be required to pay when compared with last summer's prices. People have been so accustomed to receiveing the usual summer reduction that it will not be surprising if they express considerable disinclination to meet the higher prices this season. But the fault, or blame must not be attributed to the local dealers for a momnet. The real reason lies back of local conditions. The fact that there will be no reduction this summer, and the reason that there is a substantial advance is due to the recent strike of the coal miners in Pennsylvania, and their return to work at a ten per cent. increase in wages.

The dealers have lost two months' shipments owing to the suspension of work by the miners. In other years a discount was made to dealers in June but this year an extra charge of forty cents has been tacked on.

The local dealers received a circular letter from the shippers intimating the course which they had been compelled to pursue to equalize matters, and it is this which has come into force, commencing this month. Last June egg and stove coal sold at $7.10 per ton, and nut coal at $7.35. This season's prices will be $7.50 and $7.75 per ton, respectively.

The Merchants' Association of New York have instituted a thorough and impartial investigation of the causes of the increase.

THE AD. CLUB MEETING

Convention Delegates to be Heard To-morrow Evening.

The local delegates to the great Ad Men's Convention in Dallas, Texas, Mr. H. B. Cowan, and Mr. C. F. Hardy who have just returned from their trip will, to-morrow evening, Wednesday, June 5th., tell local business men and others who desire to hear them, something of the benefit they have received. For the occasion, the local Ad Club has arranged for a dinner, commencing at 6.15 sharp. in sharp. in Colemans' Grill Room, after the returned delegates will address the gathering.

Upwards of 3,000 people, business men who went to learn of advertising attended the convention. These delegates were from all parts of the United States and also various points in Canada, including the city of Quebec; they came also from Honolulu and two delegates were present from Great Britain. It was estimated that it cost the delegates something like $300,000 to attend the convention. These delegates included the heads of large business concerns expending in some cases upwards of $100,000 a year in advertising. There were present also the advertising representatives of the leading daily papers, farm papers and magazines of the United States and Canada.

These men related at the convention results that have attended their various advertising campaigns, they told of mistakes they had made themselves, as well as telling of their successes. From their experiences they pointed out where many firms fail because of lack of efficiency in their business management.

One of the Dallas daily editors said that the salaries of the delegates in attendance ranged from $2,000 to $70,000 a year. This gives some idea of the calibre of the men who were in attendance.

Canadian delegates advertised Canada to an extent unequalled by any of the United States delegations, although it was estimated that the San Francisco delegation alone spent upwards of $30,000 in their efforts to get the next convention for the Pacific Coast. The Canadian delegates found that the Southern states are being boomed to an extent little dreamed about by the people of Ontario, and that Ontario is being left behind by the the Southern States. Land in Texas, for instance has risen from $10 and $20 an acre to $70 and $80 per acre within the past few years, and millions and millions of dollars, much of it British capital is being invested there.

It is not too much to expect that Mr. Hardy and Mr. Cowan will give those in attendance at the Ad Club dinner to-morrow night, a rare and profitable treat. There is no charge other than the tickets for the dinner, which may be had from the secretary, Mr. J. McNichol, at Cressman's Departmental stores. Phone 1333. The accomodation is limited, so arrange for your ticket at the earliest possible moment. All will be over at 8 o'clock sharp so you may get away to other engagements.

JACK THE CATERPILLAR KILLER

Mr. John Amo, with much earnestness, strove to impress the City Council last evening that he has a caterpillar destroyer which he would guarantee would bring death to the pests every time. All he wanted was an opportunity to demonstrate his wonderful invention to some of the Aldermen when its efficacy would be undeniably revealed. He was informed that the matter would be referred to the Board of Works with power to act.

CITY TEAMSTERS TO GET INCREASE TO $4 PER DAY

Seven teamsters out of the twelve engaged on city work, who asked for higher wages, were in attendance at the City Council meeting last night in support of their claim. The majority of the Council seemed to feel that the demands of the teamsters were reasonable and that it was difficult to keep and feed a horse besides getting a living wage on less than $4.00 a day, the amount which the men were asking. Ald. Morgan stated that to his mind, the majority of the teamsters were going in the hole on the $3.65 per day wage. He therefore moved that the teamsters be granted the increase. Ald. Duffus seconded.

Before the motion was put to vote Ald. Buller of the Board of Works said that the best plan would be for the Board to take it up at their next meeting.

"It will only be a matter of routine," said Ald Buller. This plan was finally agreed to.

The Mayor assured the teamsters that it would only be a matter of time, and that it would be proper to have the recommendation for a raise come from the Board of Works. The teamsters were satisfied to abide by this arrangement and retired with thanks.

The teamsters were informed that they need not mind attending the next Board of Works meeting when the matter will be taken up, it being a foregone conclusion that the raise would be recommended.

BURLEIGH FALLS WOULD HAVE PAID OFF ENTIRE DEBT OF PETERBORO COUNTY

Mr. Burnham held a midsummer meeting in the North Monaghan Town Hall last night. It was no reference to an impending election, because it is understood that as heretofore in case of redistribution, the full term of Parliament will be lived out. It is the custom, however, for members to pay a between session visit to their constituents and Mr. Burnham is simply following the custom and giving an account of the session to the electors. Reeve Howden was in the chair.

MARRIAGE QUESTION.

Mr. Burnham dwelt for some time upon the Marriage question and pointed out that the Federal Government, backed by the Whitney Government, were endeavoring to have it made clear for all time, that Parliament had the right to make every law it saw fit, marriage or otherwise for the government of the people. It was a desperate struggle, the course of the Government being met with strenuous opposition by the Laurier party.

MANITOBA'S BOUNDARIES.

The Opposition also fought against the extension of Manitoba's boundaries unless Manitoba came to terms. In this matter the Borden Government again fought successfully for the people and Manitoba was allowed to make its own terms, which have since been acknowledged to have been generous.

These terms however, were granted by the will of the people and not by the command of any organization and could be dealt with accordingly in the future.

THE BIG "MISTAKE."

Mr. Burnham also pointed out that the "mistake" made by the Laurier Government in its contract with the G.T.P. compelled the Borden Government by reason of the recent judgment of the Privy Council, handed to them in February, to pay $10,000,000 extra in cold cash to the magnates who are building the prairie section of the G.T.P.

This $10,000,000 would have given the Fenian Raid veterans a handsome sum, but it will be remembered that Sir Wilfrid Laurier opposed grants to these veterans. It would also have left a larger sum to be given the provinces for good roads, but it will be remembered also that Sir Wilfrid Laurier caused the Senate to throw out the Good Roads Subsidy Bill of the Borden Government.

BURLEIGH FALLS.

Mr. Burnham also dwelt upon the Laurier Government's consent to the transfer of the Burleigh Fall's lease, a transfer that enabled the fortunate gentleman who hadn't spent a cent on development, to pocket $200,000. The County of Peterborough should have had at least $150,000 of this sum.

Reeve Howden made the chief point of the evening, when he pointed out that Burleigh Falls could have paid off the entire debt of the County of Peterborough, whereas the Laurier Government, without excuse and for a sum of $1.00 a year, consented to the transfer of this county's assets without the county receiving a single cent out of it. There had never been in the history of the County of Peterborough such a colossal blunder as this and it was no wonder that the people were beginning to say that they now see how it is some men are able to get rich without working.

Although the attendance was not as large as usual, owing to the extremely bad condition of the roads, the audience included some of the most prominent ratepayers of North Monaghan and Mr. Burnham met with a most cordial reception and his course in Parliament was most heartily approved.

The meeting closed with cheers for the King and wishes that he would enjoy many happy returns of his birthday.

[redacted] REVOLT AND RIOT IN LEADING BELGIUM CITIES

Recent Victory of the Clerical Party at the National Elections Has Resulted in an Ominous State of Affairs and In Some Cases the Soldiers Are Siding With the Rioters—Reserves Are Called Out.

Brussels, June 5.—Belgium is in a state of eruption on account of the recent elections, and rioting throughout the country has taken on a revolutionary character. Many persons have been killed or wounded in various cities, and a large number of reserves have been called to the colors. The agitation in the industrial centres is rapidly increasing. Every hour brings news of fresh protests by the laboring classes against the Governmental victories.

The conservative elements are considerably alarmed over the tendencies of the civic guard, which corresponds to the Canadian militia, to make common cause with the rioters. This, however, is only in isolated instances. Brussels being a case in point, where the guard yesterday held a sympathetic celebration before the monument of Francisco Ferrer, the originator of the modern school in Spain.

The national disorders generally are attributed to the acute disappointment of the laboring classes over the pronounced victory of the clericals in the recent elections. The Socialists allied themselves with the Liberals on the public school question in opposition to the Government policy, hoping thereby to win a majority of the seats in the chamber. Their failure to do so caused a wave of anger to sweep over the country.

The latest reports from the provinces show that the strike has spread over the entire Liege Basin and has tied up most of the collieries and the big metal industry. In the centre of Belgium many industrial proprietors seem to approve of the strike and sympathize with the men. The women have aroused themselves to even greater frenzy than the men in the disorders, which are particularly anticlerical in character.

In all the collieries of the southeast, the Flemish workmen have been boycotted by the Walloons, and hundreds of them have already left the provinces. The street car employes have struck at La Louviere, and the municipal employes at Seraing.

Liege last night had the appearance of a besieged city. Two regiments are under arms, besides police, the civic guard and gendarmes. Several clashes occurred between the rioters and troops. Shots were exchanged, but a heavy downpour of rain drove the manifestants home. Lancers met and dispersed a column of miners from the neighboring collieries trying to enter the city.

In Brussels a mob last night made a rapid tour of the city, wrecking street cars, smashing windows and doing all manner of damage. They broke in the doors of the church of St. John and St. Nicholas, and entering, demolished the tabernacle. They then set fire to the doors. Next they tried to force an entry to the Monastery of the Artois Fathers, and arriving at the Andelecht quarters, wrecked a safe and attempted to storm a convent, but were effectually dispersed by firemen with streams from their hose.

A column of several thousand strikers left La Louviere for the nearby collieries last evening to induce the miners to join in the movement. The strikers were hotly pursued by mounted gendarmes and three hundred soldiers have been despatched from Charleroi for La Louviere, where serious rioting was feared last night.

At Cornu a mob wrecked the Catholic Club. At Brouges gendarmes fired on a mob, wounding fifty of the rioters, several of them fatally. The gendarmes were assailed with bottles, bricks, and pieces of furniture from hundreds of windows.

METHODISTS PRAISES SIR JAS. WHITNEY

Kingston, June 5.—The Montreal Methodist Conference yesterday commended the Ontario Legislature for legislation passed in the interests of temperance. Continued opposition was given the "three-fifths" clause.

Larger work along social purity in the larger cities was urged, and heavier penalty upon those guilty of keeping places of vice asked for. The Legislature was asked to have inspectors see that all hotels within local option districts give proper accommodation to travelers. This in view of many complaints.

Ladies, in the report of missionary societies, noted the fact that society women were conspicuous by their absence in this line of work.

BRITISH HOUSE HAS BIG PROGRAM

London, June 5.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—Parliament reassembled yesterday after the Whitsuntide holiday. It is admitted that the program awaiting digestion is truly gigantic and there is talk of dropping the Welsh disestablishment bill. Although this is certainly far from a popular measure with many supporters of the Government, yet it is extremely doubtful if the Ministerialists dare drop the measure.

The session will extend into next year.

Honor for Lord Strathcona.

London, June 5.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—The Albert medal of the Royal Society of Arts for the current year has been awarded by the council, with the approval of the Duke of Connaught, president of the society, to Lord Strathcona for his services in improving the railway communications, developing the resources and promoting the commerce and industry of Canada and other parts of the British Empire.

He is also looking up a route and station sites for the 13,200 volt supply lines between Prescott, Cardinal, Morrisburg and Lyn.

KING'S HORSE RAN FOURTH

Special to the Review.

Epsom Downs, June 5— "Tagalie," owned by W. Raphael, and a rank outsider, won the Derby to-day.

Tagalie was ridden by Johnny Reif, who rode Croker's winner, Orby, five years ago. He won this race by four lengths with Newman's Jaegar second, Bellmont's Tracery third, and King George's Pintadeau fourth. The crowd was large as usual, despite the threatening weather, and the King and Queen were early on the scene.

The betting on Tagalie was a hundred to eight. It was his race all the way. The favorite, at 2 to 8, finished seventh.

AUSTRIAN WAS BURNED TO DEATH

Special to the Review.

Sault Ste Marie, June 5— An Austrian named Wropelwski, arrested last night in an intoxicated condition and put into the lock up, set his own bed on fire and was burned to death in sight of the firemen, who were helpless to break in to rescue him. The lock-up key was in the pocket of the night policeman, who could not be found. The firemen were tortured by the sight of the helpless man running to and fro, and kneeling before the barred window in vain appeal.

Collected $8,500 In One Day.

Toronto, June 5.—That the sum of $8,500 has been contributed as a result of the first day in the six days' "whirlwind campaign" of West Presbyterian Church was the announcement made last night.

If hopes are realized $35,000 will be raised, which will clear the debt from the new church to be opened a week from next Sunday and enable a start to be made on the construction of a new Sunday school and lecture room.

TORONTO WOMAN KILLED BY TRAIN

Toronto, June 5.—Mrs. Jane Drouillard, a widow, aged 63 years of age, who lived at 70 Birch avenue, was killed by a westbound C.P.R. freight train at the C.P.R. crossing, opposite North Toronto station, about 11 o'clock yesterday. The unfortunate woman had been sent to pay a gas bill at the Dominion Bank at Cottingham and Yonge streets. How she happened to get between the cars is unknown, as no one saw the accident. Operator Childs was standing on the platform opposite the scene of the fatality when he saw what he thought to be the body of a man being tossed in and out of the wheels of the last few freight cars. He ran up to the platform and signalled to the engineer to stop, but it was not until the rear caboose had cleared the woman's body by some thirty yards that the train was brought to a standstill.

The train was in charge of Conductor W. J. Carson of 223 Annette street. The chief coroner was notified, and an inquest will be held.

Bedlam In Hungarian Parliament.

Budapest, Hungary, June 5.—The deadlock in Parliament was broken yesterday by Count Tisza, the new President of the Lower Chamber, who so successfully dragooned the noisy Oppositionists that the Government was able to carry its defence bills through all stages at a single sitting.

The tumult was terrific. All the members of the Opposition was supplied with whistles, trumpets, rattles or other instruments of the most discordant character and kept up an ear-splitting din.

Howls of execration met all Count Tisza's attempts to speak, but finally with the help of the members of the Right, he managed to carry the army bills, which has blocked Parliamentary business for months.

The Opposition intends to petition the Emperor to intervene.

SYDNEY VOTES A MILLION FOR PLANT

Sydney, C.B., June 5.—Sydney ratepayers, by an overwhelming majority, yesterday voted to grant a bonus of $1,000,000 to the British Canadian Shipbuilding Co. for the establishment of a shipbuilding plant in Sydney. The vote was 1,074 for and 172 against.

At a meeting of the council of the city, held a few days ago, a representative of the company were present and so impressed the citizens with the advantages that would accrue to them from having such an industry in their city that the result was expected. All kinds of types of sailing craft will be built in the yards which will be established here. The coming Canadian Navy vessels will be built in these docks.

The city expects an added impetus of prosperity from the establishing of the docks in the city. Work of construction will be commenced immediately.

Entitled To Be a Widow.

Pittsburg, Pa., June 5.—A woman who has not seen her husband for 27 years, can consider herself a widow. Such is the decision reached by a jury here in the case of Anna Duclanery.

The woman was charged with perjury and bigamy. She had obtained a marriage license to wed Jos. Giesileiski, and said she was a widow. Domestic troubles resulted in his laying the charge.

Must Go Back to Work First.

London, June 5.—At a meeting last evening of the employers, the demands of the strike leaders that all the transport strikers be reinstated, and a joint board representing both parties be created, met with an unqualified refusal.

The employers declared that no suggestion for a settlement would be accepted until the men resumed work.

The Duchess of Connaught Has Been Removed to Montreal In a Special C.P.R. Train and Is Being Treated at the Royal Victoria Hospital—Bulletin Does Not Say How Serious the Attack Is.

Montreal, June 5.—Her Royal Highness the Duchess of Connaught arrived in the city shortly after 9 o'clock last night on a special Canadian Pacific Railway train from Quebec, and was at once removed to the Royal Victoria Hospital.

Her Royal Highness' complaint has been diagnosed as peritonitis, but how serious it is has not yet been announced. The entire Governor-General's household was conveyed on the same train.

The duchess was placed in an automobile at the depot, which drove to the hospital at once. The duke and the ladies-in-waiting followed in another automobile. The rest of the party drove to the residence of Lord Strathcona on Dorchester street, where they will remain awaiting more definite information as to the condition of the royal patient.

The public was rigidly excluded from the station and only a few persons were on the platform when the special train drew in.

Official Bulletin.

Montreal, June 5.—The following official statement was given out:

"Her Royal Highness the Duchess of Connaught is suffering from an attack of peritonitis of, up to the present, obscure origin. Under the circumstances it was deemed advisable to move Her Royal Highness to the Royal Victoria Hospital at Montreal for further observation.

"Very satisfactory arrangements were made at the shortest notice with the Canadian Pacific Railway for the conveyance of the whole of the Governor-General's household from Quebec to Montreal. Her Royal Highness stood the journey well, sleeping during a great portion of the time.

"Any further bulletins that may be issued will be posted at 907 Dorchester street. (Signed)

"H. C. Lowther, Lt.-Col.,
"Military Secretary."

Insurance Rates Blamed.

Montreal, June 5.—High rates on tramp steamers is blamed by Major Stephens, chairman of the Montreal Harbor Commission, for the fact that forty-three per cent. of Canadian wheat shipments went forward through Buffalo to U. S. ports for shipment, instead of to Canadian ports. No improvement is in sight for this season.

Special to the Review.

Toronto, June 5—Edward Elmer McIntosh, who pleaded guilty in Sessions to stealing a package of unsigned Traders Bank bills from a Grand Trunk Express car while they were enroute from Ottawa to Toronto, was sentenced by Judge Denton this morning, to four years in Kingston. The offence was committed over a year ago and nearly every daily paper in Ontario was sued for libel as a result of the Attorney General's department giving out a photo of McIntosh's brother in mistake for his. Ismay Also Saw a Light.

London, June 5.—At the afternoon session of the Titanic inquiry, Sir Rufus Isaacs examined Mr. Ismay regarding his experiences after the ship had struck, which were related much as they had been before the Senatorial committee at Washington.

The witness said that he realized that the ship was sinking an hour and a half after she struck, but he did not tell anybody, and after helping those women and children who were on deck into the boats, did not go below to find others.

Nobody, Ismay said, could have gotten into his boat after he entered, as it was being lowered at the time. His boat rowed toward a light, which he believed was that of a sailing ship. It was not the Californian's light, as she was on the other side of the Titanic.

He admitted to the Lord Mersey Investigating Committee that he did not think of those left behind on the sinking Titanic.

MAY WAS NOT THINKING OF THOSE LEFT BEHIND

Special to the Review.

London, June 5— J. Bruce Ismay, stated at the Titanic enquiry, that he was aware that the steamer did not carry enough lifeboats to accommodate passengers and crew. When the last lifeboat left, the Titanic, he was aware that a number of passengers were still on board. When asked where the remaining passengers were when the boat in which he left got away," he replied, "I can only assume that they had gone to the after part of the ship. I was really not thinking about them." He did not think the lights seen by the survivors were those of the Californian as they were dull white. From the evidence, however, he did not doubt that the Californian saw the signals from the Titanic.

General Commanding Niagara Camp Argues That Present System by Which the Militiamen Rush to the Nearest Saloon and Drink Whisky Is an Evil That Should Be Remedied—Sell Only Beer.

Niagara-on-the-Lake, June 5.—That the present regulations regarding the sale of liquor in canteens at the military camps are ridiculous is the opinion of Gen. Cotton, camp commandant. With the criticisms of officers the general agrees. In his opinion the only way to get over the difficulty of drinking at military camps is to have a supervised canteen, where nothing but beer is sold, and where no man is allowed to drink to excess.

"I have not been down town," said the general last night, "and so don't know what the conditions are there." He judged, however, that the conditions pointed out are so because of the closed canteen in the camp grounds. "The system is perfectly ridiculous," he said, in advocating a supervised canteen, with proper supervision, where beer only can be sold. When men who wanted to get liquor went to camp, he said, they would get it, whether there were canteens or not, and the people who were against canteens in military camps did not know conditions. He stated that he did not wish to be drawn into a controversy, but said that in his opinion the only way to remedy present conditions was to have supervised canteens.

"Two years ago," he continued, "when the orders were given that there was to be no liquor sold in camp, some of the hotels lengthened their bar rooms, and were now doing a bigger business than ever. As he said at that time, at the conclusion of the camp, he still thinks that if men come in from a three-hour grind in the hot sun, there is no reason why they shouldn't have a glass of beer, in their own canteen, instead of going to town and drinking whisky. If the canteens were supervised by officers, no man would be able to get more than was good for him, and there would be less drunkenness in the lines."

All officers in camp were called to headquarters last night, and the order regarding liquor in camp was reissued.

When the ruralites landed at the local dock Monday, it was noticed that there were a number of civilians in the crowd. After the regiments had marched to the camp grounds, they followed and very shortly were seen recruiting on the common. In one company of the 36th there were only about a dozen real soldiers, but now there is a full established company.

One of the recruiting officers received word while in Niagara that they were sadly shy of men. He returned to Toronto, and gathered in a number of hungry unemployed, whose chief ambition was to get some grub. They are now eating in the regiment's mess tent and drilling with the others. There is a probability that there will be another investigation.

INVESTORS MAY LOSE BIG MONEY

Ottawa, June 5.—That if the order of the Railway Commission, establishing a Grand Trunk Pacific station at Hazelton, B.C., is reversed people who bought land at that point after the board's mandate of December last, will lose hundreds of thousands of dollars was made clear from the evidence presented at yesterday afternoon's sitting of the board when the case, which came up at the morning session, was resumed.

In the middle of it Assistant Chief Commissioner Scott and Commissioner Mills had to leave for Nova Scotia, where a sitting is to be held, but Commissioner McLean heard the rest of the evidence. The case will resume to-day. Many witnesses were heard.

OVER-WORKED KIDNEYS

Cause. Rush of Blood, Fullness, Dizziness.

J. T. Chatland, the well-known railway engineer of Hamilton, found the strain always resting upon men of his occupation vastly intensified by a tendency of the blood to rush to his head, and often at times when clearness of vision and great steadiness were demanded. Finding some difficulty in bending—a stiffness with pain having settled in his back, it occurred to him that his kidneys might be at fault. "This was a happy idea, for by it I not only got rid of the pain but many other troubles as well. I took a full dose of Dr. Hamilton's Pills and was glad to note that some obstruction of the kidneys, which I had lately noticed, was at once relieved. The flushed appearance of my face gave way to a more rational color and there was a perceptible improvement in my appetite. Dr. Hamilton's Pills certainly act splendidly upon the blood, removing heat and fulness and that sort of dizziness that makes a man at the throttle wish when it seizes him that he were elsewhere."

No medicine gives such unquestionably good results for stomach, liver, and blood troubles as Dr. Hamilton's Pills; they are mild, certain, and always curative. Refuse any substitute. All dealers sell Dr. Hamilton's Pills, 25c per box, or The Catarrhozone Co. Kingston, Ont.

THE CAMPAIGN OPENS

The Y.M.C.A. board of directors yesterday started out on their campaign to raise $5,000 for that institution, and the result of the first day's work, when $1,192.50 was pledged by the citizens of Peterborough shows clearly the high esteem in which the organisation is held by the public. One merchant sums it up in a sentence when he speaks of the work the Y.M.C.A. is doing for young men of the city, and gives a practical turn to his appreciation by a promise of his continued support to the limit of his ability. He knows whereof he speaks when he says that the Y.M.C.A. boys make good employes.

It has been estimated by those in a position to know that it costs something like one thousand dollars to bring a boy to years of maturity, so that when a young man is equipped ready for his life work he represents as much invested capital. Even then with his education and other items by which the outlay has been incurred, there is no guarantee that he is going to turn out a paying proposition. He may fail altogether, or he may take the wrong road, in which case it is not impossible that it may cost the state more than a thousand dollars to take care of him.

But the Y.M.C.A. as conducted in these times is the best nursery for the young man, morally and physically. There is no secular association which he can join in which the manly nature is more carefully nurtured, and in no place to which he goes will he find better social surroundings. The boy who has been brought up in such an atmosphere is not likely to go wrong. He never will if he remains true to the precepts and the examples of the association to which he belongs. The money invested in his upbringing will yield a dividend some day, not in cash perhaps, but in character and good citizenship.

May every branch of the Y.M.C.A., the Christian world over, continue in its good work of putting into the world the highest types of moral, mental and physical manhood, and may the local association, in the campaign now in progress, meet with the encouragement and substantial support to which it is entitled by its record.

U.S. SENATE REFORM

In the United States, an agitation has been in progress for years to reform the federal senate by having members of that body elected by direct vote of the people instead of by the different state legislatures. Congress has at last provided for the change and an amendment to the constitution has been adopted, which in order to become effective must be approved by a two-thirds majority of the states or thirty-six in all. The central federal power, however, still retains control of these elections.

There is little doubt that the amendment will meet with almost universal state approval, seeing that the people have been clamoring for such a change for years and in that case the senate is likely to lose its appellation of "the rich men's club." It has long been a public scandal that American millionaires, ambitious for a public life have bought up by wholesale the members of a state legislature in order to secure a seat in the upper branch of Congress. While it is within the range of human possibility to so influence fifty or sixty state legislatures, it is another matter to bribe a majority of the voters. A poor but honest man will stand at least some chance for election.

Some of the more progressive states have for years been choosing their federal senators by primary vote practically the same as popular elections, but when the proposed amendment goes into effect all the members of the senate will be on the same footing.

KILL THE BURDOCK

In its youth the burdock is an innocent and innocuous member of the vegetable kingdom. Its broad leaves so closely resemble those of that delicate garden product known as rhubarb and welcomed in the early days of spring as a succulent and bracing addition to our table fare either as the chief ingredient of pie or in the more simple form of stew, that the burdock while still young is too often regarded in a spirit of indifference if not of actual friendship. But it is a deceptive plant. It assumes sturdy proportions in a brief space of time and bears not fruit but a bur which upon the slightest opportunity or encouragement clings tenaciously and closer than a postage stamp to the apparel of the human race. Many an adventurous Juvenile in his sportive investigations of the plant in question has had his curling locks so welded together by the burs that the close application of the barber's shears alone rendered him presentable in public again. Animals of all kinds and household pets have suffered and still the burdock is allowed to flourish unmolested.

Peterborough has its poles, its flies and its caterpillars and also its burdocks. The weed thrives along the sidewalks and in vacant lots and while the Review has no desire to divert the public from its enthusiastic and vigorous campaign against the three pests first in the above category, something in the nature of warfare should be inaugurated against the last mentioned on the list.

And here it may be said for our collective comfort that the destruction of the burdock may be encompassed and a useful purpose served at the same time. The leaves of the weed while still young make one of the best medicines for horses that can be found anywhere. Stall fed equines eat them eagerly and the result is a better appetite and more thrifty appearance. Let any horse owner in the city convince himself by giving this recipe a trial. What rhubarb plant is to him, the burdock leaf is to his horse.

When the weed, however, has reached the proportions of a respectably sized tree its usefulness as an article of horse diet departs and it is simply unsightly and dangerous to our peace of mind. Then the only remedy is a strong man or boy armed with a spade. Let him sever the tough stalk a few inches below the surface of the ground and the place where such work is done knows that particular weed no more.

NOTE AND COMMENT

After all Roosevelt had to take the count in the last round with President Taft in the Ohio political ring.

"Down with the poles" should become a civic slogan, as well as "swat the flies" or "kill the caterpillars."

Even in our own city, it seems that a private room of a hotel is the place where are made the bargains which are afterwards ventilated in court.

A London man has married a wife who, a dispatch says, has six languages at her command. Let the new husband expect no sympathy from the public seeing that he has no one to blame but himself.

If that Oshkigmong young lady will only tell us how to pronounce that sky-scraping Indian name which has been conferred upon her, all else will be forgiven.

The Regina Leader has discovered that the tariff was the leading issue in the Alberta elections, but with all its mental acumen, the Leader is unable to discover the whereabouts of Premier Scott, the missing premier of its own province.

Stratford hopes that the Ducal party will not visit that city, until the much talked of street railway is secured and in operation, but unfortunately for that city's ambition to play the host to royalty, the Duke's term as Governor-General is limited for five years.

Liverpool and Chicago Wheat Futures Close Higher—Live Stock—Latest Quotations.

CHICAGO, June 4.—Sprinkles of rain today at scattered points in Nebraska and Kansas disturbed to some extent the confidence of wheat bulls, who have been acting on reports of severe crop damage, the result of heat and drought. In consequence, the market, altho closing with a net gain of ⅛c to ⅜c to ½c, had a rather weak tone. Corn wound up at an advance of ½c to 1¼c, and oats dearer by ⅝c to 1⅛c. The outcome in provisions was 7½c to 12½c decline.

The Liverpool market closed to-day on wheat unchanged from to ⅛d higher than Monday, and on corn ⅛d to ¼d lower. Antwerp closed unchanged on wheat, Berlin ⅝c lower.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years, was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

Cynthia's Chauffeur

By LOUIS TRACY

Copyright by McLeod & Allen, Toronto

"I had the exact contrary in mind," he said quickly. "If we parted to day, and did not meet for twenty years, each of us might well be doubtful as to what did or did not happen last Friday or Saturday. But association strenghtens and confirms such recollections. I often think that memories held in common are the most solid foundation of friendship."

"You don't believe, then, in love at first sight," she ventured.

"Let me be dumb rather than so misunderstood!" he cried.

Cynthia breathed deeply. She was profoundly conscious of an escape wholly due to his forbearance, but she was terrified at finding that her thankfulness was of a very doubtful quality. She knew now that this man loved her, and the knowledge was at once an ecstasy and a torture. And how wise he was, how considerate, how worthy of the treasure that her overflowing heart would heap on him! But it could not be. She dared not face her father, her relatives, her host of friends, and confess with proud humility that she had found her mate in some unknown Englishman, the hired driver of a motor-car. At any rate, in that moment of exquisite Cynthia did not know what she might dare when put to the test. Her lips parted, her eyes glistened, and she turned aside to gaze blindly at the distane Welsh hills.

"If we don't hurry," she said with the slowness of desperation, "we shall never complete our programme by nightfall. . . And we must not forget that Mrs. Leland awaits us at Chester."

"To-night I shall realize the feelings of Charles the First when he witnessed the defeat of his troops at the battle of Rowton Moor," was Medenham's savage growl.

Hardly aware of her own words, Cynthia murmured:

"Though defeated, the poor king did not lose hope."

"No: the Stuarts' only virtue was their stubbornness. By the way, I am a Stuart."

"Evidently that is why you are flying from Chester," she contrived to say with a little laugh.

"I pin my faith in the Restoration,' he retorted. "It is a fair parallel. It took Charles twenty years to reach Rowton Moor, but the modern clock moves quicker, for I am there in five days."

"I am no good at dates——" she began, but Mrs. Devar discovered them from afar, and fluttered a telegram. They hastened to her—Cynthia flushed at the thought that she might be recalled to London—which she would not regret, since a visit to the dentist to-day is better than the toothache next week—and Medenham steeled himself against imminent unmasking.

But Mrs. Devar's main business in life was self.

"I have just heard from James,' she cooed. "He promised to run up to Shrewsbury to-day, but finds he cannot spare the time. Count Edouard told him that Mr. Vanrenen was in town, and he regrets he was unable to call before he left."

"Your father, dear."

Mrs. Devar screwed her eyes at the pink slip.

"That is all it says. Just 'left'?"

"That doesn't sound right, anyhow," laughed Medenham.

"Oh, but this is too ridiculous!" and Cynthia's foot stamped. "I have never before known my father to behave in this Jack-in-the-Box fashion.'

"Mrs. Leland will clear up the whole mystery," volunteered Medenham.

"But what mystery is there?" purred Mrs. Devar, blinking first at one then at the other. She bent over the telegram again.

"James sent this message from the West Strand at 9.30. Perhaps he had just heard of Mr. Vanrenen's departure," she said.

Judging from Cynthia's occasional references to her father's character and associates, Medenham fancied it was much more likely that the American railway magnate had merely refused to meet Captain Devar. But therein he was mistaken.

At the very hour that the three were settling themselves in the Mercury before taking the road to Leominster, Mr. Vanrenen, driven by a perturbed but silent Simmonds, stopped the car on the outskirts of Whitchurch and asked an intelligent-looking boy if he had noticed the passing of an automobile numbered X L 4000.

"I s'pose you mean a motor-car, sir?" said the boy.

Vanrenen, a tall man, thin, close-lipped, with high cheekbones, and long nose, a man utterly unlike his daughter save for the wide-open, all-seeing eyes, smiled at the naive correction; with that smile some enchanter's wand mirrored Cynthia in her father's face. Even Simmonds, who had seen no semblance of a smile in the features of the chilly, skeptical man by whom he was dragged out of bed at an unearthly hour in the morning at Bristol, witnessed the alchemy, and marvelled.

"Yes, sir, rather," continued the boy, brimming over with enthusiasm. "The gentleman went along the Hereford Road, he did, yesterday mornin'. He kem back, too, wiv a shuffer, an' he's a-stayin' at the Symon's Yat Hotel."

Peter Vanrenen frowned, and Cynthia vanished, to be replaced by the Wall Street speculator who had "made a pyramid in Milwaukees." Whence, then, had Cynthia telephoned? Of course, his alert mind hit on a missed mail as the genesis of the run to Hereford early on Sunday, but he asked himself why he had not been told of a changed address. He could not guess that Cynthia would have mentioned the fact had she spoken to him, but in the flurry and surprise of hearing that he was not in the hotel she forgot to tell the attendant who took her message that she was at Symon's Yat and not at Hereford.

"Are you sure about the car?" he said, rendered somewhat skeptical by the boy's overfulness of knowledge.

"Yes, sir. Didn't me an' Dick Davies watch for it all chapel-time?"

"But why—for that car in particular?"

"The gentleman bust his tire an' we watched him mendin' it, an' he set us a sum, an' promised us a bob each if we did it."

"Meanwhile he went to Hereford and back?"

"I s'pose so, sir."

Peter Vanrenen's attention was held by that guarded answer, and, being an American, he was ever ready to absorb information, especially in matters appertaining to figures.

"What was the sum?" he said.

To his very keen annoyance he found that he could not determine straight off how long two men take to mow a field of grass, which one of them could cut in four days and the other in three. Indeed, he almost caught himself saying "three days and a half," but stopped short of that folly.

"About a day and three-quarters," he essayed, before the silence grew irksome.

"Wrong, sir. Is it worth a bob?" and the urchin grinned delightedly.

"Yes," he said.

"A day an' five-twelfths, 'coss one man can do one quarter in a day, and t'other man a third, which is seven-twelfths, leavin' five-twelfths to be done next day."

Though the millionaire financier was nettled, he did not show it, but paid the shilling with apparent good grace.

"Did you find that out—or was it Dick Davies?" he asked.

"Both of us, sir, wiv' a foot rule."

"And how far is the Symon's Yat Hotel, measured by that rule?"

"Half a mile, sir, down that there lane."

While traveling slowly in the narrow lane, Simmonds turned his head.

"It doesn't follow that because the boy saw Viscount Medenham yesterday his lordship is here now, sir," he said.

"You just do as your told and pass no remarks," snapped Vanrenen.

NO OPERATION WAS EVER NEEDED HERE

Because Mrs. Goodine Used Dodd's Kidney Pills

Doctor said she would Have to undergo operation, but Dodd's Kidney Pills cured her.

Central Kingsclear, York Co., N.B., June 4.—Special—"The doctor said I would have to undergo an operation." So said Mrs. J. V. Goodine, of this place. But she smiled as she made the remark, for all need of the dreaded operation had vanished. Mrs. Goodine used Dodd's Kidney Pills and is a well woman. Given in brief and in her own words, Mrs. Goodine's experience is as follows:

"I was very miserable with Kidney Disease and unable to do my own work. The doctor said I would have to undergo an operation. After using three boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills I was all better and able to do my work. This statement is true, as you can easily prove by enquiring among my neighbors."

The Child's Appetite.

The child that comes home from school with little appetite for luncheon probably needs fresh air as much as anything else. Unless it shows signs of illness it is best to overlook the lack of appetite as much as possible for the first time, at any rate, and invent some excuse either for a walk or for some physical exercise in the open air. This exercise should be as natural as possible—a romp with the dog in the back yard, a game of ball with brother or sister or something of a like nature that will not suggest to the child that mother is worried about him. Don't, however, insist that he eat, as his lack of appetite may come from an overloaded stomach or one that is not doing its duty, and more food would only invite a real illness.

Baby's Airing.

Mothers must be careful in distinguishing between good and bad days for their babies to be out. The general principle is, of course, to give the baby an airing every day, because fresh air is as necessary to a child's health as good food is. But authorities agree that on certain kinds of days it is far better for baby to stay indoors. The point to beware of is dampness; not the temperature, but the quality of the air. A cold day is splendid for children provided it is the dry, stimulating kind of cold. But a damp, raw day will do them more harm than good. Even if it seems moderately warm don't take them out. It is the dampness that breeds chills and sore throat and croup.

MOTHER OF LARGE FAMILY

Tells How She Keeps Her Health — Happiness For Those Who Take Her Advice.

Scottville, Mich.—"I want to tell you how much good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Sanative Wash have done me. I live on a farm and have worked very hard. I am forty-five years old, and am the mother of thirteen children. Many people think it strange that I am not broken down with hard work and the care of my family, but I tell them of my good friend, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and that there will be no backache and bearing down pains for them if they will take it as I have. I am scarcely ever without it in the house.

"I will say also that I think there is no better medicine to be found for young girls. My eldest daughter has taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for painful periods and irregularity, and it has helped her.

"I am always ready and willing to speak a good word for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I tell every one I meet that I owe my health and happiness to your wonderful medicine."—Mrs. J. G. JOHNSON, Scottville, Mich., R.F.D. 3.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, contains no narcotics or harmful drugs, and today holds the record of being the most successful remedy for woman's ills known.

Points for Mothers

Value of Kindergarten.

A woman who was supposed to be fairly intelligent was heard to say not long ago: "I was thinking of sending my little boy to Miss Robinson's kindergarten, but what is the use? The colored girl can amuse him just as well—and so much cheaper."

Shade of the blessed Freidrich Froebel! There is as wide a difference between the aimless and boisterous diversions improvised by the ignorant nurse and the scientific methods of the trained kindergartner as in the final results of Mr. Squeers' school and those of Arnold of Rugby.

It is only the unobservant part of the community that could misjudge the value of the "gifts" and "occupations," the names given by Froebel to the basis of the kindergarten idea. In these gifts and occupations the children see nothing but playthings, but it is surely inexcusable ignorance in this day of enlightenment on the subject, when the mothers of the children neither know nor perceive their underlying principles, and yet some persons think that telling a child the correct name of a thing in infancy is to threaten him with brain fever, just as they croak about young Sidis being a "soph" at Harvard at thirteen. And when it is explained that a box of blocks may illustrate the first principles of geometry to a child of five the untaught mother holds up her hands in horror.

But it is easy for the child to know the six sided blocks as cubes and more entertaining to form geometrical designs with them than to keep on making the "house that Jack built" just to topple over unendingly. Moreover, he comes to the difficult study of geometry in later years with a clearer understanding, because, having handled cubes, he has a sense perception of them, and, in verification of Pestalozzi's doctrine of object teaching as the scientific method in opposition to mere memory culture, the child has so handled them as to be perfectly familiar with their angles and relative proportions and readily comprehends the basis of a theorem in college days.

The kindergarten child comes, first of all, under the law of obedience, a law honored by children en masse, though naturally disregarded by them singly in their homes. Tiny as he is, he is called to order on the stroke of 9. Then he joins his companions in singing joyous songs of "good morrow," making his little salutation to teachers and friends as he repeats the greeting. This is his beginning of courtliness in public. Then follows an hour of singing, each song containing within its sugar coating of sparkling tune some bit of observation about those things dear to the child heart—the sun, moon and stars; the birds, butterflies, flowers and animals; the sea and the mountains. Then follow the active games, the story telling, the clay modeling and the paper mat weaving, each having so much more meaning than lies on the surface.

While the kindergarten has, of course, long since become a necessary part of a child's training, from those nurtured in the lap of luxury to those who exist in the slums, it is a remarkable fact that few of these mothers have ever accompanied their children there, and those who have never seen a roomful of happy kindergarten children filling their morning hours with intelligently directed play have no idea how readily they form graphic and lasting mental pictures to the accompaniment of rhythmic movement when singing their lovely songs and making gestures and postures to illustrate them nor how, by means of absorbing modeling, the basic idea of the beauty and joy of construction as opposed to destructiveness may be awakened.

AN ARMY OF CLOWNS WILL BE HERE

The Great London Shows Consolidated present, along with their comedy department this year, numerous prominent jesters, commonly called "clowns;" Delfugo is the principal jester, and associated with him are 45 kings of the clowning world. Along with these funny chaps, others also assist with comical antics

When intermingling with citizens on the street none of them would be suspected of wearing the loose robes of a fool, but when they are in the ring with their makeups on, they laught, and the crowd laughs with them. A jolly lot, and they have certainly helped to unload at least temporarily the cares from the minds of thousands of people.

Clowning is an art of itself. the clowns are born, not made. The funmaking department of the Great London Show is fully up to the high standard of its other departments; in fact, many a person will testify to the statement that the clowns with this show are worth the price of admission. Their work is appreciated, as the present strenuous life of most people causes them to relish a little pure nonsense now and then.

Everything in all departments of the Great London Circus this year is positively new, refreshing and up-to-date.

This splendid circus will be seen in Peterborough, Thursday, June 6th.

MURRAY ST. CHURCH OFFICERS ENTERTAINED CONGREGATION

Presentation by Congregation to the Trustees—An Enjoyable Evening.

The officers of the Murray street church gave a reception to the entire congregation last night. At eight o'clock the people began to arrive and the wives of the officers formed a reception committee and met each person in the first hall.

In the ladies parlor, an orchestra furnished music while the people visited every part of the spacious structure.

In the school room, views were thrown from the stereopticon gallery to the opposite wall, while the people rested in groups or stood conversing.

At nine o'clock, all went into the auditorium, where two solos, one by Miss Clara Kidd and one by Mr. Asa Huycke, were enjoyed. Addresses were delivered by the Mayor, Rev. H. J. Keith, representing the Ministerial Association, Hon. J. R. Stratton Magistrate Dumble and Rev. J. R. Bonner.

An item of special interest was the presentation by the members of the congregation to the trustees of large portraits of the pastor, Rev. J. R. Webb, and the chairman of the Building Committee, Mr. T. F. Matthews, bearing gold plates which indicated the prominent part taken by these men, in the building enterprise.

These pictures were accepted by the chairman of the trustees, Mr. Cochrane, in a graceful speech. They will be hung in the church parlor.

At ten o'clock all adjourned to the supper room in the basement where refreshments were served by the officers of the church.

A very beautiful spirit was manifested by the invitation extended by the Murray street people to all the members of the Park street Baptist church, their sister church in the south end of the city.

BIG UNDERTAKING BY (HANDEL'S MESSIAH) ST. GEORGE'S CHORAL SOCIETY

"'The Messiah' has come to stay," quoth a stalwart singer last night, at the conclusion of the initial practise of the St. George's Choral Society. And a joyful re-union it was. Bright, earnest faces, many of whom has rehearsed standard choral work before, eagerly embraced the opportunity to engage in intricate canon, lengthy run, and gorgeous finale, so dear to the trained choral singer. Indeed, it was a fine practise, the turning of the first sod towards establishing standard choral singing on a basis that presents no obstancles on grounds that it is too exclusive, too denominational, or too anything else. Singers were heartily met by the officials, and true harmony reigned throughout the arduous hour and a half practice. In their decision to study The Messiah, with a view to presentation next season, the St. George's Choral Society deserve the hearty thanks and help of all music loving citizens. The task is a big one and there must be some big hearted folk at the back of such an important venture. If last night's rehearsal under the direction of Mr. R. J. Devey is any criterion upon which to build, next season will see a choral body in this city producing Handel's masterpiece in a most commendable way. There is nothing in this world to compare with the effect musically produced by a large trained chorus, and even apart from its tremendous educational effects there is no recreation in the world to equal it.

All success to this noble band of singers, who last night gave evidence of good things to come.

HUSBAND CHARGED WITH THEFT (ONE PLEA OF GUILTY) AND WIFE WITH RECEIVING

"The way of the transgressor is hard." The truth of the old maxim was brought out in police court circles this morning when a young man named George Jackson, accused of stealing two watches, kissed his wife an affectionate good-bye, 'ere being led away to appear for trial in eight days. His wife was charged with being a receiver of stolen property.

The young couple hail from the United States, although they have been in Canada two or three years. Part of the time they earn a living by hiring out.

There were two charges against the man, both of watch stealing. The first theft was on May 2nd, and the other one, to which the prisoner pleaded guilty, on June 4th, and for which he was arrested yesterday. The watch was taken from a local hotel yesterday.

One is a common, $3 piece of metal and the other a fine $25.00 gold watch. Both of the articles were recovered.

Jackson elected to be tried by the Magistrate. He pleaded guilty to the charge of theft yesterday, but denied the second. His Worship reserved judgment on the charge to which the young man pleaded guilty, until the hearing of the second charge.

The prisoner's wife was brought into court. She was accused of being a receiver of the stolen property, knowing that it was stolen. She pleaded not guilty. The Magistrate allowed her her freedom until the date set for the trial of her husband. She broke down when it was first suggested that she be confined to the jail.

"Don't put me in jail, Your Worship," she pleaded. "I've never been in jail in my life." She promised faithfully to appear, and would go to work in the meantime.

LIQUOR CASE.

Two youths, both under age, were arraigned in connection with a case of liquor being unlawfully supplied to a youth in his teens. One of the boys told a story to the effect that he had asked another boy older than himself to buy a bottle of liquor, giving him the money to do so. Part of the intoxicant was dispensed to a younger boy, resulting in the laying of the information.

The youth charged with giving the liquor to his younger companion was treated very leniently by the Magistrate, being assessed $12.60, to be paid in ten days.

SOME GOOD ADVICE.

Accompanying the fine was a severe lecture in which His Worship pointed out the direful effects that would ultimately ensue if they persisted in having anything to do with liquor in any form.

"Better cut off a finger, or drink poison than touch a drop of it," was his final injunction.

PETERBORO SUMMER FAIR HAS BEEN ONE BIG SUCCESS

The Peterboro Summer Fair came to an end Monday night and the ladies are to be congratulated on their splendid success.

The attendances and receipts were greater than was expected. The officials and workers had a lot of hard work and it was in some cases only the repeated successes of the Fair that kept them steadily "in the game"

Mrs. Cruikshank and Miss Burnham of the Spring Booth at the Summer Fair desire to tender hearty thanks to the following, who have very materially helped this enterprise by their donations—

Peterborough and Canadian Canoe factories, the Hardware stores of the city, Alexander & Miller, Turnbull & Co., Robert Fair, F. Mason, florist; Parkers Dye Works, Knox's, the Newspapers of the city, Mr. W. J. Hancock, auctioneer, Alderman Johnston, Mesdames Devins and Zepp.

Mrs. Fessenden who donated the handsome centre piece around which such interest has centered in connection with the bean guessing contest, throughout the Fair, and all others who contributed so generously of needle and fancy work and fruit; Mesdames R. H. Leary and Mrs. Frank Neal and last but not least the bevy of young ladies who have shown unflagging interest and helpfulness throughout the preparation for and during the Fair.

The management of the Peterboro Summer Fair exhibited extreme thoughtfulness, when they arranged to have a committee of ladies devote their time amongst other things to imparting information to strangers at the Fair. The ladies were distinguished as the information committee by wearing bright scarfs and badges with the word information inscribed upon them. They did valiant service, during the entire period of the Fair, their courtesy and obliging ways being much appreciated. There were twenty-four on the committee in all, with Mrs. A Mowat, 368 Brock street, as convenor.

Mrs. Fred Whatley was the winner in the bean guessing contest, her guess being 3668— while the total number in the jar was 3671.

Mr. Percy Reid made the correct draw, No. 42, for the lace and Mr. Popham, for Pharaoh's Horses, drawing, No. 37.

TULLY BACK AT THIRD HARTMAN NOW GARDENING

Dolan and Schaeffer Released—Petes Play in Guelph To-day.

The Peterborough White Caps will present another changed line-up as they play in Guelph to-day and to-morrow. The bags will be guarded by Barthold, Templin and Tully, the latter having been signed again. Hartman will work in the right garden, Jimmie Beard in centre, while Swartz will be found back at left.

Dolan and Schaeffer have been released and it is understood that Templin must produce the goods at second base or drop from the pay roll.

The management of the team while on the field has been handed over to Barthold, who made his first appearance with the Petes on Monday, and if Barthold doesn't suit the Directors he'll get his too. So will any of the others.

Looking over the team as it stands to-day, brings forth a happy smile. Such a team, with four good twirlers looks good. Games must be won and a win at Guelph to-day should work wonders.

LINDSAY COLLEGIATES TO PLAY AT THE OVAL SATURDAY

The local Collegiates have arranged for a return ball game with their brothers from Lindsay, and the contest is billed for two o'clock at the Oval next Saturday. When the locals went to Lindsay, the Central Park boys took the small end of the 9—2 score, and vowed revenge in the return game. The Lindsay boys, however are coming with the intention of repeating, so an interesting exhibition may be expected. Huycke and Hill will do the battery work for the Kennerites.

FOOTBALL

The St. John's Football Club is requested to be on hand this evening at 7.15 o'clock, at the Park street football grounds to meet the Park street team.

Well Handled

By F. A. MITCHEL

Mr. and Mrs. Mortimer were wealthy and in the social swim. They were lovers, but Mr. Mortimer had been a gay boy in his time, and it was hard for him to settle down to an interest in one woman. He was an affectionate husband and would have scorned to deliberately prefer any woman to his wife. But he was human, and there were times when it appeared that polygamy would have suited his especial makeup better than the single wife plan. For a number of years after his marriage his family were in danger of a breakup, for there are few women who will forgive a husband criminal inconstancy.

Nevertheless Mr. Mortimer was very much in love with his wife. His escapades were quite free from criminality, and there was not one of the women whom he favored with his attentions that he would have exchanged for his wife. He was simply unappreciative of the danger he was taking for the indulgence of an occasional whim of breaking up his home. It must be admitted that he realized the pain these indulgences would give his wife should she discover one of them.

Mrs. Mortimer employed a woman to come in before she went out to dinner or other functions to dress her. Mlle. Lecroix was her name, and she was very pretty. Mr. Mortimer's peccadilloes had thus far been so trivial, his wife had been so sure of his affection, he was so devoted to his children, that she had had no uneasiness about him. But an incident happened soon after Mlle. Lecroix began to make up the lady for the outside world to look at that seemed to cast a lurid light on the situation.

The French lady's hour for her manipulations was about the time that Mr. Mortimer got home from downtown after business. He would let himself in at the front door with his latch key, hang up his coat and hat in the hall closet, then go upstairs to his wife's bedroom to give and receive the marital kiss. One afternoon when he came home to find Mlle. Lecroix at her decorative work he advanced to do the kissing. Mrs. Mortimer usually sat before a large mirror on these occasions and could see her husband reflected in it as he approached. Her maid was so attractive in appearance that the lady, not overconfident in her husband, often kept an eye on his image from the time he entered the room, with a view to discovering any especial greeting that might pass between the two. But on this occasion the day being warm Mrs. Mortimer was sitting before a window, and instead of using the mirror she held a hand glass.

When Mr. Mortimer entered the hand glass was resting on his wife's lap. The French girl turned as he entered, and at the same time the wife raised the glass. It was only for a second that she caught the reflection of her husband's face, but it was enough.

Neither Mr. Mortimer nor the maid saw the convulsive clutch Mrs. Mortimer gave the mirror, nor did they see her lower it. She had their secret, but they did not have hers. Mr. Mortimer came around beside her and kissed her, receiving the usual response, though he thought her lips were a trifle cold.

"Anything new downtown, dear?" asked the wife casually.

"Nothing special. Stocks have been better today.

"Well, you'll find the things in the sideboard. I wouldn't take more than one today. You know we're going to the Spinners, and they have a great deal of wine on the table."

"Right, dear. Shall I bring you up one?"

"No, thanks. I'll have to take one before dinner."

Mr. Mortimer went to the sideboard, never dreaming that he had been found out. Later he and his wife dined out, and he remarked that he had seldom seen her in such good spirits.

A few days later Mrs. Mortimer was being decorated for another function, when the latch key was heard in the lock below. The decorator stood behind the lady's chair dressed in spotless white, and the lady herself was on this occasion also in white. They were not far from the same height and build. As soon as Mrs. Mortimer heard the sounds below she sprang out of her chair and ordered the maid to get into it. Miss Lecroix wonderingly obeyed. Mr. Mortimer came up and entered the room, the woman standing behind the chair keeping her face turned from him. Going to the side of her whom he supposed to be his wife he bent down to kiss her. The scream that greeted him and a burst of laughter from the woman behind the chair caused him to look up at his wife.

He knew at once that the conditions between him and Miss Lecroix had been discovered. Without a word he left the room.

When the couple were at dinner, the children having gone up to bed, Mr. Mortimer said:

"Sweetheart, there's no harm done, I assure you on my word of honor. Possibly there might have been, for that young woman is a siren. Please get rid of her at once. The danger to you and the children and, most of all, to me has passed, and it will never return. Why should it, since I have discovered by your handling of this incident that there's not another woman in the world equal to you?"

And it didn't.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The Review does not hold itself responsible for opinions expressed by its correspondents

A PROTEST FROM PATTERSON STREET.

To the Editor of the Review.

Dear Sir,—It is all very fine, Mr. Editor, and very brave of you, too, quite heroic, in fact, to come to the defense of the judges of the baby show in your article of yesterday. Your reminder that it is a serious thing to create a feeling of want of confidence in the Bench is a splendid method of killing any more criticism, but if you had stopped at that and refrained from offering your suggestions on their judgment, then I, as one of the critics, would have had no opportunity of entering your columns.

I am surprised at your comparison of this case with that of judging horses. A good judge of a horse would never deem himself competent, whether he was a breeder or not, unless he had made a close study of the merits and points of excellence of the animal. One would think that Messrs. Morrow, Wainwright and Kerr according to your ideas of their competency were thoroughly trained in all good points of a baby. The teeth are one of the cardinal points which a horseman never fails to examine carefully. If these men were competent judges why did they not look into this feature of the various babies exhibited on Saturday? They simply contented themselves in a cursory glance at the features and clothes, picked a baby here and there at random, and boldly announced their decisions with no regard to points or qualifications.

Is it fair that our dear little ones should be judged in this manner?

PATTERSON STREET.

Peterborough, June 4th.

BROWNTON PROTEST.

To the Editor of the Review.

Dear Sir,—As most people around this locality are doubtless aware, the new post office has been duly established and is working smoothly under the unprecedented management of Mr. A. E. Saunders as postmaster, and no one has any kick whatever regarding the handling of the mail, or in fact any other matters. Time was when mail matter was delivered at the discretion of the former postmaster, and often weeks overdue. Civility also was a thing rarely met with, but Mr. Saunders has changed all that sort of thing, and under his management people are treated with promptness and courtesy, and his business is increasing by leaps and bounds. But there is one thing we would all like to know a little more about. It is common knowledge that Mr. Byers was dismissed from the postmastership; if so, why does he still have the sign over his door intimating (erroneously) to all and sundry that within one will find His Majesty's post office? Is not this more or less fraudulent and intended to deceive people? Will not the proper authorities take this matter up and have the sign removed at once.

I am, etc.,

UNO.

ASSESSMENT ROLL WILL NOT BE PUBLISHED

Ald. Anderson reported Monday night that he had ascertained prices on the cost of publishing the assessment roll. If an arrangement was made between the three local papers whereby one paper would set the type and supply to the other papers an installment each day, the cost would range between $800 and $900, and in addition to this the cost of publishing it in each paper would be $100, making about $1,200 in all. One paper alone, Ald. Anderson reported, could set it for considerably less.

It was felt that it was not desirable to publish the roll in the face of the heavy cost.

The Mayor, on behalf of the Council, however, thanked Ald. Anderson for the trouble he had taken in ascertaining the prices.

CHEAP TRIP TO NIAGARA FALLS

COLLISION OF LAUNCHES AT JUBILEE POINT

A collision of launches caused some excitement on Sunday at Jubilee Point. The launch owned by Mr. Ab. Nurse was tied up to the wharf, when the launch owned by Mr. Pat Maher undertook to come in at pretty fair speed. Having no reverse on his propellor he was unable to check the launch, which crashed into the stern of Nurse's craft, splitting it for some distance towards the bow. The boat filled and sank almost immediately.

In the first draft of stations, given out at the Bay of Quinte Conference of the Methodist church, which opened at Cobourg to-day, several changes of interest to Peterboro Methodists are announced.

Rev. T. J. Mansell, of Brantford comes to Charlotte street Methodist church, Rev. J. N. Clarry of Cavan comes to St. James' Methodist church.

Rev. J. G. Brown is going to Enderly, British Columbia, after two more Sundays with his present congregation. Enderly is in the Okanaga Valley, a rich fruit growing section. He has been pastor at St. James for three years, and Peterboro Methodites as well as the members of other congregations know full well of the splendid advance in all departments of church work, St. James has made in those three years.

Rev. J. R. Butler of Cavan, goes to Wooler, while W. J. Wetherall of Seymour, becomes pastor at Bethany. Rev. J. F. Chapman goes to Omemee and Rev. G. H. Copeland of Deseronto goes to Campbellford succeeding Rev. Mr. Strike.

The final settlement will not be made till next week.

MARLBOROUGH CLUB DANCE

The spacious and comfortable quarters of the Marlborough Club witnessed last night a very charming and enjoyable little dance for the members of the Club alone. It was estimated that about twenty-five to thirty couples were present and the affair was an unqualified success in every way. The Marlborough Club have held some very successful and popular dances during the winter and spring, the one last evening being in all likelihood the farewell social event of the season.

The music was a gain supplied by Miss Gladman, and was of the same delightful quality as her work in the past. The moon dance novelty was also introduced very successfully.

The Club quarters were nicely decorated for the occasion, and acceptable refreshments were served about midnight. The dance broke up about one o'clock.

Lost His Hair, Beard and Mustache

Terrible Plight of a Pennsylvania Man Reported by a Prominent Citizen:

"About two years ago my hair, beard and mustache started to come out in spots. These spots were entirely bare of hair.

Seeing PARISIAN SAGE advertised, I purchased four bottles and after using two of the bottles, the hair came in until now I have as good a head of hair as I had before this trouble started.

I can truthfully recommend this preparation to any one for what it is recommended for. Sam Galder, Harrison City, Col. Co., Pa. Oct. 11, 1911."

Please bear in mind that PARISIAN SAGE is not guaranteed to grow hair on bald heads.

In Mr. Galder's case the hair root was not dead and there is no good reason why PARISIAN SAGE should not do just what he writes it did.

"The next time Mr. Galder came into my store after purchasing the PARISIAN SAGE," writes the druggist who sold him, "his appearance was so changed I did not know him."

PARISIAN SAGE is without doubt the most efficient hair grower, beautifier and dandruff cure in the world and people who are wasting time with ordinary commercial tonics should wake up.

PARISIAN SAGE will banish dandruff, stop falling hair and itching scalp; will put life lustre and beauty into faded hair, or money back. It is a most delightful and refreshing tonic for men, women and children. Large bottle 50 cents at Wm. Madill's, and druggists the country over.

FERGUSON—IRWIN NUPTIALS

A very pretty June wedding was solemnized at the Highlands, East City, this afternoon, when Miss Eva Irwin, daughter of Mr. William Irwin, became the bride of Mr. W. Graham Ferguson of Vancouver, son of Mr. W. G. Ferguson, Peterborough.

There were present about forty guests, including a number of relatives. The ceremony, which took place under an arch of marguerites and lilies of the valley, was performed by the Rev. Robert Pogue of St. Paul's Presbyterian church. Miss Elizabeth Irwin was bridesmaid and the best man, Mr. Ross Cameron, while Miss Agnes Jeffery of Milwaukee, and Miss Gwen Hall of Peterborough, acted as flower girls.

The bride, charmingly attired in white satin, trimmed with white rose point lace and carrying a bouquet of white orchids and lilies of the valley, leaned on the arm of her father, by whom she was given away. The wedding march was played by Mr. Chas. Ackerman, and Miss Mary G. Chalmers sang "O Perfect Love."

The bridesmaid wore a pale blue dress with hat to match, and carried a bouquet of American Beauty roses, while the flower girls were becomingly attired in white. The bride's mother wore a handsome dress of mauve chiffon and carried a bouquet of mauve sweet peas, while the bridegroom's mother was becomingly attired in grey.

The groom's gift to the bride was a handsome platinum necklace with a diamond pendant, and that to the bridesmaid a pretty necklace with an aquamarine pendant.

After the ceremony a dainty wedding luncheon was served in a marquee on the lawn, which was also decorated with flowers, principally marguerites and lilies of the valley.

The bridal couple left on the 4.38 C.P.R. train for a short visit to the United States, the bride wearing a travelling costume of navy blue, with a tan hat. Mr. and Mrs. Ferguson will return to Peterborough for a couple of weeks and at the expiration of that time, will leave for Vancouver, their future home.

OVERCOMING LOST TIME

Sanitary Inspector Rushing Operations—Citizens Should Help

The garbage collecting difficulty is succumbing to the influence of methodical hustle. Two teams and four men under the personal supervision of the Sanitary Inspector have been hard at work and it is practically certain that by to-night the lost ground will be recovered and all the premises in the collection district will be cleaned up and normal conditions will prevail to-morrow. The clean ashes and material have been dumped at various places in and about the city, all offensive matter being disposed of at the city dumping ground in the south end and the garbage taken away for the feeding of hogs.

Citizens will please understand that the inspector will insist that they do their part in keeping garbage separate in a tightly covered garbage can, and all refuse placed near the sidewalk. Where these conditions do not prevail and where garbage is mixed with ashes and other refuse the collector will not take the refuse, and the parties erring will have to dispose of it at their own expense in addition to the city's charges. Moreover all those infringing the bylaw in this respect from now on are liable to prosecution. The work to-morrow will be the usual Thursday's route.

Accident Insurance

Following the Titanic Disaster no one will think of travelling without first taking out an Accident Policy.

It is interesting to know that practically all the Canadians who lost their lives through the Titanic wreck carried Accident Insurance. The average amount to be paid by Accident Companies alone, is over $30,000 for each Canadian lost.

The Double Indemnity and Bonus feature of The Dominion of Canada and General Accident Assurance Company policies are worthy of investigation before placing your Insurance.

THE DUCHESS OF CONNAUGHT IS MAKING SLOW RECOVERY

Special to the Review.

Montreal, June 6.—A bulletin issued by the physicians of H.R.H. the Duchess of Connaught, at 10 o'clock this morning says:

"The Duchess passed a fairly good night and is making as satisfactory progress toward recovery as can be expected. Dr. W. R. Hamilton has been called in consultation. Signed, Worthington, Garrow, Chipman."

Montreal, June 6.—Improvement in the condition of Her Royal Highness the Duchess of Connaught was shown throughout yesterday and towards evening the alarming symptoms of the previous day had so much abated that it is now hoped her complete recovery will follow within a very short time.

This was evinced by the following bulletin issued by the physicians early last evening:

"Her Royal Highness the Duchess of Connaught has passed a comfortable day, suffers less and the symptoms which gave so much anxiety have improved materially during the last twelve hours.

(Signed) "C. S. Worthington, M.D.; A. E. Gerrow, M.D.; W. W. Chapman, M.D."

It is expected that the Governor-General and his suite will continue to occupy the Strathcona residence on Dorchester street until Her Royal Highness is able to leave the hospital. But until her condition has so improved that she is out of the possibility of danger no future plans are likely to be made.

The duchess occupies a suite in Ward L at the Royal Victoria Hospital, which commands a magnificent view of the mountain and the western grounds of the hospital.

All social and other engagements of Their Royal Highnesses have been cancelled and their future movements depend upon the health of the duchess.

Thief Got Away.

Toronto June 6.—An unknown man made an unsuccessful attempt last night to pinch a street railway fare box on a Queen street car near Sunnyside. The conductor saw the man grab it, stopped the car, and gave chase. The thief spied a bicycle, jumped on it and was away. By this time a couple of officers had joined in the case. It was looking bad for the unknown one when he reached High Park, but this latter place proved his salvation. He jumped from the bicycle when close to the banks of the Grenadier Pond, jumped into the water and was seen no more. His pursuers did not care to follow him.

BELGIAN RIOTS STILL CONTINUE

Brussels, June 6.—The council of the labor party yesterday decided against an immediate general strike, in spite of protests by the Walloon delegates, reserving such action for next month, in the event of the Government refusing to consider a measure for the revision of the constitution, which the Socialist deputies have introduced in the chamber.

Both the Socialist and Liberal parties have issued an urgent appeal to their followers to refrain from violence, and to devote their energies to obtaining the abolition of the plural vote by Parliamentary methods. These appeals, however, have had no effect in the Walloon provinces, where the strikes are spreading.

Acts of violence are of hourly occurrence, notwithstanding the energetic action of the authorities. At Brussels rioting was renewed last night. The scenes of Tuesday were repeated. As fast as the police scattered the mob at one place it reformed at another. Many persons were hurt. There were frequent clashes, both sides employing great violence. Several of the police were wounded by bullets.

HISTORIANS AT NAPANEE

Napanee, June 6.—The town of Napanee was gala attire in honor of the annual meeting of the Ontario Historical Society, which will be in session until to-night, and on Friday will visit some of the historic spots in which the vicinity abounds. This is the 13th annual assemblage and many delegates from the four points of Ontario and speakers from the neighboring republic have already arrived.

Twenty-one historical societies are affiliated with the Ontario Historical Society. Amongst the affiliated organizations are the York Pioneers and Historical Society of Toronto, the Niagara Historical Society, the Elgin Historical and Scientific Institute, St. Thomas; the Women's Wentworth Historical Society, Hamilton; the Huron Institute, Collingwood, and the Women's Canadian Historical Society, Toronto.

The erected monuments report of the committee on historic sites and monuments did not show much activity during the past twelve months, but a very fine summary was offered of work along monumental lines accomplished in the past, or planned for the future.

The report of the president, David Williams, was a comprehensive and well-thought out presentation of the works and objects of the provincial society and affiliated branches. The importance of the history of their country to the boys and girls of the land was emphasized, particular stress being laid on the points of county and municipal history with a view to inculcating patriotism. The erection of a monument to Chief Tecumseh, who, one hundred years ago came to the assistance of the British, was urged.

President Gomez Admits His Inability to Guard the Plantations Adequately and Captain Klipe Has Sent Half of His Force to the Scene of Trouble—Half of Second Atlantic Squadron Off For Cuba.

Washington, June 6.—Frank confession of President Gomez that he was unable to meet the demands of plantation owners in Eastern Cuba for adequate guards against the marauders and insurrectors was the factor that yesterday led Captain Kline, commanding the U. S. naval station at Guantanamo to set in motion the body of U. S. marines gathered there for just such a purpose.

Captain Kline's action in despatching nearly half of his available force of marines into the interior of Cuba gave the signal for the departure from Key West to Guantanamo of half of the second squadron of the Atlantic fleet.

The facts as disclosed at the State Department are that several of the large American, British, French and Spanish companies operating plantations and mines in Eastern Cuba telegraphed the Cuban Government, through the Alcade of Guantanamo, a demand for 100 regular troops for each of their mills and fifty for each of their cane fields. In reply President Gomez pointed out that a compliance with their request would require the use of 1,250 of his best troops. If he acceded, his whole regular army would not suffice for police work alone, and he would have no forces left with which to carry on the campaign against the insurrectos.

The gunboat Paducah reported the situation at Santiago as critical, which determined Captain Kline to call upon the Navy Department for more marines. Accordingly Admiral Osterhaus promptly despatched from Key West to Guantanamo the fourth division of the Atlantic fleet, which will land 1,200 marines and bluejackets, which force, with the marines and sailors, available for landing parties, would make a formidable army of 3,000 men.

In one way the distribution of the American marines as plantation guards will serve to test the real purpose of the Cuban Government. It is calculated that Gen. Monteaguedo's troops, being relieved in large part from the onerous duty of guarding plantations, will no longer have excuse for failing to move immediately and relentlessly upon the insurgent negroes.

There is a fairly large Canadian colony in the area about Santiago, which the U. S. marines are preparing to protect. During the past few years one hundred or more Canadians have taken up residence on sugar plantations, purchased through Cuban investment companies, and a group of former Torontonians are included.

Fighting In Cuba.

New York, June 6.—A despatch from Santiago, Cuba, says: The village of Jarahueca has been burned by rebels, after a sharp fight with a small defending force. The Government forces defeated another rebel force at Blanquizal. Special guards were yesterday assigned to all railroad trains, because rebels fired upon a train bound from Manzanillo.

HAMILTON FULL OF LITTLE LAKES

Hamilton, June 5.—For fear of children drowning in mudholes on the city streets, the Board of Works has sent a gang of men to grade the roadways of new surveys recently accepted by the city. In Industrial Park, one of the biggest surveys in east Hamilton, the holes are five and six feet deep, and since the recent rain have been filled with water. Children have been playing there on rafts.

The city has decided now to do the work agreed to be done by the owners some weeks ago.

COBALT BUSINESS SECTION SWEPT BY FIRE LAST NIGHT

Business Section of the Silver Town Almost Entirely Destroyed — The Loss is Estimated at $400,000 — Fire Started in Theatre.

Special to the Review.

Cobalt, June 6.—Fire broke out here last night, and destroyed the Cobalt Hotel, the Lyric Theatre, the Harrington restaurant and the Galaska and Moore blocks. The Bank of Commerce had a close call. The fire brigades of New Liskeard and Haileybury arrived to help the local department.

A special despatch to the Review from Toronto says:

Information gained from various sources, including adjacent towns to Cobalt, places the loss from fire which originated from an overturned oil stove at the Lyric Theatre last night at from one hundred and sixty thousand to two hundred thousand dollars. Three hundred people were in the theatre at the time, and the Weiss midgets, who were performing, kept on with their work, and the piano player kept playing until all got out safely. Although immediate steps were taken by the volunteer fire brigade to extinguish the blaze, it gained headway and raged all night, razing the entire section between the Bank of Ottawa and the T. & N.O. station to the ground, four blocks in all. Volunteer brigades from Haileybury and New Liskeard came to the assistance of the local brigade, and all had a hard battle, narrowly escaping being overcome by the fire in its progress. Several firemen are reported injured, but verification of these rumors is impossible as the telegraph offices are burned and communication with the outside world practically cut off.

LATER.

Latest advices give the losses in Cobalt as four hundred thousand dollars, proportioned as follows: Lyric Theatre, $75,000; Milton Carr store, $75,000; Archie Black, jeweller, $10,000; Cobalt Hotel, $100,000; Galoska block $50,000; Moore block, $40,000; Harrington block, $40,000; Mines Chemical Supply Co., $10,000.

A BIG CROWD SAW THE CIRCUS PARADE DESPITE THE RAIN

Despite the inclement weather, the streets were crowded this morning with children, young and old, who braved the rain, in order to see the parade of the Howe's Great London Shows, scheduled for two exhibitions in the city to-day. With five bands of magnificently attired outriders, bright newly painted waggons, and with horses that would win prizes at any horse fair, the parade of the Howe Shows made a grand showing as it passed along the principle streets this morning. Of course the parade is intended merely as a prelude to the real happenings in the "big top" but if the circus proper is as good as the parade, and we are assured that it is even better, a real treat is in store for all those who attend either of to-day's performances

The Howe show is the largest and best independent circus organization on the road to-day, and is also the oldest. Everything about the shows and up-to-date this season. All of the nad up-to-date this season. All of the feature acts are from England, and every costume worn in the parade or in the circus is of the latest model. Special attention has been paid to this department and the costumes alone represent an investment of more than $15,000. Howe shows are said to be without equal. The many horsemen and farmers who were in the town this morning agreed that they had never seen such a perfect outfit of horses as those in the parade. From the thin-limbed, high-spirited English hunter, to the beautiful Arabian ring horses and the heavy Percheron draft horses, every animal seen this morning, was a thing of beauty. Such a good outfit of animals would be hard to find even at a horse fair.

Many new and startling features are promised for to-day. The performance lasts over two hours, and there is something new and startling happening every minute. The aerial acts the Japanese acrobats and the funny clowns were all selected with great care by the management, whose one desire is to offer the public something new and original, as well as entertaining and instructive.

The menagerie is one of the most complete of any circus organization ever touring Canada, including many strange and interesting animals from foreign countries.

Countless waggon loads of shavings and cinders have been dumped on the ground to make them dry underfoot. The tents are thoroughly waterproof and brand new. The tents were packed this afternoon with satisfied spectators, made up mostly of farmers. The big turnout of city people will come to-night.

WAS LOST ON LAKE ONTARIO

Toronto, June 6.—Because he did not know how to handle the engine of his motor boat after it had suddenly stopped, as he was endeavoring to enter the eastern gap after a cruise around Toronto Island on Tuesday night, H. Godfrey, an east end youth, spent the night on Lake Ontario. He was picked up by a searching party at noon yesterday at Highland Creek, fifteen miles from here, the boat having drifted the entire distance, keeping about a mile from shore.

Montreal, June 6.—The twenty-four members of the joint protective board of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers, who have been here since May 15, representing the firemen of the Grand Trunk Railway from Chicago to Portland, Me., in conference with W. D. Roth, superintendent of motive power, have left the city, having secured a revised schedule along what they declare are satisfactory lines.

TORONTO CHILD GAVE FIRE ALARM

Toronto, June 6.—Ronan Ppssava, of 9 Foster place, awakened his parents at an early hour yesterday morning with the cry of fire. Three adjoining houses were ablaze. The cry of the child caused its parents to spring from their beds and escape from the burning building. They had not even time to put on their street clothes, but ran out in their night robes. So did the inmates of the adjacent houses. The total damage done to property and contents will approximate $2,000.

The Admiralty note adds: "Will continue to aid development of Australian fleet by every means in our power."

SEARCHLIGHTS ARE LITTTLE USE

Special to the Review.

London, June 6.—Harold A. Sanderson, director of the White Star Line, was recalled by the Titanic wreck commission this morning, and declared that small boats were carried only for the purpose of transferring persons from ship to ship or from ship to land. He also disputed the usefulness of binoculars and searchlights, but said that there was a popular cry for these things and they wanted to satisfy it. He attributed the great loss of life among third class passengers to the fact that they were not located adjacent to where the boats were launched. To carry more able seamen than now, he declared, would only be of use in case of wreck.

PERJURER GETS FOURTEEN YEARS

Ottawa, June 6.—Michael Murphy, who two years ago was tried and acquitted on the charge of murder for the killing of two young men, Dale and Howes, at Shawville, Que., was yesterday sentenced by Judge Weir at Bryson, Que., to fourteen years' imprisonment on two charges of perjury.

The murder charge against Murphy fell through on the ground that he was tantalised by a gang of young men into doing the shooting. He, however, swore that he did not shoot, and also that he did not sign an admission of the shooting at the preliminary trial.

He was given fourteen years on each charge of perjury, the two sentences to run concurrently.

BOTH TAFT AND ROOSEVELT MANAGERS CLAIM VICTORY

Executive and Press Agent Corps of the Rival Parties Are In Chicago and Bulletins Express the Greatest Confidence on Both Sides — Taft's Agents Say He Will Poll 606 Votes —Sen. Dixon's Version.

Washington, June 6.—The arrival of the Washington executive and literary forces of the Taft and Roosevelt campaign was followed by a renewal of the literary bombardment which has characterized the last two months of the pre-convention fight. The issuance of two daily statements was undertaken by each headquarters.

A table of delegates prepared by Representative McKinley gave President Taft 595 votes, Col. Roosevelt 427, Senator LaFollette 30 and Senator Cummins 10. Senator Dixon's claim was over 600 for Roosevelt, but he had not prepared a detailed table.

Representative McKinley, in a statement answering Senator Dixon's comment on the capture of Ohio's six delegates at large by President Taft, said:

"It makes no difference to them that these delegates to the Ohio state convention were elected at a popular primary. They were instructed for no candidate at the primary, and they get no credit for using their best judgment and discretion in their action. On the contrary, in Oyster Bay and in Chicago, they are called 'brigands,' 'robbers' and 'thieves.' The answer is plain—they did not do as Theodore Roosevelt and Senator Dixon wished them to do."

Taft Sure, Says Sherman.

Washington, June 6—Vice-President Sherman at the White House yesterday declared he believed President Taft would be nominated by the Republican National convention.

"I have not the slightest doubt that Mr. Taft will be nominated," he said. "He will have at least a hundred more delegates than Roosevelt. I would not like to name the exact figure, but that will be near Mr. Taft's majority. That is my real opinion, too, not a mere boast."

RAILWAYS MUST MAKE REPORT

Ottawa, June 6.—At the sitting of the Dominion Railway Commission on June 18, the general question of car supply for the coming season will be considered. The commission realizes that the danger of a blockade similar to that of last season must be considered, and in view of this fact, has circularized the three railroads asking them to supply a statement of prospective additions to rolling stock, motive power and general betterments.

The railways were given 40 days from April 25, to supply the information and the major portion of it is now in the hands of the commission. The material will be considered at the sitting mentioned.

CANADIAN DIES IN ENGLAND

Toronto, June 6.—Major James Stephenson, formerly general superintendent of the Grand Trunk Railway, passed away at his residence at Clevedon, England, yesterday morning. Mr. Stephenson retired with a superannuation from the Grand Trunk twelve years ago, retiring after a length of service longer than that of any other official of the road. He is survived by his widow, who was Miss Arnold, a sister of the wife of William Wainwright, one of the present vice-presidents of the Grand Trunk. Mrs. Joseph P. O'Higgins of Toronto is Major Stephenson's sister.

In the bylaw submitted yesterday there was a majority of 927 in favor of granting a partial tax exemption to the company on the new buildings.

COMMANDANT COTTON STARTS A SEARCH FOR WHISKEY

Committed Suicide.

Toronto, June 6.—Mrs. Kinsman of Waubaushene, between 35 and 40 years of age, who was visiting friends at 574 Crawford street, was found dead in the bathroom of the house shortly after 12 o'clock yesterday from wounds inflicted upon her throat. A razor was found beside the body. She had been taking treatment in local sanitarium for nervous trouble.

TREASURER CHASE DIED TO-DAY

Special to the Review.

Fall River, Mass., June 6—Stephen A. Chase, treasurer of the Christian Science Church of America, died at his home here to-day after a few days illness.

Niagara-on-the-Lake, Ont., June 6.—Gen. Cotton yesterday appointed a board of enquiry to make a thorough investigation in order to ascertain whether any liquor is to be found in camp, or has been in camp since it was opened. The board consists of Lieut.-Col. W. Wallace, adjutant; Lieut.-Col. F. W. Hill, 44th, and Maj. the Rev. F. C. Piper, chaplain of the 37th. It is understood that the board was appointed as a result of a communication from the Militia Department at Ottawa.

The board held its first meeting at headquarters yesterday afternoon, when the commanding officers were called. It is understood that they all denied knowledge of any liquor inside the lines, either in officers' or other tents. At the present time, they said, no liquor was being used in any of the mess tents, and the regulations were being carried out to the letter. Other officers will be called to-day.

CANADIAN COAL WILL NOW BE USED BY DOMINION PARLIAMENT

Chairman of Montreal C. M. A.

Montreal, June 6.—Nominations for executive officers of the Montreal branch of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association closed yesterday afternoon. Lt.-Col. Charles A. Smart, M.P.P., vice-chairman, succeeds to the chairmanship by acclamation, and Howard Murray becomes vice-chairman.

S. Bruce License Inspector Dead.

Walkerton, June 6.—Benjamin Cannon, license inspector of South Bruce, died early yesterday morning of pneumonia, at the age of 72 years. He was a prominent Conservative. He leaves two sons, Dr. Cannon of Stratford, one on the old homestead in Brant, and two daughters.

Ottawa, June 6.—For the first time since their erection Canadian coal will likely be used as a fuel in the Dominion Parliament buildings next winter. United States coal in the past has been exclusively used.

Tender for the new supply, which annually runs into several thousands of tons, are now being called for under conditions which call for at least a substantial amount of Nova Scotia coal.

BURLEIGH FALLS

The fact that the Burleigh Falls, one of the most valuable assets of the County of Peterborough, was, under the Laurier Government, leased for the ridiculously low price of one dollar a year, was set forth in these columns some time ago. It was also shown that the gentleman to whom the lease was granted had disposed of his rights, or transferred his lease, for $200,000. This profit on the transaction, it can easily be seen, was enormous, and not one cent of it reverted to the rightful owners, the people of the county of Peterborough.

Reeve Howden, at the meeting in North Monaghan the other night, pointed out that if this deal had not been made, enough revenue could have been obtained from Burleigh Falls to pay off the entire debt of the country.

Some one knows the true inwardness of this transaction, but no one has uttered a word of explanation. It is one of the most gigantic political jobs in the history of Ontario, and so far no one has had the temerity to rise up and defend it. A contemporary in the very nature of things, is supposed to be vitally interested in the matter. Can nothing induce it to explain?

A DIET OF GRASS

The price of meat has taken another flight in the direction of the stars, and this leads an exchange to offer the gruesome suggestion that if things get any worse we may be forced to emulate the late Nebuchadnezzar and take to a diet of grass.

If in the event of finally being reduced to such straits we but choose our pasture field wisely, we might go further than the nearest patch of alfalfa and fair worse. A writer in the Saturday Evening Post, with a turn for burrowing into tradition tells us that the much prized alfalfa is of antedeluvian origin and flourished from the earliest ages in the kingdom of the deposed herbiverous monarch with the long name. He adds that it is good for human consumption, and that the king not only lived, but grew fat upon it. It can be eaten in its natural state, or cooked in various ways as gastronomic fancy may decide.

In the face of rising prices of provisions with this statement before us, let us not give way to despair. Alfalfa is cultivated extensively by the farmers of this country and there are thriving fields of it that are easy of access. Should the worst happen we have the Post's story of the Babylonian monarch and plenty of opportunities to experiment along the same lines.

WILL NOT REPEAL PACT

Only a few days ago the Liberal press joined in a clarion blast of triumph, the cause of their jubilation being the announcement that the United States Congress had repealed the Reciprocity pact. With joy unfeigned the papers in a concerted argument reasoned that the pact was as unpopular in the American Republic as in Canada, and that the late Laurier administration was purged of the charge that they had entered into a contract in which the United States was to get the best end of the deal.

But unfortunately for the followers of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, the announcement lacked that important element, a foundation of truth upon which to rest. Congress has not repealed the Reciprocity pact and from present indications is not likely to do so. The repeal was passed in the Senate, but when referred to the lower branch of Congress it struck a snag. The Committee on Ways and Means returned the bill to the Senate with the emphatic affirmation that the House of Representatives would "never consent to the repeal of the Canadian Reciprocity Act."

Here again is where the pact, which wrecked the Liberal party, once more flies in the face of Sir Wilfrid and his friends to their further undoing. They have always claimed that the treaty was made in the interests of Canada and have recently been asserting that the measure was unpopular in the States because, according to their line of reasoning, that country had realized that with Reciprocity in force all the advantages of the bargain would be on the Canadian side.

What availed it then for Sir Wilfrid Laurier, in his Montreal speech, to pitch into President Taft or to declare that time has proved his own position was the right one? Mr. Taft has been talking again on this subject and letting more felines out of that well filled bag. His latest declaration of note is that all the concessions Mr. Fielding asked for were in the end granted because Secretary Knox believed that they would be as nothing compared to the benefits the United States was to receive from the arrangement.

Sir Wilfrid, at Montreal, intimated that the remnant that is left of his party will continue to seek shelter in the ruins of the shattered citadel which was almost blown away last September. He believed in the pact then, he said, and he believes in it yet, and will fight along that line while life is left him. Were he returned to power to-morrow, we are justified in believing that he would proceed to put the agreement into force as soon as all details could be complied with.

His speech, widely read as it was on the other side of the line, has given rise to the hope in that nation that in the event of the future success of the Liberals, Reciprocity will become a reality and that the American people can grow fat and wealthy at the expense of the Canadians. That Montreal speech no doubt is responsible for the stand taken by the lower house of Congress and the determination to leave the Reciprocity treaty upon the statute books.

This is the hardest blow yet dealt to the hopes of the Liberals. Their last little rally is scattered, they have been driven from their last ditch. No argument is left them. The ghost of the pact will not down. Turn where they may, look where they will, the grinning skeleton is still before them.

Let every friend of the Borden Government, every Canadian who would save his country either in a political or commercial sense from becoming a "mere adjunct" (note the adjective employed by the wily Mr. Taft) store in his memory the fact that the United States refuses to repeal the treaty hoping it may yet be put into force to that country's immeasurable advantage.

GOMPERS NOT TO BLAME

Bert Franklin, star witness in the Darrow Jury bribing case now in progress in Los Angeles, has sworn that the money sent to Attorney Darrow to bribe the McNamara Jury, came direct from Sam Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labor.

The inference which the public are likely to draw from this statement is certainly unjust to Mr. Gompers. He has never made any secret of the fact that he sent to Los Angeles large contributions from organized labor for the legitimate defence of the McNamara brothers. If Darrow chose to use any portion of that fund for the corruption of jurors, Mr. Gompers cannot be held responsible, as at no time has it been shown that he ever advised such a course.

NOTE AND COMMENT

King George appears to succeed better as a monarch than as a breeder of race horses.

As a witness before the Titanic committee, J. Bruce Ismay received his worst grilling from Lord Mersey!

The wisdom of some people increases with age. Alfred Austen bravely refrained from any outburst on the Titanic disaster.

A shingle vigorous wielded is what is required by that Peterboro youth, who was fined in the police court for drinking whiskey.

Sir Conan Doyle says he would rather make $500 in literature than $5,000 in any other way. Quick, Watson, the needle and the briar pipe.

Is every man who borrowed money from the Farmers' Bank on good security and then paid it back to be charged with the wrecking of that institution?

While Editor Macdonald of the Globe is at Ottawa preaching peace and the brotherhood of man, his hired men are still waging war upon Billy Maclean in Toronto.

Rudyard Kipling's Ulster poem is once more making the rounds of the press, only to cause his admirers to wish more and more that when he wrote the Recessional, he had retired from the business.

From latest reports the Judges at the baby show are still at their usual posts of business, the animosity of the mothers of unsuccessful babies not being sufficiently militant to compell them to seek safety in the contiguous timber.

Let us be thankful that so far we have been spared any attempt at a pun upon the name of the nobleman who is conducting the Titanic investigation in London. Just think of the temptation it must offer the Toronto funny men to say something about his having no "Mersey on the witnesses."

CATTLE MARKETS.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, June 5.—The receipts of live stock at the Canadian Pacific market for the week ending June 1 were 750 cattle, 750 sheep and lambs, 1975 hogs and 1600 calves. The offerings this morning consisted of 800 cattle, 400 sheep and lambs, 600 hogs and 1500 calves.

There was no further change in the condition of the market for cattle, prices being firmly maintained at the recent advance noted, owing to the fact that the supply was small, for which the demand was good, and an active trade was done, as butchers generally were short of stock. Sales of choice steers were made at $8 to $8.25, good at $7 to $7.50, and the lower grades from that down to $5.50 per 100 pounds. Cows brought from $4.25 to $7, and bulls from $4.25 to $5.75 per 100 pounds.

The trade in small meats was active, but, as the offerings were none too large, a firm tone prevailed in the market, and prices showed no important change. Sheep sold at from $5 to $5.50, and spring lambs at $3 to $5 each, as to size and quality. There was a brisk demand for calves, of which supplies were ample to fill all requirements, and prices ruled steady at from $3 to $10 each.

Hogs were weaker, owing to the fact that packers in most cases were well supplied for the balance of the week, and in consequence the demand was somewhat limited, which resulted in prices declining another 15c per 100 pounds, with sales of selected lots at $9.10 per 100 pounds weighed off cars, and in some instances as low as $8.60 was accepted, with sows and stags included.

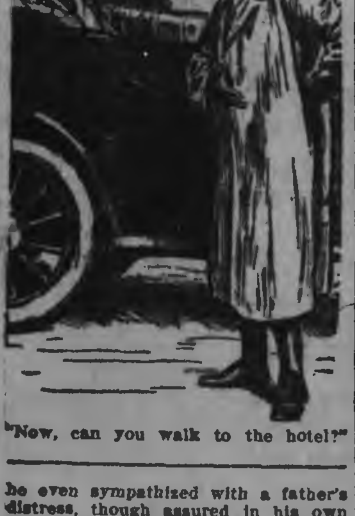
Cynthia's Chauffeur

By LOUIS TRACY

Copyright by McLeod & Allen, Toronto

If the head of the house of Vanrenen were judged merely by that somewhat unworthy retort he would not be judged fairly. He was tired physically, worried mentally; he had been brought from Paris at an awkward moment; he was naturally devoted to his daughter; he believed that Medenham was an unmitigated scamp and Simmonds his tool; and his failure to solve Medenham's arithmetical problem still rankled. These considerations, among others, may be pleaded in his behalf.

But, if Simmonds, who had stood on Spion Kop, refused to be browbeaten by a British earl, he certainly would not grovel before an American plutocrat. He had endured a good deal since five o'clock that morning. He told his tale honestly and fully; he even sympathized with a father's distress, though assured in his own mind that it was wholly unwarranted; he was genuinely sorry on hearing that Mr. Vanrenen had been searching the many hotels of Bristol for two hours before he came to the right one. But to be treated like a serf?—no, not if Simmonds knew it!



"Now, can you walk to the hotel?"

The car stopped with a jerk. Out leaped the driver.

"Now you can walk to the hotel," he said, though he distinguished the hotel by an utterly inappropriate adjective.

The more sudden the crisis the more prepared was Vanrenen—that was his noted characteristic, whether dealing with men or money.

"What has bitten you?" he demanded calmly.

"You must find somebody else to do your detective work, that's all," came the stolid answer.

"Don't be a mule."

"I'm not a mule. You're makin' a d—d row about nothing. Viscount Medenham is a gentleman to his finger tips, and if you were one you'd know that he wouldn't hurt a hair on Miss Vanrenen's head, or any lady's, for that matter."

"Where my daughter is concerned I am not a gentleman, or a viscount, or a person who makes d—d rows I am just a father—a plain, simple father—who thinks more of his girl than of any other object in this wide world. If I have hurt your feelings I am sorry. If I am altogether mistaken I'll apologize and pay. I'm paying now. This trip will probably cost me fifty thousand dollars that I would have scooped in were I in Paris tomorrow. Your game is to attend to the benzine buzz part of the contract and leave the rest to me. Shove ahead, and step lively!"

To his lasting credit, Simmonds obeyed: but the row had cleared the air; Vanrenen liked the man, and felt now that his original estimate of his worth was justified.

At the hotel, of course, he had much more to learn than he expected. Oddly enough, the praises showered on "Fitzroy" confirmed him in the opinion that Cynthia was the vctim of a clever knave, be he titled aristocrat or mere adventurerer. For the first time, too, he began to suspect Mrs. Devar of complicity in the plot!

A nice kind of chaperon she must be to let his girl go boating with a chauffeur on the Wye! And her Sunday's illness was a palpable pretense—an arranged affair, no doubt, to permit more boating and dallying in this fairyland of forest and river. What thanks he owed to that Frenchman, Marigny!

Indeed, it was easy to hoodwink this hard-headed man in aught that agected Cynthia. Count Edouard displayed a good deal of tact when he called at the Savoy Hotel late the previous night, but in obvious relief at finding Vanrenen in London had induced the latter to depart for Bristol by a midnight train rather than trust wholly to Mrs. Leland's leisured strategy.

He did not go straight to Hereford for the best of reasons. He had told Cynthia of Mrs. Leland's coming, and had heard of it not from her in response to his letter. If he rushed off now to intercept the motorists at Hereford he would defeat the very purpose he had in view, which was to interpose an effectual shield between the scoundrelly lordling and his prey, while avoiding any risk of hurting his daughter's feelings. Moreover, he was eminently a just man. Hearing from Marigny, that Simmonds, the original cause of all the trouble, was skulking at Bristol, to Bristol he went. From that starting-point, with his knowledge of Cynthia's probable route, he could surely pick up traces of the predatory car at most towns through which it passed. Moreover, he could choose his own time for joining the party in front, which by this time he was fully resolved on, either at Chester or farther north.

Transcending these minor features of a disturbing affair was his self-confessed fear of Cynthia. In the unfathomed deeps of a father's love for such a daughter there is ever an element of fear. Not for all his wealth would Vanrenen cast a shadow on the unsullied intimacy of their affection. Therefore, he would be wary, circumspect, ready to accept as most credible theories which he would scout in any other conditions, quick to discern the truth, slow to point out wherein an inexperienced girl had erred, but merciless to the fortune-hunter who had so jeopardized Cynthia's happiness and his own.

Hence, his appearance at the Symon's Yat Hotel seemed to have no more serious import than a father's wish to delight his daughter by an unexpected participation in her holiday. No secret had been made as to the Mercury's halting-place that day. Cynthia herself had written the address in the hotel register, adding a request that letters, if any, were to be forwarded to Windermere.

By chance, the smiling landlady's curiosity as to "Fitzroy" raised a new specter.

"He must be a gentleman," she said, "because he belongs to the Thames Rowing Club; he also spoke and acted like one. Why did he employ an assistant chauffeur? That is most unusual."

Vanrenen could only explain that arrangements for the tour were made during his absence in France, so he was not fully posted as to details.

"Oh, they did not intend to remain here on Saturday, but Miss Vanrenen liked the place, and seemed to be rather taken with the hotel——" whereat the millionaire nodded his complete agreement—"so Mr. Fitzroy telegraphed for a man named Dale to come to Hereford. There was some misunderstanding, however, and Dale only arrived yesterday in the car. He left by an early train this morning, after doing the garage work."

Simmonds, candor itself about Medenham, had said no word of the Earl of Fairholme or Dale. Marigny, of course, was silent as to the Earl, since it might have ruined his last faint hope of success had the two perplexed fathers met; Simmonds's recent outburst opposed an effectual bar to farther questioning; so Vanrenen was free to deduce all sorts of possibilities from the existence of yet another villainous chauffeur.

Unhappily, he availed himself of the opportunity to the full. The fair countryside and the good food of the March counties made little or no appeal to him thenceforth. He pined to be in Chester, yet restrained the impulse that urged a frenzied scurry to the Banks of the Dee, for he was adamant in his resolve to have joined her as the outcome of a mere whim after she had met Mrs. Leland.

The Mercury arrived at Ludlow long before Vanrenen crossed the Wye Bridge at Hereford. Medenham stopped the car at "The Feathers," that famous magpie among British inns, where Cynthia admired and photographed some excellent woodcarving, and saw an iron-studded front door which has shut out revellers and the night on each alternate round of the clock since 1609, if not longer.

If they hurried over luncheon they were content to dawdle in the picturesque streets, and Cynthia was reluctant to leave the fine old castle, in which Milton's "Masque of Comus" was first played on Michaelmas night of 1634. At first, she yielded only to the flood of memories pent in every American brain when the citizen of the New World stands in one of these treasure-houses of history and feels the pasing of its dim pageants; when they stood together in the ruined banqueting hall, Medenham gave play to his imagination, and strove to reconstruct a scene once spread before the bright eyes of a maiden long since dead.

"You will please regard yourself," he said, "as the Lady Alice Egerton, daughter of the Earl of Bridgewater, Lord President of the Marches of Wales, who, with her two brothers, was benighted in the Forest of Heywood riding to Ludlow to witness her father's installation in his high office. Milton was told of her adventures by Henry Lawes, the musician, and he wrote the 'Masque of Comus' to delight her and her friends. Have you read 'Comus'?"

"No," said Cynthia, almost timidly, for she was beginning to fear this masterful man whose enthusiasm caught her to his very soul at such moments.

"Ah, but you shall. It ranks high among the miracles of English poetry wrought by Milton. Many a mile from Ludlow have I called to mind one of its incomparable passages:

A thousand phantasies
Begin to throng into my memory—
Of calling shapes, and beckoning shadows dire,
And airy tongues that syllable men's names
On sands, and shores, and desert wildernesses.

The End of a Courtship

By RUTH GRAHAM

Kitty McBride was a factory girl and a very pretty one. She was contented with her work, though it was hard, and she took no thought of marriage. But one evening Kitty went to a dance and made there the acquaintance of Peter Brown. Peter was an attractive chap with a devil may care way about him that was very taking with the girls.

He danced with Kitty several times, thus exciting the envy of other young women, who considered Mr. Brown the cleverest, handsomest and in every way the finest catch of the evening.

The next afternoon when Kitty left the factory her admirer of the dance was there to meet her and walk home with her. She asked him where he was working and what time his day of toil was over, but she did not get a very satisfactory response. He told her that he didn't need to work just at present. He had made some money and was ready to spend a part of it on her.

He asked her to go to the theater with him. Kitty accepted, and that evening they attended a performance.

For some time the stranger courted the factory girl, hinting at marriage, but never being just ready. Kitty, who was not of a specially confiding nature, did not commit herself in any way, waiting for the outcome of Mr. Brown's attentions. At last he gave her a ring and told her that he was going to a town where he owned some property, after securing which he would return to her and they would be married. He seemed very loath to leave her even for a short time. Kitty encouraged him, assuring him that she would be making her clothes for the wedding while he was away and be ready for him when he returned. Then he confessed that the reason for his distress was that, having experienced certain pains, he had consulted a doctor, who told him he had appendicitis and must go where he would receive proper surgical attention. If he passed the ordeal safely he would return with funds and they would set up housekeeping in their own little cottage. He kissed her again and again and wiped away a tear at the final parting.

Ten days passed during which Kitty heard nothing from her lover, then she received a letter through the postoffice addressed in an unknown hand. Opening it she found a note from one signed, "Hospital Nurse," announcing that Peter Brown had been operated on for appendicitis and had lived but six hours after the operation. There was another letter in the envelope from Peter himself. It read as follows:

They tell me, dear heart, that I must prepare for death. The only preparation I have to make, my darling, is to write you my last farewell. There is no one in the world whom it pains me to leave but you. Oh, how hard it is to die when I have so much to live for with you! My heart is sinking within me. Would, darling, you were here, that I might die in your beloved arms, that you might keep the life within me a little longer by kissing my cold lips with your warm ones! Farewell, darling! So long as you live keep a corner of your heart for your dying lover,

PETER BROWN.

Though Kitty was duly impressed with this letter and shed tears over it, one little matter contained in it struck her practical mind. Peter wrote that she was the only one whom it pained him to leave. What a pity he hadn't thought to make a will leaving her that property he had gone for! But a man who has just come out from the influence of ether with only a few hours to live should not be expected to think of worldly matters.

So Kitty stopped making the wedding clothes she had begun and settled herself to recover from her disappointment as best she could.

Owing to some financial difficulty the factory where Kitty worked was shut down and she was adrift without means of support except a pittance she had saved. Being told that another factory of the same kind as the one that had closed located in another city needed hands, she went there to apply for work. On her arrival, leaving the station she saw a man leaning against a lamppost smoking a long cigar. She approached him to ask the way and recognized her dead lover, Peter Brown.

"Why, Peter!" she exclaimed.

"Who are you?" he said, turning white and red alternately. "I never saw you before."

This was too much. A policeman was standing on the opposite side of the street, and Kitty called him over. "Arrest that man!" she said.

She went with the policeman and Peter to a station, where she made a charge against him, and, since there was no bail forthcoming, he was locked up.

At the trial it came out that he had a wife and several children. The case was settled by Peter agreeing to pay Kitty $5 a week for ten years. He was a skilled workman, but lazy. The alimony he contracted to pay the girl he had deceived acted as a spur upon him, for the alternative was a prison. Consequently he never missed a payment.

Kitty congratulated herself on the outcome, and after taking her annuity for awhile, in deference to Peter's wife and children, she let him off.

She was afterward happily married to a carpenter, who was very good to her, and they were happy and contented in caring for a large family of children.

Mr. and Mrs. Drain will reside in Vancouver.

TROTTER—CLIFFORD

The residence of Mr. and Mrs. I. G. Clifford, 212 Reid street was the scene of a very pretty wedding yesterday afternoon when Miss Maud Clifford, their only daughter, was united in marriage to Mr. Herbert Trotter, of Port Colborne, son of Mr. Alexander Trotter, New Ontario.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Mr. Keith, and took place under a bridal arch of snow balls and bridal wreath from the centre of which was suspended a large white bell.

The bride looked charming in a dress of cream silk dolienne, trimmed with silk insertion and fine lace, and wore the customary bridal veil, crowned iwth a wreath of orange blossoms and lilies of the valley. She was given away by her father.

The bridesmaid was Miss Dollie Trotter, sister of the groom, of this city, and was beautifully attired in a beautiful dress of cream marquisette trimmed with cream silk lace. The groomsman was Mr. Will Clifford brother of the bride.

The bride carried a large bouquet of white roses, and the bridesmaid an attractive bouquet of pink roses. The house was liberally and tastefully decorated with snow balls and bridal wreath.

A number of out-of-town guests, mostly relatives were present.

After the ceremony, a sumptuous wedding dejeuner was served.

Mr. and Mrs. Trotter left yesterday for Niagara, Buffalo and other American cities.

WEST—FITZSIMMONS

St. Basil's church, Toronto, was the scene of a pretty wedding at nine o'clock Tuesday morning, when the marriage took place of Miss Margaret Fitzsimmons, of Toronto, and formerly of Peterboro, and Mr. Lionel West. The sanctuary was decorated with palms and the nuptial mass was performed by the Rev. Father Kelly. Mr. E. Jules Brazil, presided at the organ, and played Wagner's Lohengrin march, Chanson de Matin and Lemair's Andantino in D Flat softly during the service, he also sang the bridal solo, "O Sacrum Convivium," during the signing of the register. The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a beautiful gown of white satin and chiffon, trimmed with shadow lace. Her tule veil was caught with orange blossoms and she carried a shower of roses and lilies of the valley. Miss Genevieve Fitzsimmons, was her sister's bridesmaid and wore pink silk veiled in pink ninon with becoming hat and carrying pink roses. Mr John Beaver was best man and the usher was Mr. John Fitzsimmons. After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride, 61 St. Alban's st. Mr. and Mrs. West leaving for their home in Winnipeg, the bride travelling in a smart navy blue tailor-made

MILK VENDORS ADDRESSED BY THE SANITARY INSPECTOR

The members of the Milk Vendors' Association of the City of Peterborough, met in the Foresters' Hall, George street, last night and listened with interest to an address delivered by Mr. C. A. G. Spence, Sanitary Inspector. In his opening remarks, Mr. Spence said he had not come to impress upon them the importance of his official capacity, but rather to have them realize their own importance and the great responsibility resting upon their own shoulders as milk vendors. It was no exaggeration to say that to a great extent of the lives of the rising generation of citizens rested in their hands, or rather in their milk cans, basing this statement on the facts that milk is one of the best mediums for the development and dissemination of germs, that typhoid, scarlet fever and diphtheria are often traced to the milk supply, and that milk coming from a healthy cow is almost absolutely germless. Cleanliness, therefore, was of paramount importance, first, last and all the time, from the milking of the cow, to its delivery to the consumers. Personally, he would prefer milk testing only 2 per cent. fat, produced under cleanly conditions, to milk testing 5 per cent., but produced in insanitary surroundings.

Mr. Spence then described the ideal sanitary conditions necessary for the production of a pure milk supply, touching on the tuberculin test, water supply, stable construction, cooling of milk and other details, and evoked a burst of applause when he said that if the public were assured that the milk they consumed was being produced under these conditions, little kicking as to price would be heard.

After answering several questions put by the milkmen, a hearty vote of thanks was passed to Mr. Spence for his educative address.

C.N.R. AND PETERBORO

Mayor Bradburn Receives Letter From Sir William Mackenzie

Some time ago Mayor Bradburn, in an interview with Sir William Mackenzie, president of the Canadian Northern Railway, brought forward the many good points of Peterborough, and conversed with Sir William as to the possibility of Peterborough being served with a connection of the railway. The Mayor has just received a letter from the C.N.R. president, which reads as follows:

Mayor of Peterborough,
Peterborough:

Dear Sir,—I regret and must apologize for not replying to your letter earlier.

We are not losing sight of the great interest it would be to the Canadian Northern Railway to get into the city of Peterborough. We are not prepared yet to take up the matter of building to Peterborough, as we are so rushed with our other railway building all over the country. We feel that we must let this matter lie for a little while longer.

Thanking you for your kind interest.

Yours very truly,
WM. MacKENZIE.

TREE BLOWS DOWN AND CAUSES TROUBLE

The heavy wind blowing to-day was the cause of considerable inconvenience to a number of Stewart st. residents this afternoon, when a large tree blew down, taking with it the electric light wires running into the residence of Mr. Chris Wood. The tree blocked the road and put out of commission a section of the electric light circuit and caused more than a little trouble. City Engineer Hay was notified and he immediately informed the Power Company, who sent men to repair the damage to the line. It was expected that the circuit would be fixed by to-night.

MUNICIPAL GOVERNMENT BY BODY OF COMMISSIONERS

A strong argument in favor of municipal government by commission was advanced last night at the Ad Club dinner, when Mr. Hardy, a returned delegate from the Dallas convention referred to the condition of the cities in Texas, where that form of management existed.

Quite a number of the southern cities are under the management of a commission, said Mr. Hardy, and he furthermore stated that it was an easy matter to pick out the city where such a form of government was in force. It was noticeable from a more spick and span condition of the streets, most of which were paved. That the people favored such government was shown, said Mr. Hardy, by the fact, that while being escorted around the city in an auto by some of the residents, they, in a sense apologised for some things in connection with the city where aldermanic management was in force apparently attributing it to their council.

Mr. Hardy when asked by one of the members at the dinner, last night for his own opinion, said that he thought it was all right judging from what he saw and heard while at the convention, and from his strips to the adjacent cities around Dallas.

At the conclusion of the dinner Ald Gillespie, in moving the vote of thanks to Mr. Hardy said that he believed in government by commission with an advisary board of aldermen, and that municipal government required the best thought of those at its head.

INQUEST INTO DEATH AT CONDOVA MINE

The evidence in the inquest at Cordova yesterday did not attribute any blame to the mining company for responsibility in the death of John Pressick, the young man who met death there by falling down a shaft. Crown Attorney Wood of Peterborough, went down in the interests of the Crown, and Mr. Wills of Belleville, represented the mining company. Mine Foreman Corkill was also present.

It appeared that Pressick was loosening a nut on a drilling machine at the top of the shaft, when in some manner he slipped and fell to his death.

The verdict had not been given when Mr. Wood left for Peterborough. The evidence occupied about two hours.

GEORGE ALLAN'S SUDDEN DEATH

Mr. George Allan, a well known farmer living on the Middle Line, Smith township, died suddenly this morning about 9 o'clock after a brief illness. He is survived by Mrs. Allan, Bert, a son, residing at home, Lottie, also at home, and three married daughters, Mrs. Harold Lawrence, and Mrs. Ernest Hooper, both of Smith township and Mrs. William Pethrick, of Peterboro.

Mr. Allan, who was about 60 years of age, lived all his life on the farm where he died. He was a member of the Lakefield Methodist church. The funeral will be held Saturday at 1.30 p.m. to Little Lake cemetery.

Most summer matrimonial engagements are the result of an effort on the part of the silly young men and women to kill time.

PRESENTATION TO MR. F. REASON

By Mount Hebron Encampment of Oddfellows.

At the regular meeting last night, Mr. Fred Reason was honored with a presentation and an address by the Mount Hebron Encampment of Oddfellows. Mr. Reason left this morning for Woodstock, where he has accepted a position.

Peterboro', June 5, 1912.

Mr. Fred Reason, Peterboro:—

Dear Sir and Brother,—It is with feelings of profound regret that we learn of your proposed removal from our midst, from our society and our city.

During the too brief period that we have had the pleasure to associate with you, we have learned to esteem and value you, for your enthusiastic support of the principles of our noble order, and such a course is bound to give you a deep place in our hearts, aye, and in the hearts of our citizens too, for a true Oddfellow can never be a bad citizen.

As a souvenir of your sojourn in our tents we ask you to accept this little fob, attach it to your watch, and as it will come under your notice when you seek a record of the passing hour, may it arouse pleasant memories of the hours we have passed together.

While we would fain retain you here, we would congratulate the brethren. Wherever you go the gain will be theirs and in parting with you, we sincerely wish you Heaven's best blessing wherever you may be.

Signed on behalf of the MOUNT HEBRON EXCAMPMENT.

After the address had been read and presented to Mr. Reason, Bro. W. Savigny presented him with a handsome watch fob.

TRACEY TWIRLED CLEVER BALL AND THE WHITE CAPS SUPPORTED HIM

Petes' Shortstop Took the Only Double of the Game and Came From Behind in the Fifth by Batting.

Guelph, June 6.—The Peterborough team made their first appearance in Guelph yesterday afternoon and got away with a victory over the Maple Leafs, which was well earned. The Petes shaped up well both at the bat and in the field. Tracey was in the box and pitched gilt edged ball, allowing but four safe hits. The Leafs hit the ball hard, but always right at some fielder. Behan started to pitch for the Leafs and got along fine until the fifth inning, when four hits and a base on balls tied the score, Guelph having secured a run in the third and two in the fourth. Schuman was substituted, and a long fly brought in another run, putting the visitors in the lead, and the Leafs could never catch up. They added another in the seventh on a two bagger by Nasher and a single by Beard. The game was fast and clean and there was a good attendance. The score:

EAST CITY TEAM DEFEATED THE QUEEN ALEXANDRAS

In the first of an elimination series in the junior series of the Public School league, East City nine defeated Queen Alexandra's at the Central school grounds yesterday afternoon.

There were times when the school boys played fast baseball, numerous good plays being recorded by both teams. The score was 14-10.

East City in their first half scored two runners, but the Northerners came back with four tallies, and relinquished the lead when the Easterners sent seven men across the tin. Queen Alexandra's counted four in the next two innings and East City three. Both Johnston and Anderson were hit freely, but the latter had the better of the struggle. The teams were:

East City—Williams, Quinn, Cook, Gervin, Moffat, Hagerman, Phillips, Miller and Anderson.

Queen Alexandra's — Park, Meharry, Elliott, Kendry, Hall, Allison, Graham Eastwood and Johnston.

The King Edwards were defeated at the Oval by the Centrals, with a score of 20-11. The grounds were not in good condition for baseball and neither team was in the best of form. The winners, however, were stronger in batting.

BARTLETT RELIEVED TRAYLOR AT OTTAWA AND WAS HIT FREELY

Bartlett, the ex-White Cap heaver, relieved Taylor in the second game with Berlin against Ottawa. The Senators won 6—4. The Citizen says:

Ottawa made things exceptionally warm for Mr. Bartlett in the fifth. Blake connected for a safety and Callahan walked. Robertson flew out to Bartlett and Blake was doubled at second. Two were thus gone again, when the music started. Cook slammed out a hit and Callahan, after a great exhibition of base running, tied the score. Manager Lou reached third on a high heave to Deneau and scored when Rowe hit one inside the third base line. "Red" himself was retired stealing second, but Ottawa had forced their away ahead by 5 to 4. There was nothing doing in the run line in the sixth or seventh. Schwind made a dazzling catch behind second, and McGuire fanned with two on the paths. Ottawa also had two marooned in the seventh. Hopper started Ottawa's half of the next with a grand three bagger to left field, and though Draper went down at first "Sailor" Burke brought "Hoops" home with a safety over second, making it 6 to 4. Schwind and Blake were both eliminated.

ST. JOHN'S FAILED TO SCORE AGAINST BAPTISTS

Park street blanked St. John's in a Church League football contest last night at the Baptist's grounds, the score being 3—0 at the half, and 6—0 at the finish.

The grounds were in wretched condition for football and the players could not do their best.

However, the winners had the edge on the Anglicans and deserved their win.

BREEZES FROM THE DIAMOND

Gus Champene is back at first base for the Senators. He is under 20 years of age.

Tracy was the only White Cap to go without a put out. He had four assists.

While watching the game at Berlin between Berlin and Brantford, August Laing, who occupied a seat in the grand stand, was struck on the head by a heavy beam which fell from the roof, and caused a deep gash, which required several stitches. Other spectators were struck by the beam, but were not seriously injured.

New York Giants were going strong against Cincinnati yesterday. It was 20 hits and 22 runs. Doyle with six times at bat had three singles, a double and a triple.

Nasher the new White Cap shortstop was going strong at Guelph yesterday. He had two hits, one a double.

Manager Deneau was given an ovation when he came up to bat in the first innings of yesterday's game, and was the recipient of a monster bouquet and a purse of gold. He responded with a win against Brantford.

Finch, of the Guelph Fire Brigade, was re-appointed by the City Council for a period of three months, during which time he is expected to improve conditions at the fire hall, get the men working harmoniously together, and to put the brigade on a proper basis. Failing in this he is to be dismissed by the Fire and Light Committee, subject to the approval of the City council.

FIRE AT COBALT.

Heavy Damage Is Done by a Bad Blaze.

Cobalt, June 6.—Over $150,000 damage was done in Cobalt last night by a fire that resisted the combined forces of Cobalt, Haileybury and New Liskeard. The fire started in the Lyric Theatre, on the main corner, during a performance at 9.15 through the explosion of an oil stove in a dressing room. The theatre was emptied in an orderly manner, and a determined attempt to check the flames commenced. Twelve lines of hose were laid, but, despite the excellent pressure, the fire gained headway, and soon Milton Carr's dry goods store was a mass of flames. By strenuous efforts the Bank of Commerce was saved with a scorching.

With the collapse of the theatre building the flames jumped to the Cobalt Hotel, and from there to the Harrington Restaurant, the Galoska Block and the Moore Block at the rear of the hotel. By 11.30 the Haileybury brigade had arrived, and soon after the New Liskeard engine and hose company reached the scene. At midnight the Town Hall, the Bank of Commerce and the Nipissing stores block seemed to be in great danger.

It required almost superhuman efforts to save the Hunter Block, opposite the theatre, as the safety of the balance of the business section depended on this. Several firemen were overcome by smoke, two women were taken to the hospital suffering from shock, and many volunteer fire-fighters were scorched on the face and hands.

Quinte Conference Opens.

Cobourg, June 6.—The ministerial session of the Bay of Quinte conference convened here yesterday in the Methodist Church with a large attendance of members. The general session opens to-day. Yesterday afternoon was devoted to the work of conference committees. Last night an inspiring public service was held, devoted to Epworth League and to Sunday school work. There are a number of changes in the conference this year. Rev. Dr. Bishop, former pastor of Bridge street, Belleville, goes to Toronto, where he is superintendent of the Deaconess Training School.

Lord Strathcona's $15,000 Gift.

Halifax, June 6.—The following cable was received from Lord Strathcona yesterday morning:

"Will gladly give fifteen thousand dollars towards sum needed to make up four hundred thousand required for Dalhousie University."

A campaign to secure $400,000 for Dalhousie University is now on in this city. Of this sum $236,000 has already been secured.

District Attorney Fined for Contempt.

Los Angeles, Cal., June 6.—District Attorney John Fredericks was fined $25 and Attorney T. H. Appel $5, for contempt of court, by Judge Hutton yesterday, following an exciting clash between opposing counsel in the trial of Clarence S. Darrow. The defendant participated in the wrangle.

WORK OF HOME RE-UNION ASS'N AT TORONTO

Toronto, June 6.—At the British Welcome League last night the governing committee of the Imperial House Re-union Association held their 14th meeting since January, 1912, when the association was established here. There were 19 applications considered, 16 of which were passed, all a good steady class of men in permanent employment and making good in the country. This means an addition to the population within the next few weeks of 16 wives and 60 children, fully 30 per cent. of whom are already wage earners. In six months 161 families comprising 79 persons, will have been reunited by the Toronto association.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years, was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucuous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

DELEGATES TO DALLAS CONVENTION ADDRESS THE PETERBORO AD. CLUB

"It was one of the biggest things in the way of advertising ever held" said Mr. C. F. Hardy last evening, in describing the recent Dallas convention, to the members of the Peterborough Ad Club at Coleman Parlors following a bounteous spread.

"It surpassed the Boston convention in every way," he continued. "The attendance was greater, and the number of advertising clubs represented was much larger. There were one hundred and ten clubs represented at Dallas, compared with eighty-three last year at Boston. Three Pullman cars, containing sixty delegates, left Toronto for the convention, eleven ladies and about forty-five to fifty men comprising the party.

"When we arrived at St. Louis," said Mr Hardy, "the fellows began to cut loose," although not in a boisterous way. The Toronto delegation wore the Highland costume. At St. Louis, they were joined by the St. Louis and Boston delegation. Along the route, people waited for them with autos, hoping they would disentrain, and allow them to offer their hospitality, but to delay was impossible.

BIG RECEPTION

"When we arrived at Dallas," the reception nearly staggered us," said Mr. Hardy. "Crowds waited to see the boys from Canada. The Toronto boys alighted and with the bag-pipes and drums, turned themselves into a very good semblance of a 12th of July demonstration. We were also serenaded by the band of the San Francisco delegation. There appeared to be keen competition amongst the delegations from Baltimore, San Francisco and New York, as to who should have the honor of the convention gathering next year."

2000 DELEGATES

There were seven or eight special trains pulled into Dallas in all, showing the magnitude of the convention. Two thousand delegates in all were there, Boston only had fifteen hundred last year.

AD MEN IN PULPITS

On Sunday morning, something rather unique occurred, said the local delegate. The pulpits of the sixteen churches of Dallas were all occupied by advertising men, or men interested in some phase of advertising work. Mr. Hardy contended that this indicated that the advertising business was given a decided moral tone. Altogether, he thought a very high type of men attended the convention. They were all there for a big time if possible, but there was no drunkenness or rowdyism which so frequently occurs when men go into a strange place. No man was seen under the influence of liquor during the entire convention.

One feature that appealed very strongly to Mr. Hardy was the immense display of advertising copy in the Carnegie Library. Between thirty and forty different forms of advertising were displayed, advertising novelties of all kind, and information especially good for those engaged in the preparation of copy. Another interesting sight was the photographs of electrical advertising display.

One of the features of the convention was the hospitality shown to the delegates, the genuine, Southern hospitality so much heard of.

Mr. Hardy related some of his impressions of Texas. One was the extreme loyalty of the people to their city and to the advantages of their country. Another thing that impressed him, was the good roads, upheld by an excellent system of taxation. The law of the state allows fifteen cents on every $100 for the upkeep of their roads, and in one year $11,000,000 was voted for this purpose alone.

The cities were governed by commission in many sections of the state. Special note is made of this fact in another part of to-day's issue.

Some of the cities go in very heartily for advertising their advantages. One city spent $700 to $800 in advertising.

Mr. Hardy brought home copies of a paper issue in Birmingham, called the "Birminghammer." The entire front page of each sheet was given over to boosting the city of Birmingham, and was brightened by cuts of several of the city's most interesting possessions.

Mr. Hardy in concluding, said that he was glad to get back to Canada, feeling that there was no place like home after all. Nothing looked as good as home, and he felt proud of Canada, Ontario, and the city of Peterborough.

MR. H. B. COWAN.

Mr. H. B. Cowan was called upon to give his account of the big advertising gathering, dealing more particularly with the things learned at the Convention.

Mr. Cowan said that he learned to his great surprise that he was getting into a sort of rut. If anybody had told him that, he said that he wouldn't have believed them. He discovered that things were being done in altogether different manner than what he generally considered was the way.

Mr. Cowan stated that he went to the Convention primarily with the intention to find out as much information as possible, relative to the business in which he was himself engaged. There were so many things going on at the Convention that it was impossible to attend them all.

He stated that he found that there was a joint movement going on between the publisher and the advertiser in the endeavor to improve the class of copy going into the papers. He felt that this was a commendatory and praiseworthy move. He was also greatly impressed with the immensity of the Convention. Especially was this so when it was considered that the advertising men present represented salaries received yearly of from $2,000 to $70,000. All the prominent publishers from the United States were in attendance.

Delegates were there from every town and city of importance along the Pacific Coast. There was a great inspiration received from the mere fact of being associated with the big men there, with two thousand big, earnest and progressive advertisers, all willing to exchange ideas.

Just as "Honesty" was the key note brought out in the Advertising Convention at Boston, as it was at Dallas only even more pronounced. In addition to that requirement was added Efficiency and Co-operation.

"There was a time," said Mr. Cowan, "when every man was fighting for himself. Each man fought a competitor on the ground they contended that competition killed trade. Of recent years there has been a big change. Big men have got together and are trying to learn from their competitors. One of the most impressive things at the Dallas Convention," said Mr. Cowan, "was the willingness to interchange ideas, tending to increase the efficiency of advertising. Ideas of what had been done to aid business were freely divulged; ideas which years ago would have been hugged up as business secrets. It was shown that in modern days the manufacturer must co-operate with the retailer. It was now seen that it was bad business to over load the retailer. The manufacturer has discovered that he must help the retailer and the manufacturer must advertise his goods on a broad basis.

"The man who is in business to serve the public, is a better business man than the man who is in business to serve himself."

Mr. Cowan went on to tell how individually he had been benefitted by the trip.

He came back with a greater belief in the value of advertising and of the part that the Peterborough Ad. Club could play in the advertising movement. He came back a better citizen. He had been amazed at the growth of the Texan cities. Dallas itself increased in population in ten ten years one hundred and sixteen per cent., and all the other cities in the state were increasing in population at a correspondingly rapid rate. Cities no larger than Peterborough, there, have their skyscrapers. We in Ontario may think we are growing, but we are not going ahead like they are. Not only is American capital being expended there but British money is being invested as well.

Owing to lack of time Mr. Cowan was not permitted to relate more of his impression of the Convention. He remarked upon the valiant fight that Toronto had put up in the endeavor to obtain the Convention for next year, and of the strong showing made by the Toronto delegation at the gathering.

A vote of thanks was tendered both delegates in a nicely worded manner by Ald. Gillespie, responded to by Mr. R. R. Hall.

An appeal was made by Secretary J. McNicholl for members to pay their fees for the year and thereby give the Ad Club enough ready money to place them on a working basis.

Mr. C. C. Nixon occupied the chair. The gathering broke up shortly after eight with the singing of the National Anthem.

Accident Insurance

Following the Titanic Disaster no one will think of travelling without first taking out an Accident Policy.

It is interesting to know that practically all the Canadians who lost their lives through the Titanic wreck carried Accident Insurance. The average amount to be paid by Accident Companies alone, is over $30,000 for each Canadian lost.

The Double Indemnity and Bonus feature of The Dominion of Canada and General Accident Assurance Company policies are worthy of investigation before placing your Insurance.

CUBAN INSURGENTS WORSTED IN A BRUSH WITH MINERS

Two Engagements Occur With Negro Malcontents Near Cobre and Blacks Are Beaten Off Both Times—Citizens at Palma Soriano Are Barricading the City in Expectation of Attack—Asking for Protection.

Santiago, Cuba, June 7.—The rebels Wednesday night attacked the Cobre Mines, the fring continuing for one hour, when they were repulsed by armed employes. No Government force was present.

The rebels also engaged a Government guard at Punta Del Hal, the landing place for Cobre, but were repulsed after much firing.

Citizens at Palma Soriano are barricading the city momentarily expecting an assault by the rebels, who are believed to be near in strong force. The foreigners there have telegraphed to their consuls here begging for protection.

The columns under Col. Valiente and Col. Vallant returned from the field yesterday. It is understood that their plan of campaign proved a complete failure and that a halt has been called until a new plan can be perfected.

The United States gunboat Paducah recently stationed at Daiquiri, lay off the vicinity of the Cuero Mines Wednesday night, but as no trouble occurred, returned yesterday morning to Daiquiri.

Lieut. Charles Belknap, acting under the orders of Captain George W. Kline, commandant of the Guantanamo naval station, arrived here yesterday to investigate conditions and report back the wishes of American citizens with regard to military protection. Lieut. Belknap had a conference with the American consul, Ross E. Holaday, and many Americans, and made lists of their applications for troops for the protection of property in the city and vicinity, amounting altogether to 960 soldiers.

The lieutenant said that if the Cuban Government was unable to supply these, American marines would be sent as soon as possible. Later he and Consul Holaday had a conference with Gen. Monteagudo, the Cuban commander-in-chief.

Gen. Collister, the American owner of a ranch at Sigua, near Daiquiri, who was reported to have been held for ransom by the insurgents, has arrived here. He tells an interesting story of the experiences of himself and his partner, Mr. Wheeler, in the insurgent camp. On May 30 four armed negroes arrived at their ranch. They requested horses for the rebels; then camped at Alta Gracia, and when they departed took six horses with them. Later a messenger arrived from the rebel headquarters and informed Collister and Wheeler that Generals Estenos and Ivonet desired to see them.

They proceeded to the rebel camp, and Gen. Estenos made profuse apologies for taking their horses, but said that he had been compelled to do so. Estenos assured them that the insurgents would not disturb their ranch as they were carrying on civilized warfare. He added that he had been compelled to destroy property at Daiquiri in order to show the world that they were engaged in a revolution, but denied that he was fighting against foreigners. The movement was aimed entirely against the Cuban Government.

The rebel leader declared that he would allow none of his men to commit any outrage, and promised that all found guilty of such acts would be punished. He thanked the Americans for visiting him and escorted them beyond the outposts, from which they reached home without difficulty.

Toronto, June 7.—Two healthy girl kiddies and a baby boy were born to Mr. and Mrs. George Boore of 32 Broadview avenue last Tuesday and no happier nor prouder parents are in Toronto than these two. The firm for which Mr. Boore works, so soon as they heard of the event, sent to his home three bright new gold pieces of the new coinage. King George will be expected to do the same.

Carnegie to Students.

London, June 7.—While Andrew Carnegie was delivering his address as lord rector of Aberdeen University, at Aberdeen, Scotland, yesterday, the students, the number of whom was large, hurled chairs and rugs about the hall and kept up an incessant din, singing and whistling, but finally permitted the ironmaster to proceed.

Mr. Carnegie advised the students to "remain teetotalers until you have become millionaires."

EASTERN PRESBYTERIANS WANT SEPARATE MISSIONS

Declaring That McMaster University, Knox College and Toronto University Are Teaching Heresy, and Destructive and Poisonous Doctrine, Rev. W. F. Roadhouse Starts the "Alliance of Bible Crusaders."

Toronto, June 7.—Toronto is to have another alliance. This time it is to suppress higher critics in Toronto University, Knox College and McMaster.

The promoters declare that McMaster teachings are heresy, that the scriptural tuition at Knox is destructive, and at Toronto University poisonous.

McMaster graduates are using vigorous language in expressing their opinion of Rev. W. F. Roadhouse's new role as organizer of the new alliance. Rev. Mr. Roadhouse recently gave up his Baptist pastorate to ally himself with the critics of the Biblical teachers of the universities.

The new organization is to be called "The Alliance of Bible Crusaders."

The first object of the crusaders is to be "withstanding the present widespread drift from the old foundations, and the belief in the word of God.

"All interested," can become Alliance Bible Crusaders by paying a fifty cent annual membership fee.

The movement is declared by one prominent McMaster man to be "abnormal." Another McMaster graduate said: "This thing is very unfortunate."

BIG FOREST FIRE.

Fraser River Country Has Been Seriously Devastated.

Vancouver, B.C., June 7.—Reports of a serious forest fire that has devastated the upper Fraser country for a distance of 110 miles between Fort George and Tetejuane Cache, have been received here. Four railway construction camps and four engineering camps have been completely destroyed by the flames, which have also done damage to two unnamed townsites. The men from the railway construction camps were all turned out to help fight the flames.

The terrific heat from the burning forests as the flames worked their way back towards the mountain passes was so great that a vast quantity of snow on the mountains and from the forests was melted, with the result that the Fraser rose three feet in two days. The effect of the floods in quenching the fires had the contrary effect of allowing the river to subside.

Hundreds of moose were burned.

Dr. MacGregor Found Guilty.

Bad Axe, Mich., June 7.—Dr. Robert A. MacGregor of Ubly, Mich., formerly of London, Ont., was found guilty of murder in the first degree by the jury which returned its verdict at midnight Wednesday.

The history of the case which resulted in the conviction of Dr. MacGregor dates from June, 1909, when John Wesley Sperling, a prosperous farmer, died under circumstances which suggested poisoning. Since that date, the farmer's three sons, Pollock, Albert and Scyril, have died from similar causes.

ORGANIC UNION OF CHURCHES DESIRABLE BUT NOT FEASIBLE

Committee Submits Report To the General Assembly—Union Not to be Consummated Now.

Special to the Review.

Edmonton, June 7—The union committee of the Presbyterian Church at ten o'clock this morning, placed before the general assembly, a series of resolutions which they declared embody the views they had firmly held all along. The statement laid before the Assembly affirms that organic union be effected as soon as it is assured that the members of Methodist and Congregational communions of sincere and ardent desire to complete union within a brief period. It rejoices in increased agreement between the negotiating churches and in the sentiment indicated by a vote of a large majority. It provided for several practical steps regarding cooperation in mission field, in educational work and in prevention of overlapping, and re-affirms that organic union is the end to be aimed at and striven for. But in view of the extent of the opposition to that step indicated by the vote, it is deemed unwise to proceed to immediate consummation of union.

STRIKING ICEBERG STEM ON WOULD HAVE SAVED TITANIC

Special to the Review.

London, June 7.—Edward Wilding, associate architect in the construction of the Titanic, told Lord Mersey at the inquiry to-day that if the ship's helm had not been starboarded just before the collision, and she had been permitted to strike the iceberg stem on, the Titanic would have been saved.

"Even though steaming twenty-one knots an hour?" asked Lord Mersey.

"Yes," replied Wilding. "I am quite certain the ship would have been saved, but am also equally certain that every man in the firemen's quarters would have been instantly killed."

OTTAWA'S CATERPILLAR PLAGUE IS VERY SERIOUS

Special to the Review.

Ottawa, June 7.—There is a plague of caterpillers in this end of the province. Heavy damage to fruit trees is feared.

REV. ROBERT ST. CLAIR HAS BEEN COMMITTED FOR TRIAL

Special to the Review.

Toronto, June 7.—Rev. Robert St. Clair, Superintendent of the department of investigation of the Toronto Vigilant Association, was committed for trial by Magistrate Denison shortly after one o'clock to-day, on a charge of circulating indecent literature. The charge arose out of a circular issued by Mr. St. Clair to a number of Toronto clergymen giving what purported to be a description of a performance at a local burlesque theatre. Inspector Kennedy admitted that much of the working in the circular was used in the performance he saw on Feb. 27th last, the night after Mr. St. Clair had seen it, but said that he did not attribute the meaning to it that the writer of the circular had.

ALLIANCE OF BIBLE CRUSADERS HAS BEEN FORMED IN TORONTO

Vigorous Protest Is Registered at General Assembly Against Proposal to Combine the Two Sections Is Made by Maritime Delegates — Second Proposition to Gather Prairie Work Under One Head Is Also Negatived.

Edmonton, Alta., June 7.—The plan of the home mission committee of the Presbyterian Church to unify the mission work of the church received an unexpected check yesterday afternoon.

The first recommendation of the committee was that the division of the church into two sections should be terminated. As was stated by Rev. Dr. A. S. Grant in his advocacy of the plan, there were not two churches, but one and not two assemblies, but one. The representatives of the Maritime Provinces, who were present in the assembly, made, however, a vigorous protest and no decision was reached.

The proposal that all the work in the western section, including the supervision of hospitals, Sunday schools, Indian work, etc., should be under the supervision of the home mission committee, also received unexpected opposition. A message was sent from the synod of Alberta suggesting, not that the work should be unified, but that Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia should be given complete supervision of the work in those provinces. Dr. A. S. Grant withdrew all the further recommendations of the home mission committee until the committee of systematic conference, which has charge of the new budget plan had been reached.

The report of the home mission committee showed 791 mission fields receiving assistance from the home mission fund, a net gain of 60 over a year ago. The committee recommended that the various building funds be amalgamated under one management. During the year the Women's Home Missionary Society raised $38,687.15, and 156 new organizations were added, making 650. A special effort is to be made in 1912 to increase the auxiliaries to 1,000, and the presbyterials to 50. Contributions from the churches in Scotland and Ireland amounted to $6,007.59.

The committee recommended in part as follows:

1. That the eastern and western sections of the church be united for purposes of mission work in Canada.
2. That all mission work on Canadian soil, for which the Presbyterian Church is responsible, be brought under one board.
3. That the assembly authorize the appointment, for the supervision of all mission work on Canadian soil, of 12 superintendents, who shall have oversight of districts, and be known as district superintendents.
4. That the different funds for the purchase of sites for churches and manses, and for assistance in the erection of manses and church buildings, be amalgamated, and that this fund be augumented to at least $400,000.
5. That the different Women's Missionary Societies throughout the whole church be united and formed into one Women's Missionary Society.

The report of the Woman's Home Mission Society showed the evangelical work, including 11 home mission fields in New Ontario and the west, deaconess' work in Winnipeg, Edmonton and the Kootenay; Childerhose memorial fund, from which emergency assistance is given to home mission conveners in Northern Ontario, in the form of small loans, the sending of libraries and literature to Sabbath schools in rural districts, and lumber, mining and construction camps, and also supplying needy mission fields with suitable clothing.

The amount raised during the year was $38,687.15, an increase of $7,903.04 over last year.

The amount raised since the organization of the Women's Home Missionary Society in 1903 is $163,260.97; estimatd for next year is $45,203.

Two incidents of note occurred at the morning session. Rev. Dr. Somerville spoke of the small increase in the membership and indicated that there was something seriously the matter when in the face of an immigration of 350,000 the church gained only two or three per cent. in membership.

Principal Baird threw great doubt on the immigration statistics, and indicated that the reason why the church did not get a larger proportion of the newcomers into the membership was due to the fact that they did not remain in the country. That those who came to the country and were counted as immigrants did not remain in the country was shown by the discrepancy between the figures prepared by the Government, those of the immigration branch and those of the census.

H.R.H. IS BETTER.

Duchess of Connaught's Condition Steadily Improved.

Montreal, June 7.—The condition of the Duchess of Connaught is reported improved, and it is now believed that she will be able to leave the hospital in a week's time.

The following bulletin was issued from the Royal Victoria Hospital early yesterday evening, and it was announced that no further bulletins would appear last night unless some entirely unexpected developments occurred.

"Her Royal Highness the Duchess of Connaught passed a satisfactory day, sleeping a considerable portion of the time and complaining of less pain.

"Her Royal Highness continues to make satisfactory progress.

LATER.

The ten o'clock bulletin says: The Duchess passed a comfortable night, having several hours' refreshing sleep. She suffers much less pain and discomfort, and her condition shows material steady improvement. Signed—Worthington, Garrow, Chipman.

Want to Stop the Trek.

Seattle, Wash., June 7.—Governors of ten western states opened their congress here yesterday designed for the purpose of stemming the tide of immigration to Canada.

"This confounded business is ruining us," is the cry heard on all sides. They assert that the western states are losing 11,000 farmers a month to Canada, who carry with them property valued at $500,000,000 a year. J. J. Hill of the Great Northern & Northern Pacific is the moving spirit behind this congress. He is pulling the strings, because the states his great systems cover are the ones that are suffering most by the trek to Canada. The congress has a fund of $500,000 they will use to help divert this stream to Canada, but by what methods they do not say.

"No, there will not be one word of criticism of Canada or her methods of attracting immigration, if I can help it," Thomas L. Penwell of Helena, Montana, president of the Northwest Development League, said yesterday.

Big Wireless Scheme.

New York, June 7.—Twin wireless stations to communicate direct with London will be built along the New Jersey coast within a year, according to an announcment made last night by the Marconi Wireless Telegraph Co. of America. The distance is 3,100 miles, and the estimated cost of the plants will be $750,000 each.

The announcement also states that options have been obtained upon similar sites at San Francisco and Honolulu, and that it is planned to construct a plant in the Philippine Islands, which will communicate direct with the one at Honolulu. The company would thus be enabled to send messages from London to the Philippines by way of the United States, relaying the messages by land wires from the Jersey coast to San Francisco.

Religious Orders Tottering.

Washington, June 7.—To save religious orders, particularly those of the Catholic Church from threatened disintegration, attorneys of the Order of St. Benedict of New Jersey will to-day ask the Supreme Court of the United States to review the recent decision of the eighth U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals that the agreement of a monk to convey all his property to his order was void, as against public policy.

The decision was made in the case of Father Augustin Wirth, for fifty years a member of the Benedictine Order, and at his death a priest of a German church at Springfield, Minn.

MEMORIAL TO BE ERECTED TO LATE SIR JOHN A. MacDONALD

Napanee, Ont., June 7.—At the thirteenth annual session of the Ontario Historical Society, which opened yesterday, Mr. A. R. Davis, S.E., Toronto, presented a resolution to erect a suitable memorial to the late Sir John A. Macdonald on the site of the old Macdonald home, of which Mr. Davis has the title deeds. These deeds he offered to the society. The Macdonald farm is on the shore of Hay Bay, in Adolphustown Township. This motion was carried unanimously. The event of the day was the ceremony of unveiling a brass tablet, by Mrs. A. T Harshaw, regent of the U.E.L. Chapter, I.O.D.E., bearing the following inscription: "To commemorate the first centennial celebration held in Canada of the War of 1812; erected by the United Empire Loyalist Chapter, I.O.D.E., at the annual meeting of the Ontario Historical Society, June 1912."

At Kingston yesterday the grave of the late Conservative chieftain was decorated with flowers according to an annual custom.

THE OPENING SKIRMISH

The final result of the Republican National Convention at Chicago will be indicated by the contest over the chairmanship. The National Committee of the Republicans meets to-day in the Windy City, and it is given out that Senator Elihu Root, a Taft man, is to be selected as temporary chairman, and that an effort will be made to appoint him permanent chairman as well, the latter selection being made by the entire convention on the recommendation of the Committee on Organisation. If Senator Root is voted permanently into the chair that will show that a majority of the delegates are for President Taft.

THE CUBAN SITUATION

All things come to the nation, as well as to the individual, who waits. The United States has long looked for a chance to interfere in the affairs of Cuba and now her marines are on guard duty in the island and her gunboats are hovering about the Cuban shores.

When the United States went to war with Spain, it was given out from Washington that the struggle was all in the interests of humanity that there was no thought of the acquisition of territory or treasure, and that when the Spaniards were driven out of Cuba that the island would be left to its independence. So far with regard to Cuba, the American nation has kept its word, but the trend of events for the past few years shows a change in the sentiments of that country.

Since the Spaniards were forced out of the island, Cuba has almost entirely passed into the hands of American capitalists, who, like neither the present Cuban Government nor the trade relations with the United States. These capitalists have long been in favor of annexation for commercial reasons, if nothing else, and a revolution like the one now in progress is just what has been desired to afford an excuse for intervention.

The United States is bound to protect the lives an dproperty interests of her citizens in foreign countries. It seems that President Gomes has been forced into the admission that he is unable to control the affairs of his own country by affording adequate protection to American citizens and plantations, hence the sending of United States marines into the interior for that purpose and the surveillance of the island by the gunboats along the shores. There are colonies of Canadians in Cuba and these will share the protection of Uncle Sam along with their American cousins. No one doubts that annexation will be the result of this intervention.

By a somewhat similar course of events the Hawaii Islands became an adjunct of the United States. In that case, however, it was the revolutionists who, after driving their queen from the throne, called upon the United States to help them hold what they had won and to take them into the fold. Mexico's turn to be absorbed will come next, then that of South American Republics, over which quarrelsome countries Uncle Sam is obliged to maintain a sort of fatherly protectorate.

There is in the policy of the United States, no pretense of their much vaunted "benevolent assimilation" doctrine. That country's motive is indisputably a selfish one, a desire to extend her commercial relations to her own advantage just as she so recently bargained for the commercial and political independence of Canada.

WHY KNOCK?

It does seem strange that any specimen of the genus popularly known as knockers should be found in such a city as Peterborough, where natural and artificial conditions all tend toward the cultivation of the brightest optimism. How can a man grumble while living in such a city of beautiful homes, well kept lawns, and so placed as to enjoy every advantage of natural drainage, and where the citizens are devoted and proud of their place of residence, and who exude worldly prosperity from every pore. The very joy of living should be the predominant sentiment in us all.

But there are knockers even in such a city as this in which the lines have fallen so auspiciously. One man writes to the papers with a growl against the exuberance of our youth. He does not like to see girls on the streets at night, even at an hour so early as nine o'clock. He does not propose any alternative or any other way in which they can enjoy the blessings of fresh air, but if he had his way he would probably lock all young people in their rooms, say at sundown every evening and further add to the security of their captivity by carrying the keys around in his pocket. He does not like anything that looks like flirting or lovemaking. He probably never indulged in those innocent pastimes himself, for cynics, it is well known, regard everything in that line with ineffable contempt.

Another man vents his spleen upon the unfortunate City Council, singling out the Board of Works as his special target. The copious rains of this season have fallen on optimist and pessimist without discrimination, but why are the aldermen to be held responsible for the damages to our streets wrought by the freaks of the weather? Are not the members of the Council doing their best to have the unsightly poles removed before they can begin the work of paving a principal street, and is not the Street Railway Company waiting for that same paving of George street before laying a double track? How much better it is to hasten slowly in the matter of important improvements than to take a leap out into the darkness with no idea as to the location of the landing place.

Any person who attends the session of the City Council can see for himself that the aldermen are applying business principles to their administration of the affairs of the city. They are as careful of the money at their disposal as they are of their own private funds and do not wish to spend a dollar unless they can see some probability of an adequate return. They are doing all that it is humanly possible to do in the care of the streets with the elements working against them every day. They have the hydro-electric power question under careful consideration and when that system is installed Peterborough will have cheap light and power and the said system will be free from any of the disadvantages from which other cities have suffered.

The Board of Works builds a walk through Central Park and immediately the Knocker goes gunning for official heads. The fact that the walk was needed, that the public required it and that it will in no way detract from the beauty of the park makes no difference. The chance to register an objection must not be lost.

Another variety of knocker sees on the street some unfortunate who has imbibed not wisely, but too well, and straightaway rushes into print with an attack on the police force as if Chief Thompson and his men were responsible for the licensed traffic and that it was the sworn duty of our officers to thrust into the cells every man who gave the slightest evidence of spirituous exuberance.

There is no city in Canada where the residents are better fed, better clad or more comfortably housed than in Peterborough. It is essentially a city of homes. Its location ensures a high degree of physical health. It has a fine public library, private clubs, good schools, fine churches with musical services that are unexcelled anywhere, and ministers who rank with the best in the Dominion. It has clubs and every form of social advantages. The Summer Fair showed what the Peterborough ladies can do in a work of charity. Its Fire Brigade is recognised everywhere as a model, its police force is efficient and every department of city government is wisely and economically administered. Then why this knocking?

But there is hope for the man who knocks. The columns of the papers are filled with advertisements of remedies for biliousness and a panacea for even the civic variety of that affliction can be found in any drug store.

NOTE AND COMMENT

It seems that President Taft can never open his mouth to speak without, in some way, injuring himself or further embarrassing the Liberal party of Canada.

"What is Faith?" reads a headline in a religious exchange. In Peterborough just now faith consists largely of a belief that the ball team will win an occasional game.

The ministers in the Hamilton Conference were at least impartial in their censure of those "high in Church and State," who attended the Woodbine races.

It is bad enough to have fakes on the principal streets of Hamilton, but when boys take to canoeing on them it is time the police interfered in the interests of juvenile safety.

The Asquith Government, for the time being at least, drops the Welsh Disestablishment bill with much the same feeling of relief as a timid person experiences in putting a loaded revolver out of sight.

An American newspaper, striving to turn the tide of emigration from the United States to the Canadian West, brazenly asserts that wheat cannot be grown at a profit in our prairie provinces. Let the agricultural Croesuses of the West be heard from on this matter.

A judge in Washington State has decided that Socialists cannot be citizens and has canceled the naturalization papers of a Swede, who admitted that he belonged to that cult. Here is one case where Roosevelt's proposed "recall of judges" might be applied to some purpose.

The Philadelphia Inquirer, in editorial comment upon Sir Wilfrid Laurier's strictures on President Taft says: "His capacity for statesmanship and his general intelligence must have been overestimated." Fortunately the Canadian people caught on to that before it was too late.

While the Hamilton Conference was protesting vigorously against our own Royal party countenancing horse racing King George and Queen Mary were watching the Derby from their private box and the King's horse was taking the dust from three other racers that were leading him around the course.

The Hamilton Conference, in session at Woodstock, passed a resolution praising the Whitney Government's administration of the license laws and the advances made by it in the interests of temperance. A clause which referred to the able and efficient leadership of N. W. Rowell was scored out.

Liverpool and Chicago Wheat Futures Close Lower—Live Stock—Latest Quotations.

CHICAGO, June 6.—Attempts to bolster to-day's wheat market failed. Talk of dust storm damage in the Dakotas did not long attract buyers as against news of continued showers in both Kansas and Nebraska. The outcome was a decline of 1-2c to 5-8c net. Corn finished 1-8c to 1-2c over last night, oats varying from 1-4c off to 1-8c to 1-4c advance and provisions unchanged to 7 1-2c increase in cost.

The Liverpool market closed to-day on wheat ⅛d to ¼d lower than yesterday, and on corn unchanged to ⅛d higher. The continental exchanges were closed over the holiday (Corpus Christi).

Cynthia's Chauffeur

By LOUIS TRACY

Copyright by McLeod & Allen, Toronto

And now you, the heroine of the masque, must try to imagine that you are lost in a wild wood represented by a carpet spread here, in the center of the hall. Seated there on a dais, is your father the Earl, surrounded by his officers and retainer Near you are your brothers, Lord Brackley and Thomas Egerton, so blinded by sprites that they cannot see you, though keen enough to note the bright eyes and flushed cheeks of other ladies of high degree bidden to Ludlow from neighboring shires for the merry-making. And mark you, this is no rude gathering of unlettered squires and rough men-at-arms. How is it possible that an uncultured throng should listen rapturously to the noblest performance of the kind that exists in any language, wherein each speech is a majestic soliloquy, eloquent, sublime, with an uncloying word-music acclaimed by three centuries?"

The sheer wonder in Cynthia's face warned him that this brief excursion into the pages of Macaulay had better cease, so he focussed his thoughts on the actual representation of the masque in which he had taken part ten years ago at Fairholme.

"I must ask you to concede that the lords and ladies, the civic dignitaries and their wives, for whose amusement Milton spread the pinions of his genius, were far better equipped to understand his lyric flights than any similar assemblage that could be collected haphazard in some modern castle. They did not pretend—they knew. Even you, Lady Alice, could frame a neat verse in Latin and cap some pleasant jest with a line from Homer. When Milton dreamed aloud of bathing in the Elysian dew of the rainbow, of inhaling the scents of nard and cassia, 'which the musky wings of the Zepyhr scatter through the cedared alleys of the Hesperides,' they followed each turn and swoop of his fancy with an active sense of the truth and beauty. And what a brilliant company! How the red flare of torch and cresset would flicker on the sheen of silk, the luster of velvet, the polished brightness of morion and spear. I think I can see those gallant gentlemen and fine ladies grouped round the players who told of the strange pranks played by the God of Mirth. Perhaps that same fair Alice, who supplied the motive of the masque as well as its leading lady, may be linked with you by stronger ties than those of mere feminine grace——"

Cynthia did not blush: she grew white, but shook her head.

"You cannot tell," he said. "'Comus' was played in Ludlow only fourteen years after the landing of the Pilgrim Fathers in New England, and I would remind you that we stocked the new nation in the west with some of the bluest blood in Britain. Even in this hall there were Puritans whose ascetic tastes disapproved of Milton's imageries, of children play-acting, of the brave show made by the gentry——"

"My mother's people lived in Pennsylvania for generations," she broke in with a strange wistfulness.

"I knew it," he cried in truimph. "Tell me the names of the first-nighters at the Milton Theater, Ludlow, on that autum evening in 1634, and warrant me to find you an authentic ancestor."

Cynthia bent a puzzled brow at him.

"After this, I shall apply myself to 'Comus' with added comprehension," she said. "But—you take my breath away; have you, then, delved so deep in the mine of English history that you can people 'most every ruined pile in Britain with the men and women of the dead years?"

He laughed, and colored a little, with true British confusion at having been caught in an extravagant mood.

"There you lay bare the mummer," he said. "What clever fellows actors would be if they grasped the underlying realities of all the fine words they mouth! No; I quote 'Comus' only because on one half-forgotten occasion I played in it."

"Where?"

The prompt question took him unaware.

"At Fairholme," he said.

"Is that another castle?"

"No—merely a Georgian residence."

"I seem to have heard of it—somewhere—I can't remember."

He remembered quite well—was not Mrs. Devar, student of Burke, sitting in the car at the castle gate?

"Oh, we must hurry," he said shamefacedly. "I have kept you here too long, for we have yet to

> Trace huge forests and unhar
>   bour'd heaths,
> Infamous hills and sandy perilous
>   wilds,

before we see Chester—and Mrs. Leland."

With that the bubble was pricked, and staid Ludlow became a busy market-town again, its streets blocked by the barrows of hucksters and farmers' carts, its converging roads thronged with cattle. At Shrewsbury Medenham was vouchsafed a gleam of frosty humor by Mrs. Devar's anxiety lest her son might have obeyed her earlier injunctions, and kept tryst at "The Raven" after all. That trivial diversion soon passed. He hoped that Cynthia would share the front seat with him in the final run to Chester; but she remained tucked up in the tonneau, and the dread that kept her there was bitter-sweet to him since it betrayed her increasing lack of confidence in herself.

The rendezvous was at the Grosvenor Hotel, and Medenham had made up his minnd how to act long before the red towers of Chester Cathedral glowed above the city's haze in the fire of a magnificent sunset. Dale was waiting on the pavement when the Mercury drew up at the galleried entrance to the hotel.

Medenham leaped down.

"Good-by, Miss Vanrenen," he said, holding out his hand. "I can catch an early train to town by hurrying away at once. This is Dale, who will take my place. He is thoroughly reliable, and an even more careful driver than I am."

"Are you really going—like that?" faltered Cynthia, and her face blanched at the suddenness of it.

"Yes. I shall have the pleasure of seeing you in London when you return."

Their hands met in a firm clasp. Mrs. Devar, too flustered at first to gasp more than an "Oh!" of astonishment, leaned forward and shook his hand with marked cordiality.

"You must tell Dale to take great care of us," she said, knowingly.

"I think he realizes the exceeding trust I repose in him," he said, but the accompanying smile was meant for Cynthia, and she read it a farewell that presaged many things.

He disappeared without another word. When a slim, elegantly-gowned lady had hastened to the door from the drawing-room, whence she was summoned by a page, she found two dust-covered figures in the act of alighting from a well-appointed car. Her next glance was at the solmen jowl of the chauffeur.

"Cynthia, my darling girl!" she cried, with arms thrown wide.

There could be no doubting the heartiness of the greeting, and in that motherly embrace Cynthia felt a repose, a security, that she had been willfully skeptical of during many weary hours. But polite usage called for an introduction, and Mrs. Leland and Mrs. Devar eyed each other warily with the smiles of convention.

Mrs. Leland glanced at Dale.

"And who is this?" she asked, seizing the opportunity to settle a point that was perplexing her strangely.

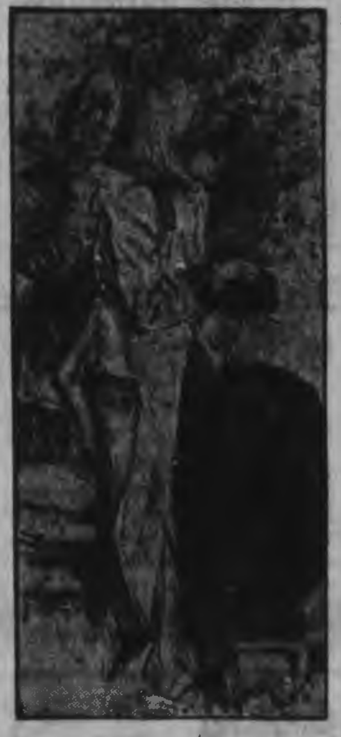
"Our chauffeur," said Cynthia, and a glint of fun showed through the wanness of her cheeks.

"But not—not—"

Even smoothed-tongued Mrs. Leland was at a loss.

"Not Fitzroy, who left us a minute ago. This man's name is Dale. One wonders, though, how you knew—why you doubted," cried Cynthia in sharp discernment.

"Pray why did Fitzroy leave you a minute ago?" was all that the other woman could find to say.



Cynthia is ready to snapshot Fitzroy.

"He had to return to London. But, there—it is I who ought to ask questions. Let us go inside. I want to get some of the grit out of my eyes and hair; then I shall become an absolute mark of interrogation—so I warn you. Of course, I am delighted to see you; but queer things have happened, and I am pinning to have them cleared up. When did you see father last? Is he still in London?"

Mrs. Leland answered, with freer speech now, but in her heart she was saddened by Medenham's duplicity. Six months earlier he and the Earl had dined at the villa she was occupying at San Remo for the winter. She then took a great liking to him on account of his shy reticent but singularly pleasing manners. She was prepared to laugh at the present escapade when she had discussed it with him that night. Now he had fled doubtless through fear. That was bad. That looked ugly and mean. Most certainly Peter Vanrenen had acted rightly in bringing her post-haste from Trouville. She must use all her skill if mischief were to be avoided.

CHAPTER XIII.

Wherein Wrath Beguiles Good Judgement

"Good-mornin', George."

"Good-morning, dad."

"Enjoy your run to Hereford?"

"Immensely. Did you?"

"It was not so bad. Rather tiresome, you know, travelin' alone, but on the return journey I fell in with a decent sort of Frenchman who helped to pass the time."

"Monsieur Marigny, in fact?"

"Ah, you know him, of course. I had forgotten."

"I have met him. He is not the kind of person I care to know."

Confession of a Burglar

By FRED L. YOUNG

I always worked single handed and had no confidants, confining myself to opening safes. You see, I got into the business while working for a safe and lock company. I became so familiar with the construction of locks that I could do almost anything I liked with them. It was the miserable pay I got that broke up my honesty. One winter my wife and children were all sick at once and I had to hire a nurse to take care of them besides running up a big doctor's bill. I got all balled up and it occurred to me to take what I needed for the time being from the safe of a rich cousin and put it back when times were better with me.

I took what I had to have, but as to putting it back that was another matter. Persons who take for the first time what don't belong to them usually expect to replace it, but the law that necessitates the taking prevents the return. However, I was not fitted for a burglar, and my wife getting wise as to how I made up the family deficiencies it nearly broke her heart. Then I was suspected and lost my legitimate job. Of course I couldn't get another one—in my line of business—without first class references from my last employers, and this threw me into the burglary line exclusively.

One night when I had got into an office where there was one of the safes I had helped construct, the lock of which I knew as well as I knew my own fingers, I laid my tools down before me and, taking up the one I intended to begin with, was starting in when I heard a voice behind me say:

Now, I knew some one had the dead wood on me. The blow had fallen at last, and the merciless law would have me in its clutches. My wife and kids and the way they would feel about it came up before me, and instead of attempting to put up any kind of a defense I said:

"I'll open the safe on one condition."

"What's that?"

"That you shoot me through the head as soon as I have done the job."

I must have shown my agony in my tone, for the voice said, "I'd rather pay you in currency and let you out of here without giving an alarm."

"That wouldn't do me any good. I'd have to continue as I am, and it would only be putting off the evil day."

"Well, go on and open the safe. While you're working we can talk the matter over."

I started in to pick the lock. Just before beginning I cast a glance behind me, but there was no light except my lantern, and I could not see any one. I asked why he wished the lock picked, and he said that he had an important deal to close in the morning and had been figuring at home on the matter late at night. Needing a paper in the safe to complete his calculations, he had come for it and in trying to open the safe found that something was wrong with the lock. He had gone out for the purpose of finding an operator, but at that time of night it was impossible. On returning to the office he had found the door unlocked. Being sure he had locked it, he suspected that something was wrong, entered cautiously and came upon me.

"In case," I said, "you would like to do anything for me no explanation of my being here would be necessary. It is to be supposed that, finding your safe lock gone wrong you had called me in to fix it."

"What do you mean by my liking to do anything for you?"

"Not only for me, but for a good woman and a lot of innocent kids. Help me out of this horrible way of making a living. I need one person, and only one person in the world to trust me. Men are a flock of sheep and follow one leader. Let the world know that you have confidence in me, and it will be making me over again."

He didn't say anything for a long while in reply to this, I knew very well that he was thinking of the risk he would take in trying to help me, and that risk came from me. Presently he said:

"A good deal depends on your getting that safe open. I'm very much in the dark as to what I am about to do until I get that paper I spoke of. I must close the deal at 9 o'clock this morning, and it's hit or miss with me."

I judged by what he said and his tone that I had a chance, and I put my mind right on my work. In half an hour I threw open the safe door. The man behind me told me to shove my lantern back a bit. I did so. He took it up and brought it to bear on me. Then he told me to put my weapons back also, and when I had done this and he had gathered them up he secured the paper he wanted from the safe and looked at his watch.

"Three twenty-five," he said. "Now I must go home and figure hard till breakfast time. Go on out and come back here Saturday afternoon. I may have a scheme for you."

He did have a scheme for me—a progressive scheme—by which, as I proved my regeneration I might advance, the two going together. I have been years in his service and am well to do. Thank heaven, my children, who are growing up to be men and women, have not a suspicion of my short period of dishonesty.

LOCAL G.T.R. FIREMEN WILL BENEFIT BY NEW WAGE SCHEDULE

Local G.T.R. firemen are included in the increase of wages granted by the Company. The increases are granted on a mileage basis, ranging from 10 cents to 30 cents per 100 miles, and on the monthly rates for specified runs from $6 to $4 per month.

This will mean that the pay of the firemen will now range from $67 to $85 per month, the average being from $70 to $80. Fully 2500 men will be included in the increases, which will amount to at least $300,000

In construction, wreck and yard service, the men have been granted a minimum of ten hours for each call instead of five as formerly, while the firemen have been relieved from performing some of their duties in regard to the cleaning of the engines.

HORSE THREW ELEVEN YEAR OLD LAD AND TRAMPED HIM

The home of Mr. Seth Dean, a prosperous farmer near Burketon, was the scene of a sad accident this week. Cecil, the youngest son, was out horseback riding, when the horse became unmanageable and after running for some distance the animal threw the little fellow to the ground, tramping on his body, and, as if in an evident desire that the little fellow should not escape, the brute planted one of its forefeet on the back of the boy's neck, pressing his head and face down into the sand.

Before the beast could be driven away the boy was trampled into an unconscious condition, and almost smothered.

He was taken to the house and medical assistance summoned. Upon the doctor making an examination of his injuries it was found that besides numerous bruises and cuts his mouth was completely filled with sand.

The boy was a very bright fellow, and was considered a wonder on the violin, as he was an exceptionally good player for his age. He was only about 11 years old.

1400 PEOPLE BROUGHT TO WINNIPEG IN ONE YEAR BY HOME RE-UNION ASSOCIATION

Peterboro officers of the local Imperial Home Re-union Association and many others interested in the work will be pleased to learn of the progress made by the Association in Winnipeg. At a recent meeting there were 14 applications for consideration. In each case the father of the family was present, was interviewed by the committee, and of the 14 applications 12 were aproved. The total cost of the transportation of these 12 families will amount to $2,005.25, of which the men making application will deposit $622. Persons to the number of 51 will thus be assisted, coming from different points of England and Scotland.

The meeting practically closes the rush spring season for the Home Re-union Association work. Since the season opened this year, over [illegible] people have been assisted in the city of Winnipeg, and when the last batch is landed it will bring the total of persons brought out by the association to 1,400 since the work began, a little more than a year ago.

Both gentlemen narrowly escaped with their lives, and the $100 camera, which Mr. Smith lost, is still in the bottom of the river. Taking views all over Ontario for picture postcards used in advertising, is Mr. Smith's business. The views which he took in the district of Keene will be distributed by Mr. Gall.

ARRESTS MADE BY POLICE AND MEN ARE FINED $5

Were Doing Business at the Circus Grounds When Gathered In.

An echo of circus day was heard this morning, in police court when three young fellows were arraigned on charges of peddling at the circus without a license. None of the three reside in the city. They were all respectable appearing young men and seemed to regret their misfortune in being found in such a predicament.

It appears that Detective Newhall got wind of the trio yesterday at the circus, his attention being attracted to them, by what looked to him like suspicious behavior. He shadowed them and overheard one of the party trying to dispose of a foutain pen to a man at a ridiculously low price. After watching them for some time, he decided to have them taken into custody, which was done.

A large quantity of phoney jewelry was discovered in their belongings stuff that can be purchased very cheaply and which when brightened up looks like the genuine thing in jewelry.

The spokesman of the party this morning was very earnest in his endeavor to explain that there was nothing illegal in their procedure at the circus yesterday. When he went down he had no intention of selling fountain pens, only he had promised to meet a boy there whom he had promised one for fifty cents. A few days ago he consulted the Chief of Police as to permission to sell at street corners, his application being refused.

EACH FINED $5

They all, however, put in a plea of guilty this morning to the charge read by Acting Magistrate Armstrong and were given the very nominal fine of $5.00 each. There was sufficient money amongst the trio to pay the fines of two, but hardly enough to pay the third man's fine. The leader of the party therefore expressed his willingness to go out and raise the required amount.

The three men had a stand at the recent Summer Fair, where they demonstrated broom hangers or something of that description and paid to Mrs. Travers the sum of $20.00.

PETERBORO MADE CENTRE OF NEW FOURTH HEALTH DISTRICT

The Province of Ontario, for the purpose of safeguarding the public health, has been divided into seven districts. The decisive action, based upon legislation passed last session, was taken by the Government yesterday. The older portion of the province is given five of the districts, and Northern Ontario the other two. The exact boundaries of the various divisions have not been announced, nor the names of the seven district health officers who will be placed in charge, but the headquarters for each district have been made known.

The headquarters for the fourth health section will be Peterborough and this means a good position for some local man who can quality.

Each one of the seven appointed will be required to take a six months' course of instruction in public health, and pass an examination prescribed by the University of Toronto.

The University has at the request of the Government arranged a special course for the district officers. It will include chemistry, bacteriology, water and sewage, epidemiology, and general public health and sanitary matters.

But this will not be all. Before they are placed in charge of their respective districts the men will be given a thorough schooling in practical work. They will during their term of study be attached to the Health Department, and will be sent out from time to time to get a first-hand knowledge of epidemics, sewage problems, and similar matters which will come within their province later on.

The district officers will receive a salary of $2,500 a year and expenses, and they will not be permitted to engage in private practice.

Their duties will not be light. The success of the somewhat radical changes made in the Public Health Act last session, from which the Government expects much, will largely depend upon the work of these men. To leave them free to do this the Government has removed them entirely from local control. They will act under the supervision and control of the Provincial Board and report daily to the department.

The new act does not apply to cities with a population of 50,000 or over, so that Toronto, Hamilton and Ottawa will continue to manage their own health affairs.

CHLORIDE TO TREAT SEWAGE WOULD COST $15 EVERY DAY

The question of constructing a sedimentation or Imhoff tank for the city, was discussed in all of its rather perplexing and serious phases at the Board of Works last evening. The city is confronted by one of the most important matters that it has been called upon to deal with for a long time.

At the present time the city is endeavoring to stave off the issuing of an injunction prohibiting the emptying of sewerage into the river, the township adjacent to the river threatening to take that course.

"We've got to take some steps right away," said Mayor Bradburn, when the matter was introduced last night. "There is no doubt about the work having to go on. We have avoided the issuing of a writ, by telling the township that we intend to go ahead with means to prevent the practice."

Ald Johnston—"Do you know of any qualified engineer whom we could secure to go ahead with the work?"

Mayor Bradburn—"This is a job upon which we cannot afford to take any chances. We must secure a good man."

"He is the best we've got around here," he remarked.

In connection with the sewage matter a letter from Dr. J. W. S. McCullough was read, advising the construction of a sedimentation or Imhoff tank for the treatment of the sewage in the east and west sections of the city. He also advised the use of chloride for the further treatment of the effluent from the tanks, which would be cheaper than constructing a filter. The use of chloride alone, however, would cost $15 a day.

The discussion of the question resulted in a motion by Ald. Gillespie, that Mayor Bradburn, and the chairman of the Board of Works be a committee to engage a competent engineer for construction work in connection with the building of a sedimentation tank, or some other system of treatment for sewage going into the Otonabee.

FRACTURED BONE TORE THROUGH THE FLESH AND TROUSERS OF FARMER

William Neil, a farmer of Cavan, met with a serious accident recently when skidding logs at a saw mill near Bethany.

One of the logs slewed and striking his leg fractured the bone above the ankle. He was alone at the time, but with commendable grit, he hitched his team to a wagon, and drove to his home, a distance of six miles.

Dr. Turner of Millbrook, was called and he, on becoming acquainted with the seriousness of the case, sent for Dr. McLelland, of Peterborough.

The jagged edges of the bone had come through the flesh and also through the man's trousers. The doctors applied steel plates, after setting the fracture and the patient is on the road to recovery.

SEVERE PERSECUTION SUFFERED BY MISSIONARIES

Toronto June 7—Rev. A.W. Roffe of the Christian Workers' Church, Bathurst street has received two letters from Rev. Mr. Brown, an English missionary laboring in Santa Cruz, Teneriffe, Canary Islands, telling of persecutions which missionaries have undergone recently. Mr. Brown has been in Toronto attending conventions at the Tabernacle, Bathurst street.

"We have been having some very bitter persecutions during the past few weeks" says one letter. "I have been in prison for the Word of God, and for the testimony of Jesus Christ. Great persecution is still going on. Two lady missionaries have been assaulted and arrested for giving away portions of Scripture in the public streets of Santa Cruz, and my wife is still under arrest."

The other letter says— "The mission here is passing through a time of great trial and crisis. A little more than a week ago two lady missionaries, one an English lady, who is working with us, and another who is one of our native workers, were assaulted and arrested in the public streets in this town for giving away the Gospel. By doing this the Governor here, in order to please the priests and a few fanatics, has broken the law of the land, and also violated international law. I myself have been kept in prison by a civil Governor, and the only charge brought against me was that I was found giving away the Ten Commandments in the native language, translated from Ex. 20. I was put in a dark filthy dungeon, without light or air with two other prisoners. There was no chair in the dungeon to sit on, nor a straw bed to lie on, and no food was provided, not even a drop of water to drink.

"I began to pray for my persecutors, and for my fellow-prisoners, but I was told that if I prayed I would be punished more and a gag would be placed in my mouth to prevent me using my tongue.

"Many friends protested against the conduct of the Government, among them the late Mayor of the town, and so I have been set at liberty, but I am sorry to say that my dear wife has since been arrested for the same cause, and she is still under arrest, so in very delicate health. They say they want me to pay one thousand pesetas as bail for her liberty. I told them I could not do this, so they replied they would send the police and make a levy on our furniture. I have applied to the British Government and asked them to procure for us the protection due to us as British subjects. I did not want to do this, but under the circumstances I have felt it my duty to do so, not only in self defence, but in the interest of the mission, the protection of our comrades and the property of the mission."

Mrs. Charles O'Connor presented the nurses with their diplomas and Miss Margaret Fitzpatrick pinned on their medals. A delightful solo was rendered by Miss V. The names of the successful nurses are: Sister Flevie Domitilde, Miss Ethel Walsh, Miss Yvonne Blais, Miss Patricia Redmond, Miss Elmire Belliveau, all of Ottawa; Miss Dorothet Minnell of Peterboro; Miss Kathleen Turner, of Rockland; Miss Anna Hall, of Manotick; Miss Helen Cregan, of Vankleek Hill.

ROYAL TEMPLARS OF TEMPERANCE ELECT OFFICERS

A regular meeting of the R. T. of T of the Dan Spence Council, No. 26 was held on June 6th in the Knights of Pythias Hall, and opened with Past Councillor, Brother Carey in the chair. There was a very good attendance.

The meeting opened in the usual way, and after attending to the regular business, the election of new officers, (this occuring semi-annually) was held resulting as follows—

Past Councillor—Brother Geoffrey Russell.
Select Councillor—Sister N. Smith
Vice Councillor—Brother Doucette.
Chaplain—Brother H. Coon.
Financial Secretary—Brother Wiley
Recording Secretary—Sister M. Merrill.
Herald—Sister V. Merrill.
Deputy Herald—Sister Wiley.
Pianist and Press Reporter—Sister L. Smith.
Inside Guard—Sister M. Harrison.
Sentinel—Sister E. Kemp.

After brief speeches from the newly-elected officers an interesting and suitable program followed.

Brother Doucette gave a temperance reading which was well rendered and much appreciated. Sisters Merrill and Harrison then favored the audience with a very pretty duet and Sister L. Smith gave an instrumental in her usual brilliant style.

After a beautiful solo by Sister E. Kemp, and a recitation delivered by Sister V. Merrill in her thrilling manner, the meeting closed with a helpful and interesting discourse by Brother Carey.

The next meeting will be held the first week in July. Further announcements will be given later.

HOWE'S SHOWS REPLETE WITH FINE ATTRACTIONS

Howe's Great London Shows have come and gone, after giving two performances yesterday at the exhibition grounds, drawing monster crowds at both afternoon and evening performances. Howe's shows may not be as vast as some which have been seen in Peterborough, but it includes several attractions which have got anything beaten that have ever been presented here. Indeed the most common practice is to judge a show by the plentitude of its attractions and quality, and the small details that count are frequently overlooked by the unthinking public. Howe's shows have looked carefully into the small things, and the clean, neat appearance of their paraphernalia was freely commented upon.

The shows are remarkably well balanced, and there is excellent management evident in every thing.

The performances yesterday introduced several new and startling acts. Foremost amongst these was the brilliant and clever work of the Uyeno troupe of Japanese acrobats and contortionists. The wonderful manoeuvres of these acrobats was astonishing, making it appear as if there was not a bone in their bodies. Two juveniles in the troupe were exceedingly clever and received the greatest bulk of the applause.

A very clever bicycle act is also put on, introducing all manner of trick riding by a trio of performers. The aerial acts were also startling and very effective, calling for intrepidness and strength.

Special comment is due the equestrian acts, the horsemanship being all that could be desired.

A very clever aggregation of clowns, kept the crowds amused, their nonsense evidencing some originality and extreme funniness.

The menagerie included some splendid specimens of the animal kingdom and attracted a goodly share of the patronage.

Water Situation

The high water that for some time past has been causing considerable trouble in the Trent Valley both above and below this city, has begun to recede a little. As yet the lowering, though noticeable, is very slight, but it is expected that the water will keep on approaching the normal till the usual level is reached unless another severe rainstorm comes.

BOARD OF WORKS TAKE UP THE PAVING QUESTION WITH OTHER BUSINESS

Mr. Clarke, of the firm of Clark & Mondes, waited upon the Board of Works last evening, in regard to paving the city streets. He stated that the cost of maintenance of a pavement is an important factor to be considered in laying. He described how pavement could be best used, and guaranteed that what he offered would give satisfaction. His pavement is laid on a concrete base six inches thick throughout. Cost of repairing would be moderate and it would also be very easily repaired. The class of material used in their paving was being extensively used. The price quoted the city was about $1.50 per square yard. From a municipal stand-point it would be very easily laid requiring very little plant. The gravel is mixed with the concrete, and when finished it would resemble bitulithic very strongly. It is very quickly laid, and can be used two hours after.

His company gives the ordinary guarantee of five years, but not for the price quoted. They would give a guarantee for two years however, at the price. They will guarantee pavement for five years at $1.65 per square yard. Their pavement is very much less slippery than ashphalt. The paving offered by his firm is being extensively used in Ann Harbor, U.S.

Mr. Clarke was informed that the city would keep his offer in mind, when going into the paving operations.

Clarke and Monks built the new Auburn Power House, and raceway and are now working at the new dam They represent the Dolway Paving Co., of Ann Harbor.

CEMETERY SIDEWALK

Mr. W. H. Moore, on behalf of the Little Lake cemetery, wrote the Board regarding the repairing of the sidewalk leading into Little Lake cemetery. The possibility of laiyng a pavement on the south side of the road was discussed. On motion of Aldermen Johnston and Graham, the City Engineer was instructed to go down and look it over, and report back to the Board.

WIDEN BABB'S LANE

A largely signed petition from the Babb's Lane residents and other dwellers in that neighborhood was on the fyle, urging the widening of Babb's Lane. The petition was signed by about sixty to seventy-five people. No options have been obtained on the property as yet, so the matter remains stationary. Mayor Bradburn and Ald. Buller announced that they would take the matter up at the earliest opportunity.

Mr. Rutherford waited upon the Board explaining the steps being used by him, in the construction of Mr. Eastwood's house across the Hunter street creek on the south side which requires the use of steel girders. Mr. Rutherford said that he thought he was at liberty to build with wood and iron under the building by-law.

City Engineer in his report recommended that the permission be granted.

THE WHITE ELEPHANT

A letter was received from Mr. Willis Chipman, acknowledging the receipt of a letter from Mayor Bradburn, with reference to the Romaine street sewer. He offered to come to Peterborough any time the Council desired to talk over sewage work, but thought it advisable not to come until the Romaine street sewer has been emptied, when the trouble there could be looked into. Ald. Buller thought some satisfaction should be secured for the money expended on the sewer.

Ald. Johnston, said that Willis Chipman should have seen the work was right before he left Peterboro.

As it appears to be a physical impossibility to do anything about remedying the trouble at Romaine st. just now, it was left to stand over.

Mr. Chipman is now endevoring to saddle the blame on the City Engineer and Street Commissioner Evans, on the ground that he instructed them to fill in the hole, where the leak is occurring.

Ald Buller advised both of the above parties to write Mr. Chipman and refuse to accept any of the blame for the present trouble.

Mr. Hay, submitted a report on the condition of the bridge over the old Dickson dam, which stated that it was in a very dilapidated condition. The cost of making over the old bridge and rendering it serviceable would cost about $800.00. It would then have a life of about five years more. The City Engineer did not think himself, that it was worth the expenditure. Mayor Bradburn and Ald. Buller couldn't see where the money would come from to make these repairs. The matter was left in abeyance.

Mr. Arthur Flowers' communication, asking to have a wooden sidewalk, laid on Dublin street, was again read, and on motion the walk was ordered to be laid.

The Bell Telephone Company's application to erect poles, for the extension of their lines, was again considered. They asked permission to erect two poles on Harvey street. Canadian Machine Telephone Company have poles on this street, and the Board thought the Bell people could use their poles.

Moved by Ald. Johnston that the request be refused and that the Bell Telephone Company be asked to make some arrangements with the Canadian Machine Telephone Company.

TEAMSTERS GET $4

The application of the teamsters, for a raise to $4.00 per day, was granted.

Ald. Anderson said that there was a feeling abroad that the city did not get as much out of these teamsters as private parties did. Ald. Anderson thought they often take advantage of the fact that they are working for the city.

Street Commissioner Evans recommended that the raise be granted for the summer months only. He said that it was not fair to the city to pay the same wage in the summer as in the winter, when the teamsters' work was less arduous.

Ald. Duffus thought that Mr. Evans should'nt have to leave his work and go off on some other work inspecting bridges etc., when he could be looking after the men under him.

Moved by Ald. Johnston, seconded by Ald. Gillespie that the teamsters be granted $4.00 for the entire year.

Moved in amendment by Ald. Graham, seconded by Ald. Anderson, that the raise be for the summer months only.—Lost.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The Review does not hold itself responsible for opinions expressed by its correspondents

EAST WARD HEARD FROM

To The Editor of The Review.

Dear Sir,—In Wednesday issue of the Review, on page two, column two, and at the end of the column, you write in notes and comment the following—"Stratford hopes that the Ducal party will not visit that city until the much talked of street railway is secured and in operation, but unfortunately for that city's ambition to play the host to Royalty, the Duke's term as Governor General is limited to five years."

This little item together with another on page four, headed "Brownton eagerly awaits street railway" should kindle the fire of indignation in the residents of the East Ward.

I have been in conversation with residents, not only in the East Ward but in all parts of our city, who have been going to ask the proper authorities if there is a Street Railway By-law, or an agreement with the city. If there is, Mr. Editor, why don't the people know what it is?

If the Ducal party come to Peterboro, and a few more suburbs gets a trolley car before the East Ward, there will be a bad time here.

Is it because a few of our money men have a pull and can increase their profits on the land they have in and around Brownton that they get the cars?

I think if there is not some very foolish and unbusiness-like understanding or by-law in favor of a one sided trolley line in this city, that before our present Governor General leaves Canada that we will have equal rights established here.

It may not be widely known, but there is a determined feeling in our city, that people will not walk twenty minutes to ride five or ten.

More to follow in this debate.

REV. T. TROTTER AT MURRAY ST. THIS SUNDAY

Dr. Thomas Trotter, of Toronto, who comes as the special preacher to Murray street Church for Sunday is sure to be heard by large congregations, morning and evening. His name and reputation is well known in Peterborough. He is one of those pulpit orators who with his earliest sentences secures a hold on his hearers which he keeps throughout the sermon.

The ushers have arranged for extra chairs in the hope that none will be turned away from either services.

Dr. Trotter while in the city will be the guest of Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Routley, Stewart street.

MISSION BAND PICNIC TO-MORROW

The Mission Band of Murray street Baptist Church and their parents, brothers and sisters will hold their annual picnic at Jackson Park on Saturday afternoon, weather permitting. This gathering is one of the most popular of all the year's functions. There will be games, races, etc., and tables will be set to accommodate the entire company. The young ladies will have a table where home-made candy may be purchased and altogether a delightful day will be spent. In fact we are convinced from what we have heard of the Mission Band Picnic that it utterly eclipses Howe's or anyboys else's circus as a summer entertainment.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed.

Mr. Corkery presented the report of the Finance Committee as follows:

1. We have received from the city a cheque for $5,398.12, being the unexpended balance of the money received from the sale of the property on Simcoe street, which was given to the city for Library purposes by the executors of the estate of the late Mrs. Nicholls, and we recommend that $5,000 of the City of Peterborough 4 1-2 per cent. debentures be purchased, the revenue derived from the investment to form a part of the current income of the Library.

2. That the following accounts be paid:

The report was adopted as read.

Mr. Ritchie, chairman of the Library Committee, reported that about $335 worth of books had been ordered to date, and that about $100 more would be expended in technical works, before the 1st July. He also reported that the number of books issued to date from January last, was about 24,000, while from February last year, the same date, the number was 14,024. There were at present 2,862 subscribers.

Several matters in connection with the building were considered and dealt with, and the meeting then adjourned to meet at the call of the chairman.

OBITUARY

Mr. Thos. Sherin

Statesman:—Another name has, by death, to be stricken from the ever lessening roll of officers and members of Bowmanville Methodist church. Mr. Thomas Sherin, who passed to his rest early Monday morning, May 27, has been very prominent in the life and activities of this church and now will be greatly missed from all the church associations. He was a member of the Trustee Board, the Official Quarterly Board and a valued class reader, always present and ready with words of cheer and encouragement for his classmates. He was a professor of holiness and was very strict on Sabbath observance and in matters of amusement. He was a good citizen, one whose life shed a wholesome influence in the community. He filled the various relations of citizenship as citizen, husband, father, friend and counsellor, and filled them well. There is now the silent voice, the vacant chair, the bereaved widow, in the sunset of life, and the lonely home, once so cheerful and lively with the presence and activity of the children to attest how sadly the departed will be missed. The tender human ties cannot be severed with a pang. But in such a death as Mr. Sherin's there is no cause for grief—his life's work was finished and he had performed it faithfully and well. Now he rests from his labor and his works and influence remains as a lasting testimony.

Deceased, who was in his 85th year, was born near Omemee in Victoria County, on October 10, 1827, was converted in 1840 under the preaching of Rev. McFaden and was appointed leader in the Methodist church by Rev. J. Slater in 1860, and has been continuously in office since then—over 52 years. On January 28, 1854, he married Harriet Morrow, of Cavan township, Durham County, who has been a faithful wife and helpmate for 58 years and has been his almost constant companion during his illness. They celebrated their golden wedding in 1904, when many old friends joined in the celebration. Mr. Sherin was an active business man in town for many years, but for several years has taken life more easily.

The late Mr. Sherin was the father of Mrs. Frank Mason, McDonnel street.

SOLDIER BOYS OFF TO CAMP AT BARRIFIELD

About two hundred members of the 57th Regiment paraded at the armories last evening at six o'clock and marched to the Grand Trunk station. There the scene was a very lively one as the soldiers boarded their train for Kingston, where they will go into camp at Barriefield. Both the brass and the bugle bands were in attendance.

In the camp the officers and men will have abundance of field work to-day and to morrow. They will return to the city early Monday morning.

GUELPH ALDERMEN WERE HISSED

The Guelph Mercury says: One of the features of the City Council meeting last evening was the presence of a very large number of the ratepayers, the most of whom stayed until the last word had been said on the Fire and Light report. At points in the discussion they vented their approval or disapproval audibly, and finally one of the aldermen had to ask that hissing be stopped, and the police were instructed to put out any one who hissed. The aldermen did not seem to mind the applause that they were greeted with.

BALL CLUB WILL TRY TO HAVE GAMES PLAYED HERE NEXT WEEK

The fans can rest assured that everything possible will be done in order to have the White Caps home games played here next week. There are two strong attractions in London and Berlin and while Riverside is not available, other grounds may be secured.

Berlin Champions with Bartlett and Schaeffer, two ex-Peterboro players are scheduled to play here Monday and Tuesday with Manager Bowerman's Londoners coming for Wednesday and Thursday.

LINDSAY COLLEGIATES TO PLAY LOCALS AT THE OVAL TO-MORROW

The Collegiate boys promise a grand game of baseball at the Oval to-morrow afternoon when the senior team will meet the first nine of Lindsay Collegiate Institute at three o'clock.

The Lindsay team has been practicing all along and have of late had several games with home aggregations. The locals too have been working out at Central Park and are in good shape for a hard struggle. Huycke will do the heaving for the Kennerites, and will be held up by Hill. This is a strong battery. The infielders are Long 1b, Moran 2b, Dixon ss, and Smith 3b, while the outfield is Matthews, Adams and Huycke.

Lindsay will bring their strongest lineup. Mr. J. J. Thompson will umpire.

GOLF CLUB TENNIS OPENING

To-morrow, Saturday afternoon, the tennis courts of the local club will be open for the first time this season, and every player, good, bad or indifferent is requested to turn out and help make the opening a success. Tea will be served in the club house between five and seven o'clock.

Y.M.C.A. Sports

The Y.M.C.A. war canoeists are asked to meet at the foot of King street this evening at 7.15 o'clock for a trip up to Boyler's Creek.

A girl isn't half as humiliated to make her own dresses as she is to wear them.

BOWLING ON TH GREEN

The Lawn Bowling Association of Bowmanville, have made up their rinks and elected the skips for this season's sport. A local tournament is to be arranged for.

Recently the members made the presentation of a gentleman's travelling outfit to Mr. J. S. Moorcraft in recognition of his valuable services in managing the annual excursion.

Peterboro bowlers are pulling strong for fine weather. Brookside green has not been used very much this season, and the locals are out in arms against the weatherman.

BREEZES FROM THE DIAMOND

Lowe has been watching Herbert, the Ottawa pitcher, for the past week but does not think enough of him to pay the price demanded by the Ottawa Club. "Herbert is a likely boy, but in need of about two years' schooling, and this prevents us paying the price asked." was Lowe's comment.—Hamilton Spectator.

Bill Schaeffer is hardly good enough for the Berlin champions. He replaced Schuyler yesterday and went to the bench in the eighth, Bartlett succeeding him.

Kaufman to Blame.

Toronto, June 7.—"We, the jury empaneled to enquire into the cause of the death of Lillian Stein at St. Michael's Hospital, on May 24, who, at the corner of Queen and John street, in Toronto, was thrown from the sidewalk into an excavation and crushed and otherwise injured by being hit and carried into said excavation in an automobile driven by Philip Kaufman, find that said Philip Kaufman was guilty of negligence in not exercising the proper caution in conducting the automobile of which he was in charge."

The above verdict was rendered at 12.30 o'clock last night by the jury which has been enquiring into the death of Lillian Stein, who last 24th of May was killed by a motor car driven by Philip Kaufman at the corner of Queen and John streets. Coroner Graham had charge of the enquiry and in all over 23 witnesses gave evidence.

Chicago, June 7.—Publicity will govern the Republican national committee in its deliberations upon the contests for seats in the national convention. This was decided without opposition at the opening session of the committee yesterday, in accordance with the expressed wishes of President Taft and Col. Theodore Roosevelt.

The public and the newspapers will be represented by the five press associations recognized by admission of their reporters to the floor of the national House of Representatives at Washington.

The committee also elected Victor Rosewater of Omaha, permanent chairman, and adopted the rules of four years ago, which are to govern the hearings preliminary to the national convention which begins June 18.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years, was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucuous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

Want Duty Removed.

Ottawa, June 7.—A large deputation from the Canadian Press Association representatives who are meeting here waited upon Hon. W. T. White and Hon. Dr. Reid yesterday afternoon and urged that the duty on linotype machines be removed. They pointed out that these machines are not manufactured in Canada, and that consequently a reduction or suspension of the tariff would not affect any Canadian industries. The present tariff on linotype machines from the United States is 20 per cent.

Hon. W. T. White, in reply, stated that the matter had already been called to his attention, and while he was perfectly willing to give their request every possible consideration, he could not say that he would grant their demands.

SUITS OF ARMOR.

The Men Who Fought In Them Were Evidently Small Men.

In an exhibition of armor a visitor is apt to be interested at first less in the art of the armorer than in the practical question of how armor could ever have been worn. It was certainly heavy. A suit weighed fifty pounds or more; some times the headpiece alone, in the case of a helm for tilting, might weigh thirty pounds. And it was evidently uncomfortable—"a rich armor worn in heat of day that scalds with safety," wrote Shakespeare, who probably knew his theme at first hand.

In fact, a complete harness must have been stuffy enough on a summer's day, but we can safely say it was not as hot as one imagines, for the polished surface reflected the heat, just as a bright andiron remains cool in front of a fire. Doubtless, too, it was cold in winter, but the metal surfaces were not in contact with the wearer; heavy buff leather or padded garments stood between, these mainly, though, for the purpose of deadening the actual shock of arms.

A surprising thing is that the men who wore armor were generally not of heroic but of small size. This, I think, is admitted, though not without an occasional protest. Thus, Lord Dillon, curator of the Tower armories, notes that parts of the armor can be lengthened or shortened, depending upon how they are mounted, so that a suit apparently for a short man may have served for a man of average size.

In my own experience I must nevertheless conclude the average size of harnesses is small, even when their adjustability is taken into account. Of twenty odd suits I have in mind only one is large enough to have fitted a man of five feet ten who weighed 200 pounds. Especially small were the heads. There are, for example, in my collection six casques dating from the fifth century. They are so little that they will hardly go over a head of average size.

Their wearers must, therefore, have had singularly small crania, for between casque and head heavy padding was worn as a protection from shock. It is difficult to believe that these six casques are exceptions in size, and they could hardly have been prepared for children, for such juvenile pieces are excessively rare, so large a number—half a dozen—occurring only in a few national collections.

SURGICAL GRAFTING

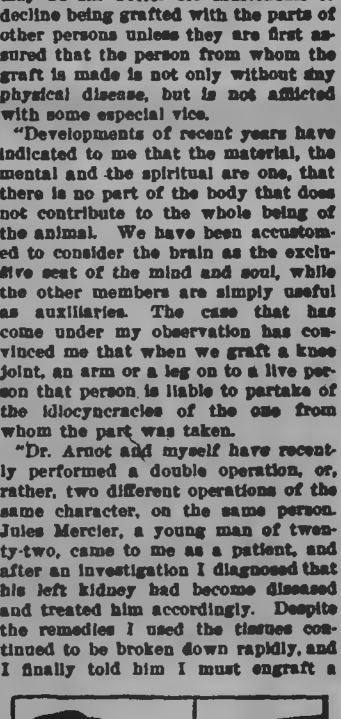
A Story of the Medical Cold Storage Vaults

By F. A. MITCHEL

"Gentlemen," said Dr. Marou to his fellows of the Paris Society of Original Research, "we must call a halt in the substitution of members of the human body until we can determine its effects. A case that has come under my observation indicates that it may be far better for individuals to decline being grafted with the parts of other persons unless they are first assured that the person from whom the graft is made is not only without any physical disease, but is not afflicted with some especial vice.

"Developments of recent years have indicated to me that the material, the mental and the spiritual are one, that there is no part of the body that does not contribute to the whole being of the animal. We have been accustomed to consider the brain as the exclusive seat of the mind and soul, while the other members are simply useful as auxiliaries. The case that has come under my observation has convinced me that when we graft a knee joint, an arm or a leg on to a live person that person is liable to partake of the idiocyncracies of the one from whom the part was taken.

"Dr. Arnot and myself have recently performed a double operation, or, rather, two different operations of the same character, on the same person. Jules Mercier, a young man of twenty-two, came to me as a patient, and after an investigation I diagnosed that his left kidney had become diseased and treated him accordingly. Despite the remedies I used the tissues continued to be broken down rapidly, and I finally told him I must engraft a healthy kidney in place of the diseased one or he would die. He consented, and I performed the operation, having obtained a perfectly well kidney taken from the medical cold storage vaults for the preservation of members of the human body intended for grafting purposes. All I knew about the person to whom the kidney had belonged was his name, Edouard Gignoux, and that he had been killed by a falling brick while passing a building in process of erection.



"I RECEIVED A VISIT FROM MLLE. LUCILE DEVEREAUX."

"The operation was eminently successful, the patient gaining health and strength rapidly. But hardly had he recovered when he was run over by an automobile and his right leg was so badly crushed that it was found necessary to amputate it. I performed the operation and before doing so it occurred to me that I might graft another leg in place of the one removed. I had learned that Antoine Charlier, who had been convicted of murder, was to be guillotined the day after Mercier was injured. If I could procure his right leg as soon as he was executed and immediately thereafter take off the crushed leg I might possibly substitute the one for the other.

"By a small payment the leg I wanted was secured within an hour after Charlier was executed, and with Dr. Arnot's valuable assistance I united it so successfully that in time the patient was able to walk on it with reasonable ease. Of course there was a great advantage in the man's youth, since his vital forces were in prime condition for healing. During the union of the parts we were obliged to make but one readjustment and that was where an artery of the grafted leg had not been successfully united to that of the stump.

"Pardon me, gentlemen, for taking up your valuable time with details concerning matters with which you are already familiar. Time was when the substitution of a knee or an elbow was a novelty; now we repair the human body as a carpenter replaces a portion of a house or engrafts sections of the tubes carrying the blood as a plumber puts in a few feet of lead pipe. Besides, we have the same advantages of material at hand as the builder or the plumber in the human organs consisting of kidneys, lungs, stomachs, eyes, ears and noses contained in our valuable collection kept as living organisms in our cold storage vaults.

"I now come to something worthy of your earnest attention. Young Mercier had been discharged as a patient but a few days when I received a visit from Mlle. Lucile Devereaux, who informed me that Mercier, to whom she was engaged to be married, was acting strangely. I asked her in what respect and she said that while he had been studying the profession of the law and had been much interested in it since my operations, though he was ready to be admitted to the bar, he had shown a great deal of repugnance to that profession and was hanging about the theaters endeavoring to secure an engagement as an actor.

"In a moment the idea that I announced in the beginning of my remarks flashed upon me. Could it be that the young man's identity had been in a measure affected by one or the other of the two persons whom he had borrowed, of one a kidney, of the other a leg? Putting the young lady off on some pretext, I went as soon as I could find time to the cold storage vaults and consulted the entries made on the record which you are all aware is kept, of the human parts kept there. Eagerly I turned to the index for the letter G and saw Gignoux, page 543. Finding that page and running my finger down to 'occupation,' I saw in the space left for the purpose the word 'actor.'"

The astonishment among the scientists at this point and the many contradictory exclamations were so great that for a time Dr. Marou was not able to proceed. When quiet was restored he continued:

"My first thought, gentlemen, after the profound interest I took in my discovery of a great scientific truth had abated was one of apprehension. The changing of my patient from the instincts of a lawyer to those of an actor by the substitution of a kidney, important as they were, were nothing compared with the danger that might follow from the change of his leg. I shuddered when the thought came to me that I might by the second operation have engrafted upon a good young man engaged to a pure young woman the instincts of a murderer."

The doctor was interrupted again by expressions of wonder, disapprobation, incredulity and faith in his discovery, all mingled in a miniature storm.

"I will first state," he continued presently, "the further result of the kidney engrafting. Whereas Gignoux from whom the organ was taken, was an actor of great ability, Mercier, from what I can learn, shows no histrionic ability at all, and had only been able to obtain a situation among the supernumeraries. In other words, since the kidney is but a minute portion of the body he has inherited but a minute part of Gignoux's talent. Thus far nothing has been discovered to show why the taste developed."

"From what?" called a voice.

"The kidney of a talented actor."

"Go on!" cried many voices.

"There is nothing to show," the speaker proceeded, "why Mercier acquired so much of the taste with so little of the talent of the man whose member he had acquired."

The doctor paused again and showed visible signs of distress in entering upon the next part of his address:

"Mercier himself was much troubled at the change in him, especially as it distressed his fiancee, and was likely to separate him from a girl he truly loved. He came to see me with a view to my taking out the kidney I had put in and replacing it with one the record of which was satisfactory. I told him that if the trouble continued I would do so.

"One morning I received a telephone message from Mlle. Devereaux that appalled me. It was that her lover had tried to kill her."

At this announcement so angry became the discussions that Dr. Arnoux hurled an iron inkstand at Dr. Poiteau, and Dr. Pourtaire broke a package of test tubes he had obtained for his laboratory over Dr. Le Verier's head.

"Gentlemen," cried the president of the society, "I beg of you to listen to the outcome of this marvelous scientific discovery."

The disturbance subsided and Dr. Marou, wiping his brow with his handkerchief, proceeded, though haltingly.

"The risk of a second substitution was so great that I did not encourage Mlle. Devereaux by promising anything in this line.

"She was therefore obliged to choose between a lover who was liable to murder her and one with one kidney and a cork leg. She took the matter under consideration and later informed me that she had decided on having the kidney and the leg removed. She would rather die than have a husband stamping about on a peg, but there was no knowing how many persons he might kill, and she dreaded the stain of the gibbet for himself and the children that might be born to them.

"And so, gentlemen, I am punished for daring to alter nature's laws. I have had all the trouble, occasioned all the pain for nothing and am now obliged to undo my work with as much trouble and pain as in doing it."

The speaker sat down, and Dr. Tetedeux arose and said:

"I move you, sir, that hereafter no leg, arm, kidney, gall, spleen, bladder or any other part of the human body belonging to one of the criminal classes be received in the medical cold storage vaults."

The president put the motion, and it was carried unanimously.

It is but proper to add that the removal of the members that had been grafted upon the young man was successfully accomplished. He was glad to return to the legal profession, and all desire to commit murder was eliminated. He is happily married, and a new graft is contemplated, but his wife proposes to know all about the material used.

Canadian Cadets at Antwerp.

Antwerp, June 6.—At a largely-attended representative dinner, Sir Cecil Hertslet, British consul-general, and the British colony entertained Sergeants Merrick and Huggins, Corpl. Matthews, Lieuts. Heakes and C. Fox before they proceeded to the battlefield of Waterloo. They were given a position of honor as Canadians and a royal reception from their host. Mr. Fred. C. Salter of the G.T.R., responding to the toast of "The Dominion," thanked Sir C. Hertslet as a Canadian for his good-will and the practical manner he had of helping traveling Canadians.

Accident Insurance

Following the Titanic Disaster no one will think of travelling without first taking out an Accident Policy.

It is interesting to know that practically all the Canadians who lost their lives through the Titanic wreck carried Accident Insurance. The average amount to be paid by Accident Companies alone, is over $30,000 for each Canadian lost.

The Double Indemnity and Bonus feature of The Dominion of Canada and General Accident Assurance Company policies are worthy of investigation before placing your Insurance.

THE MEANEST SWINDLER.

The Professional Begging Letter Writer Very Ingenious.

"In the whole world of criminals I know none who so richly deserve punishment as the professional writer of begging letters," the late Chief Justice Coleridge once said in the writer's hearing; and no one who is familiar with this criminal's dastardly methods would hesitate to endorse his lordship's scathing words.

If you inquire of the London Mendicity Society or the Charity Organization Society you will be told that of every ten begging letters, among the tens of thousands with which the benevolent rich are deluged every year, nine are the work of rank imposters, who fatten on this most shameless and heartless of frauds. They will tell you of men, well-known to them, who regularly make $2,500 a year and more, and who lead the luxurious lives of men about town, who draw every penny of their revenue from the well-to-do philanthropist by means of whining and mendacious appeals to his charity.

The begging-letter imposter is a veritable chameleon among criminals. He assumes a hundred characters, from the destitute widow with nine children to support, to the broken and dying gentleman of family, and he is an expert in each. He is, too, the champion of specialists. One takes the peerage for his field; another the army; a third the church, and so on; reaping a rich harvest year by year from his dupes.

In the Begging-Letter Department of the London Mendicity Society, which has brought so many of these miscreants to their deserts, you may see thousands of letters, heart-breaking in their piteous appeal, every one written by these swindlers of the pen, most of whom have served many a term in gaol, only to return at once to the same profitable game. These letters are all grouped under their different writers, although each may have a score or more of aliases; so that in a few moments you may see each imposter's record and his various methods of robbing the charitable.

The writer is probably a man of education "gone to seed," but his letters cover the widest range, from the round ill-spelled schoolhand of a child and the illiterate scrawl of a "poor widow" to the scholarly and feeble penmanhip of an officer or a clergyman reduced, through no fault of his own, to the last stage of pathetic destitution.

Here is a sample from a poor workman (probably written after feasting luxuriously at a West End Hotel): "Madam I earnestly and humbly plead to you to answer this letter and help me by lending me the 20s. I asked you for some time ago. My wife is dangerously ill; and having no bedclothes makes her much worse. Madam, do, I pray of you, lend me the £1 so that I can get my clothes and overalls out of pawn, and at once start work, etc."

This letter was accompanied by a pawn-ticket, on which the amount had been cleverly altered from a shilling (for some article of small value) to the required pound.

Another letter tells a pitiful story of poverty. It is addressed to one of our dukes, and concluded: "I am now in deep distress as my health is very bad suffering from bronchitis and having lost former savings in a lodging house, and I beg of your grace to kindly send me a little help which is painfully wanted for myself and family."

PAYING CANADA'S RENT

HOW THE ABORIGINE IS RECOUPED FOR HIS LOST LANDS.

Four Dollars a Year Per Man, Woman and Child, Free Schooling, Medicine and Aid in Time of Dire Necessity Is What the Dominion Gives Him — He Seems Content and Happy on His Allowance.

You have heard of Canada's duty to herself—and of Canada's duty to the Empire. You have gloated over her natural resources, you have debated hotly the question of reciprocity and its probable bearing upon the future welfare of the country. But was it ever brought home to you, prosperous Canada, that this Canada of yours is not yours after all; that it is a leasehold property, leased by the many from the few, and that you pay every [illegible] a portion of the rent?

[illegible] are but tenants in the land [illegible] we so proudly call our own. Not many miles to the northward, living a simple life in tents and lowly shacks, dwell our landlords. They are not harsh and overbearing, these owners of our soil; nay, rather are they humble and submissive in spirit, thankfully accepting from their tenants a paltry handful of crumbs, let fall from the heaped-up table of the land's fruitage, the fullness of which they were incapable of reaping for themselves.

Among the Cabinet Ministers of the Dominion of Canada is numbered the Minister of the Interior. From his office at Ottawa he directs those administrative departments which come under his control. The Department of Indian Affairs is one of these. It is presided over by a Deputy Minister and carries on its work through the medium of Indian agents distributed throughout Canada, and one of the most important duties of each agent consists in "paying off" the Indians in his district, according to the treaties made at different times in the past between the redmen and the whites.

"A hush, then at a word from the interpreter a young man detaches himself from one of the groups and saunters forward, tugging at the knot in a bandana handkerchief he carries. This, opened and unwound, he hands to the agent a small blue ticket, which will be found to bear the printed words "The James Bay Treaty," and in manuscript the number which is his on the official books and his name, John Wolf. The books show that last year he was paid twenty dollars, his offspring numbering three. To find what changes, if any, have taken place during the last twelve months is the task of the interpreter. A short colloquy in Ojibway, then the interpreter turns to announce that, although one of the children died—tuberculosis—in the spring, the family still shelters five members and points in explanation to a papoose which its mother is rocking to sleep nearby. The birth and death duly recorded, the clerk with ostentation counts out twenty dollars into the father's hand and sees them folded up along with the blue ticket in the big red handkerchief. The full-bred Indian whether from trustful courtesy or ignorance, or both seldom counts the money we pay him. Honest himself (and no one is more so than he), he has perhaps not learned, though he has had many an opportunity, that all men are not as conscientious as he is.

"Another summons, and another paterfamilias lounges forward, his halting feet and impassive countenance giving one the impression of extreme boredness, but that is the way of his race and must be so interpreted. The former process is repeated, except that this time it is an elderly man who stands before us and his family has grown up. One of his daughters, moreover, has found a husband since last pay-day with whom she will henceforth be paid. This worthy advances next to receive a ticket (heretofore he has been paid under his father's name) and to have himself set down as the head of a family. Pride—the one emotion which the redskin does not blush to reveal—shines from his countenance, and it is with a great show of dignity that he takes his eight dollars and bears the sum off to his "woman."

"After the family men have all been paid come the widows and the orphans and the lone old men of the tribe. Here is a woman who last year received twenty-four dollars. But in the early fall, as the family journeyed toward the hunting grounds, her eldest son, the provider, was drowned. None of the others was as yet old enough to hunt successfully. The tubercule germ breeds fast in a stuffy wigwam, and it delights to prey on ill-nourished bodies. With the spring the mother returned from the bush—alone; her hand shook as she took the four dollars given her, and hobbled back to sit silent among the jabbering squaws. Many are the bashful youngsters dragged forward by stern guardians, and made deliver up the tickets which they hold crushed in tight-clenched hands. The bush is a cruel dwelling place, even to the men whom it has reared, and many a father meets his death before his children have learned to know him.

"There is little or no attempt at deceit, so great is the respect for truth which obtains among these "uncivilized" peoples of the north. Finally, when all have been paid, the Factor, who has watched the proceedings from the doorway of his store, presents the tickets of such absentees as have left them in his hands, and receives the money called for. Payment for 1911 is complete."

Kicked by a Cow.

The new Lord Chamberlain of England, Lord Sandhurst, has a memory so famous that a political colleague once remarked of him "that he is a man whose mind files all the facts that other minds forget."

Lord Sandhurst was Governor of Bombay for four years, and soon after reaching his new home at Malabar he made it his duty to go slumming in what was then the unsavory and fever-haunted native quarter of Bombay.

In one terrible tenement, he found no less than fifty servants, and drew pointed attention to the lack of ventilation and the lowness of the ceilings. Of this he was presently to receive an unpleasant proof. For when he entered one of the rooms he was confronted by an ill-conditioned cow, by which he was kicked unmercifully, his chief concern being to refrain from doing anything that might seem to give offence to the native mind, which regarded the cow as a sacred beast.

A Romantic Marriage.

The second marriage of the present Marquis of Ailsa came about in quite a romantic manner. He was once returning home from India, and on board the vessel was a lady, Miss Isabella MacMaster, who had just lost her father and was going home to England. The story goes that the Governor of Bombay, who had interested himself in the lady's sad position, asked his lordship to do what he could for her during the voyage. The acquaintance thus begun ripened presently into love on both sides, and the lady eventually became a marchioness.

The marquis, like most of his forebears, is a great lover of golf, and has played much abroad. He has a private course at Culzean.

Coal Stealing.

Coal-stealing is the fashionable crime of the moment in England, and thoroughness was the note of a robbery in a village near Newcastle-on-Tyne. The village constable got in two loads one day, and the next morning found his coal place empty, swept, and whitewashed.

Relics of Edward VII.

Many articles of unique historical interest, which belonged to the late King Edward, have been sent by Queen Alexandra to the London Museum, which will be opened to the public shortly. The most interesting of these is a watch-chain which His Majesty used to wear, made of Queen Alexandra's own hair. To the chain, which is studded with diamonds, is attached the following inscription:

Watch-chain of H. M. Queen Alexandra's own hair, and given by her to King Edward VII. in 1864.

In the same case are a medallion and ribbon each of the three different classes of the Victoria and Albert Order. This order, like the Garter, is returned to the Sovereign at the death of the holder, and those in question were returned to King Edward. They were bestowed upon Lady Codrington, the Queen of Hanover, and the Countess Spencer. Near by are King Edward's favorite cigar and cigarette cases and his cigar-box. The collection is completed with several pairs of gloves worn by His Majesty on special occasions, and also a favorite woollen muffler.

PRESBYTERIAN URGES A BETTER FINANCIAL POLICY

Church Union Comes Up at Assembly in Edmonton and Report of Committee Contains Resolutions Affirming Determination of the Church to Consummate the Plan—Better Fiscal Organization Required.

Edmonton, Alta., June 8.—Two sessions of the highest interest to Presbyterians occupied the attention of the Presbyterian Conference yesterday. The first of these was the matter of church union and the second was that of the million dollar budget. The debate on the latter was keener than that on church union, which was interrupted in the morning by the arrival of the hour of adjournment.

In the afternoon, when the question of the budget came up, Edward Brown of Winnipeg made a stirring appeal for the creation of a better business administration, stating that the church was failing to get from the men of wealth in the denomination the large gifts which ought to be obtained, and that the Methodist Church was far more successful in this respect than the Presbyterian.

The new resolutions of the union committee were submitted to the assembly at the morning session. A resolution prepared by the committee in Toronto in March had created the impression that the body was not as ardent for the cause as it had been, and the statements prepared at the meeting here were intended to place the matter in the clearest light possible and to render it obvious to all that the determination of the organization was irrevocably set for the consummation of the plan. Inspiring addresses upon the subject were made by the Rev. Principal Gordon, of Queen's University and by the Rev. Dr. W. J. Clark, minister of Westmount Presbyterian Church, Montreal.

The venerable Principal Gordon of Queen's University, who, in the course of a long career, has made innumerable speeches in the general assembly, made one of the addresses of his life in an advocacy of church union at the session yesterday. His declaration was greeted with continual applause and his statement that the policy of the church must be to cooperate with the negotiating churches with organic union definitely in view, was most warmly received.

The union question, he declared, would never down until it was settled right. Using the union of 1874 as an illustration, he declared that the present opposition to union would, after further conference, very largely disappear.

Rev. Dr. W. J. Clark said with reference to the possibility of discontinuing the movement for union, there was only one adjective which he could use to describe it, namely, the word "suicidal." The speaker did not consider the plan as one designed to save money but to expend very large sums in the wisest manner. The union of the three negotiating churches was a preliminary step and he had faith to believe that the pending union would be followed by still other negotiations and unions.

Principal McKay of Vancouver moved that the new resolutions regarding union with all the related papers should be sent to a large committee, and this was agreed to.

In the afternoon Principal Alfred Gandier of Knox College presented the report of the committee on systematic beneficence, which included the budget for the year. Three years ago the cry of a "Million for Missions" had been raised in the church and since that time the effort had been made to secure this amount each year. This year the sum of $1,000,000 was asked.

Rev. Dr. C. W. Gordon referred to the existing conditions in China and based on them a strong appeal for a larger budget. He also spoke of the continual stream of immigration and said that a hundred new mission fields would be opened in 1913.

J. K. Macdonald of Toronto moved that the budget should be increased to $1,200,000. He referred to the unexampled extravagance of modern life and said that there should be no difficulty in obtaining all the money required.

Edward Brown spoke of the need of a thorough administration of the business of the church. The attempt was made to do this too cheaply. The conditions with which the church was confronted were unparalleled in history. Extraordinary steps must be taken to meet them. The complete support of the men of wealth in the church must be obtained, and this could only be obtained by placing responsibility on these men.

Archdeacon Gray appeared before the assembly bearing the greetings and good wishes of the Anglican communion, and the mayor of the city extended a formal welcome.

TAFT WINS IN THE FIRST BOUT

Special to the Review.

Chicago, June 8—The first definite clash between the Taft and Roosevelt forces in the Republican National Committee came late yesterday afternoon on the contest from the Ninth Albama District, and resulted in a victory for the Taft forces.

The Taft delegates, James B. Sloan and J. Rivers Carter, were placed on the temporary roll of the delegates of the National Convention by a vote of 38 yeas to 15 nays.

This vote indicates clearly that the president has a big majority of the members of the National Committee,

CHILD IS KILLED.

Toronto Boy Is Run Down by an Auto—Other Accidents.

Toronto, June 8.—Two dead, one dying and three others in Toronto hospitals more or less seriously injured is what happened from accidents and other causes in this city yesterday evening and last night.

George Kettle, a youngster of eight years, was hit by a motor car driven by Royce Robson of 48 Concord avenue last night at 7 o'clock on Hampton road. The boy was sitting on the curb in front of his home just a few minutes before the car passed. He got up and attempted crossing to the other side, when the car hove in sight. He became frightened when he saw the approaching motor, hesitated in the centre of the road, and was run down.

Raymond Chalune, 56 Beatty avenue, 21 years of age, was hit by a G.T.R. train at Sunnyside crossing last night, and when rushed to St. Michael's Hospital had to have his right foot amputated. He is in a serious condition.

Wm. McCallum of Montreal, 50 years of age, was hit by a Metropolitan street car, and taken to St. Michael's. He is badly bruised and shaken up, and is in a precarious condition.

Albert E. McGibbon, 261 Grace street, fell on the sidewalk in front of the Bank of Toronto, King and Bay streets, and suffered injuries which required his being taken to St. Michael's Hospital.

COUNT TISZA SHOT AT.

Hungarian Politician Narrowly Escapes Assassination.

Budapest, Hungary, June 8.—Count Tisza, president of the Lower House, had a very narrow escape from assassination in the Diet yesterday morning. He was fired upon three times by Deputy Julius Kovacs, who then shot himself probably with fatal effect. Tisza was unscathed.

Kovacs was one of the most brilliant members of the opposition, and was included in those who were ejected from the chamber on Wednesday because of disorderly conduct.

The attack upon the count is a direct outcome of the agitation which has been persisted in since his election as Speaker on May 23. Tisza is an opponent of universal suffrage, ad on this issue his election was contested with a bitterness that culminated in violence in the chamber and bloodshed in the streets.

Throughout Count Tisza had remained seated and after the wounded Kovacs was removed he magnanimously invited the House to "express your sympathy for the sad fate that has befallen this madman." The three shots fired at the President of the Chamber buried themselves in his desk.

It appears that Kovacs while on his way to the Parliament Building said to friends that if he succeeded in getting inside the chamber he would not leave it alive. Kovacs is said to be in serious financial difficulties.

HON. J. D. HAZEN

Mr. Hazen will accompany Premier Borden on his trip to England.

Crop Increase 75 Per Cent.

Winnipeg, June 8.—It is estimated in official circles that there is about 15,000,000 bushels of grain in the country yet to be marketed and that 190 per cent. increases in May and June shipments of grain will be duplicated for the next two or three months until the country completely recovers from the effects of last winter's blockade. When the final returns are in the crop will be in excess of the 1910 harvest by 75 per cent.

To Answer Charge In Brockville.

New York, June 8.—James L. Dickson, agent at Brockville, Ont., of the International Securities Co., Ltd., of Montreal, who was arrested here recently upon request of the Canadian authorities, consented upon his arraignment yesterday to waive extradition proceedings and return to Canada to answer a charge of misappropriation of $1,199 of the company's funds.

Toronto Traveler Sentenced.

St. Catharines, June 8.—Philip Martin, claiming to be a traveler from Toronto, who was arrested charged with the theft of a gold watch from Solomon Goldberg, was found guilty and sentenced to one month in jail.

BIG WELCOME TO GERMAM WAR CRAFT PAYING UNCLE SAM A VISIT

HEAD ADMIRAL VON REBEUR-PASCHWITZ
THE MOLTKE

PRINCE HENRY XXXVII OF REUSS AND OFFICERS ON BOARD THE MOLTKE.

President Taft and other officials have planned a series of receptions for the German officers and squadron now on a visit to the United States.

The visit of the German war ships, the importance of which is in some quarters being overlooked in the political excitement preceding the campaign, is the most marked honor that Germany has paid this country since the visit of Prince Henry of Prussia in 1902.

Among the distinguished officers in the German fleet is Prince Henry XXXVII., of Reuss. He is a first lieutenant on board the Moltke. He was born at Ludwigslust November 1, 1888, and succeeded his father, Prince Henry XVIII., who died on a railroad journey from Schweinfurd to Wurzburg, August 75, 1911.

COL. SAM HUGHES REFUSES TO RESTORE CAMP CANTEENS

The Government Is Not Going to Turn Bartender For Men Who Are Addicted to Liquor, Declares the Minister of Militia on His Arrival at Niagara—Department Cannot Control Hotels Nearby.

Niagara-on-the-Lake, June 8.—"The Government will not act as a bartender and serve fellows who are foolish enough to be addicted to the liquor habit," declared Col. the Hon. Sam Hughes here last night, on his arrival from Niagara Falls to spend a few days in camp. "Canteens will not be restored," he announced.

"So long as I am Minister of Militia," he continued, "no intoxicating liquor will be sold in camp." Regarding the exposures in the newspapers he stated that they could not possibly be true, and based his view on his long experience in the militia and his frequent attendance at militia camps.

"Selling liquor in camp lines was a mistake," declared the Minister. "If those inclined to drink get it outside the lines the Government is not responsible." The restoration of canteens, he repeated, would in his opinion be a great mistake, and in this respect militia camps would continue just as at present.

So far as the hotels outside the camp grounds were concerned, he stated that the Militia Department had no jurisdiction. That was a matter for the Provincial Government. The proposal to have the hotels made out of bounds was nonsense and childish. The percentage of men drinking in hotels was small, and they were orderly as a rule, so far as he could learn.

"If I were commander of a regiment," he concluded, "I wouldn't be afraid to leave a barrel of whisky in the vicinity of the tent lines. No officer who knows his business and has his men properly trained would be afraid to do the same thing. There has been too much talk, and silly talk, by people who don't know what they are talking about. Clergymen, officers, Y.M.C.A. officials and others are unanimously of the opinion that the rural regiments are the finest that ever attended camp."

The opinions seems to be prevalent, especially at Niagara camp, that the stories in the newspapers were aimed at the rural regiments. Such is not the case. It is a fact that while the city regiments were in camp last week there was liquor inside the lines, and plenty of it. Dozens of officers who have had years' experience in military camps have given opinions similar to those of Sir Henry Pellatt and Col. Langton, that the only way to overcome the excessive drinking at military camps is to have a supervised canteen.

St. Clair Awaits Assizes.

Toronto, July 8.—Rev. R. B. St Clair was bound over to the assizes on his own recognizances yesterday morning by Police Magistrate Denison, upon the charge of circulating indecent literature. Mr. St. Clair offered no testimony, reserving his defence until the trial of the case before a jury. The alleged indecent literature consisted of a circular describing a performance at the Star Theatre about three months ago. Col. Denison, after reading the circular, announced that a prima facie case had been made out. Inspector Kennedy was placed upon the stand to prove authorship of the circular.

Upon cross-examination by Mr. Raney, for the accused, Mr. Kennedy admitted that Mr. St. Clair had notified the police of the existance of some 60 houses of ill-fame. A number of these complaints were investigated and some convictions recorded. The inspector also testified that he had attended the performance at the Star upon the evening following the one at which Mr. St. Clair was present. He inferred that the performance was the same on both evenings. He had suggested that one or two features of the performance be cut out, and this was done. General speaking, he did not consider the performance in any way indecent.

Caterpillars Block Trains.

Ottawa, June 8.—A plague of caterpillars is wreaking havoc among fruit trees in this end of the province, and it is feared the losses to the farmers will be very heavy. So serious is the situation that trains on the Gatineau division of the C.P.R. have had difficulty in running on almost every trip outward from Ottawa this week. There is a heavy grade about five miles north of the city, and at this point the tracks are strewn with the insects. In some cases, owing to the slippery condition of the rails, three engines have had to be used on a train of four cars.

Deserted Fatal Camp.

Kingston, June 8.—Twelve Bulgarians employed at the construction camp of the Canadian Northern Railway, whose eight companions were killed by a premature blast, went on strike and tramped to this city, a distance of 25 miles, and took the train for Montreal. They regarded the job as a hoodoo.

Stole by Proxy.

Toronto, June 8.—Harry Rosebush incited Ann Eccles, a domestic in the home of Harry Cole, West Bloor street, to steal a tie pin for him. Rosebush had done the same thing before, and has a rather murky all-round bad record. He was handed a three months' sentence.

MAGISTRATE WOULD SHOOT

Winnipeg, June 8.—Magistrate McMicken startled his court room by the declaration that if he carried a loaded revolver and an automobile ran into him he would shoot its driver. "I think my life is worth something," said the Magistrate, "and I would not allow anyone to threaten it with impunity. You automobilists should consider that the automobile inspector is protecting you against such men as myself when he keeps you from breaking the law."

TELEGRAPHIC BRIEFS.

The Congregational Church Union cordially endorsed church union.

Seventy in favor, one against, was the vote at Coldwater, Ont., on the hydro-power bylaw.

An order was issued at the Niagara camp prohibiting soldiers crossing into United States territory.

Joseph Couillard of Montmagny has been appointed to command the steamer Arctic, in place of Capt. Bernier.

James Belanger was found exhausted in the woods near French River. He had wandered for seven day without food.

Ire Holt of Buffalo saved Miss Madeline Smith from drowning at Grand Mere, Quebec, by placing her on their upturned canoe and deliberately sacrificing his own life.

Joseph W. Lane, M.D., aged 66 years, died yesterday at Mallorytown, Ont. He was a graduate of Queen's University of the year 1875; and was president of the Ontario Medical Council in 1911.

The British Transport Workers' Federation decided to postpone a national strike till Monday, when the attitude of the employers regarding Government proposals for a settlement will be made known.

Jimmie Kirk, aged four years, son of David Kirk, of Welland, was drowned in the Welland River, below the aqueduct. A number of children, including Jimmie and his twin brother, were playing on the bank when he fell in.

John Cummings was last night found guilty of murder in the first degree for the shooting of his wife last November in Montreal. The verdict was returned after the jury had deliberated fourteen minutes. He was sentenced to be hanged in August.

Lighting London In 1715.

The question of the lighting of London was settled in simple fashion in 1715. The common council "repealed, annulled and made void all the former acts concerning the lighting of London" as a preliminary measure and then proceeded to enact that "all housekeepers whose house, door or gateway fronts or lies next to any street, lane or public passage or place of the said city shall in every dark night—that is, every night between the second night after each full moon and the seventh night after each full moon—set or hang out one or more lights with sufficient cotton wicks that shall continue to burn from 6 o'clock at night till 11 o'clock of the same night on penalty of a shilling."

Pigtails In England.

It is not so very long since the pigtail disappeared not merely from the army and navy, but even from every day civilian life in England. Waist long pigtails were the fashionable wear in England about 1740, and before that the bag wig had been adorned with a pigtail looped up in a black silken bag. As late as 1858 an old gentleman was seen in Cheapside with his gray hair tied behind in a short cue and even to-day we can find a relic of the pigtail, for the three pieces of black velvet on the dress tunics of officers in the Royal Welsh Fusiliers are the remains of the ribbon with which the cue was tied.—London Chronicle.

MEN WHO START FIRES MUST PAY

Montreal, June 8.—It has been held in the Superior Court of Quebec that an insurance company can recover from the individual who causes a fire the amount of the indemnity under a policy it has to pay to the owner. The men who throw away lighted matches and lighted cigars and cigarettes, and the men who are careless with their ashes, and the men who do not build their chimneys right, with many more of the careless tribe would do well to take heed. Should they be worth suing they may be made to pay for any mischief they do.

We presume Congress will order a special appropriation for medals for the gallant marines who are taking part in the Cuban picnic.

DEGREES CONFERRED.

Annual Convocation of Toronto University Held Yesterday.

Toronto, June 8.—Bright, sunshiny weather, with just enough wind to blow the many gaily-colored hoods in the procession across the campus about in picturesque disorder, marked the annual convocation for the conferring of degrees of the University of Toronto yesterday afternoon. Commencement is always a joyful occasion in the life of the newly-fledged alumnus, and particularly so in that of the graduating members of the fair sex, some of whom were fairly loaded down with the flowers which had been bestowed upon them by their admirers. Over 500 degrees were conferred, 263 of whom were Bachelor of Arts.

After the graduates in the procession came the dignitaries of the university. First walked the chancellor, Sir William Ralph Meredith, in his gold-bedecked robes of office, and at either side of him were "esquire beadles" with maces. With President Falconer walked Sir Byron E. Walker, and following them came Prof. Ramsay Wright and the Bishop of Toronto.

Two honorary degrees were conferred, both LL.D.'s, the recipients being Charles Canniff James, C.M.G., M.A., formerly Deputy Minister of Agriculture, and John George Adami, M.A., M.D., LL.D., F.R.S.

In presenting Mr. James for the degree, the president of Victoria College, Chancelor Burwash, referred to him as having done more than any other one man to make agriculture a success in the Province of Ontario.

Dr. Adami was presented by Prof. Macallum, who said that the recipient of the honor was regarded as one of the three most eminent pathologists in America. He had been among the first to emphasize the importance of biology in the study of disease. Prof. Macallum also spoke of the great work Dr. Adami had done in the campaign against tuberculosis.

Duchess Out of Danger.

Montreal, June 8.—The last bulletin for the day on the condition of the Duchess of Connaught issued early last evening, reported satisfactory progress. No further announcement as to the future plans of the royal party were made yesterday.

The duchess, it is expected, will be able to leave the hospital some time next week.

Governor Foss Holds Up G.T.R.

Boston, June 8.—Governor Foss reiterated yesterday that he would veto all railroad legislation until his public utilities bill is passed by the Legislature. Mayor John F. Fitzgerald of Boston called upon the governor and urged him to sign the bill which would permit the Southern New England Railroad (Grand Trunk) to enter this city. The mayor said that it would solve the transportation problem of Boston and that the people of the state favored it. Governor Foss said that he was a man of his word and referred to his message to the Legislature.

Miss Weinstein Recovering.

Toronto, June 8.—Miss Weinstein, who was injured in the auto accident at the corner of Queen and John streets two weeks ago and who has been in Grace Hospital since the accident, was reported to be in a serious condition in yesterday's papers. Dr. Bruce Riordan, who has been attending her, says this is a mistake, as the patient has made a good recovery and will be able to leave the hospital in a few days.

PRESIDENT TAFT GETS THE CONTESTED DELEGATIONS

Twenty-Four Alabama and Arkansas Men Are Added to the Taft Column by the Committee in Charge of Credentials and Roosevelt's Adherents Are Hot—Arkansas Primaries Involved the Use of Violence.

Chicago June 8.—Twenty-four delegates from Alabama and Arkansas were added yesterday to the Taft column by the action of the Republican national committee on the so-called Roosevelt contests from these states. All the contests presented before the committee yesterday were devided in Taft's favor, and in all but two the decision of the committee was unanimous, although one roll-call test apparently had shown fifteen anti-Taft votes.

The cases decided yesterday were those of the six delegates-at-large, and the two each in the first, second, fifth, sixth and ninth congressional districts in Alabama and the four delegates-at-large and the two each in the first and second districts of Arkansas.

There remain to be heard of the Arkansas contests, those in the third fourth, fifth and seventh districts.

In view of the bitter feeling between the Taft and Roosevelt adherents, the meeting was surprisingly peaceful, although it opened with a contest which seemed to forecast friction, which, however, failed to materialize.

This contest arose over a renewal by Senator Borah of Idaho of his motion of Thursday, which would permit only eight members of the committee to demand a roll call instead of twenty as provided by the existing rules.

The committee proceeded to table tht Borah motion by a viva voce vote, and then Mr. Borah was permitted to continue, which he did as follows:

Mr. Chafrman, we will not make any progress here. Now I know that you have a steam roller. I don't even desire to cushion the steam roller. I am perfectly willing that the steam roller shall operate, but I want to say here and now that it will be known to the country that it does operate, how it operates, who is operating it.

Men who have not the moral courage to record their vote before the people of this country are not worthy to represent the great Republican organization of these United States. (Applause.)

It was made plain that even though Mr. Borah's motion had been tabled the majority intended to give the minority a roll call on demand, on any question. Penrose, Crane and others of the Taft faction repeatedly joined Borah and his colleagues in the minority in asking for a roll call, and they always got it.

The vote on the ninth district brought the day's first definite line-up—38 to 15—in favor of the so-called Taft delegates, and closed the Alabama contests.

The Arkansas contests were next taken up, involving 16 seats, 4 of delegates-at-large and 12 from districts. J. A. Comer of Little Rock appeared as the Roosevelt leader from the state.

The Roosevelt men charged that the Arkansas Republican organization consisted of "postmasters and other federal employes, the sole purpose of which organization is the distribution of federal patronage." They declared "fraud, intimidation and violence" had been threatened against the Roosevelt adherents.

"When we appeared at the convention hall we were met with revolvers and clubs," declared Mr. Comer.

"Two Democratic constables were stationed inside the doors with orders to prevent any Roosevelt delegate from getting in. At least one of our men was struck on the head by one of those constables."

In the county in which this was alleged to have occurred Mr. Comer said that 109 delegates to the county convention were for Roosevelt and only 73 for Taft, but the guards kept the Roosevelt men out.

Anti-Reciprocity Meeting.

Montreal, June 8.—The Anti-Reciprocity League of Canada was revived yesterday afternoon at a well attended meeting here. Among the speakers from outside cities were: W. K. George and G. T. Somers of Toronto.

The revival of the league is intended as a reply to the speech of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, in which he expressed his continued belief in the reciprocity policy.

The league is to continue in existence "independent of any political bias," and its aims will be "the maintenance of Canada's fiscal independence and the British connection."

Engineer's Sudden Death.

Brockville, June 8.—George Brown of Belleville, a Grand Trunk engineer, running between that city and Brockville, died suddenly yesterday afternoon in the office of the locomotive foreman, to whom he complained of having a smothering sensation in the head. Brown came from Belleville with his train about noon, and was making preparations for the return trip when death overtook him. His wife arrived last night from Belleville and took the body home for burial. He was about 40 years of age.

THE PANAMA CANAL

A handful of tailors in London, once upon a time, if the statements of history are to be depended upon, in drawing up a petition to the King for some favor inconsequential to any but themselves, started out with the sweeping preamble, "We, the people of England, etc."

Our own western provinces are to-day assuming the same lofty attitude. They are dreaming dreams of future greatness, of an entire change in the course of Canadian traffic in which Eastern Canada will be afforded nothing more than a look-in by way of the back door. Vancouver is to become the metropolis of the nation and Montreal and Toronto are, by the dream-lore of the West, to dwindle down to the status of mere country towns.

With this future laid out before her Vancouver is already making preparations for the great change. Her harbor is being surveyed by the Dominion Government in order to ascertain the shipping capacity of that port. When the Panama Canal is opened to commerce Vancouver expects to step into the place which destiny has decreed she shall occupy and become the port from which shall be shipped to Liverpool all the wheat as far east as Saskatchewan. The British Columbia Capital also expects to become the distributing point for all imported goods used in the entire West as far as Winnipeg. Here is where she hopes to become the rival of Montreal as a shipping point.

Saskatchewan and Alberta are of the same mind as British Columbia and intend once the great waterway is opened, to send their grain by that highway to the English market and to receive their importations through the same channel. Manitoba is to be left out and may continue to do her shipping by way of Montreal, although it is expected that in the matter of imports she is to receive her supplies from Vancouver. In the meantime the rails of the three great Canadian transcontinental lines are to become so many streaks of rust as was predicted in case the Reciprocity pact became operative.

Only the other day it was announced in a despatch from the West that James J. Hill was about to invade the prairie provinces and that he had surveyors at work laying out routes for roads which he proposes to build in order to capture the shipment of wheat in a westerly direction. This competition with the Canadian roads already built or in process of construction, it is estimated by the optimists of the West, will be so keen as to reduce the freight rates on grain to the seaboard to a nominal figure after which the cost to Liverpool by way of the new canal was to be reckoned with. Altogether the cost per bushel in freight to the English market is to be reduced by more than one half.

The distance from Vancouver to Liverpool by way of the Panama Canal is approximately ten thousand miles, rather a long route for the transportation of the chief product of the West. The best the prairie farmer can hope for from the new waterway is lower railway rates, his wheat still taking the trip to Europe in the same direction to the East. Montreal is not likely to lose status as a shipping point, no matter how much Vancouver may expand. British Columbia will benefit by the canal in the matter of her timber wealth just as the lumbermen in the Pacific states hope to do, giving all ready access to the lumber markets of New York and other eastern cities. Timber operators in the southern and South Atlantic states and in Mexico have now a clear advantage over the western lumbermen having for years practically enjoyed a monopoly of the business of the country. How much the consumer will benefit by the increase of competition remains to be seen.

AMERICAN HISTORIES

The American historians who are attending the session of the Ontario Historical Association at Napanee, may learn before their return that one of the most important essentials in the making of history is a strict regard to truth. The history of their own land has long been notorious for its bias against those who have opposed the American nation either in war or more pacific international disputes.

Canadian school children receive from their school histories, unprejudiced impressions of all great questions, no matter what nation or individual is involved. In every international controversy, both sides receive justice and even in political history, the partisan spirit is absent.

The United States histories give an altogether erroneous impression of the war of 1812, for example. By every art that can be devised, the cause of that struggle is laid at the door of England and in hardly any case is the defeat of the American forces admitted. The battle of Chateaugay, in which the Americans were put to flight by a handful of raw recruits and by a ruse which should not have deceived even a tyro in military tactics, is not mentioned at all. Again, no reference is made to the skirmish at Chrysler's Farm, which however insignificant it may have been a military engagement, was important in its results and finally proved a decisive step toward the ending of the war.

We have all learned from our histories the truth about the fight between the Chesapeake and the Shannon, in which the former was defeated and captured by the English sailors. We have always believed that the frigates were equally matched or nearly so, and that the victory was due to the superior fighting qualities of the British. Yet American history makes it appear that the Shannon was a powerful engine of war and that the Chesapeake was little better than a schooner with no fighting equipment to speak of.

In dealing with its own internal troubles the histories of America are just as unfair. Anyone who reads an account of the civil war as viewed from the standpoints of the north and south will emerge from the entertainment more mystified than when he began his investigation.

Everything possible is done by the history makers of each section to give their own side the best of it, a regard for facts being a secondary consideration.

ONTARIO LIBERALS

In response to the call of N. W. Rowell, leader of the opposition in the Local Assembly, the Liberals of Ontario met in Toronto yesterday to decide upon a plan of campaign. It was unanimously decided to hold a number of meetings throughout the province during the summer, and in these meetings the temperance policy of the party will be given special prominence.

Ontario will in the next few months be flooded with Liberal campaign literature. Mr. Rowell's speech in support of his resolution to abolish the bar will be given in full as well as Sir James Whitney's address on the anti-treating plank of the Government's platform.

Peterboro will be chosen as one of the places where at least one meeting will be held by the Liberals sometime during the summer, the city being selected specially because of the avowed intention of the temperance party to submit local option to the voters here, at the next municipal election.

Premier Borden, Hon. Mr. Hazen and Admiral Kingsmill leave for England June 26.

NOTE AND COMMENT

The consistency with which our baseball team continues to drop games is really becoming monotonous.

The Cuban insurgents are not much to be dreaded if they can be routed by a bunch of undrilled miners.

The doctors in a Winnipeg hospital went on strike, whereupon the patients immediately began to develop favorable symptoms.

President Taft has won the first round, but it is a long way yet to the end of the mill.

Those Cuban rebels, it seems, run on the first fire from the enemy. They would probably run sooner if they knew the volley was coming.

Toronto must surely be near the limit in the organization of associations for the shaping of public morals and creeds.

With regard to the rumor that Premier Scott, of Saskatchewan, intends to retire, seeing that he has not been in his province for fifteen months, it looks as if he had quit the job already.

"PILLS LIKE A FYLE"

So Harsh and Drastic are Many Pills as to Seriously Injure Health.

In a letter written from his home in Valencia, Mr. Marsh Selwyn does service to thousands by drawing attention to the injuries inflicted upon delicate people by drastic purgative pills.

"For a long time I suffered from constipation. This condition compelled the use of pills. Like many another, I made the unwise choice of using pills that were like lightning in their activity. I began to be filled with intestinal disturbances, constant rumblings, gas in the bowels and diarrhoea. I grew pale and emaciated. Then the doctor told me drastic irritating pills had caused catarrh of the bowels, an almost incurable disease. Explaining my situation to a friend, he advised a trial of Dr. Hamilton's Pills. I speedily experienced the healing and curative effect they exert on the stomach, liver and bowels. The intestines, freed from irritating drugs, rapidly regained natural tone, the bowels acted as if nature and not Dr. Hamilton's Pills were at work. I know it will be of value to thousands to know that a pill as mild and curative as Dr. Hamilton's is available to the ailing."

For bowel disorders, sick headache, constipation, liver and stomach derangement, there is no pill so invariably sure to cure as Dr. Hamilton's Pills. Refuse a substitute. Sold in 25c boxes, all dealers, or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

Another Splendid Cure by Dodd's Kidney Pills

R. Moulaison, whom two doctors treated, finds relief and permanent cure in Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Surette Island, Yarmouth Co., N. S., June 7.—(Special.)—Mr. Renie Moulaison, a well known resident here, is telling his neighbors of his cure from a severe attack of Kidney Disease which kept him in a state of pain and suspense for two months and defied the efforts of two doctors who were treating him.

"My trouble started with a cold," Mr. Moulaison says. "My muscles would cramp and I had backache and dizzy spells. My head ached, and I had a tired, nervous feeling while specks of light flashed in front of my eyes.

"I suffered in this way for over two months and was treated by two doctors, but they didn't seem to be able to do much for me. Then I started to take Dodd's Kidney Pills and they helped me almost at once. Six boxes cured me."

Dodd's Kidney Pills always cure the Kidneys. Cured Kidneys strain all the impurities out of the blood. That makes pure blood and good health.

By LOUIS TRACY

Copyright by McLeod & Allen, Toronto

The Earl selected an egg, tapped it, and asked his son what he thought of the crops—did they want rain? The two were breakfasting alone—at the moment there was not even a man-servant in the room—but Lord Fairholme had long ago established the golden rule that controversial topics were taboo during meals. Medenham laughed outright at the sudden change of topic. He remembered that Dale was sent to bed in the Green Dragon Hotel at eight o'clock, and he had not the least doubt that his father's ukase was really a dodge to secure an undisturbed dinner. But he was under no delusions because of this placid meeting in the breakfast-room. There was thunder in the air. Tomkinson had warned him of it overnight."

"There's bin ructions while you were away, my lord," the butler had whispered, waylaying him in the hall just before midnight. "Lady St. Maur has upset the Earl somethink dreadful"; and Medenham had growled in reply: "Her ladyship will lunch here at one o'clock to-morrow, Tomkinson. Have an ambulance ready at two, for she will be in little pieces before I have done with her. The mangling will be somewhat orful."

"But what has become of Dale, my lord?" went on Tomkinson in a hushed voice.

"Dale? He is all right. Why? Is he in the soup, too?"

"No, my lord. I've heard nothink of that, but he sent me a wire from Bristol——"

"A telegram—about what?"

"About a horse."

"Oh, the deuce take you and your horses. By the way, that reminds me—you gave a rotten tip on the Derby."

"It was a false run race, my lord. The favorite was swep' off his feet at Tattenham Corner, and couldn't get into his stride again till the field was opposite Langland's Stands. After that——"

"After that I'm going to bed. But I forgive you, Tomkinson. You put up a ripping good lunch." You're a far better butler than a tipster."

This brief conversation had illumined at least one dubious page in the records of the past few days. Medenham realized now that his aunt had emptied the vials of her wrath on Mrs. Devar, but, that lady being absent in body, the Earl had received the full dose. It indicated somewhat the line he should follow when, breakfast ended, his father suggested that they should smoke a cigarette in the library.

Once there, and the door closed, the Earl established himself on the hearth-rug with his back to the fire place. It was high summer, and the lazy London heat crept in through the open windows; but the hearth-rug constituted a throne, a seat of Solomon; had his lordship stood anywhere else he would have felt lacking in authority.

"Now, George, my boy, tell me all about it," he said, with a genially paternal air that lent itself admirably to the discussion of a youngster's transgressions.

Medenham had a sense of humor denied to his well-meaning sire. He recalled the last time he had heard those words. He and another sprig of nobility had come up to London from Winchester without leave in order to attend a famous glove contest between heavyweights, and there had been wigs on the green before an irate head-master would even deign to flog them. That had happened twelve years ago, almost to a day. Since then he had fought through a great war, had circled the globe, had sought the wild places of earth and its monsters in their lairs. He knew men and matters as his father had never known them. A Prime Minister had urged him to adopt a political career, and had virtually promised a colonial under-secretaryship as soon as he entered parliament. He held the D.S.O., had been thanked by the Royal Geographical Society for a paper on Kilimanjaro, and cordially invited by the Foreign office to send in any further notes in his possession. Months later, he heard that Sir Somebody Something was deeply interested in his comments on the activity of a certain Great Power in the neighborhood of Britain's chief coaling-stations in the Indian Ocean.

The absurdity of a family conclave in which he should again be treated as a small boy, and admonished to apologize and be flogged, while it brought a smile to his lips, banished any notion of angry remonstrance.

"By 'all about it' I suppose you mean that you wish to hear what I have been doing since last Wednesday," he said pleasantly. "Well, dad, I have obeyed your orders. You asked me to find a wife worthy to reign at Fairholme. I have succeeded."

"You don't mean to say you have married her!" shouted the Earl, in a purple upheaval of rage whose lightning abruptness was not its least amazing feature. Certainly Medenham was taken aback by it. Indeed, he was alarmed, though he had no knowledge of apoplexy in the family.

"I have not even asked the lady yet," he said quietly. "I hope—I think—that the idea will not be disagreeable to her; but a future Countess of Fairholme is not to be carried by storm in that fashion. We must get to know her people—"

"D—n her people!" broke in the older man. "Have you taken leave of your wits, George, to stand there and talk such infernal nonsense?"

"Steady, dad, steady!" and the quiet voice grew still more calm though the forehead wrinkled a little and there was an ominous tightening of the lips. "You must take that back. Peter Vanrenen is quite as great a man in the United States as you are in England—may I even say, without disrespect, a man who has won a more commanding position?—and his daughter, Cynthia, is better fitted to adorn a coronet than a great many women now entitled to wear one."

The Earl laughed, with an immoderate display of amusement he was far from feeling.

"Are these Wiggy Devar's credentials? By gad, that shabby little wretch is flying high when she tries to bag my son for her pretty protegee!"

"Don't you think it would be wiser, sir, if you allowed me to tell you exactly what has taken place since we met last?"

"What good purpose will that serve? I have heard the whole story from Lady Porthcawl, from Dale, from that Frenchman—and Heaven knows I have been well coached in Mrs. Devar's antecedents by your aunt Susan George, I am surprised that a man of your sound commonsense should permit yourself to be humbugged so egregiously. . . . Yes, yes, I am aware that an accident led you to take Simmond's place in the first instance, but can't you see that the Devar creature must have gone instantly on her bended knees—if she ever does pray, which I doubt—and thanked Providence for the chance that enabled her to dispose of an earldom? . . . At a pretty stiff price, too, I'll be bound, if the truth were told. Really, George, notwithstanding your very extensive travels and wide experiences, you are nothing but a kid in the hands of a managing woman of the Devar variety."

"I am not being given in marriage by Mrs. Devar, I assure you," began Medenham, smiling anxiously, for the fatherly "tell me all about it" was not being borne out by the Earl's petulance.

"No. You can trust me to take care of that."

"But are you treating me quite fairly? Why should the distorted version of my affairs given by Lady Porthcawl, a woman whom Cynthia Vanrenen could not possibly receive in her house, and by Count Edouard Marigny, a disappointed fortune-hunter, be accepted without cavil, while my own story is not listened to? I leave Dale out of it. I am sure he told you the actual truth—"

"By the way, where is he now?"

"Somewhere in the neighborhood of Chester, I believe."

Silent John Burns.

John Burns is going down to Lancashire, where he will shake off "the cold chain of silence that has hung o'er him long." English gossips, who will insist on putting two and two together so as to make five, assert that his silence arises from the fact that there is no love lost between him and Mr. Lloyd-George, who was not sufficiently careful to ascertain John's views about old age pensions, budgets, and insurance schemes. "J.B.," as he sometimes names himself, therefore held his peace on all those legislative efforts. For a strange compound is John. As the first workingman to attain to Cabinet rank, he reflects unbounded credit to the class from which he sprang, and the credit is not lessened by the fact that he is entirely a self-made man; but it is equally undoubted that Heaven has given him a good conceit of himself. The late King Edward, who dearly loved his little joke, was wont—so cynical people said—to point out with bated breath to visitors to Windsor Castle the chair on which John Burns once sat, and the bedroom in which John Burns once slept; and there were other evil-tongued people who told that when Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman offered him a seat in the Cabinet, the imperturbable elect of Battersea replied: "The most popular thing you have done yet." But when all is said, the fact remains that he is one of the most remarkable men of our time. He has about him all the charm of a strong, self-reliant manhood, and his dark, soft, gleaming eyes invite that confidence which men of all shades of political thought have not been slow to repose in him.

RECORD OF A GREAT MEDICINE

Doctors Could Not Help Mrs. Templeton—Regained Health through Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound.

Hooper, Nebraska.—"I am very glad to tell how Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has helped me. For five years I suffered from female troubles so I was scarcely able to do my work. I took doctors' medicines and used local treatments but was not helped. I had such awful bearing down pains and my back was so weak I could hardly walk and could not ride. I often had to sit up nights to sleep and my friends thought I could not live long. At my request my husband got me a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I commenced to take it. By the time I had taken the seventh bottle my health had returned and I began doing my washing and was a well woman. At one time for three weeks I did all the work for eighteen boarders with no signs of my old trouble returning. Many have taken your medicine after seeing what it did for me. I would not take $1000 and be where I was. You have my permission to use my name if it will aid anyone."—Mrs. SUSIE TEMPLETON, Hooper, Nebraska.

The Pinkham record is a proud and peerless one. It is a record of constant victory over the obstinate ills of woman—ills that deal out despair. It is an established fact that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has restored health to thousands of such suffering women. Why don't you try it if you need such a medicine?

WHEN THE SUN MOVED

By M. QUAD

Copyright, 1912, by Associated Literary Press.

Moses Hoke, farmer, has six children, and so when the question of building a schoolhouse in his neighborhood came up he agreed that it was up to him to do the fair thing. He did it by donating the site, and the county went ahead and erected a neat frame schoolhouse. There had never been a regular school in that district before, and parents and pupils were proud of it. A teacher was hired, and for six weeks after school opened all went well. Then a shadow came.

One day as Farmer Johnson, who had three children attending the school, was driving by Farmer Hoke went out to the gate to stop him and say:

"Look here, Jim; about our school."

"It's fine," was the reply.

"I dunno about that; I dunno."

"Why, Moses, what can be wrong? That gal teacher fills the bill mighty well, and my children are learning something every day."

"Yes; but what are they learning?"

"Why, what we've all had to learn. Nothing has happened to make you dissatisfied, I hope."

"Say, George," said Moses as he came a step nearer and lowered his voice a bit. "What about the north pole and the south pole? The teacher is telling that this earth is like a pumpkin suspended between two posts with a stick through the middle of it."

"Well, I reckon that's right."

"But has that got anything to do with plowing and planting? Is it going to raise more corn to the acre? Is it going to stop a kicking cow from kicking? Is it going to cure a sore backed horse?"

"N-o-o-o, I reckon not. But it's jest as well to know these things, hain't it?"

"Jest time thrown away, as I look at it. And the teacher is a-telling that this earth is round."

"That's what everybody is a-saying nowadays, Moses."

"Look at that meadow out there, George. Is it round, like an orange, or flat, like a pancake?"

"It's flat, of course."

"And all the rest of the world is round, is it? Something mighty queer about that. If the world is round why don't we fall off? Man can't walk around on a side hill and keep his balance."

"I was saying so to Smith when I was in town buying a shovel the other day, and he says it's gravity that keeps us standing upright."

"I don't believe any such gol durned nonsense!" exclaimed Moses. "If that's what they are going to teach my children then I'm agin it. My Sam come home the other day and said it was 93,000,000 miles to the sun. The teacher had told him twice over—93,000,000 miles, George!"

"Yes, I've heard it was about that."

"And you hain't done anything about it?"

"Noap. Didn't see what I could do. I can't measure the distance."

Farmer Hoke thought the thing over for a week, and there might have been no more trouble had not his son Sam come home one day and asked of him:

"Pop, where is the sun at 7 o'clock in the morning?"

"In the east, you doughhead."

"And at noon?"

"In the south."

"And at sunset?"

"In the west."

"How does it get there?"

"How do I get from the house to the barn and back? I move, don't I? What has that gal teacher been putting into your head now?"

"Pop, the sun don't move a hair's breadth all day!" announced the lad, with a chuckle.

"By the jumping Jehosaphat, but that's going too fur—too fur!" growled the father. "Move? Move? Look at that sun up there and tell me if you dare that she hain't moving!"

"But it's the earth, pop."

"Then why hain't we moving along either toward the house or barn?"

"Gravitation is a-holding us."

"By thunder, but we'll see about it! I won't lick you this time, but don't you talk any more nonsense. I'll make certain folkses' eyes bung out tomorrer!"

Moses Hoke had said he would give the land for the schoolhouse site, but the deed to the county hadn't been drawn yet. He was, therefore, free to go to the trustees and say:

"I want you to move your old schoolhouse off my land!"

"Why, Moses, what's the matter?" was asked.

"Our children are being made fools of. That gal teacher is a-telling them that the sun don't move a blamed inch all day long."

"And it doesn't, Moses. It's the earth that moves."

"I'll give you a week to move the schoolhouse!"

"But you donated the land."

"Where's your deed!"

Moses had them dead to rights. The trustees and the teacher and the more intelligent farmers consulted together and the best they could do was to send word to the unbeliever that they had changed their minds and were now satisfied that the sun did move. He waited a year before he gave a deed, and then when they went back on him he could smile and say:

"Well, I had her hustling right along for twelve months anyhow, and we had a mighty open winter and a powerful early spring!"

Bullets in Battle.

Instancing the fact that in the Boer war "it took 5,000 shots to hit a man," the celebrated rifle shot Ommundsen says, "In spite of improvements in the power, precision and rate of fire of modern weapons, the percentage of hits was immeasurably greater a hundred years ago than it is today."

SAVED FROM YEARS OF MISERY BY "FRUIT-A-TIVES"

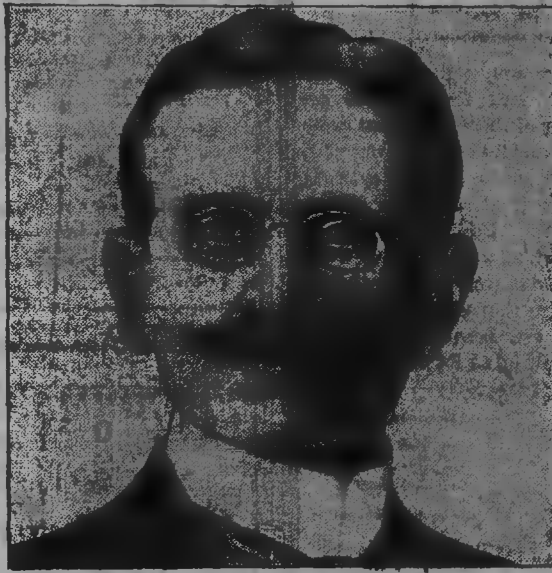
Another Miracle Performed In Toronto By These Wonderful Tablets, Made Of Fruit Juices And Valuable Tonics.

Another Proof That "Fruit-a-tives" Is The Most Scientific Remedy In The World For All Kidney Troubles.

"Fruit-a-tives" has never demonstrated more clearly its powers to heal the kidneys and cure all Kidney Troubles and Rheumatism than in this case of Prof. Davis. It simply goes to show that you should try "Fruit-a-tives" if other remedies have failed.

Prof Davis is well known in the United States and Europe, having received many diplomas and certificates from foreign societies.

It is but natural that he would exercise due caution in making any statement to the public. The fact that he is willing to have his letter to the Fruit-a-tives Company appear in the papers, shows his confidence in the merits of "Fruit-a-tives" and his gratitude at being cured. Read Prof. Davis' letter.



PROF. J. F. DAVIS

563 CHURCH ST., TORONTO, DECEMBER 29th. 1911.

"I want to say to the people of Toronto and elsewhere, that "Fruit-a-tives" is my only medicine, and has been for the past four years. Previous to that I was very much troubled with Rheumatism and Kidney Disease, and had taken many remedies as well as employing hot application of salt bags etc., without getting satisfactory results. Noticing the advertisements of "Fruit-a-tives", and your suggestion of eating plenty of fruit, I adopted this treatment altogether and, as my friends know, I am now and have been ever since taking "Fruit-a-tives", enjoying the best of health, and find it a pleasure to follow my vocation of Dancing and Deportment Instructor. You have my approval and authority for publishing this letter if you so desire. PROF. J. F. DAVIS.

Many of the leading citizens of Canada—the solid, substantial, well-known people in their respective cities and towns—have gladly testified to the great benefits they have received by taking "Fruit-a-tives". They are glad to be well and do not hesitate to say so in public print.

If you are suffering as Prof. Davis did, do as he did, and take "Fruit-a-tives". This wonderful fruit medicine will cure you. 50c. a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size, 25c. At all dealers or sent on receipt of price by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

THE NEW MEMBER FOR KOOTENAY

Mr. R. F. Green, who was recently elected member for Kootenay, in the McBride Government, by acclamation is a cousin of Mr. W. Green, Water street. He was born in Peterborough in 1861 and in 1882 went to Winnipeg. Two years later found him in British Columbia and he returned to Peterborough for the winter, returning to Calgary in 1885, after which he enlisted and served in the Riel Rebellion. In 1885 he crossed the Rockies into British Columbia, walking the last eighty miles to Revelstoke. He entered a business of general mechandise with his brother and meeting with good success other branches were opened. In 1893 he became the first mayor of Kaslo and later was elected to the Provincial House. He was re-elected in 1900 and 1903. Mr. Green also held the port folio of mines in the McBride Government and for four years until 1906 was the Chief Commissioner of Lands and Roads. Since 1907 he has conducted a brokerage business in Victoria. The new member has valuable interests in Kootenay.

WOUNDED MOOSE JUMPED TO DEATH FROM MOUNTAIN

Sudbury, June 8—An unusual occurrence happened in Sudbury when the residents of Peter street were startled to see a big moose come tumbling off the top of the mountain. It is quite evident the animal had been chased, but by whom and where, is still the mystery. Its body was pierced with six bullet wounds and it appeared to be frantic with fear. It was also evident that he had been chased at top-speed for it leaped clear into the air without hesitation. At this particular point the mountain is a seventy-foot perpendicular bluff. The animal turned a somersault in the air, alighting on its back on a projecting crag, breaking its spine. It tumbled down the remainder of the distance into a citizen's back yard. In its wriggling and writhing the animal dragged itself a distance of nearly seventy feet to the back door of one of the residences here.

Chief Walker was advised of the incident by phone, and with C. Gravelle visited the scene and quickly despatched the helpless creature. The Chief had the carcass removed to Adam Bros., butcher shop, where it is being dressed and goodly portions are to be distributed throughout town, principally to the two hospitals.

WHITE RIBBON

Contributed by W.C.T.U.

By Mrs. J. K. Barney.

Several years ago, at a conference of the W.C.T.U., I was in charge of the question drawer, and amongst others was this, asked, by a gentleman at the rear of the church: "Will Mrs. Barney kindly explain what the white ribbon ought to mean to the women who wear it?" I had been wearing our badge for years, and should have said it is the mark that we belong to the great union of women who are working "For God and Home and Every Land."

But the question, what it ought to mean to us individually, struck me as something more. There went from my heart a quick call for enlightenment, and the Spirit answered. I never had any doubt of that, for I never wanted to change a word of the message which was given to me at that time. I said, yes, I will tell you. (1) It ought to mean purity—purity of thought, word and deed that goes deep, goes into every part of our life; for it is the "pure in heart who shall see God." Surely we wish for that. (2) It ought to mean Consecration; not merely in the Temperance cause. I never knelt beside a woman and asked her to consecrate herself to Temperance. If she were to do that merely, she would be one of the people who make the work odious; she would let her elbows hit others, and in her "zeal without knowledge" really hinder the work. When a woman consecrates herself to Christ, with the purpose to do His will, if she gets close to Him, she will see with Him the great need of temperance work at this time, and she will bring her consecration to bear upon it. (3) It ought to mean Helpfulness—helpfulness to all who need our help, high and low, rich and poor. I like to think our white ribbon puts us at the disposal of all; it gives us new light on the "every creature" to whom we are sent. Many of our women have halted by a call like this: "Mrs. White Ribbon, stop a minute." Followers of Him, "who went about doing good."

When I had said these things I stopped, but only for an instant, for there was given another thought: (4) It ought to mean Loyalty, first to Christ and the work He has committed to us, then loyalty to each other. I like to think the spirit of the white ribbon wipes out questions of creeds, color, class distinctions, nationalities, etc., and makes us "one in Christ Jesus." How thought we should be of each other; how careful in our words; how tender in our dealings! "By this shall all men know that ye are my disciples": Purity, Consecration, Helpfulness, and Loyalty.

Surely enough for one ribbon to mean.

I used to forget my badge sometimes before this rendering was given me; but that day I knelt down, and on my knees tied on a fresh ribbon, with the words, "O Christ, I wear this for Thee; make it a witness to those who see that I am seeking to carry out Thy commission; may it help others to be true, and lead some to a fresh consecration to Thy service." Amen.

LAKEFIELD BOY WAS KILLED YESTERDAY WHILE AT PLAY

When several boys were on their way home from school in Lakefield yesterday afternoon they stopped at the lumber yard and commenced playing with an empty lorry which they found on the track there. Pushing it up a grade they climbed upon it, and then started down the incline. The lorry moved quickly and ran into a loaded car at the bottom of the grade, the shock throwing the boys off in every distance.

One of the boys, the eight year old son of William Robinson, a carpenter, whose home is in Lakefield, in some way fell between the lorry and the loaded car, and was badly crushed. The overseer of the yard picked the boy up and carried him to the office of Dr. J. R. Frazer, but the little fellow died almost immediately without speaking a word.

Mr. Robinson, the boy's father, left only a short time ago for Regina, where he is now working.

WEDDING BELLS

A quiet wedding was solemnized in East Toronto on Wednesday by the Rev. Thos. H. O'Brien, of Port Hope, was united in marriage to Mr. Herbert F. Dixon, formerly of Porcupine, Ont. The bride, who was unattended, was given away by her father. She wore a tailored suit of cream serge, with white Milan hat and shaded French plume, and carried white roses. After a dainty dejeuner, Mr. and Mrs. Dixon left to spend their honeymoon in New York. On their return they will reside at 112 Scarboro road.

MR. RUSSELL TO SPEAKS TO-NIGHT

Mr. Douglas Russell, of Weston-Super-Mare, England, will arrive in the city this evening via the C.P.R. An open air meeting of Gospel Hall will be held at the corner of Brock and George streets, at which Mr. Russell will speak. During the coming week he will address four meetings of the society.

INDIGESTION RIGHTLY CURED

By Toning up the Stomach to do the Work Nature Intends it Should.

Indigestion should not be neglected for a moment, for by depriving the body of its proper nourishment through the food, the trouble grows steadily worse. Neither should stimulating medicines, which ruin the already weak stomach by making it work beyond its strength, be used; nor pre-digested foods, which do not excite a flow of the digestive fluids, and by disuse cause the stomach to grow weaker. Nowhere is the tonic treatment by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills more clearly useful. The principle of this treatment is to enable the stomach to do its own work by building up the blood and giving tone to the nerves. When these are once restored to their normal health indigestion disappears and the cure is permanent. Here is an experience with this treatment. Mr. John Bresenstal, Calgary, Alta., says: "For years I was an almost constant sufferer from indigestion, and naturally because there was much nutritious food which I could not eat owing to the pain and discomfort which followed. I was becoming much run down. I tried many medicines, but none of them helped me until I began the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. After taking a few boxes I was much better, and in the course of a couple of months was quite well, and could eat any food set before me."

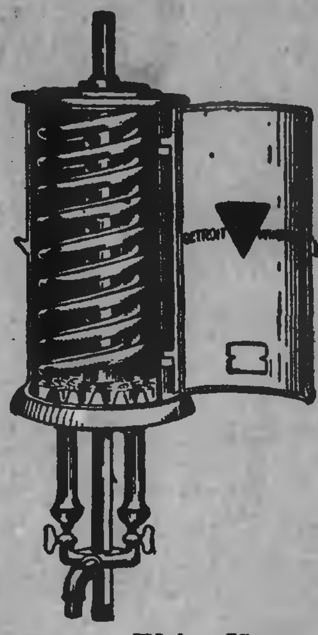
If you are a sufferer from indigestion, or any trouble due to bad blood or weak nerves, you can begin to cure yourself to-day by taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50, from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

LOCAL TOPERS TAKE WARNING

By a new enactment in the interests of temperance, any habitual drunkard who is arrested for intoxication twice within three months may be sent to the Industrial farm, and there detained on an indeterminate sentence for a maximum period of two years.

You Don't Have to Start a Fire in the Coal Range When Someone Wants a Bath

IT'S no longer necessary to hustle around gathering up paper, carrying up wood and lugging up coal every time somebody wants to take a bath. You no longer need to heat up your kitchen, in fact the entire house every time an extra quantity of hot water is desired.



THERE'S AN EASIER WAY
USE AN "IDEAL"
GAS
Water Heater

This heater occupies but very little space. It is connected to your kitchen boiler and is operated as easily as your gas range. The IDEAL Heater heats water very quickly—enough for a bath in 20 minutes.

This Heater Will Not Overheat Your Kitchen

We have an IDEAL connected and in operation at our office. We'd be glad to show it to you if you'd pay us a visit. If that isn't possible, have us send a representative to tell you more about it.

Summer cooking with comfort

NO need to stew your life out over a coal range during the hot weather. Gas is a much cheaper cooking fuel than coal, and far more convenient in the summer time. Why fatigue yourself and make the house uncomfortable for the whole family when you can save money by cooking with gas. Any "McClary" Gas Range will pay for itself in a very short time by the actual cash it saves, not to say anything about its handiness.

The Model shown in the cut is a handsome Gas Range — "McClary's" 1912 Model—and considered the biggest range value on the market. You will see at a glance that the convenience and comfort of the housekeeper has been considered by the designers and makers. The Ovens are elevated — just conveniently high—so that there is no "stooping or bending" when cooking with this range.

This Model like other McClary Ranges has the bright black enamel finish—white enamelled broiler and drip pan—Ovens just the right size with proper flue construction. Also Anti-Rust linings and plain smooth nickelled finish.

Better see the McClary dealer and ask him to tell you the reasons why you should buy a McClary gas range. He will explain the exclusive features of the range suitable for your kitchen without placing you under any obligation to buy. All we want you to do is to make perfectly certain that the Gas Range you buy will pay for itself very quickly.

THE TIME OF WORLD'S RECORD FOR GETTING ROUND THE BASES

The world's base-running record, which Meyer, Shaw, O'Hara, and other ball players will endeavor to break at the pro sports at the Island Stadium in Toronto to-night, is 13 4-5 seconds, held by Hans Lobert, of Cincinnati; he made it in 1910 in a competition at Cincinnati with Ward Miller of his own club, Vincent Campbell and John Miller, of Pittsburg. Lobert and Campbell tied at 14 seconds, both breaking the old world's record of 14 1-5 seconds, made in 1907 by Walt Clement, of Jersey City. In the run-off Lobert did 14 4-5, while the best Campbell could do was to repeat 14 seconds. The distance is 120 yards.

LONDON WOULD LIKE BERTH IN THE INTERNATIONAL LEAGUE

The Toronto Star says:—The London Ball Club owners, who must be very green at the game, issued a statement yesterday to the effect that they were negotiating for the Montreal franchise and that London would soon be playing in the International League instead of the Canadian. Of course this is all nonsense. London has no chance of getting in the International. The League, if it makes a change at all, won't exchange a large centre of population like Montreal for a place the size of London. The mere purchase of the franchise would not make the change, either, as the seven other club-owners would have to agree to a transfer of cities, a very unlikely proceeding.

The London reason for wishing to get in the International is very childish. The despatch says: "Since the Canadian League season opened this year the London players have had numerous clashes with the umpires sent to work here. The London owners have asked that capable men be sent here, but the executive of the league has paid littl attention to the London magnates. As one of the shareholders stated, it looks as if they all have it 'in for London'." This is about as peurile an excuse as could be cooked up.

PETERBOROUGH BALL TEAM STILL ON THE TOBOGGAN

Jimmie Beard Called From His Place in Centre Field to the Box — Holds the Hamilton Team Down Better Than the Petes' Regular Slab Artists.

Hamilton, June 8.—Hamilton took a game from the ill-fated Peterborough team yesterday. There was some heavy batting by both teams, seven two-base hits being among the day's happenings. Peterborough used three pitchers in the effort to stop the onslaught, but Beard was the only man who managed to hold the Ham to anything like a reasonable pace. The score:

SPORT TALK

That the representatives of Peterborough in the Canadian Baseball League have a big following of supporters in evidenced by the interest taken from day to day. The small boy rings up to learn the score; his mother is anxious as to the fate of the White Caps, and his older brothers and sisters too; work the 'phone repeatedly each day to learn of the progress of each game.

All this speaks well for the success of the team in Peterborough. The fans have not as yet had much chance to warm up and their interest is all the more encouraging. The team will get going yet. It is a good team, but there are weak spots which must and will be remedied. A winning ball club the first season is a rarity, and the same applies to other sports. The hockey enthusiasts remember well, the record made by the Strathconas on their initial entrance to the Peterborough City Hockey League. Here was a team composed of seven players who individually were as fast as others in the league. Some were faster. But the Straths didn't win the first game, neither did they score a goal in all of their scheduled games that season. The following season the Straths won the championship.

BREEZES FROM THE DIAMOND

The Senators took another game from London yesterday. It looks as though they will stay at the top for a time at any rate. McManus pitched for the league leaders and was pounded for ten hits. The score was 5—2.

◆

Bartlett, the ex-Peterborough boy, started out with Berlin against Guelph. He was relieved, however, by Henderson, losing the game to Guelph 3—1. Berlin had two costly errors in the game.

◆

Guelph seems to lie in a hole for pitchers. Behan and Schuman being their only reliable box artists. They used these pitchers against both Peterborough and Ottawa successfully.

◆

The White Caps broke even with Guelph. If they win from Hamilton to-day their defeat yesterday will be forgiven, an even break on the road being good enough for the fans

◆

In the shuffle of players of a couple of weeks ago the White Caps seem to have lost some of the batting ginger that they showed formerly. Before that time it was unusual for them to be outbatted by their opponents, while since then it has been the general occurrence.

◆

The Riverside Park is still a park only in name, being mostly Otonabee River

◆

In the absence of Dolan's two-baggers it is good to hear about Manager Templin's three-base hits.

◆

St. Thomas trimmed Brantford yesterday 3—1, Jacobs was working in the mound and allowed ten hits. Both teams made a couple of errors.

◆

The Guelph fans are wondering why Manager Needham does not cover second when a right handed batter is at bat, but leaves it to the short-stop. Manager Templin uses exactly the same policy. Both men seem to think that there should be some one to cover first in case the first sacker should be pulled off his bag by a bunt or fly.

Snow at Niagara Frontier.

Niagara Falls, Ont., June 8.—The proverbial oldest resident fails to remember such cold weather at this season as the frontier experienced during the night. There was a heavy frost, and snow fell just before noon yesterday.

Fall Rye Headed Out.

Lindsay, June 6.—Robert Phillips, a farmer in Fenelon Township, has a beautiful crop of fall rye all headed out. This is somewhat remarkable in the matter of early growth. In Fenelon Township the farmers look for bountiful crops, but in Ops and Ellnon there are a large number who have seeding yet to do. In Mariposa the seeding is all finished, and the crops are looking fine

DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS

WHERE IT IS HOT.

Passengers Are Sipping Iced Drinks When Stoker Is Broiling.

While toiling and sweating in the stokehold of a big long-distance liner, I have often wondered whether the passengers dancing on deck or drinking iced drinks under an electric fan have the remotest idea of the human suffering that is involved in sending them along at sixteen knots an hour. They may catch sight of a man in torn clothes, black as a miner from top to toe, his face in streaks where the perspiration has run in a steady stream from his brow, they may even go so far as to mutter, "One of the stokers—jolly hard work in this weather!" But they know nothing of the grim and ghastly truth.

In the stoke-hold of every ship the leading hand of the watch is a picked man, who is as strong as a young giant, knows his work perfectly, and has fists like legs of mutton. He is known as the "bully," and his official instructions are that he must never actually use his fists on the men while driving them to work. He never does strike the laggards "officially," because, if a fireman or a trimmer complains that he has been knocked about, it is always declared that the men had some private quarrel. And the word of a fireman does not count for much when he is ten thousand miles from home and the boat is behind time.

Whether the men are fresh at the game or old hands, they all have to do their spells of four hours without a break, even if their heads feel as though they were bursting and their limbs burnt or cut. It is enough to break the heart of any man the first week, while the ship is in comparitively cool weather, but the climax of suffering is reached when the work has to go on just the same in places like the Red Sea or the Indian Ocean. To realize all it means, one must consider how trying it is to remain in a temperature of about 120 degrees Fahrenheit without having any work to do. If you add to that the fact that the men are driven to throw coal on fiery furnaces in that temperature you get an idea what it involves for them.

Heaven help the man who tries to shirk work when the word has been passed round that the mails are behind time! The leading hand, whose official instructions are not to hit, forgets his instructions. He work like a fiend himself, and drives the others at the same time. If the ship's doctor is unsympathetic, it is almost a case of "work or die" for the stokers.

We had one fireman who was completely knocked up and he had a badly swollen ankle. He asked the doctor to give him a day or two off, but was told to go back to work. He started his four-hour "shift," at midnight, but in a quarter of an hour said he could not go on. He was struck and bullied, but demanded to see the ship's doctor. The doctor, perhaps annoyed at being called at that hour, gave him a cursory glance and told him to go back to the stoke-hold. He struggled with the work for a quarter of an hour, and then, when his strength failed, he was hit on the head with a shovel. He staggered away and, in despair leaped overboard where he must have been eaten by sharks in a couple of minutes.

McLAUGHLIN-BUICK MOTOR CARS

Automobile purchasers may be divided into three classes:

Those to whom low price is a greater consideration than service ability.

Those to whom price is no obstacle in gratifying a taste for the exclusive and the luxurious.

Then there is the great middle class—those who are prepared to make only a moderate expenditure but at the same time demand a car with power, style, stamina, and beauty.

It is the latter who will purchase the two thousand odd cars the McLaughlin Carriage Co. is building this year.

The style and beauty can be judged from the many McLaughlin cars to be seen on the streets and in the McLaughlin showrooms.

The power plant and the stamina of the McLaughlin car as a whole is guaranteed by the stability and integrity of the house of McLaughlin. To appreciate what this means it must be known that the McLaughlin Carriage Co. embodies in every car forty-three years of experience.

The service of a McLaughlin car is assured by the immense factory at Oshawa and the branch houses and agencies in all the leading cities and towns in Canada.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The Review does not hold itself responsible for opinions expressed by its correspondents

A REJOINDER FROM SPECTATOR

To The Editor of The Review.

Dear Sir—I am not accustomed to writing letters to the newspapers, but I cannot allow the judges of the baby show to be ridiculed in such an unseemly manner as was done by correspondent "Patterson Street" in last evening's issue without giving voice to my sentiments in praise of the able manner in which Messrs. Morrow, Wainwright and Kerr, awarded the prizes, and of their generosity to all after they were through with their duties.

It is not, in my opinion, right that these gentlemen should be so unwarrantably criticized. They are almost daily accustomed to fancy fairs pink teas, Martha Washington Bazaars, kermises, rag-bag sales, German coffees, Dutch flower shows, Dolly Varden luncheons, fetes of all nations, haut ton receptions, pork pie festivals, old colonial banquets, etc., where babies are nearly always exhibited, and where all three gentlemen have had every opportunity to qualify themselves in the art of baby culture. It is therefore nothing short of unreasonable to suggest that these men could not make a proper award on a cursory glance.

It is idiotic to point to the teeth as a mark of excellence in judging a baby. Everyone with common sense knows that fully fifty per cent of the babies exhibited had not teeth at all, —a fact which I have no doubt, the judges had full cognizance, and which was probably the reason for their omission to make an examination in respect of.

I am perfectly satisfied that every justice was handed out to all in connection with the babies, and that the gentlemen who were the judges are deserving of congratulations and praise for the fairness and the wisdom they displayed in their selections, be it true, if they are bachelors which is no crime.

There is a deal of time spent amiss and it strikes me that "Patterson Street" is foolishly indulging in idle criticism that will do not good.

"SPECTATOR"

Peterborough, June 6, 1912.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years, was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

Judge Ben B. Lindsey, defending woman's suffrage, said of an opponent:

"He objects because he misunderstands. His description of woman's suffrage is about as wise and accurate as the little boy's description of the circus elephant.

Want to Open Shakespeare's Grave.

An Englishman makes the suggestion that the Bacon-Shakespeare controversy may be settled by the opening of Shakespeare's grave. In order to escape the consequences of the Bard's curse, "Cursed be he that moves my bones," etc., the Englishman proposes to have the grave opened by women. It seems to us that this would be about as far as people could go in their efforts to take advantage of a technicality.—Chicago Record-Herald.

FINE ADDRESS BY DR. GRAHAM TO PROTESTANT FEDERATION

History of Jesuitism Related By Speaker—Rome's Greatest Support —E. A. Peck M.P.P. and J. H. Burnham M. P. Also Spoke.

The Sons of England Hall last evening could scarcely accommodate the crowd who gathered there to hear Rev. Dr Graham, of Toronto, deliver a highly interesting address on "Jesuitism," under the auspices of the Protestant Federation. Ald. W. J. Johnston occupied the chair, introducing the speaker of the evening in a few brief but hearty words of welcome.

Rev. Dr. Graham was enthusiastically greeted in commencing his address. After a few preliminary remarks upon the good work the Federation was doing he proceeded with his subject.

The founder of Jesuitism was born in 1491 said Dr. Graham, and he was in every sense a leader and controller of men. Dr. Graham gave an outline of the life of this man up to the time he organized the Jesuit Society, commencing with only nine members. The Order began to develop until its branches were established in all parts of Europe and the East. So tremendous was the growth that in only a few years the organization numbered over a million souls, possessiong vast wealth and power yet pleading poverty all the time. At the death of the founder there were over 700,000 converts to the Jesuit cause. If it had not been for the activity of these Jesuits, said Dr. Graham, Rome would not now have such a strong following by nearly two thirds of her present strength. The Reformation which took place about that time was responsible for checking greatly the onward march of Jesuitism and had this not been so, Protestant growth might have been swept completely off the earth. From that time until to-day, said the speaker, Jesuitism has been the strongest support of Rome and the great draw back in the world's progress. Jesuitism has also controlled the inner workings of the Romish church to such an extent that the Papacy today is under Jesuit rule.

Speaking of the educational system in Quebec and the Western Provinces Dr. Graham considered the time had come when we should end all compromise with the Roman Catholic hierarchy. At the conclusion of Dr. Graham's address a hearty vote of thanks was extended to him, to which he briefly replied.

Mr. E. A. Peck was called upon for a few words and was well received. Referring to the marriage question Mr. Peck thought the time was coming when people could marry without the interference of any organisation and with the full protection of the nation's laws.

Mr. J. H. Burnham, M.P., was given close attention during the course of a few remarks upon the conflict which he felt time might produce, between the big trusts and the Socialist element.

They Will Hobble.

That high heels and hobble skirts are responsible for a large proportion of the injuries sustained by women while getting on and off trains and mounting and descending stairways in stations is the conclusion reached by the Pennsylvania railroad after an investigation covering three months, in which seventy-three such cases were recorded.

The injuries ranged from slight contusions to painful sprains and cuts. Typical of the causes set forth in the report are: "Heel caught on step of coach and tore off. High heel caught while descending stairs; wore hobble skirt."

BRITISH CAPITALISTS WILL LIKELY VISIT PETERBORO

It is probable that the party of sixty-five British capitalists, who are on their way to Canada, will visit this city during this month. The party which has been organized by a British financial paper, is coming to this country for the purpose of studying Canadian conditions, with the view to making investments, and in this connection there has been mapped out for the party a tour of Canada, which will embrace practically every important city between Halifax and Vancouver. The schedule as now drawn up will bring the party to Montreal about June 15th, after which many Ontario cities will be visited. This should bring the capitalists to Peterborough about the 16th or 17th.

CARRIED TOO FAR

The management of the Royal Theatre adopted a very novel idea no doubt, when they secured Alfie Cooney to parade the main street yesterday advertising with a bill board their big motion picture, "Twenty Years in Sing Sing." Alfie was clad in prison attire, and having seen the inside of a jail quite frequently, his garb was no doubt in keeping with the picture that he was advertising. But to many the sight was by no means funny. Their finer feelings were stirred with pity at the scene induced no doubt to a certain extent by the rather sad and shameful bearing of the man who probably owes his unenviable circumstances to drink and its accessory evils. Cooney himself carried a saddened countenance and his onward course exposed himself quite naturally to the gibes and laughter of the crowds on the street. Advertising is all right but when it exposes a poor unfortunate individual to the abuse and jeers of the public it is felt by some, time to call a halt.

Ireland's Big Cavern.

A Frenchman made the first complete exploration of one of the largest caverns in the world, that at Mitchelstown, Ireland. The explorer was Martel, who is also famous for his discoveries in the caverns of France. The Mitchelstown cavern is formed in limestone and is remarkable for the number and extent of its connected passages, which when plotted on a chart resemble the streets of a city. The length of the cave is a mile and a quarter, and it contains some animal inhabitants, including a species of spider, which are peculiar to it and have their entire existence within its recesses.

Quick Wheat Growing.

Before the Royal Botanic Society in Regent's Park, London, recently some remarkable developments in research upon the electro-culture of plant life were demonstrated. These developments are the outcome of study by two German scientists, and show that not only can the vitality of plant life be appreciably stimulated by electric influence, but that it is also possible, under similar treatment, to preserve vegetation against external and internal parasitic attacks.

In the first instance, wheat grains were caused to germinate in fifteen minutes. A number of dry grains were placed in a fine layer of earth upon a copper plate, and after moisture with an insecticide were subjected to a powerful electric current.

At the conclusion of the period they were examined and declared by many of the visitors to exhibit distinct signs of germination. The demonstrator showed that not only could electrical treatment hasten the initial development of the seedling, but that plant food could be "pumped" into weaklings.

The Popular Pot Roast.

Many persons object to the mixture of vegetables that go into the ordinary pot roast, but these are in no way necessary. Select for a pot roast a thick piece of round and brown it thoroughly in its own fat until the entire surface is seared and rich in color. Then cover it with a cupful of hot water and cook it very slowly on the back of the stove below the boiling point until it is done tender, turning in a little water now and then when it is needed to keep the meat from actually sticking to the kettle and burning. The kettle should be kept covered tight to keep in the steam. The meat should not be cooked until it falls into pieces, but it should be just tender enough to hold its own when it is cut. The last of the roast will make a delicious ragout. And a tasty hot supper dish may be made by cutting the meat into slices of medium thickness and frying them in butter. Such a roast is fit to set before a king, provided that particular king has not made up his mind never under any circumstances to eat beef of any kind that does not run red juices. When the pot roast is done take out the meat, turn in a little hot water and thicken with a tablespoonful each of butter and flour, seasoning with salt and pepper and a little kitchen bouquet if it is wanted.

NEED OF NEW ZEALAND

Island Dominion Requires More Direct Legislation.

Perhaps nowhere to-day, save in an illustration of the vital need of direct legislation as in New Zealand. The grave defect in the progressive Government of New Zealand is the failure of the Liberal party to give the people the power to promptly and easily exercise their sovereignty through such practical, simple and effective measures as the initiative referendum and right of recall.

Prof. Frank Parsons, whose history of New Zealand is the most elaborate and best story of the Dominion that has yet appeared, has said that he had called the attention of certain New Zealand statesmen to this fatal structural weakness in their Government, but they felt that the administration which the people then enjoyed was so thoroughly responsive to the will of the voters and so solicitous for the welfare of the people that there were other more important immediate questions requiring their attention. He had pointed out to them that Government by the wise and good had never been long-lived, and the interests of the real sovereign power in government always dictated the policy of the state, so sooner or later, if the people were not protected by means that should make the Government at all times immediately responsive to their will the hour would come—would surely come — when politicians or privileged interests would become in reality, though not in theory, the sovereigns.

The statesmen of New Zealand, however, to whom he pointed out these great truths, did not appreciate the imminent danger along these lines; yet with the passing of Richard Seddon there appears to have come a subtle but real change in the spirit of the Government, judging from the testimony of friends, who have recently visited the Dominion, and last, but by no means least, from the report of so honest, fearless and competent a friend of social progress as Charles Edward Russell.

From these advices there seems little question but what the Government, under the leadership of Sir Joseph Ward, is becoming reactionary rather than continuing progressive, and that it is riding to a fall, although this fall will probably not come at the next election, owing to the overwhelming popularity which the Liberal Government so long enjoyed and which always exerts a spell over voters even though the character, spirit or tone of the party bearing the time-honored name may have changed completely.

In a very clear and luminous contribution to a recent issue of the National Post Mr. Charles Edward Russell shows that the radical or fundamental democratic measures adopted after the Liberal Government came into power, and which have given New Zealand such merited pre-eminence as a pioneer experiment station in progressive rule, have been eminently successful.

"For twenty years the country has been governed by one political combination having a strong initial impulse to do new and radical things.

"Some of these things have been genuine; many have resulted in great advantages to the country; some have astonished the world because of the boldness of the innovations.

"Meantime the world does not stand still. The initial impulse of reform has greatly slackened in the governing coalition of New Zealand, while the rest of civilisation has been steering up to the mark that New Zealand first set.

"Consequently dissatisfaction takes root in the Modern Utopia, and daily grows."

The traveler who to-day visits New Zealand finds her people ruddy and wholesome of countenance, well-fed, well-to-do and self-contented. There is in New Zealand no threat of such conditions as mark other civilized lands; no hideous slums and appalling destitution, as in London; no "terrifying decline is the standard of living that curses the greater part of civilization."

Nothing of this kind is imminent in New Zealand; it was a threat once but is not now. Life there is easy, comparatively safe and eminently comfortable. For its size and population it is one of the healthiest and happiest countries in the world.

Fourteenth Century Life.

In the fourteenth century people lived in mud huts, with a rough door and no chimney. It was not till a century later that the erection of a chimney was considered more than an indulgence in luxury, a fire commonly being built against the mud-plastered wall of the hut and the smoke escaping through the roof. All furniture was of wood. Most persons slept on straw pallets, with a log of wood for a pillow. Even the nobility had no glass in the windows during this time. Cleanliness was not a characteristic of the people, and Thomas a' Becket was considered more than necessarily nice because he had the floor of his house strewn with fresh straw each day.

The Valuable Palmyra Palm.

A Hindoo poem enumerates 800 purposes to which the Palmyra palm alone is put. Among other things it supplies paper for writing upon, an intoxicating drink called "toddy," large quantities of sugar fruit and a vegetable for the table when the plants are young. Palm wine is also obtained from the juice of the sago palm, which yields excellent sugar candy when boiled. The pith of the trunk forms a large part of the food of the natives in many parts of India. Ropes, brushes and brooms are manufactured from the fiber of the leaf stalks.

A Saint's Tomb to Order.

An English contemporary tells the story of an East Indian frontier tribe which, having been jeered at by another tribe because it possessed no tombs of saints, went out, killed a well-known holy man and buried him.

Woman's World

Wives of Prominent Democrats to Have Harmony Feast.

MRS. CHAMP CLARK—MRS. WOODROW WILSON.

A Dolly Madison May time breakfast which will bring together the wives of Democratic leaders throughout the country is planned for May 20 by Mrs. Champ Clark, wife of the speaker of the house; Mrs. Henry D. Clayton, wife of Representative Clayton of Alabama, and Mrs. Oscar W. Underwood, wife of the leader of the majority in the lower branch of congress. The breakfast is designed to bring together the women of the party in much the same fashion as the men come together from time to time at the festal banquet board for good fellowship and mutual acquaintanceship.

It will be held at one of the big hotels in Washington, and the list of those to be invited as guests of honor includes Mrs. Grover Cleveland of New Jersey, widow of former President Cleveland; Mrs. Bryan, wife of William Jennings Bryan of Nebraska, who three times has been the national standard bearer of the party; Mrs. Alton Brooks Parker, wife of Judge Parker of New York, who once was the Democratic presidential candidate, and Mrs. Adlai E. Stevenson of Illinois, whose husband was vice president during one of former President Cleveland's administrations.

Mrs. Clark is to be the toastmistress of the occasion, and the list of those who are eligible as guests will include the wives of Democratic members of the senate and house, of members of former Democratic cabinets, of the Democratic governors, governors elect or Democratic nominees for governor, of the Democratic justices of the supreme court, of the Democratic national committee members and of prominent Democratic residents of the district and the country at large.

The occasion, it is pointed out, will take especial significance from the characteristic attributes of Dolly Madison, the patron saint chosen by the women of the democracy, who was one of the most forceful women who ever presided over the White House.

When a Woman Buys Pajamas.

The dashing haberdasher indicated the occupant of a polo coat that had just whisked out his front door with a bundle under her arm.

"That young woman," said he emphatically, "bought those sunset pink pajamas to wear herself, and I deduce, furthermore, that she is not married. You can't help noticing little things like that when you look at events with your eyes open.

"How do I know? Let your own ears be the jury. Here's what happened when she bought 'em:

"She wanted to look at some pajamas, and there was a sort of vocal blush in her voice when she added hastily that they were for her husband. What size did she want, I inquired.

"Well, er—a—she wasn't sure. But she just happened to remember that her husband was about as high and as wide as she was, and she could tell by holding up the garments and measuring the arms whether they would fit him or not. That ancient dodge is as transparent as a plate glass window fresh from the chamois—and they all use it.

"If she had really been buying a slumber suit for her husband she would have told me the size of his shirts and left me to judge by that. I would also call your attention to that sunset color.

"Accept direct from one that's in the business, the average man is about as conservative and careful about the shade of his mattress uniform as he is about that of his street clothes. He might let his wife buy him neckties—his pajamas seldom, if ever."

No amount of culture will make a man stop snoring in his sleep.

Doctors Disagree

The Patient [illegible] the Question

By CLARISSA MACKIE

However much or little a doctor knows, in the sickroom he is omnipotent. If we know he knows no more than we, we try to make ourselves think he does, for on him we propose to unload ourselves of a responsibility that breaks us down.

Dr. Bolster looked across the bed at his colleague. He tapped his heavy chin with a fat forefinger and pursed his lips.

"Liver," he said succinctly.

"Nerves," retorted Dr. Pepper testily.

"Rigid diet," said Dr. Bolster imperturbably.

"Feed him up," snapped Dr. Pepper. "Exhausted nerves need plenty of good nourishing food—rare roast beef and"—

"And send for the undertaker," ended Dr. Bolster grewsomely. "Not a bite to eat—merely a cup of thin gruel made as per my directions, nurse, and administered three times a day. In one week he will be"—

"Ordering a marble slab for our friend," interjected Dr. Pepper, arising and buttoning his black coat about his scrawny neck.

The pretty nurse looked from one to the other of the two rival village doctors. They had been holding a consultation on the case of Bemis Blaine, a prominent townsman. Mr. Blaine had been ill for several weeks, and he declared when the doctors were not present that nothing but the skilled nursing of Miss Folk had saved his worthless life.

"Chuck the pills and potions out of the house," he commanded fiercely a dozen times a day, but pretty Miss Folk smiled and shook her head and continued to administer the doses impartially, so that neither doctor might feel aggrieved in the matter.

Now Dr. Bolster proceeded to write down elaborate directions for the nurse to follow until his next visit, and Dr. Pepper proceeded to do the same. By a strange coincidence of fate each one of Dr. Pepper's orders flatly contradicted those of his distinguished colleague, although he had not set eyes on the other's orders. Dr. Pepper was Bemis Blaine's family doctor, and he had in a moment of desperation, engendered by Bemis Blaine's contrariness to respond to his treatment, called in Dr. Bolster in consultation upon the case. Dr. Bolster had remained ever since, and now it was a daily custom for the rival physicians to go to the sickroom in company and wrangle over the prostrate and pain racked form of Bemis Blaine.

TWO ANGRY DOCTORS GLARING AT EACH OTHER.

"If he is no better tomorrow we may operate," whispered Dr. Bolster to Miss Folk before he left.

"Operate?" Dr. Pepper fairly danced up and down. "I've always promised Bemis that so long as I lived I'd never stick a knife into him. He don't believe in operations."

"I shall perform the operation myself," returned Dr. Bolster, coolly pulling on his woolen gloves. His long chin whiskers wagged aggressively.

"Never! Bemis is my patient, and if anybody operates I shall!" Little Dr. Pepper drew himself up to his fullest height and glared at his burly opponent.

"Gentlemen," cried Miss Folk timidly, "shall I continue to give the spirits of niter to reduce the fever?"

"Yes," chipped Dr. Pepper quickly.

"No," vetoed Dr. Bolster.

Miss Folk looked appealingly from one to another. Tears gathered behind her thick lashes. "Something must be done," she whispered, with a sob in her throat.

The doctors confronted each other in the hall.

"Diet!" said Dr. Bolster obstinately.

"Nonsense. Feed him up." Dr. Pepper was close at hand.

"Atlantic City for him," ordered Dr. Bolster.

"Rubbish! No place like the Adirondacks."

"Oh, doctors!" cried Miss Folk from the upper hall, and by the nurse's tone the two doctors knew that something had happened to their patient.

"I'll bet he's gone. I predicted it," puffed Dr. Bolster.

"Must have taken some of your beastly stuff, then," growled Dr. Pepper, who had known Bemis Blaine from childhood and loved him like a brother.

But there was no material evidence that Bemis Blaine was dead. In the sickroom they ranged themselves on either side of the wide bed and stared at the white counterpaine.

Bemis Blaine was nowhere to be seen. He had disappeared from his bed, and there only remained the indentation of his round head in the pillow and the roughly smoothed counterpane to suggest his presence.

"He cannot have gone far," remarked Dr. Bolster as he climbed into his little electric runabout and turned to the open country.

Dr. Pepper followed suit, his little old fashioned car creaking along behind the rival physician's latest model machine.

The nurse returned to the sickroom, worried and anxious. She had taken great interest in the case of Bemis Blaine and a strong regard had sprung up between the sick man and the pretty nurse.

"Suppose he should never come back. Suppose something has happened to him!" groaned Nurse Folk as she made an examination of the room and house and discovered that her patient had escaped with his warmest dressing gown, a golf cap and a pair of knitted bedroom slippers.

While consternation reigned in the Blaine household, where the mother and sisters of the absent Bemis ran distractedly to and fro and the nurse waited impatiently for the return of the doctors, those two rivals were racing each other down the shore road with apparently little heed to the disappearance of their best paying patient.

"If you'll stop zigzagging in front of me I can pass you easily!" roared Dr. Pepper to the physician in front.

"I'm willing to give your old mouse trap a fair chance!" bellowed Dr. Bolster, turning his machine sharply to the right—a grave mistake, which he discovered too late.

Dr. Pepper turned his machine to the right. There was a sickening crash, and then the moon witnessed two angry doctors glaring at each other from the wreckage of two machines.

The first thought that leaped to the mind of each was the repair bill for his machine, the second thought was how to pay it, and the third, a comforting one, was the reflection that Bemis Blaine was a patient whose bill might be stretched indefinitely.

"Hurt?" asked Dr. Pepper reluctantly.

"No. You?" Dr. Bolster was equally loath to spend time or sympathy upon his colleague.

"No. If you'll excuse me I'll hurry on. I have a patient beyond."

"So have I," said Dr. Bolster quickly, falling into step beside his rival.

"I've got to look around for Bemis Blaine, you know," protested Dr. Pepper. "He's my patient, and he has escaped from his bed in the delirium of fever."

"Delirium tremens!" snorted Dr. Bolster.

"Sir!"

"Fiddle!" snapped Dr. Bolster, thinking of his ruined machine. "I will leave you, sir. A patient suffering from an attack of exaggeration of the liver must necessarily"—

"Humph! Exhaustion of the nerves. It would be impossible for Bemis to get very far from home and, being weak from illness and injudicious dieting"—

Dr. Bolster laughed wildly. "Why, the very animals know enough to starve themselves when ill. Now, your school, doctor, believes in fattening the patient, and—what is the matter?"

For answer Dr. Pepper beckoned his rival toward a dimly lighted window.

"Look!" he said weakly.

Renview village possessed a Chinese laundry, and part of this laundry was devoted to the savory preparation and serving of chop suey and other delectable Chinese dishes. The calico curtain was pushed aside, and within the dimly lighted interior of the restaurant a large man was seated, eating almost ravenously of a large plate of chop suey. The man wore a red dressing gown, a golf cap, a pair of knitted bed slippers and sadly needed a shave.

Watching him enjoy this meal were several people.

The rival doctors pressed their noses against the flyspecked pane of glass. There were Bemis Blaine's mother and two sisters and the pretty nurse, the shoemaker from the corner and the village constable.

Just then Bemis Blaine pushed back his chair, paid his bill and padded toward the door in his knitted slippers.

"You're a sick man!" yelped Dr. Pepper, leaping at his late patient.

"Man, you've risked your life!" cried Dr. Bolster as he clutched Blaine's hand. He was thinking about his broken machine.

"Risked it and won it," retorted Bemis Blaine good naturedly. "It belongs to me, and Nurse Folk here has promised to look out for me the rest of my days. Oh, yes, I'm quite well, thank you, doctors! If you hadn't disagreed and gone off I'd be dosing still. As it is I feel fine as silk. I'll send you wedding cards shortly."

As the two doctors walked down the street toward their respective homes each one was thinking of a wrecked machine and of the big bill there would be to pay. Somehow each one felt that Bemis Blaine had overreached him, had outwitted him in a manner.

"Liver!" snarled Dr. Bolster savagely.

"Nerves!" barked Dr. Pepper.

"Tremens!" they growled in unison, and for the first time in their acquaintance they were agreed.

The man who paddles his own canoe to-day may own a steam yacht to-morrow.

Baby's Airing.

Mothers must be careful in distinguishing between good and bad days for their babies to be out. The general principle is, of course, to give the baby an airing every day, because fresh air is as necessary to a child's health as good food is. But authorities agree that on certain kinds of days it is far better for baby to stay indoors. The point to beware of is dampness; not the temperature, but the quality of the air. A cold day is splendid for children provided it is the dry, stimulating kind of cold. But a damp, raw day will do them more harm than good. Even if it seems moderately warm don't take them out. It is the dampness that breeds chills and sore throat and croup.

OVERSHOT THE MARK

By EDWARD TOMLINSON

Mr. and Mrs. Partridge, a well to do couple, being childless adopted a niece of Mrs. Partridge, Suzanna Kenton. Susanna was a good girl and, being an orphan, gave her whole heart to her foster parents. When Suzanna was eighteen years old a sister of Mr. Partridge died, leaving destitute a daughter about the same age. His uncle felt it his duty to take his niece into his home and give her a living. His wife did not relish this new addition to the household, but since her husband had consented to her receiving her own relative she could not refuse her consent to his taking in his niece.

Blandina Crofts, Mr. Partridge's niece, was a very different person from Susanna. She was very, very plausible, very unscrupulous and inordinately selfish. What property the old couple possessed belonged to Mr. Partridge, and it had been understood that Susanna would inherit it. It did not take long for Blandina to argue out a case in her own behalf. She, being the niece of the owner of the property, should be the heir. But since she would be at a great disadvantage if she tried to persuade her uncle to leave his property to her instead of Susanna, she determined to go about the matter in a roundabout way.

She began by feigning a strong love for her victim. Then she turned away from her, but would give no reason for doing so. Mrs. Partridge asked her why she had changed, but she would not tell. Finally Mr. Partridge missed a sum of money. Blandina, with many sighs, and declarations of the pain she suffered in accusing her friend, advised the lady to search her niece's room. She did so and found the lost money. The matter could not be kept from Mr. Partridge, and he insisted that Susanna leave the house. Both Susanna and her aunt, with woman's instinct, believed that Blandina had laid a plan to ruin the former, but Mr. Partridge naturally favored his own sister's child. Besides, Blandina had taken pains to tell him often how much she loved Susanna.

Susanna supported herself as best she could, her aunt helping her with her own pin money, for Mr. Partridge was greatly incensed at Susanna's ingratitude, and nothing could be done for her with his knowledge. As for Blandina, she had a mania for possessing fine things, such as clothes, jewelry and the like. After the old people had gone to bed she would steal out and go to dances. She had a lover who would call for her, waiting outside till she appeared and later bring her home, leaving her at the door. But one night she invited him in. Mrs. Partridge, hearing muffled sounds below, tiptoed downstairs and caught the couple there. Since 2 o'clock in the morning was not a proper hour for a young woman who was supposed to be in bed to entertain a young man in the drawing room, the matter looked suspicious. She knew her aunt distrusted her, and she feared the consequences.

The matter was reported to Mr. Partridge, and Blandina, seeing that her innocence would not be believed by him, excused herself on the ground that she was her visitor's wife. This helped the matter in one way, but not in another. Her uncle did not at all like her having married clandestinely. However, she was his sister's child, and he forgave her, especially as she gave as a reason for concealing her marriage that her husband, John Atwood, was unable to support her. Her uncle decided that she should remain in his home till Atwood bettered his circumstances.

Shortly after this Mrs. Partridge sickened and died. Mr. Partridge was now very dependent upon his niece and was in no hurry for her to leave him to assume her position before the world as Atwood's wife. Atwood seldom came to see her and finally drifted away from her altogether. Her uncle encouraged her to let him go, assuring her that if she lived with him to the end of his life she should have his property.

Several years passed during which Blandina pretended that she had lost interest in her husband and would probably in time secure a divorce. Then her uncle died. When his will was read what was her consternation to find that the estate—a fine one—had been left to her as Mrs. Blandina Atwood.

She hurried to a lawyer, confided to him that she had never been married and her legal name was simply Blandina Crofts.

"Then," said the attorney, "you cannot inherit that estate under that will."

This was a crushing blow to Blandina. The lawyer told her that unless there was another will the estate must go to her uncle's heirs, who were numerous, and her share would be a bagatelle. Blandina left him and the next day returned with a will she had found dated five years before, leaving the property to Suzanna Kenton. After begging the attorney to find some way by which she could on furnishing the will force Susanna to divide with her, and being peremptorily refused, she gave up the struggle and consented to his notifying Susanna of her inheritance.

Susanna volunteered to give Blandina a small annuity out of the estate so long as she lived and otherwise befriended her, thereby showing the sweetness of her own disposition.

New Animals Found.

A further study of the mammals collected by the scientists that accompanied the expedition of the Alpine Club of Canada in the Jasper Park and Mount Robson region of the Canadian Rockies last summer has resulted in the discovery of several previously unrecognized forms.

The hoary marmot and the caribou from the vicinity of Moose Pass prove to be new species. In connection with the identification of the caribou a thorough study of the specimens in the museum collections showed the necessity of recognizing additional forms of this interesting game mammal. A new species from the barren grounds of the Arctic coast of Alaska and one from Kamchatka are named.

The type specimen of the Rocky Mountain caribou came from the head of Moose Pass branch of Smoky River, Alberta, and, although its horns are not especially large, the measurements of the animal itself excel all authentic measurements of caribou on record.

Among the natural history collections made by Messrs. N. Hollister and J. H. Riley in the Canadian Rockies of eastern British Columbia and western Alberta were representatives of about 200 plants. Coming from a territory where little or no botanical collecting had been done previously, these have proved to be of interest. In the course of identifying the plants secured by the two collectors four were found which seemed to be unnamed.

Scrims and nets in white, cream, tans and ecrus are particularly well adapted for the window hangings.

If the wall papers are flowered then select a plain material and stencil a border in two tones of the paper coloring, but if they are plain flowered effects are very desirable for hangings.

Paint with its saving grace will give a brand new appearance to the wicker furnishings, and the window boxes and flowerpots may be made to lend a striking bit of charm and freshness to the rooms if treated to a dress of new paint in bright green or red.

If the housekeeper will observe some of these little ideas before the spring days actually arrive she will find that she has struck a happy tune for the tired creatures in her home for whose welfare she is ever most solicitous.

VOL LXV., NO. 135.
PETERBOROUGH, ONT., CANADA, MONDAY, JUNE 10, 1912
TEN CENTS PER WEEK.

CEMENT DUTIES HAVE BEEN CUT IN TWO FOR THE SUMMER

Hon. W. T. White Announces a Reduction of Fifty Per Cent. In the Tariff on Building Cement In Order to Meet the Demand In the West Which Far Exceeds the Supply—Will Last From June 12 to Oct. 31.

Ottawa, June 10.—The duty on Portland cement and hydraulic or water lime in barrels, bags or casks, has been cut in two by the Government. This remission of one-half of the duty is for a limited period and will date from importations made from June 12 to October 31, both days inclusive. All customs officers throughout the Dominion will be advised to this effect to-day.

This important announcement was made last night by Hon. W. T. White, Minister of Finance, who for the past few days has been investigating the shortage in the west and the agitation which it brought about.

Hon. Mr. White, in explanation of the Government's action, says: "From information I have obtained I am convinced that a serious shortage in cement exists in various sections of the Dominion, due to both an unprecedented demand for the commodity and to the difficulty experienced by the eastern producers in promptly making shipments by rail and water.

"Urgent messages have been received from municipal authorities, boards of trade, and contracting firms in the west, stating that heavy financial loss and public inconvenience are threatened by reason of the suspension of building and street paving operations, and requesting that partial or total remission of customs duty upon cement should be granted during the remainder of the season. Under all the circumstances and having given the matter full consideration, which its importance deserves, I am of the opinion that it is only fair and just that the remission asked for should be allowed to the extent of one-half the duty paid upon cement and its coverings during the period from June 12 to Oct. 31 next.

"Such remission is equivalent to about twenty-six cents per barrel (of three hundred and fifty pounds) under the general, twenty-three cents under the intermediate, and seventeen cents under the preferential.

"Manufacturers of cement in the east have large shipments now in transit and will no doubt, in conjunction with the railway and steamship companies, use every effort to overtake their orders. From all sources of supply I hope that the cement situation will be relieved in the near future."

Merger Not Afraid.

Montreal, June 10.—The Canadian cement merger, so some of its friends claim, has nothing much to fear from competition with the American cement trust in case the Canadian Government take off the duty so as to make cement cheaper and more plentiful in the Canadian west. Reports from Winnipeg show that cement is both scarce and dear in all the western country, and building held back.

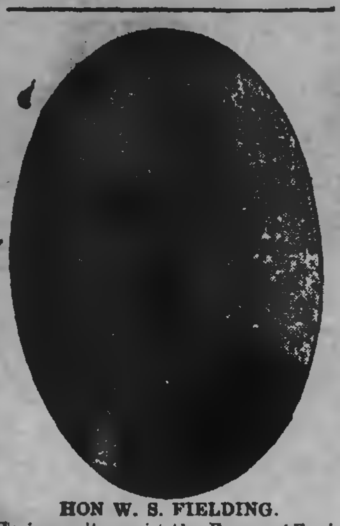
The American Shoe Machinery Trust, now being somewhat slowly investigated in Canada, is buying up a chain of papers in New England, so as to hold their own, and they are even thinking about doing something in the same line in Canada.

APPOINTMENT WANTED AT ONCE

Ottawa, June 10.—It is understood that the Government is being urged by business organizations, especially in the west, to expedite as much as possible the appointment of the new chairman of the Railway Commission to replace Hon. J. P. Mabee.

The other commissioners are doing their best to keep up with the work of the board, but they are compelled to work overtime, and even then cannot deal with many questions of pressing public importance.

Hon. Frank Cochrane has stated that the appointment will be made before the Premier's departure for England on the 26th, but he will not give any hint as to the man he has in view.



HON W. S. FIELDING.
He is a witness in the Farmers' Bank Inquiry now in progress at Ottawa.

GALT'S BIG SHOW IS GREAT SUCCESS

Galt, June 10.—Galt Horse Show, the twelfth held by the association, and without a single serious mishap to mar the record, closed at seven o'clock Saturday night before a gathering of 4,000 whose interest was held throughout.

The consensus of opinion is that the show has been a signal contribution to the annals of the exhibition field; that its influence among breeders will be widely felt and that it will generally aid and promote the great interests with which it is identified throughout the province.

Lieutenant-Governor Gibson said the show amazed and most pleasurably surprised him, and the judges and experts present were a unit in unstinted praise both of the character and conduct of the show.

The saddle events, numbering in entries 141, were the most dashing and brilliant in the history of open-air shows, the fair riders including Mrs. Beck, Miss Temple, Miss Labatt, Miss Coulthard and Mrs. McSloy notably distinguishing themselves. The driving classes were exceptionally well filled and brought out the best horses in the country.

Crow and Murray with their jumpers added a feature that in their absence would have been missed woefully. The agricultural classes won high admiration; as did also allied types of the heavies. Ponies were well represented and the youngsters of all kinds made a good field.

ISLANDERS DID NOT PERISH

Special to the Review.

Cordova, Alaska, June 10—Late last night a brief wireless message from the revenue cutter Manning, to the wireless station here, announced that the residents of Kodiak Island, of whom no news has been received since the outbreak of the Katmai volcano, Thursday, were all safe. The steamer Annie, which arrived here yesterday, reports encountering tidal waves while off the Mantague Islands, Friday morning, believed to have been caused by the eruption. Some of the waves ran fifty feet high Canoeist Drowned.

Belleville, June 10.—Thornton Hinchey, aged 16 years, on Friday evening with a companion was paddling a canoe on the Salmon River at Shannonville when the craft was upset by the occupants changing seats. As a result Hinchey was drowned and his companion, a young Englishman, nearly met the same fate. Hinchey's body wa recovered on Saturday. The victim was a son of Baptiste Hinchey, who resides in Shannonville in Tyendinaga Township.

HON. SAM HUGHES REPLIES TO CRITICISMS ON THE CAMP

Toronto, June 10.—Following the publication of stories relating to the conditions at Niagara camp, the method of enlisting men in the rural regiments, Col. Sam Hughes, Minister of Militia and Defence, sent out a statement last night. In part Hon. Col. Hughes says:

"Considerable comment has recently been made over the alleged use of liquor in Niagara camp — comment caused by an unwarranted article in a Toronto journal, reflecting on the sobriety and in general on the manhood of the young men constituting the camp.

"The strictest investigation and enquiry have been made. The facts in no sense whatever justify the adverse comments.

"All chaplains, Y.M.C.A. leaders, the best officers and men in camp, as well as many reputable citizens, testify to the comments as being untrue, even in nearly every detail, and as entirely misleading. These gentlemen and ladies, without any exception, assert that the camp now in progress is made up of the most perfectly conducted, gentlemanly, intelligent and capable lot of young men ever assembled under canvas at Niagara, while the splendid conduct of all ranks is commendable in every sense. My own observations fully bear out these views. Indeed, the friends of these young gentlemen may well feel proud of them here. It is fully expected that their conduct will be the same until they return to their homes.

"The average attendance, despite the late spring, cold and wet weather and scarcity of labor, is the largest for many years.

"It may be true that in the preceding camp liquor was used in officers' mess, for it was not understood by the city corps generally that an officer might not use even his own liquor at mess. It is felt, however, that while no one would propose preventing proper use of liquor or of anything else in one's own private quarters, yet its use even privately and personally at mess should be discouraged.

"Might I, in conclusion, respectfully assure you that the young fellows of all ranks in this and in every other camp in Canada are the best of those seen in every-day life at home, and now and again one is found weak enough, at home as well as in camp, not to control himself. But even such a man is more to be commended for trying to train himself to defend his home and country than is the cool, self-controlled destructive critic."

REPUBLICANS NOW YEARN FOR PEACE

Chicago, June 10.—There is a quest on by the Taft supporters for an acceptable candidate who will command the support of the administration and also attract some votes from the considerable number of delegates in the convention who are sincerely anxious to get rid of the Taft-Roosevelt feud by the nomination of a dark horse.

Mr. Justice Hughes is not considered the man. If possible the Taft strength will be transferred to a man from the west sufficiently in touch with the progressives to prevent any landslide west of the Mississippi.

If Mr. Taft's administration is endorsed he is said to be willing to forego a re-nomination in the interests of party harmony. Fully three months ago, it is said, he made overtures to this effect to Mr. Roosevelt through Andrew Carnegie.

Enough Roosevelt delegates may be steam-rollered out of the Chicago convention to make the nomination of Theodore Roosevelt impossible, but it by no means follows that Mr. Taft will be a candidate for re-election. To renominate the President would be to challenge, almost to invite the ever-dreaded Roosevelt bolt. Even in a straight party contest Mr. Taft, definitely classified in the popular mind as a reactionary, would prove as weak at the polls as he was at the primaries.

But suppose the Taft forces in control of the convention preach the doctrine of sacrifice for the party's sake? Many timid Republicans would rejoice at any solution of the troubles which now confront the organization. They would recall that Garfield was elected in 1880 when the Grant and Blaine men sunk their differences and made common cause against the Democrats which had anticipated a walkover because of the furious feud between the "stalwart" and the "half-breed" Republicans of that day and generation.

The President will recover much of the sting of the steam roller charges against his administration if he foregoes any personal profit from his victory.

The ex-President will find it hard to bolt a fairly good candidate to whom the nomination may come unsolicited. The nomination of a dark horse at Chicago may retire Taft with some show of credit and leave Mr. Roosevelt defeated but by no means discredited.

FRENCH PAPERS ARE BANNED

Montreal, June 10.—A bomb was thrown into the newspaper camp yesterday by His Grace Mgr. Bruchesi, who condemns and forbids the reading by the faithful of La Lumiere, monthly review of very strong anti-Catholic tendencies, yet not very well known to the masses. Mgr. Bruchesi also issued a very grave warning against Le Pays, a weekly paper of prominence, published by G. Langlois, M.P.P. for St. Louis, who was elected by a large majority at the last provincial election.

His grace says that Le Pays, while covering up to a certain extent its campaign against holy things, is all the more dangerous, and tells his hearers that if the tone of the paper is not changed he will not hesitate to take severe measures against it.

Le Pays has been strenuously advancing a greater attention to primary education, a minister of education, and in fact, compulsory education, which policy is objectionable to a part of the people.

Mr. Langlois has secured the sympathy of the entire English-speaking electorate and the crisis at hand will be a most interesting one.

It was only Saturday that Mr. Langlois received a very unexpected ally in the person of Mayor Garceau of Drummondville, chairman of the Catholic School Commission and a Nationalist candidate in the County of Drummond. He declares that in spite of a fine school house, prizes galore and even a trip to St. Anne de Beaupre for attendance, thirty per cent. of the children do not attend school at all and forty per cent. only a small portion of the year, and of the prizes given for good attendance only 15 per cent. of them were undeserved. Mr. Garneau, after declaring that if the separate schools of Manitoba were abolished, it was because of their inferiority, says there is but one remedy and that is compulsory attendance, as suggested by Mr. Langlois.

To Probe Stock Exchange.

Washington, June 10.—Investigation of the New York Stock Exchange and its relation to the banks and other financial institutions of the country will be the next step taken by the House money trust committee in its enquiry into the alleged "money trust."

Officers of the exchange will be heard to-morrow, and the committee expects to spend practically all this week in New York taking testimony.

Subsequent hearings, it was said, Saturday by Representative Pujo, chairman of the committee, probably would be held in Washington.

EASY TIME FOR SUFFRAGETTES

Special to the Review.

London, June 10.—Reginald McKenna, Home Secretary, to-day modified the sentences of Mrs. Emeline Pankhurst and Mr. and Mrs. Pethick Lawrence, and they will finish their terms of nine months as first-class misdemeanants instead of as ordinary criminals. Labor representatives have been for some time pressing Mr. McKenna to grant suffragettes the privilege of political prisoners.

CAPTAIN ROSTRON IS GUEST OF TWO TITANIC WIDOWS.

For the first time since the death of its owner the state dining room of the Astor mansion, in Fifth avenue, New York, was opened, when Mrs. John Jacob Astor, assisted by her mother, Mrs. William H. Force, and Mrs. John B. Thayer, of Haverford, Pa., entertained at luncheon the two men who were the most prominent in caring for her on board the Carpathia, Captain Arthur Henry Rostron and the ship's surgeon, Dr. McGee.

Captain Rostron, who returned from the cruise which began in the shadow of the catastrophe which made widows of Mrs. Astor and Mrs. Thayer, was visibly embarrassed when he arrived at the Astor home and found a battery of photographers awaiting him.

Both were attired in blue serge civilian clothes, Captain Rostron wearing a straw sailor hat and Dr. McGee a broad Panama. In response to urgent requests the two officers of the Carpathia posed for the photographers, and obligingly followed the directions of a moving picture machine operator as they advanced to the door of the house.

It was the first time the rescued and rescuers had met since the Carpathia landed her load of Titanic survivors in New York port.

TWENTY-SIX LIVES LOST IN A FRENCH NAVAL DISASTER

The Battleship Saint Louis Rams the Submarine Vendemiaire During Manoeuvres at Cherbourg and the Smaller Craft Is Split In Two—This Is the Sixth Boat of the Sort Which France Has Lost.

Cherbourg, June 10.—During the practice manoeuvres of the French fleet at 7 a.m. Saturday morning the battleship Saint Louis collided with the submarine Vendemiaire. The smaller craft immediately disappeared and its believed to have been cut in two and to have carried to their death the entire crew of 26 men.

The battleship was steaming along quietly when the submarine suddenly appeared out of the darkness right under the bows of the warship. There was no time to avoid a collision and the next moment the stem of the Saint Louis struck the submarine with terrific force, driving the latter below the surface. The engines of the warship had been quickly reversed, but when she was brought to a stop the submarine had disappeared and only a threshing of the waters showed where the under-the-surface fighter had gone down. The Vendemiaire was commanded by Lieut. Prioul, a young ensign, and had a crew of 25 men. She was launched on July 7, 1910, and was the ninth vessel of the Pluviose type added to the French navy. She was 167 feet in length, with a beam of 16 feet.

The captain of the Saint Louis at once communicated with Admiral Kiesel, maritime prefect of Cherbourg, and the latter hurried to the scene on board the destroyer Catapulte and accompanied by despatch boats and tugs and barges provided with complete salvage apparatus. Word was also sent to the Government at Paris, and later a message received stated that the Minister of Marine, M. Delcasse, was leaving in the afternoon for Cherbourg. This latest loss to the French navy has caused great distress not only throughout the service, but among the public generally, which has been made so frequently to mourn submarines. The Vendemiaire is the sixth craft of this type to be lost by the French.

There was a glimmer of hope Saturday afternoon that some of the Vendemiaire's crew might have survived, but owing to the depth of the water in which she sank, 25 fathoms, the general feeling is pessimistic. Cherbourg is plunged in mourning.

When the wrecking vessels reached the scene preparations were made for an effort by divers to reach the submarine and attach chains to the rings in her hull, with the purpose of raising her to the surface.

The manoeuvres of Friday night were those of the third squadron. The submarines of the Cherbourg station had received orders to attack the warships, and it was during one of these attacks that the Vendemiaire made the fatal error of getting directly in the path of the Saint Louis.

For every quarrel a man and wife have before others, they have a dozen when alone.

Every man who is whipped for a sin, claims that other men have done more and been whipped less.

TWO BATTLE SHIPS LEAVE FOR CUBA

Special to the Review.

Key West, Florida, June 10.—The U.S. battleship Rhode Island, and the cruiser Washington left their harbor under sealed orders this morning. Their presumed destination is Cuba.

A Determined Patriot.

Niagara Falls, N.Y., June 10.—It took a policeman and three men to stop Tony Volito from working Friday night. He was employed with an excavation gang, and for hours after the others stopped work, he kept swinging a pick. He said he was digging his way through to Turkey to get at Italy's enemies. He will be held until doctors examine him.

Locomotives to Pick Flowers.

Covington, Ky., June 10.—Two round-housemen employed in the Silver Grove yards of the Chesapeake & Ohio, near here, borrowed a locomotive to pick flowers for their wives early yesterday, and shortly afterwards were killed in a collision with another locomotive. Both engines were demolished and three other men were injured.

Fatally Hurt.

Toronto, June 10.—John Hart, a G.T.R. switchman, who was jolted off a box car while working in the Bathurst street yards about 1 o'clock Sunday morning, died at Grace Hospital at 8.40 last night. Hart was thirty years old and resided with his parents at 7 Rebecca street.

Lost Stallion Worth $2,500.

Belleville, June 10.—N. Vermilyea, reeve of Thurlow Township, Saturday sustained a severe loss owing to the fact that his imported Hackney stallion, Dictator, had to be shot as the animal had broken its leg. It was valued at $2,500. The animal was partially insured.

G.T.R. FREIGHT RUNS INTO PASSENGER AT GRACE HILL

Minister Held for Murder.

New Sweden, Me., June 10.—On a charge of murder Rev. Charles Emelius, a Lutheran minister, was arrested here yesterday. He is accused of having killed his father-in-law, Edgar Jacobson, on June 19, 1911. The local authorities at the time pronounced Jacobson's death a case of suicide, but representatives of the Attorney-General's office maintained that he had been murdered.

Volcanic Eruption In Alaska.

Cordova, Alaska, June 10.—Volcanic ash is falling thickly over this city, showing that the heavy detonation heard in the mountains Thursday night was the noise of a volcanic eruption. The time between the noise and the fall of the ashes here was so short that it is believed the volcano is the Redoubt or the Iliamna Mountain in the Cook Inlet country.

HEBREW WIVES AFTER BUTCHERS

Chicago, June 10.—Naked children by the score will, it is planned, appeal in the streets through the congested quarter of the west side of the city this week as a striking protest against te suffering brought to women and children by reason of the high cost of kosher meat. This was decided upon at a meeting of Hebrew mothers in a west side hall Saturday. It is designed to attract the attention of the public, they say, to what they characterize as unnecessarily high prices fixed both by wholesalers and retailers upon the only meat they may eat.

Spreads to New York.

New York, June 10.—"We are determined to win if we have to bring pressure to bear to close every butcher shop in this part of Brooklyn." This declaration was made by one of the women crusaders who are waging war on the kosker meat shops in the eastern district of Brooklyn because of the high prices.

Militant methods continue. Much damage has been done by the "meat boycotters," as the women call themselves.

Friday there were several skirmishes, in which the women, the police and the proprietors of meat shops took part. In several shops the women poured kerosene, carbolic acid and other chemicals on meat and chickens. In a number of instances lively fights followed, principally between women, and clothing was torn and hair pulled. In some cases windows were smashed by vegetables thrown by the angry women and one crusader was arrested and held in $500 bail, charged with having broken a window.

EARL LOREBURN RESIGNS OFFICE

Special to the Review.

London, June 10.—Earl Loreburn, who has been Lord High Chancellor since the Asquith Government came into office, resigned to-day, and Viscount Haldane succeeds him.

Your acquaintances may not help you much, but they can do you a lot of harm if you offend them.

Ever know a man so fair that he wouldn't twist his side of the story a little

Lindsay, June 10.—Crashing into the rear of a Grand Trunk passenger train standing at the Grace Hill station, on the Coboconk line of the G.T.R., early Saturday evening, a double-header freight train completely telescoped two end coaches, bringing instant death to Mrs. Garfield Babcock of Lindsay, and severely injuring several other passengers, one of whom Mrs. C. A. Plank of Lorneville, is not expected to live. The body of Mrs. Babcock was badly mutilated.

Joseph Lyttle, Victoria Road, had his back injured and James Black of Bexley suffered a broken leg.

Mrs. Babcock was sitting alone in the back of the coach, with Mrs. Plank immediately in front. They were hurled under a mass of debris, and were taken out by uninjured passengers and trainmen. It was found that Mrs. Babcock had received injuries which must have caused instant death, her body being terribly crushed. Mrs. Plank, who was taken to her home at Lorneville, is in a critical condition. The other injured ones will recover.

Mrs. Babcock was on her way to Orillia, where her husband was employed as moulder in Tudhope and Anderson's factory. Her husband rented a house and the dead woman was on her way to spend Sunday with him and look over the house previous to moving to Orillia.

Mrs. Plank is the wife of a general merchant at Lorneville, and sister of Mr. C. F. Weeks, manager of the Victoria Loan & Savings Co., Lindsay.

Among the sixteen passengers who narrowly escaped death were Warden Steele of Victoria County and Ben Stacey, clerk of Eldon.

But for the fortunate circumstance that the last car on the passenger train was empty and locked up to be taken to Lorneville to accommodate Niagara troops to-day, the loss of life would have undoubtedly been very great. As it was, the end coach, after being completely telescoped, was thrust forward upon the coach in front, telescoping the latter for half its length.

After the grinding crash of the impact there rose agonized cries for succor, and trainmen worked desperately at the task of extricating the victims. It was feared that the wreckage would be ignited, but luckily this did not occur, otherwise the toll of lives would have been heavy, as the rescuers were few in number.

No official G.T.R. statement has been made, but it appears that the double-header left Lindsay about thirty minutes after the passenger train. The latter was standing at Grass Hill station unloading freight when rammed by the double-header, which was in charge of Conductor Roach of Lindsay, the fire engine being manned by Engineer Carr and Fireman Might. All escaped unhurt.

No one seems to know the cause of the accident, but one story has it that the double-header failed to obey orders, while another story says that there was no lights on the rear of the passenger.

An inquest will be opened to-day.

MAY YOHE, ONCE FAMOUS AS A BEAUTY IS NOW MISSING

Special to the Review.

New York, June 10.—Detectives have been assigned to search for May Yohe, the former wife of Lord Francis Hope, and once wearer of the famous Hope diamond, who has been missing since Thursday. Her hand bag was picked up in Central Park on Saturday, and contained a letter to her maid, bewailing the fact that she could not secure a theatrical engagement, stating she was discouraged and didn't know which way to turn. The former beauty has been doing parts in moving picture shows lately.

HON. W. S. FIELDING TESTIFIES IN FARMERS' BANK CASE

Special to the Review.

Ottawa, June 10—Hon. W. S. Fielding, former Minister of Finance, and chairman of the Dominion treasury Board, when the charter was issued to the Farmers' Bank, was on the witness stand all the forenoon to-day, at the enquiry into the affairs of the bank, being conducted before Sir William Ralph Meredith. He flatly contradicted the statement of W. R. Travers, that the latter had seen him three times with reference to securing a charter, or that on the one occasion on which he had seen Travers by appointment they had discussed, except in a general way, the subscription list presented to the department. He also contradicted the testimony of Sir Edmund Osler, M.P., and David Henderson, M.P., that they had repeatedly warned him that the bank was violating the law in borrowing money to pay stock subscriptions. No definite accusation had been made and it was the mere opinion of these men against the sworn statement of Travers, who, at that time, was a reputable business man.

LIVER LAZINESS

Those Who Lack Energy and are Unsuccessful Should Read This Closely.

"I am only thirty years old, yet for almost two years I have felt more like seventy-five. I have found it difficult to sleep at night and in the morning feel so depressed and heavy that effort was difficult. My hands were always clammy and perspiration on slight effort would break out all over me. It was not unnatural that I should begin to brood over the chance that I should soon be unfit to do my work, and this dread made my sleepless nights perfect misery. After repeated trials of medicine and mixtures Dr. Hamilton's Pills gave me the first gleam of hope. From the very first I could see they were different in action from other pills. They didn't gripe and acted as naturally as if nature and not the pills were cleansing my clogged up system. My spirits rose, I felt much better, the sluggish action of the system gave way to normal activity. Dizziness and headaches ceased, appetite, good color, and ambition to work returned and have remained. I am like a new man and I thank Dr. Hamilton's Pills for it all."

This was the experience of J. E. Parkhurst, a well-known grocery dealer in Jefferson. Follow his advice, use Dr. Hamilton's Pills for your stomach, kidneys, and liver, and you'll enjoy long life and robust good health. All dealers sell Dr. Hamilton's Pills, in yellow boxes, 25c. per box, from The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

ANTI-RECIPROCITY LEAGUE

One result of Sir Wilfrid Laurier's Montreal speech in which he professed his continued belief in Reciprocity and his intention to adhere to that line of policy in the future, has been a revival of the Anti-Reciprocity league of the country. At a meeting held in the Quebec metropolis by members of the league a strong resolution was adopted in which it was set forth that the action of the electors last September has been fully vindicated by the continued prosperity of Canada.

In view of Sir Wilfrid's avowal the members of the league have pledged themselves to work in defence of the fiscal independence of Canada and the maintenance of British connection.

Attending this meeting were men who had formerly been high in the councils of the Liberal party. They left that organization before the last general election on account of the pact, and now, that Sir Wilfrid fails to signify any change of policy, they are resolved to remain constant to their new party affiliations. Sir Wilfrid's much vaunted speech has been fruitful in results. It not only closed the party door in the faces of former adherents who deserted him on the Reciprocity issue, and who may have had in contemplation a return to their old political faith, but it has caused new and numerous deflections from the remnants of Sir Wilfrid's followers.

BONAR LAW'S SPEECH

That the Unionist party in England and the Conservatives of Canada are as one on the question of the future relations between the Mother Country and her Colonies has been made clear by the exhaustive address given in Glasgow by Mr. Bonar Law, Unionist leader.

Mr. Law believes that Imperial Federation is the goal of the Empire, a federation in which every Colony will be represented in proportion to population and in which all shall share the expense and responsibility of ruling the Empire. He referred in complimentary terms to the speech made by Finance Minister White, in Toronto in which such an arrangement was outlined. Mr. Law said it was apparent that Canada was willing to make such terms and he felt himself justified in making the assertion that his countrymen were willing to accept the offer and to accept it now.

Mr. Law asserts that the condition of the English working classes is growing steadily worse and that nothing done for them by the present government has tended to benefit them. His remedy for the impoverished condition of the lower classes is to give British industries a fair measure of protection. England cannot prosper and continue to stand alone in her policy of free trade with the world. Preference between the colonies and the mother land is Mr. Law's idea of increased prosperity for every member of the Imperial family.

The charge that Finance Minister White and other prominent Conservative speakers have been talking simply for effect, falls flat before the attitude of the Canadian born leader of the Unionists. He takes their utterances in a spirit of seriousness, approves of their plans and on behalf of his countrymen says England is willing to accept the offered terms.

AUTOS IN WINNIPEG

Winnipeg auto owners have hard roads to travel besides unpaved streets and rough country highways. A judge in that city has decided that if an automobile is stolen and the thief in his mad career works any damage to life, limb or property, the rightful owner of the machine can be held responsible.

And now comes a Winnipeg magistrate of bellicose proclivities, who advocates the shooting of any motor car driver who runs into a pedestrian, at least, he declares that is what he would do under the circumstances, provided of course that he had the necessary weapon in his pocket.

Surely with these decisions hanging over them the auto drivers in Winnipeg will not only be duly vigilant that their vehicles are not appropriated by others but that they are driven with due circumspection through the streets.

TAFT IN THE SOUTH

The contested delegations from Alabama and Arkansas which were finally won by President Taft will, of course, help him in his fight for the nomination, but in the event of his securing that honor, the states in question cannot give him any assistance in the election.

There are not in Alabama or Arkansas sufficient Republicans to more than fill the federal offices, and this is true of nearly every southern state. Taft's principal support comes from the south, where he cannot hope for any substantial support in November. It does seem peculiar that while the south is so potential in the matter of the presidential nomination, holding as it seems to do the votes that decide the choice of the convention, it cannot cut any figure in the election and is never able to elect so much as a single Republican elector.

NOTE AND COMMENT

That new organisation in the United States is professedly created for religious purposes, but its true aim and object is rather more of a political one.

The Irish Americans have endorsed the Asquith home rule bill. What more is needed to condemn the measure as a step in the direction of the disintegration of the empire?

The Anti-Reciprocity League at Montreal, passed a resolution approving the Borden administration and former Liberals who belong to the organization were among the premier's most enthusiastic supporters.

J. B. Chambers, Liberal candidate in the Eagle Creek constituency in Saskatchewan, has dropped out, because he says there is no use fighting in a lost cause. None of the electors would turn out to his meetings.

Caruso is reported as being in love again, this time his attachment being of a practical turn as the new object of his affections is said to be wealthy. But she will have none of him, saying she can never consent to marry a plumber even if he is the greatest tenor in the world.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

Montreal Grain and Produce.

MONTREAL, June 8.—There was an increased demand from foreign buyers for Manitoba spring wheat, at an advance of 1½d per quarter, but even at this improvement bids were out of line, based on the rates for ocean freight asked from this port. Cynthia's Chauffeur

By LOUIS TRACY

Copyright by McLeod & Allen, Toronto

"Have you discharged him?"

"No—why should I?"

"Because I wish it."

"Why in the world are you so unreasonable dad?"

"Unreasonable! By gad, I like that Have I been gallivanting round the country with some—"

"Stop! You are going too far. This conversation must cease here and now. If you have any respect for yourself, though not for me, you must adjourn the discussion till after you have met Miss Vanrenen and her father."

For the first time in his life, the Earl of Fairholme realized his limitations; he was actually cowed for a few fleeting seconds. But the arrogant training of the county bench, the seignory of a vast estate, the unquestioning deference accorded to his views by thousands of men who tacitly admitted that what he said must be right because he was a lord—these excellent stays of self-conceit came to his help, and he snorted indignantly:

"I absolutely refuse to meet either of them."

"That disposes of the whole difficulty for the hour," said Medenham, turning to leave the room.

"Wait, George. . . . I insist—"

Perhaps a clearer glimpse of a new and, to him, utterly unsuspected force in his son's character withheld the imperious command that trembled on the Earl's lips. Medenham halted. The two looked at each other, and the older man fidgeted with his collar, which seemed to have grown tight for his neck.

"Come, come, let us not leave a friendly argument in this unsettled state," he said after an awkward pause. "My only thought is for your interests, you know. Your lifelong happiness is at stake, to say nothing of the future of our house."

"I recognize those considerations so fully that I am going now in order to shirk even the semblance of a quarrel between us."

"Why not thresh things out? Your aunt will be here in a couple of hours—"

"You refuse to hear a word. You argue with a hammer, sir. I shall send a note to Lady St. Maur telling her that she has done mischief in plenty without adding fuel to the fire by coming here to-day—unless you wish to consult her, that is?"

The Earl, already afraid of his sister, was rapidly learning to fear his son.

"Dash it all! don't tell me you are off on this d—d motoring trip once more?" he cried passionately.

Medenham smiled, even in his anger.

"See how willfully you misunderstand me," he said. "I came away from Miss Vanrenen solely because matters had gone far enough under rather absurb conditions. She knows me only as Fitzroy, the chauffeur; it is time to drop masquerading. Romance is delightful in its way—perhaps there might well be more of it in this commonplace world of ours—but none of us can afford to play the knight errant too long, so when next I meet Cynthia it will be as a man who occupies a social position that renders our marriage at least possible."

Lord Fairholme threw out his hands in a gesture of sheer bewilderment.

"And do you honestly believe that?" he exclaimed.

"I am quite sure of it. I may have to jump a very big fence indeed when she learns the harmless deception I have practiced on her, but I do hope most devoutly that she will look at the facts more calmly than you have done."

The Earl took a turn or tow on the hearth-rug, from which wisdom had temporarily taken flight. He thought now he could see a way to avoid open rupture, and he believed, quite rightly, that his son was in no mood to accept further disillusionment.

"At any rate," he grumbled, "you are cutting a discred—sorry, I didn't quite mean that—you are not rushing away from town again in pursuit of the young lady?"

"No."

"When is she due back in London?"

"On Sunday."

"And you will not see her before that day?"

"I believe not—in fact, I am fairly certain of it. Mrs. Leland joined her at Chester last night, so there should be no curtailment of the tour."

The Earl started.

"Mrs. Leland! Not the Mrs. Leland of Paris and San Remo?"

"Yes. By hazard, as it were, you have let me tell you why I came away—one of the reasons. Mrs. Leland would have recognized me at once."

"Dear me, dear me, this is a beastly muddle! Look here, George, promise me you won't do anything stupid for a day or so. . . . I have been so pestered by people . . I don't know which way to turn. Why not stay and meet your aunt?"

"Because I might lose my temper with her."

"Ah, well, she is somewhat trying when it comes to family matters. Still, I may tell her—"

"That she ought to mind her own business? By all means. And oblige me, too, by telling her that she would confer a boon on humanity if she persuaded Lady Porthcawl to go to—Jericho—or Tokio—or wherever that ass, Porthcawl, may happen to be."

"Millicent Porthcawl was at Bournemouth, you know,"

"Yes, I spoke to her. She had the impudence to introduce Ducrot to Cynthia."

"By gad! Did she, though? I heard something from Scarland about that affair. Well, well—there's no accounting for tastes. I suppose you realize, George, that I am keeping back a good deal of the tittle-tattle which reached me during your absence. I don't want to hurt your feelings—"

"Thank you. The absurdity of the present position lies in the fact that I shall have all my work cut out to hold your wrath against these people within bounds when once you have met Cynthia."

"Oh, I have no doubt she is pretty, and fascinating, and all that sort of thing," growled the Earl, in a grudging access of good humor. "Confound it, that is why we are putty in their hands, George. Don't forget I've had fifty-five years of 'em. Gad! I could tell you things—all right, let us chuck the dispute for the time. Shall I see you at dinner?"

"Yes—if you are alone."

"There will be no women. I'll take devilish good care of that. Scarland is in town for the show, and he is bringing Sir Ashely Stoke, but Betty is nursing a youngster through the measles. Good Lord! I'm glad your aunt didn't get hold of Betty!"

Now, Lord Fairholme's diatribes against the sex were not quite justified. Notorious as a lady-killer in his youth, in middle age he was as garrulous a gossip as Mrs. Devar herself. Indeed, he had an uneasy consciousness that Lady St. Maur might turn and rend him if stress were laid only on her efforts to thwart his son's unexpected leaning towards matrimony. During every yard of the journey from Chester to London he had tried to extract information from Marigny, and the sharp-witted Frenchman had enjoyed himself hugely in displaying a well-feigned reluctance to yield to the Earl's probing. It was just as much a part of his scheme to make the threatened alliance as objectionable on the one side as on the other. By painting Medenham as an unprincipled adventurer he had succeeded in alarming Vanrenen; his sly hints, derogatory of both Cynthia and her father, now fanned the flame of suspicion kindled in Lord Fairholme's breast by his sister's remonstrances. Unfortunately, his lordship had gone straight to Curson Street and told Susan St. Maur every word that Marigny had said, and a good deal that he had not said, but had left to be inferred from a smirk, a malicious glance, an airy gesture.

Perhaps the two elderly guardians of the Fairholme line were not wholly to blame for their interference. The title descended through male heirs only, and Medenham's marriage thereby attained an added importance. Lord Fairholme himself had been singularly fortunate in escaping a mesalliance—several, in fact—and it was the one great trouble in his otherwise smooth and self-contained life that his high born and most admirable countess had died soon after the birth of her second child, the present Marchioness of Scarland. Such a man would naturally be the most jealous scrutineer of the pretensions of his son's chosen wife. Qualities of heart and mind would weigh light in the scale against genealogy. To his thinking, blue blood differed from the common red stream as the claret of some noted vintage differed from the vin ordinaire of the same year. Perhaps he had blundered on a well-founded theory, but he certainly lacked discrimination as to the cru.

Medenham did some shopping, lunched at a club, surprised his tailor by a prolonged visit and close inspection of tweeds and broadcloths, and successfully repressed a strong desire to write a letter. It was some consolation to persue for the twentieth time the four closely-written pages on which Cynthia had set out the tour's timetable for the benefit of Simmonds. He had not returned it, since she possessed a copy, and in his mind's eye he followed the Mercury in its flight up the map from end to end of industrial Lancashire, through smoky Preston to trim Lancaster and quiet Kendal, and finally, after a long day, to the brooding peace and serene beauty of Windermere.

At last, rousing himself from his dreaming—for he was now back in his club again, sipping a cup of tea—he glanced at his watch. Five o'clock—a likely hour to find Mr. Vanrenen in the hotel, if, as was most probable, Devar's telegram to his mother was altogether mistaken in its report of the millionaire's movements.

He meant, of course, to make himself known to Vanrenen, and go through the whole adventure from A to Z. It should provide an interesting story, he thought—lively as a novel in some of its chapters, and calculated to appeal strongly to the bright intelligence of an American. On his way to the Savoy, he tried to picture to himself just what Cynthia's father would look like. It was a futile endeavor, because he had never yet been able to construct a mental portrait of any man wholly unknown to him. One day in Madras he had telephoned to an official for leave to shoot an elephant in a Government reservation, and a deep voice boomed back an answer. Apparently it belonged to a man whose stature warranted his appointment as controller of monsters, but when Medenham called in person for the permit he found that the voice came from a lean and wizened scrap of humanity about five feet high.

He smiled at the recollection of his dumb surprise at this apparition, and was in the best of humors with himself when he arrived at the inquiry office of the Savoy Hotel and asked for Mr. Peter Vanrenen.

SHE DID HER DUTY

MARIA B. SHIRLEY

There's a great deal said against old maids, and some old maids object to the title as a term of contempt. They prefer to be called maiden ladies. I don't. I'm an old maid and proud of it. I don't bother about my age neither. I'm fifty, and if any one goes sacheyen' round to find out how old I am I tell 'em. I say I'm half a century old.

I haven't any use for those persons who are mealy mouthed about speakin' right out when there's anything disagreeable to be said. If my friend needs information I'm a-goin' to give it to her or him, whichever it is. I don't propose to let a friend suffer from wantin' to know somethin' that nobody has the courage to tell 'em. It's risky, I admit. But what's the credit o' doin' somethin' that anybody is willin' to do? I heard Mame Perkins' son-in-law roastin' her awful. I went to her and said: "Mame, I've got somethin' to tell you you'd ought to know." Then I told her. She thanked me very much. Neither her son-in-law nor her daughter has spoken to me from that day to this. But I done my duty.

One day I was ridin' in a railroad train—parlor car. I always use parlor cars. They're not so dirty, and I hate dirt as I hate poison. Just out of the city the train stopped at a suburban town and a fine lookin' elderly gentleman got in with a young girl not more than nineteen. They was evidently just married, for there was a weddin' party on the platform to see 'em off. They threw rice at 'em, and the elderly groom laughed and tried to dodge it, pretendin' he was afraid he'd git hurt and all that, makin' 'em laugh at his antics. When the train rolled out they hollered, "Goodby, pop! Look out that some young feller don't steal your bride away from you!" And he shouted back, "If he does I'll kill him!" We rolled out of the station, the laughin' and the shoutin' growin' fainter and fainter till it was left clear behind.

The old gentleman chatted a little while with his bride, and I saw him take her hand in his affectionately, although I couldn't say whether he took her hand or she took his'n. She looked up in his face lovingly, then snuggled down beside him.

But it wasn't long before the old chap took some papers out of his pocket and began to look 'em over. His poor wife turned and looked out of the winder. I felt dreadful sorry for her, but I thought she deserved what she got for marrying an old man.

In about an hour we reached a city where the train stopped, and a young fellow came into the train with a suit case. He went up to the old man and his bride and took off his hat politely. They were evidently acquainted. The old gentleman was very polite himself and gave the young one his seat, takin' another further forward. It wasn't long before it occurred to me that he'd better have taken a seat back of 'em. He'd scarcely left 'em before such goin's on I never did see before. The young man fust set holdin' the bride's hand, but it wasn't long before he had his arm around her waist. Then, pretendin' she was tired, she lay her head on his shoulder.

What that old fool in front was throwin' temptation in the way of his girl wife for I couldn't see. It made my blood boil to look at 'em. The bride wore one o' these fashionable hats as big as an umbrella, and there wasn't the slightest reason why the young man beside her shouldn't kiss her under it without bein' seen. But every lady knew well enough what he was doin'.

I stood it just as long as I could; then, seein' that nobody was settin' with the husband, I got up and took a seat beside him. I did it when the train stopped at a station so it wouldn't be noticed.

"Fine day, sir," I said to the gentleman.

"Yes, madam, a very fine day," he answered.

"If you like we'll turn the seat over and ride backward."

"What for?"

"Well, it would give you a better view of what's goin' on between that young wife o' yours and the feller you give your seat to."

He turned square round and looked at me steady. "What they doin'?" he asked.

"He's kissin' her under that umbrella hat o' hern."

"You don't mean it."

I was surprised that he took it so cool-like. "I thought I heard you say when you got on the train that if any young feller stole your bride away from you you'd kill him."

"Did I say that?"

"Yes, you did. There's no use denyin' it."

"Have you told me this, madam, to incite me to murder?"

"No; because I thought you ought to know what was goin' on between your young wife and that other feller."

"Thank you very much for the information. I am that young lady's father. She was married to that 'young feller' this morning. His mother, who is very ill, lives in the city where he boarded the train, and after the ceremony he went on for a brief visit with her, I agreeing to escort his wife and he to join us. I get off at this station, madam, and I bid you good day." And, turnin' his back on me, he departed.

Some says I did wrong. I'd do the same thing ag'in.

Pieces of Eight and Doubloons.

The pieces of eight and the doubloon are indissolubly united with the traditions of the Spanish main and the old buccaneers. Pieces of eight were more properly called piasters—from the Greek and Latin, emplastron, "a plaster;" in the Romance languages, "anything spread out or flat, as a plate, a coin." The piece was silver and worth about $1. Being divided into eight silver reals, it was termed a piece of eight.

Doubloons were gold pieces, originally double the value of a pistole, and formerly coined in Spain and Spanish America. The name is derived from the Spanish doblon, "double." Prior to 1848 the doubloon was worth $15.75. The doblon de Isabel, coined in that year, was until 1868 equivalent only to $4.96.

Grocers Who Dressed In Colors.

In the early part of the fifteenth century it is recorded that the "grocers' guild appeared in livery of scarlet and green." A few years later scarlet and black were adopted. Funeral services of deceased members "were attended with much show of pageantry." At the burial of Sir Philip Sidney, who was a member of the grocers' guild, his worship the mayor, aldermen and other civic officials were present, "ryding in purple."—London Telegraph.

Accident Insurance

Following the Titanic Disaster no one will think of travelling without first taking out an Accident Policy.

It is interesting to know that practically all the Canadians who lost their lives through the Titanic wreck carried Accident Insurance. The average amount to be paid by Accident Companies alone, is over $30,000 for each Canadian lost.

The Double Indemnity and Bonus feature of The Dominion of Canada and General Accident Assurance Company policies are worthy of investigation before placing your Insurance.

AUTO AND STREET CAR IN COLLISION

Mr. Andrew Brown's Car Damaged—Driver of Other Auto Did Not Stop

An accident to which the adjective sensational may be truthfully applied occurred about four o'clock Saturday afternoon, when Mr. Andrew Brown in his new auto car, was forced to run directly in front of street car No. 20, to avoid a head on collision with another auto coming toward him on the wrong side of the road.

Mr. Brown was proceeding westward on Charlotte street, at a moderate speed, and when approaching Aylmer street crossing pulled out to the middle of the road to pass a horse and rig in front of him. When pulling in again he encountered another auto coming directly toward him and running side by side with a street car. There were only two things to do in such a trying moment, one was to slacken up as much as possible and collide with the auto or else turn directly across the track in front of the approaching street car in the hope of clearing the track in time to avoid collision. Mr. Brown seized the latter chance, but he was just a second or more too late. The street car caught his auto broadside although at greatly reduced speed, sending it skidding along the track for a few feet before the motorman halted his car. The latter did his very best under the circumstances and was in no way attributable for the accident. Mr. Brown himself escaped unhurt save for the shock, but the auto suffered a badly broken foot-board and ruined tires. He considered it wonderful that the damage to the car was not more extensive.

The most unpleasant feature about the affair, however, was the fact that the auto car driver evidently responsible for the accident didn't stop his car or make an apology but proceeded hurriedly away. This ungentlemanly behavior, was by no means relished by Mr. Brown. However he states that he has a clue to the name of the owner of the car but intends allowing the party an opportunity to come forward and make some explanation if possible, before he takes any action in the matter. The fact of the other man being on the wrong side of the road, is a direct violation of the traffic by-law for which a penalty is due.

57TH REGIMENT HOME FROM CAMP AT BARRIFIELD

Peterboro Rangers Won—Made Fine Showing and Won Praise

The 57th Regiment, Peterborough Rangers, returned from camp at Barriefield last night and all seemed highly pleased with their few days' camp life.

The regiment entrained at the local G.T.R. station at 7.45 o'clock Thursday evening and arrived in Kingston between twelve and one o'clock Friday morning. Their parade strength had been telephoned to the camp previous to their arrival and blankets and rubber sheets had been distributed, so on their arrival at the camp they were able to turn into the tents at once and snatch a few hours sleep before the Reveille at 5.30 o'clock in the morning. Drill was carried out according to the schedule laid down, with the other city regiments, commencing with drill before breakfast from 6 to 7 o'clock and finishing with afternoon parade at 4 o'clock. The Officers, N.C.O's, and men seemed to enter into their work with keen interest and with the intention of carrying it out to the best of their ability.

On Saturday they had field day and tactical manoeuvres. From 9 a. m. till 1 p.m. a field battle between two opposing forces called the red and the blues, was carried on. The 57th Regiment was ordered to take up a defense position near the point that was to be finally held by the blue force. The men were successful in resisting the attack of the red force.

Saturday afternoon was a holiday for the men and some sports were carried on by the Y.M.C.A., while the officers had a conference to discuss the work of the tactical field day.

Inspector General Otter was present at the field day and inspected the tactical manoeuvres, camp lines and equipment.

On Sunday a church parade was held at 10 a.m., and a drum-head service was held which was conducted by the Rev. Major Canon Davidson, assisted by Major Star, of the 14th Regiment.

At 4 o'clock the men entrained, and arrived in the city shortly before 11 o'clock last night. All were sorry that the camp had been so short and glad that the excellent camp arrangements, good rations and fine weather had combined to make the camp a successful one.

Remarks were heard in Kingston from officers of other corps in the division as to the efficiency of the 57th Regiment, which was stronger than those of Kingston, Brockville or Ottawa.

One o fthe saddest things we ever saw was a fat man trying to look cute.

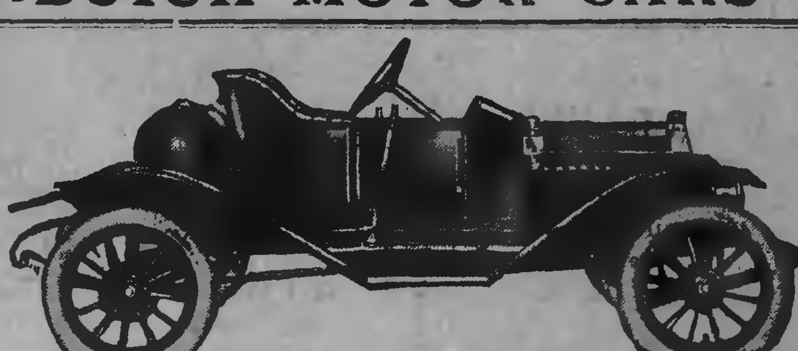
McLAUGHLIN-BUICK MOTOR CARS

Automobile purchasers may be divided into three classes:



Those to whom low price is a greater consideration than service ability.

Those to whom price is no obstacle in gratifying a taste for the exclusive and the luxurious.

Then there is the great middle class—those who are prepared to make only a moderate expenditure but at the same time demand a car with power, style, stamina, and beauty.

It is the latter who will purchase the two thousand odd cars the McLaughlin Carriage Co. is building this year.

The style and beauty can be judged from the many McLaughlin cars to be seen on the streets and in the McLaughlin showrooms.

The power plant and the stamina of the McLaughlin car as a whole is guaranteed by the stability and integrity of the house of McLaughlin. To appreciate what this means it must be known that the McLaughlin Carriage Co. embodies in every car forty-three years of experience.

The service of a McLaughlin car is assured by the immense factory at Oshawa and the branch houses and agencies in all the leading cities and towns in Canada.

If moderate price, power and beauty are considerations, your choice is logically the McLaughlin-Buick.

TWELVE YEAR OLD LAD DROWNED AT THE LIFT LOCK; WAS PLAYING ON THE MANITA

A shocking accident occurred Sunday afternoon about 3.30, when the twelve year old son of Mr. John Hartley, 577 Concession street, was accidentally drowned off the steamer "Manita," which is anchored just above the Lift Lock. Young Hartley, with another small boy about his own age, was playing on the boat and, according to reports, the victim of the affair climbed over the deck rail, and while descending the ladder, tripped in some manner and fell into the water, which is not very deep at that point. He sank immediately. His companion ran for help, and in the meantime, another boy, Parker, by name, found the body with the aid of a pike pole. There were several men in the vicinity, but they did not know of the accident till it was too late.

Medical aid was hurriedly summoned. Drs. Frederick and Greer responding. Life, however, was almost extinct, although Dr. Frederick worked with the victim up to the last in the effort to restore life. It is thought that the young lad during his fall struck his head on one of the davits of the boat, which caused him to sink without rising. Dr. Greer deemed an inquest unnecessary, death being purely accidental.

The sorrowing parents will receive much sympathy in their sudden bereavement.

Hartley was a pupil at the East City school.

The funeral will take place Tuesday afternoon at three o'clock to the Little Lake cemetery.

ANOTHER PROPOSITION TO BOARD OF EDUCATION

(THE SCHOOL SITUATION)

The meeting of the Board of Education to have been held on Saturday evening did not materialise owing to insufficient members being present to form a quorum. Had the meeting taken place the Board were to have heard a report from the building committee in reference to a site for the proposed new West Ward school.

The only properties that apear available are situated in North Monaghan. As has been stated before Mr. George Hatton is offering six acres for $10,000, or five acre for $9000 south of Weller street after it passes the boundary. The first offer of a site for this school, was made by the Toronto Savings and Loan Company of four acres, known as the Cox property, for the sum of $9,500. It is understood however that they have another proposition to submit and it was this, which was to have been given at Saturday night's session.

It is expected that the schools will be opened in September of next year.

REPORT SAYS NEWHALL DIED IN PENITENTIARY

A Review representative called at the residence of Mr. J. C. Graham, Robinson street, East City, to day, seeking confimation of a report that Samuel Newall, who was sentenced to seven years in Kingston Penetentiary had passed away in prison. Mrs. Graham is a relative of the man upon whom sentence was passed this Spring and who at that time was in very poor health.

Mrs Grahm stated that she had received no intimation to the effect of his death, although her last letter from him contained the news that he was in very precarious health, and that he didn't think he would recover. Mr. Newall is only allowed, so she said, to write a letter once a month. He has a sister in Norwood with whom he also corresponds.

Mr. G. N. Gordon, the prisoner's counsel at the trial has received no statement of his death.

It is quite probable that the rumor has no foundation.

JESSE JOYCE SHOT AT CAMP

Niagara, June 10 — Sergt. Jessie Joyce, of the Canadian Regiment, was wounded in the face while acting as marker at target practice, a bullet aimed at a moving figure target being deflected into the pit in which the markers seek shelter. His wound is painful but not dangerous. How the accident happened is a mystery and Commandant Cotton has ordered an investigation.

The accident almost caused a panic among the other markers, of whom there were about 15. Two of them fainted and most of the others lost their heads completely, attempting to run out o fthe pit. Sergt. Noble, of the R.C.R. who was at the telephone shouted to them to keep still until the firing ceased and one of the cooler heads raised the red flag, thus preventing further accidents. Joyce walked out of the butts himself when firing ceased and refused an anaesthetic while having his wound dressed.

LOCAL RAILWAY MAN IN WRECK NEAR LINDSAY

The wreck in which several people were injured on the G.T.R. line near Lindsay Saturday night, is of particular interest to local people.

Mrs. Babcock, of Orillia, the lady who was killed in the collision was a daughter-in-law of Mr. Cole Babcock formerly of this city. Mr. Babcock was foreman of the G. T. R. shops in Peterborough and some little time ago he moved to Lindsay, occupying the same position there.

It is understood that he was in no way to blame for the accident.

PHILIPPINE SAVAGES.

The Uncouth Tingians Are Fond of Ornaments and Gay Colors.

There are many strange, uncivilized people among the Asiatic Americans of the Philippine Islands.

The Tingians are a very uncouth tribe of savages. Their head women have their arms almost completely covered with strings of beads, wound so as to form beautiful and striking designs. A long, heavy string of beads is also twisted around the hair and hangs down the back like a braid. The skirt of these head women is white, with a blue border, and the waist is of light yellow. They smoke pipes of solid silver, ornamented with bangles, in the bowls of which pieces of cigar are inserted.

The typical young Tingian chieftain wears a stiff collar of beads and a gayly colored calico shirt, over which is a sort of scarf trimmed with many silver coins. The members of this tribe are very fond of silver. They make a large number of finger rings from silver coins, and each man usually has from five to ten of these rings about his person, but not necessarily on his fingers.

The Tingians are fond of a peculiar dance. The music is produced by beating with the palms of the hands on "gansas" or tomtoms. The dancers, a man and a woman, with arms outstretched, circle about each other in a spiral, the man pursuing the woman with a quick, jerky step. As they approach the center of the spiral he suddenly swoops upon her, when she always eludes him by suddenly darting out of his reach.—Forrest Clark in Leslie's.

SLEEP AND REST.

Every Organ of the Human Body Has Its Periods of Repose.

All the organs of life rest in some way or other. The heart has an interval of rest between each combined act of contraction and expansion and the beginning of a fresh act. Between each expiration of the lungs and the succeeding inspiration there is a period of repose. Physiologists have calculated that the heart reposes during about one-fourth of the time. Certain of the other organs suspend their activity in part during sleep.

Old physiologists supposed that sleep was caused by the pressure of the blood on the brain. But modern physiology, with a tendency to regard the brain as the origin of all force and of all functions of the body, inclines to the view that sleep is caused by a withdrawal of blood from the brain.

As a rule the larger the brain the more sleep it requires. Webster went to bed at 9 o'clock and rose at 5. General Grant used to say during his campaigns, "I can do nothing without nine hours' sleep."

A curious trait has marked men of large brain—that of sleeping at will. Bonaparte used to throw himself on the ground and go to sleep within a space of two minutes. Pitt was a sound sleeper and slept night after night in the house of commons while his colleagues watched the debate and roused him when it was necessary that he should speak.—New York Herald.

Good Business.

A famous pistol shot told a shooting story at a supper in San Francisco.

"There was a party of amateurs here in Frisco," he said, "who thought they would do some live pigeon shooting, so they ordered thirty birds from a suburban dealer.

"The shoot came off duly. It was a wonder. To give you a correct idea of it I must quote from a letter sent by the dealer to the amateurs the next day. The letter ran:

"'Gentlemen—I thank you for your order and beg to state that I will be only too happy to supply you with birds for all future shoots. The entire thirty pigeons, for which you paid me 15 cents a head, returned home safely and, moreover, brought two strays with them. My price to you hereafter will be 1 cent per pigeon.'"—Los Angeles Times.

Where They Resemble.

"A man, like a watch, is known by his works," observed the epigram maker.

"And by the hours he keeps," added the wife.

"And by the spring in him," said the athlete.

"And by his being sometimes fast," remarked the reformer.

"And by his not always going when we want him to," finished the girl who'd been robbed of her beauty sleep.—Boston Transcript.

Reading Character.

Careful Parent—Before I can give consent to your proposed marriage to my daughter I must know something about your character. Suitor—Certainly, sir, certainly! Here is my bank book. Careful Parent (after a glance)—Take her, my son, and be happy.—London Tit-Bits.

No Change.

Little Willie had been present at a christening of a baby cousin and had taken great interest in the ceremony. A few days later he had to be vaccinated, and when the operation was over he inquired of the doctor, "What's my name now?"

There Is a Difference.

What is the difference between a cradle and a Scotsman's baby? The one is a child's cot and the other is a Scot's child.—London Tit-Bits.

Let us believe we can and hope for the rest.—De Finod.

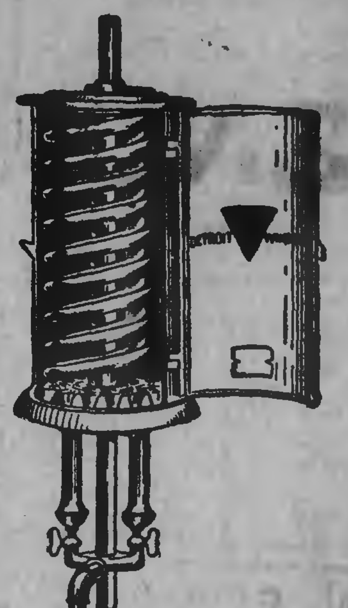
You Don't Have to Start a Fire in the Coal Range When Someone Wants a Bath

IT'S no longer necessary to hustle around gathering up paper, carrying up wood and lugging up coal every time somebody wants to take a bath. You no longer need to heat up your kitchen, in fact the entire house every time an extra quantity of hot water is desired.



THERE'S AN EASIER WAY

USE AN

Water Heater

This heater occupies but very little space. It is connected to your kitchen boiler and is operated as easily as your gas range. The IDEAL Heater heats water very quickly—enough for a bath in 20 minutes.

BOTH LINDSAY TEAMS DEFEATED BY LOCAL P.C.I.

Central Park Juniors Won by 9-2, and Seniors Were Victorious by 11-0 Score

Two baseball teams from the Lindsay Collegiate Institute invaded the city on Saturday and met two P.C.I. aggregations at the Oval on Saturday afternoon. Quite a crowd of interested rooters watched both games.

JUNIOR GAME.

The first match pulled off was between the junior nines. The Lindsay battery was McIlroy and Coombs, while the P.C.I. boys supported O'Connol and Arthur Huycke.

McIlroy did not star particularly in the box but his support was throughout the whole game wobbly and insufficient. The local kids came out of the game with a 9—2 score on the Seugogville boys.

SENIOR GAME.

Meredith Huycke did the pitching for the Senior Kennerites, and Hill the receiving. In a seven innings game Huycke struck out twelve men and refused to pass one. Twice with a man on third and two out he saved a run by fanning the batter, and in two out of the seven innings he fanned the three batters in succession. His delivery resulted in a 11—0 score in favor of the P.C.I. nine. His pitching was the feature of the game but he received steady support from his team. Only one error was made on a batted ball by the locals, it being in the seventh when Smith, on third base spoiled a hot grounder to Dixon. Except for that one slip the P.C.I. fielding was remarkably good. Long, Dixon and Smith played fast ball in the field, and Long batted well.

Williamson and Keenan made up the battery for the Lindsay boys. Williamson's delivery was hit freely by the local boys and he received but shaky support behind the bat. A number of errors in the infield accounted for some of the runs against him. But he passed six men and only struck out one. Mann, on third base was the only shining light of the Lindsay team, making a number of difficult stops, coming out of the game with no errors and pulling off a sensational bit of base running. Keenan's ankle was very sore from a recent sprain and his throwing to the bases was erratic. The outfielders were usually on the job taking into custody a number of difficult flies.

THE GAME.

Lindsay was first to bat. The first man, Campbell, proved an easy victim for Huycke, and Spence and Dugan following him, were thrown out on infield grounders.

Long, Smith and Adams each connected, but all were thrown out at first.

In the second innings Weldon took a neat single from Huycke, but Shield struck out and Keenan and Hopkins failed to reach first, leaving the visitors scoreless. For the locals Huycke smashed out a hit over short stop which resulted in a run, Huycke scoring on a hit by Long.

The next innings the L.C.I. players failed to score but Moran for the P.C.I. team was given first by "Tubby" Williamson, who nailed him with the ball, and after a nice exhibition of base running he crossed the plate.

There was nothing doing in the fourth or the first of the fifth, but in the last of the 5th "Tubby" was walloped for five hits and gave four bases on balls, allowing nine runners to cross the pan. This made the figures 11—0, and they remained that way till the end of the game.

All through the game the P.C.I. boys worked well together and Huycke pulled himself out of the pinches without his fielders' aid. Hill caught well, and Dixon handled a number of hot grounders and difficult throws to first without a miss.

Umpires J. J. Thompson and Mr. Neal, of the Central School, handled the game satisfactorily.

In the last innings Dixon nailed out a neat two-bagger and made second base, but on the impression that it was a foul he walked back to take up the bat. Umpire Neal announced that it was a fair ball and the Lindsay boys touched Dixon out.

BREEZES FROM THE DIAMOND

London Free Press— Shareholders of the London Club assured the Free Press yesterday that they were making an effort for the purchase of the Montreal franchise. The London managers do not fancy the way they have been treated this season by the executive of the Canadian league, hence the negotiations for the purchase of the International League franchise.

The shareholders will form a stock company, and every possible effort will be made to secure the berth in the International League. They still intend to hold the London franchise but will move it to another city for the purpose of farming out players. London fans are warming up to the idea of bringing a big league club to this city, and more than one of London's well-to-do men have promised to give their support.

Manager Dowerman in speaking of the matter yesterday said: The London fans are second to none, and I believe that they would support a club in the International League.

Owen Litchenstein is expected here shortly, when a meeting will be held.

LAWN BOWLING

The following skips of the Peterborough Bowling Club are asked to meet at the green Tuesday night at eight o'clock for important business:

CANADA'S MACE.

Gorgeous Golden Bauble Is the Insignia of Authority.

A bauble, Cromwell called the mace. To-day we think of a bauble as something smaller — something we can hang on your watch chain, or carry to a pawn shop in your pocket. Well, you cannot do that with our mace; not even Col. Smith can do it, and he is a strong man and knows more about the mace than any other person in the land.

Our mace is about as long as a stick of cord wood cut for city consumption. It is a little taller than a barrel of flour, but not quite so tall as a schoolboy who wears long trousers. Its weight is considerable. You might lift it with one hand but you would not try to swing it to your shoulder without the aid of two. In fact, to handle the mace is no child's play.

All other things being equal—pay included—a man could spend a more comfortable day swinging an axe in the forest than in looking after the mace on one of those fussy days, when the House of Commons cannot make up its mind whether it wishes to sit as a House with the Speaker in the chair, or as a Committee of the Whole with the Deputy presiding. Back and forth it goes from one to the other, and Col. Smith is kept busy with a sort of Indian club exercise removing the mace from the table and hanging it on the hooks down at the end and then taking it from the hooks and restoring it to the table. On such a day as that Col. Smith is the busiest man in Ottawa, and when all is over, sometimes about midnight, he has nothing to show for his labor except a wilted collar and a few sparkling bits of gold-dust ground into the palms of his white gloves from handling the great golden bauble.

Golden it is from top to bottom, but how far through no man knows except the Sergeant-at-Arms. Gold through and through he evidently believes it to be, judging from the care he takes of it. It certainly looks like solid gold, and it lifts like it, although one has to admit that one's experience in lifting huge chunks of pure gold is rather limited.

Like almost everything else that shares this world with man, "that pendulum betwixt a smile and a tear," the mace has known troubles, has confronted danger, and has suffered loss. Some seventy years ago all that there was of Canada were the two old Provinces—Upper and Lower Canada—whose Legislature consisted of a House of Assembly and a Legislative Council. The mace in use in our House of Commons is the one that was used in that old House of Assembly of United Canada.

For a number of years Toronto and Quebec were alternately the seat of Government. The mace became a wanderer, but finally a permanent resting place was found, when, in 1865, the present Houses of Parliament were completed in Ottawa. Then the mace, when the House was not sitting, was snugly tucked away in a stout little cabinet prepared for it in the Speaker's apartments, or tenderly deposited on a green velvet cushion at the lower end of the Clerk's table when the Speaker is in the chair, or deposited on two velvet-covered hooks that project from the legs of the table at about a foot below the level of the top.

There has been a mace for more than half a century. Around it has grown up the city of Ottawa, changed by the presence of the golden "bauble" from little, sawmill settlement of Bytown into the national capital of our great Dominion.

Around the mace has been built up all our federal statutory law, which bound in buff half-calf, looks so pretty on a library shelf, and around it has been debated every policy that during all these years has tended to make or mar the fortunes of our country. The mace has seen and heard more politics than any living member of Parliament.

What does it think of it all? No man knows, except possibly Col. Henry Smith, Sergeant-at-Arms, the mace's special guardian and most intimate friend—and discreet man that he is, he will not tell.

A Big One In Prospect.

Mrs. Cannibal—Don't eat that little missionary.

Cannibal—Why not?

Mrs. Cannibal—It will take away your appetite for dinner.—Judge.

SCOTTISH DIVINE SPOKE AT ST. PAUL'S

Excellent Sermon on the Woman of Samaria, by Rev. Mr. Lindsay

The pure Scottish element in St. Paul's congregation last evening must have experienced a little tinge of pleasure, at hearing once again the dialect of their native country, spoken by one who comes almost directly from the land of the heather. The preacher was Rev. Mr. Lindsay, of Glasgow, Scotland, a distinguished and scholarly divine in every sense, and a man who has commanded the respect and reverence of all with whom he has been in contact. His preaching is characterized by a simple, yet convincing style, and is delivered with a directness which reaches the hearts of a congregation with little difficulty.

Out of the portion of scripture in John 4-7, which reads, "And there came a woman of Samaria to draw water; Jesus saith unto her, give me drink," he gave a most helpful exposition of the wonderful transforming forces produced when a person embraces the gospel of Jesus Christ. To illustrate this truth he painted a vivid word picture of the woman of Samaria who came tripping carelessly and jauntily to the Samarian well for water. He told of her meeting the Master without her knowing to whom she was speaking, and of the light bantering tone in which she chided Him for requesting a favor of her, a woman of Samaria, and He a Jew.

"Try to get before your minds," said the Master, what Christ did to that woman, towards altering her future life, in such an incredibly brief time. He interested her in Himself, in her own self and in God.

"The church of to-day has to interest people," he continued, it must find its way to their hearts. It is imperative that we gather in the people to the house of God, and get them interested in God.

Rev. Mr. Lindsay referred to the great material interest of many of the people of Scotland, namely the great problem of earning their daily bread. People there are toiling early and late for the staff of life. It was this dire state of affairs that drove many of the people, our ancestors, to this country, searching for pleasanter paths. "But the human soul cannot be satisfied on bread alone. We are too big and too intelligently constituted for that. The great and merciful gospel must occupy the supreme place in every life, before the very best that life offers can be experienced.

Rev. Mr. Lindsay concluded his sermon with an urgent appeal to his listeners to not delay, but to accept the gift of salvation so freely proffered, and to embrace it without delay.

During the offertory Miss Mary G. Chalmers, soprano soloist, rendered a solo with splendid effect.

PRESENTATION MADE BY CHOIR OF ST. JOHN'S

At the conclusion of evensong last night at St. John's church, while the choir were assembled in the vestry a pleasing event took place, when on behalf of the choir, Mr. H. W. Devey, on behalf of the choir, presented Mrs. Halpany with a beautiful 24x20 picture of St. John's church, and in responding Mrs. Halpany thanked the choir for the pleasing souvenir, and assured all fellow choristers that the picture would always remind them of St. John's. The best wishes of all connected with St. John's accompany Mr. and Mrs. Halpany to their new home.

PRETTY JUNE WEDDINGS

MITTON—REYCRAFT.

The following item which appears in the Ridgetown Plaindealer, will be of interest to many of the friends of the bride in the city, as she has been the guest of her sister, Mrs. Frank C. Neal, on many occasions:

Quite the society event of the season was the marriage yesterday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Reycraft, Victoria avenue, of their youngest daughter Maud and Mr. E. H. Mitton, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Mitton, Main street east.

The bride, who was given away by her father, looked charming dressed in white satin en train with lace bodice and tunic, and veil arranged in Juliet cap with orange blossoms and lilies of the valley, she carried a bouquet of white roses with showers of lilies of the valley tied with embroidered tulle.

Miss Beulah Mitton, sister of the groom, made a very pretty bridesmaid. She wore a French dress of pink satin with overdress of silk marquesette, her hair ornament being spun glass with tiny pink rosebuds. Her bouquet was pink rosebuds, tied with pink chiffon.

The groom was assisted by Mr. Albert Gordon.

Rev. A. J. Langford performed the wedding ceremony, assisted by Rev. J. Frank Reycraft, brother of the bride.

The ring service was oral.

Miss Lou McMackon played the wedding march.

The wedding supper was served in the drawing rooms from small tables the bride's table which was in the reception room being decorated with white tulle and snow balls (gilder rose.) The following young ladies assisted at the tables: Miss Bertha Cochrane, Miss Lily Cochrane, Mrs. (Dr.) Neal sister of the bride, Miss Scott, Miss Lou McMackon, Miss Gosnell, Miss Edith Clark, Miss Ina Buller, and Miss Fenton.

The presents were numerous and handsome, among which was a tiny box containing $50 in gold.

FOLEY—CONWAY

A quiet but pretty wedding was solemnized in St. Martin's church, Ennismore, on Tuesday June 4th, when Miss Margaret Conway, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Conway, of that parish became the bride of Mr. Matthew Foley, of Victoria Road. Rev. Father Fitzpatrick officiated at the nuptial ceremony. The bride looked charming in a dainty cream tailored suit and wore a handsome hat trimmed with foliage and willow plumes. Miss Helena Moloney, who assisted the bride was dressed in pale blue voile with hat to match. Mr. Leo Conway, brother of the bride acted as best man. The groom's gift to the bride was a pretty amythyst necklace and to the bridesmaid a gold bracelet.

After the wedding ceremony the bridal party motored to the home of the bride's parents, where, in company with their most intimate friends they partook of a sumptuous wedding breakfast.

The bride was the recipient of many beautiful and costly presents showing the high esteem in which she was held by her many friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Foley will reside at Victoria Road and begin their married life with the best wishes of their friends for a long, happy and prosperous life.

KAUFMAN—REESOR.

A wedding of particular interest to Peterborough people was that of Miss Carrie Reesor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Reesor, of Markham, and Mr. Stanley Kaufman, of Toronto. The ceremony took place in the Methodist church, and was conducted by Rev. J. E. Wilson, secretary of the Toronto Conference. Miss May Kaufman, of Toronto, sister of the groom, was bridesmaid; Miss Jean Macdonald, of Toronto, maid of honor, and Mr. Emmerson Reesor, of Toronto, brother of the bride, was best man. The ushers were Mr. Walter Reesor, Mr. Earl Fairy, and Mr. Elmer Staebler, all of Toronto. The bride was in white satin with a veil of silk chiffon and embroidered pearls and wore the groom's gift, a necklace of pearls. The bridesmaid was in blue and the maid of honor wore pink satin. Miss Marion Wallwin, of Toronto, presided at the organ, and Miss Agnes Irene Gray, of Myrtle, sang the bridal solo. After a reception at the home of the bride's parents, "The Pines," Dr. and Mrs. Kaufman motored to Toronto, where they took the boat down the St. Lawrence. In a few weeks they will leave for their home in Strathcona, Alta. The groom's gift to the bridesmaid was a mesh purse, to the maid of honor, organist and soloist, bar pins, and to the best men, cuff links.

The bride's numerous Peterborough friends will join in heartiest congratulations.

SMITH—BELCHER

On Thursday, June 6, in Maple Street Methodist Church, Collingwood, the marriage of Miss Alison Elizabeth Belcher, daughter of Mrs. Josephine Gratton Belcher, to Mr. Alfred Allan Smith of Peterboro, was solemnized by the Rev. W. R. Hager, the church being decorated with a profusion of palms, ferns and white flowers. The bride was given away by Lieut.-Colonel A. E. Belcher and wore a gown of white Duchess satin with shadow lace, tulle veil with orange blossoms, pearl ornaments. The bridesmaid was Miss Edith Smith in pale yellow satin veiled in ninon, carrying yellow roses. The flower girl, Miss Helen Robinson wore a picture hat and carried yellow roses. The best man was Mr. J. McHardy, Sault Ste Marie. After a reception held by Mrs. Belcher, who wore black satin, assisted by Mrs. Smith, also in black satin and Chantilly lace, Mr. and Mrs. Smith left for New York, the going-away dress being of shaded brown with pretty hat to match. Some of those from a distance were Dr. and Mrs. Robertson, Hamilton; Miss Astor, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Belcher, Toronto.

The groom is District Plant Chief for the local branch of the Bell Telephone Company. His many friends will extend congratulations. Mr. and Mrs. Smith will reside at 529 Homewood Avenue.

YOUTHFUL YOKES HAVE BENEFICIAL EFFECTS ON LIFE

Says Rev. Dr. Trotter, of Toronto, at Murray St. Church

Last evening the spacious new Murray street church was comfortably filled by members of the congregation and a number of those from other churches to hear the Rev. Dr. Trotter, of Toronto. Mr. Trotter, who occupies the pulpit in the Walmer street church Toronto, was introduced to the congregation by the Rev. Mr Webb, who thanked him gratefully for leaving his work in Toronto at a time when it is particularly demanding, to take both services at the local church.

Dr. Trotter took for his text the 27th verse of the 3rd chapter of Lamentations, which reads: "It is good for a man that he bear the yoke in his youth."

In an eloquent sermon, in which the speaker addressed himself more particularly to the younger members of the audience, he took the life of the great poet laureate Alfred Tennyson as an example of the yokes that it is best for the young men and boys to bear.

The splendor of Tennyson's genius, the greatness of the man and his life were the result of the conditions which surrounded him in his youth—conditions of stern, severe, tyranic, discipline.

We learn from a study of his life that it is good for a man to bear the yoke of a great ideal in his youth. Tennyson's great ideal was to become a poet, ordained of God to interpret to his readers the beauty of the world, life and nature.

Then the yoke of strenuous toil would greatly assist in later years. The life of the great poet laureate was one of unceasing toil from the beginning, his works being the result of incalcuable work. The habit of severe, unremitting labor which proved so necessary to him after he became an acknowledged poet was gained while he was yet a boy.

"It is good for a man that in his youth he should bear the yoke of straitened circumstances." Tennyson's father had only the small income of an English vicar and Tennyson was the third of eleven children. If a man enters this world in easy circumstances it may be one of the greatest handicaps that he carries in life.

"It is good for a man to bear in his youth the yoke of sorrow." Dr. Trotter showed that the brood-melancholy of the great poet's father had given him much pain and sorrow. The death of his dearly beloved father, and his friend Arthur Hallam were also the cause of much sorrow to Tennyson. All Tennyson's works give evidence and contain passages that tell us of the many lessons he had learned in the school of sorrow.

"Above all it is good for a man in his youth to bear the yoke of Christ." The crowning lesson of Tennyson's life was that to bear while young the yoke of Christ was a great advantage to the boys in after life. "In Memoriam" the speaker said, from beginning to the end was meant to strike the keynote of faith. In the last decade of his life he evinced his faith by that poem "Crossing the Bar."

HAMILTON TOOK GAME, BUT MANAGER TEMPLIN HAS ENTERED PROTEST

The White Caps had another spill Saturday at Hamilton. The score was 7—6, the statistics to date showthat Templin's Errors, as they are dubbed around the circuit, have won three and lost sixteen.

The trouble was that while Johnnie Derr pitched good ball his team failed to support him. Derr was trounced on Friday, but took the box again at his own request, and he should have won.

Hartman was back at third, but put up very poor ball. He juggled the first batted ball and then threw wild to Barthold. He booted the next, the batter easily running out the clout.

Nasher replaced him and gave a pretty fielding exhibition, the Hams hitting repeatedly along third base territory.

Barthold had a busy day, looking after heaves that came every old way, and it was due to his good work that the Lee men didn't score a few more.

The game has been protested on the grounds that a home run made by Corns, should only have gone as a three sack hit. The ball went over only a short extension of the main fence and Swartz fielded it in time to hold the runner at third. There was considerable wrangling but the umps. gave Hamilton the decision.

Connie Murphy had three hits and two runs.

The Petes scored six runs in the third.

LONDON COMES HERE FOR WEDNESDAY AND THURSDAY GAMES

Manager Templin was wired this afternoon to bring the White Caps home for the London series on Wednesday and Thursday. The games will be played at Riverside Park. The London Club has as manager, Frank Bowerman, who was formerly with the New York Giants and caught for Christy Matthewson. Bowerman takes his turn behind the bat.

Peterborough will return with London for two games.

SPORTS AT Y. M. C. A.

The Y.M.C.A. War Canoe will leave the foot of King street to-night, (Monday) at 7.15. A good turn out of members is requested.

Next Saturday there will be an old fashioned Hyke up the canal for the boys. Those who were fortunate enough to have been on one of these hykes know just how good a time everybody has. Baseball will be played, scouting through the bush and surrounding country. Swimming with the old punt, Duck on the rock, Potato roast and a lot of other things that the boys enjoy. Watch the papers for further notice.

HARTMAN IS RELEAED

Mooney Secures Word of the Death of His Father.

Earle Hartman, third baseman and right fielder of the White Caps, has been released. The blue envelope came following his continued poor work at Hamilton on Saturday.

Catcher Mooney received a telegram to-day notifying him of his father's death. Mooney will be absent from the team for a week.

His Matrimonial Spurs

How After a Defeat by a Man He Won Them From a Woman

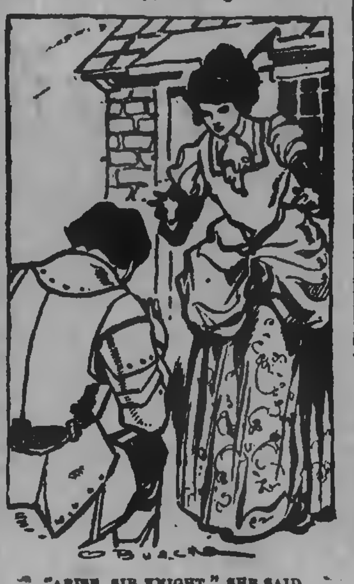
By F. A. MITCHEL

The shores of Lake Leman, commonly called elsewhere Lake Geneva, are thick with historical incidents. The city of Geneva was the home of Calvin, Rousseau, Voltaire, Mme. de Stael and other celebrities. At Chillon is the castle where Bonivard was so long a prisoner, as related in Byron's poem. At Vevey, on a hillside some distance back and above the town and partly hidden by the trees surrounding it, is the old castle of Blonay. There is a story—a true story—with which this castle is connected dating away back to the twelfth century. Those were the days of feudalism, and the Blonays, who built and owned the castle, were feudal followers of the counts of Savoy. They seem to have been in favor with their sovereigns, for they filled various offices of trust under them. The Blonays came across the lake from Challais and built the castle in 1175.

One day a number of knights of Turin, the capital of Savoy, were wrangling over the question whether marriage made a man more efficient as a soldier or less so. The married knights claimed that a wedded soldier would not only be sensitive to his reputation for bravery on his own account, but also on account of his wife and children. The unmarried knights declared that they were more efficient because they had only themselves to live for, whereas having a lovely wife and little ones the dread of separation from them by death would sap their courage.

The dispute between the knights of Turin waxed hot, and, since the question could be settled only by being put to the test, challenges began to fly between the benedicts and the bachelors, and it looked as if many families would be made fatherless and many young men well fitted to become progenitors would bite the dust.

Perhaps it was that the reigning Count of Savoy, fearing to lose so many of his best officers to no purpose, interfered. Perhaps some women who feared to be made widows or young girls who dreaded to lose their lovers objected. At any rate, the married and single knights met in conclave and decided to settle the matter by championship. A few on each side were appointed to arrange the terms and select the champion. Those agreed upon were these: A married man was to meet a single man in contest. If the married knight were defeated he should go to Mademoiselle of Savoy and all other marriageable women of her house, as well as another lady to be named by the victor, and on his bended knees cry mercy. The bachelor knight, if defeated, should humiliate himself to all the married ladies of the ducal house and especially the wife of his conqueror.



"ARISE, SIR KNIGHT," SHE SAID.

A gay scene marked the trial of this important question. Today contests between married and single men are unprofessional and usually burlesque. Not so this tournament. All knights were fighters, and he who was considered the best married knight was pitted against the best single knight. Simon de Blonay was to represent the married side, while Corsant de Bresse defended the cause of the bachelors.

There were ladies present headed by Mademoiselle de Savoy, the ancestress of one of the most beloved women of royal blood of the present day, the dowager Queen Margaret of Italy and others of the ducal house and the nobility. But whether they were unanimous or divided in their sympathies between the two sides has not been handed down through the centuries. Naturally the good wishes of the maidens would be with the bachelor, but as all women are in favor of marriage, or were at that time, they should all have prayed for the success of the married knight, for would not his victory prove that a married man is a better one than a single man and the result be conducive to matrimony?

Be this as it may, when all were seated in the inclosure where the fight was to take place, amid a waving of fans and bonnets and a flourish of trumpets, the two champions, armored and armed, rode out to the field. De Blonay heavier, filled out in waist and chest, and De Bresse tall and slender, no superfluous fat mingled with his hard muscles. At the signal the two, poising their lances, made a dash at each other.

At this first onset neither was unhorsed, neither wounded. Again and again their lances came together, and at last in one of these encounters De Bresse's lance was shivered, and he was left defenseless. The married knight had won.

Corsant de Bresse rode up before the queen, dismounted, knelt and with hanging head cried for mercy. He repeated the ceremony to the other ladies to whom the terms of the tourney compelled him to subject himself and then rode away to Vevay to bend the knee to the wife of his conqueror.

Now, in those days there were no telephones or telegraphs in that land. Indeed, there were no regular mails. One afternoon Mme. de Blonay, who was ignorant of the tournament, was sitting on her castle terrace with her baby on her lap, looking out on the placid waters of Lake Leman. A mailed horseman ascended the hill and, dismounting below where the lady sat, came up on to the terrace and, bending the knee, said:

"Mme. de Blonay, I cry you mercy."

"You cry me mercy!" exclaimed the astonished woman. "You, an armed knight, cry mercy of me, not only without weapons, but incumbered with my baby."

"Yes, madam. I am Corsant de Bresse. I have met your husband in battle, he the champion of the married knights of Turin, I representing the single knights. I have been conquered by him, and by the terms of the tournament I have come to cry mercy from his wife."

As soon as Mme. de Blonay understood the situation, recognizing the fact that her husband had won a victory for marriage, she conceived the idea of winning a second victory, not with lance or battleax, but with woman's own weapons.

"Arise, Sir Knight," she said. "I grant you mercy on one condition."

"Name it, good lady."

"That you be my guest at a feast which I shall give in your honor with the nobles living around about."

"Thanks, madame, that you accompany your mercy with a boon instead of a penance. I will be your guest most willingly."

Immediately Mme. de Blonay dispatched messengers to those to be invited to the feast, including her young and beautiful cousin, Yolande de Villette. When all were assembled Mme. de Blonay placed Yolande beside her, seating Corsant de Bresse where he could feast his eyes on her beauty. There was a clinking of glasses and many a word of good natured derision fired at the bachelor cause in the recent contest.

"Alas!" he said. "Would that I had a wife to defend me against this raillery!"

He accompanied the words with a look of appeal at Yolande, who blushed and lowered her eyes.

Cries of "Deserter!" "Renegade!" and the like were hurled at him from the bachelors present, while "Come over!" "Welcome to our ranks!" and similar badinage came from the married persons.

After the guests were gone De Bresse declared to Mme. de Blonay that he had had enough of the unmarried side and, since he had become smitten with her niece, begged that she would intercede for him with Yolande.

"How, now, Sir Knight," said the lady. "Having been beaten at feats of arms by a married man, do you now beg the assistance of a married woman?"

"By my spurs, madame! I am more afraid of the girl than of either you or your husband."

"Well, then, you must either win your matrimonial spurs as you have already won those of knighthood or remain a craven."

With that she opened a door and ushered him into a room with Yolande. What took place there has not been handed down, except that after awhile De Bresse came out, strutting like a peacock, and informed his hostess that he had won this fight far more easily than her husband had vanquished him in the tourney.

After a brief courtship the young fiance rode back to Turin. He bore a scrap of paper from Mme. Blonay to her husband, on which she had written: "You have conquered with man's. I have gained a victory for the same cause with woman's weapons. You fenced with an insensible lance, I with a beautiful girl."

Corsant de Bresse, returning an affianced husband, excited a great deal of merriment in Turin. The married knights welcomed him among their number, and the single knights talked of another tournament in which the renegade should defend his newly chosen side against one of their number, who should punish him for his desertion. But the Count of Savoy forbade any further fighting, and, there being demoralization among the bachelors both on account of their defeat and De Bresse's joining the enemy's ranks, many more deserted, and many maidens gained noble husbands.

And you who visit northern Italy take a little steamer plying around the lake and among other sights viewed from the boat look at Castle Blonny. You can fancy a good woman sitting on the terrace 700 years ago with a baby on her lap and a plumed knight riding up the slope to cry her mercy. And, remembering how he rode again down that same slope an engaged man, having turned his back ingloriously on the side for which he had so recently fought, you will say to yourself, "Verily, a woman's wit is mightier than the sword."

Found a Loophole.

An attorney for a western railroad was arguing before the interstate commerce commission for postponement of the enforcement of the safety device regulations so far as they applied to his road.

He said the road was in the hands of receivers and the court that appointed the receivers would not sanction the issue of certificates for the purpose of buying automatic couplers.

"So you see, your honor," he declaimed, "we are between—between"— He hesitated and concluded lamely, "the upper and the nether millstone."

"Why didn't you say what you started to say?" asked Chairman Knapp.

"Very well, your honor," replied the attorney blandly; "we shall in that case consider your august body the—deep blue sea."—Saturday Evening Post.

HUGE STRIKE OF TRANSPORT WORKERS CALLED IN ENGLAND

Officials of the Transport Workers After Their Failure to Secure a Compromise With the Shipowners Send Messages to Every Port in Britain Calling Out Three Hundred Thousand Men.

London, June 11.—Three hundred thousand transport workers in this island will give up their jobs, and all foreign and coastwise shipping will be tied up indefinitely, if the union men obey the orders of the General Council of the Transport Workers Federation, which last night sent telegrams to every port in England, Scotland and Wales calling for a national strike.

The shipowners yesterday decided to reject a compromise, the terms of which the Government has been attempting to arrange. The principal points of the Government's proposals were a general organization of the employers to treat with the unions, and money guarantees by both sides as insurance against violations of agreements.

The employers maintain that their interests are so diverse that any organization would be impossible; they consider the Cabinet's proposals, particularly the financial feature, impracticable, and set their faces strongly against giving a labor monopoly to the unions.

When the Federation Council learned of the employers' decision it sent telegrams broadcast, signed by Robt. A. Williams, secretary, and Harry Gosling, chairman, reading: "The employers pointblank refuse to accept the proposals for a settlement. The national executive recommend a general stoppage at once."

The country has not been thrown into a panic by the calamity which threatens, because there is general hope that comparatively few of the men will respond to the leader's manifesto. Notes of disaffection are reported in several cities. At Newcastle, one of the most important ports, Peter Miller, the leader of the northeast coast unions, said there will be no strike. Manchester, on the other hand, appears to favor a strike.

If successful, the strike will be the most disastrous of the labor revolts which have kept the country in a turmoil for the past year, disturbed business and strained the diplomacy of the Liberal Government in keeping the good-will of its labor allies. The real question to-day being fought out is the recognition of union labor, and the cause of the trouble which has already cost business and wage-earners hundreds of thousands of pounds, is a stevedore named Thomas, who refused to join the union. The employers declined to discharge him, and the dockmen stopped work. They took advantage of the occasion to demand a general readjustment of terms from their employers, who, on their side, asserted that the men had already violated last year's agreement.

The transport federation comprises the following unions: Sailors and Firemen's Union, 90,000; Dock, Wharf and Riverside Workers, 75,000; London Carmen's Trade Union, 30,000; Gas Workers, 77,000; Watermen and Lightermen, 8,000; Stevedores, 8,000; Enginemen, 6,000, and some 20,000 laborers belonging to smaller unions.

Persistent efforts have been made to persuade the railway men to join the federation, but they have always refused.

France Has Its Worries.

Havre, June 11.—The strike which was begun by the crew of the French liner France yesterday is spreading, and 1,500 men are now out, the port being almost tied up. The steamship company has informed the passengers of the France that the Government has been requested to provide bluejackets to man the liner, but an answer is still awaited. In any case the France will not sail until to-night and the company has decided to refund the passage money to all who desire to leave the ship. The emigrants who were aboard the vessel have been placed temporarily in the company's hostelry.

The steamship St. Louis, which is expected to arrive here to-day, is to bring a certain number of sailors, who will be transferred to the France. The company's steamer Basse-Terre is also without a crew, and the departure of the Quebec for Hayti to-day will have to be cancelled.

Special to the Review.

London, June 11.—Last night's call for a general strike of transport workers is not being generally obeyed. Little surprise is occasioned as the more conservative leaders of the workmen are known to be opposed to a general strike.

WEST IS NOT YET SATISFIED

Winnipeg, June 11.—While there is some satisfaction expressed in the west over the temporary reduction of the cement duties, it is declared that the relief afforded will be unimportant, in so far as improving the stagnation now general in building circles.

Labor unions of every description are complaining, and contractors insist that a general paralysis of operations must follow unless cement is rushed in from every available source. The cut of one-half in the duty, it is said, will not enable shippers to send in American material, and thus force the hand of the Canadian Cement Co.

Charles Crawford, aged 17, of Hamilton, was killed by a train.

Strawberries in the Welland district were touched by Frost Friday night.

No Salvage for Cunard Line.

London, June 11.—The Cunard Steamship Co. has declined to accept any remuneration for the salvage of the passengers of the Titanic by the Carpathia.

The White Star Co. has presented $500 to Captain A. H. Rostron of the steamer Carpathia and $250 each to the surgeon, purser and chief steward. The rest of the members of the crew of the Carpathia receive a month's pay.

Child Poisoned by Quinine.

Lindsay, June 11.—As a result of swallowing 14 quinine tablets taken from a box left standing on a table, the two-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Druce died before a doctor could be secured.

WERE WEDDED IN AEROPLANE

New York, June 11.—A Paris cable says: "While Miss Dorothy Taylor, an American, is flying around Paris purchasing her trousseau, others are planning a startling innovation for the day of her wedding to Claude Graham-White, the aviator. Some of the guests who attend the nuptials at Widford Church in Chelmsford, Essex, may arrive in horse-drawn carriages or automobiles, but a considerable delegation is going to descend from the skies in airships.

Can't Scare Langlois.

Montreal, June 11.—G. Langlois, M.P.P., who returned yesterday, gave out a statement to the effect that as Le Pays had published nothing against the church or any other religion he had nothing to take back. The member for St. Louis says that he will publish the archbishop's letter next Sunday, and will reply at length. He will not give up his fight for a better educational system in this province, and believes that men of all denominations will stand by him.

ISLANDERS LACK FOOD AND WATER

Special to the Review.

Seward, Alaska, June 11 — Lieut. Searle, of the revenue cutter Manning, and J. E. Erskine, merchants of Kodiak, arrived here yesterday and made an appeal for assistance for the stricken people on Kodiak Island, the vegetation of which has been entirely destroyed by the eruption of Mount Katmai. Fish were killed in millions by ashes falling into the water and the water is now polluted by decaying fish, while the springs are nearly all stopped by ashes. The revenue cutter Manning is distilling water for the use of the stricken people but there is urgent need of augmentation of the food supply which is only sufficient to last for fifteen days. The tug "Painter" which brought men with news of the disaster will leave for Kodiak to-morrow with all avaiable supplies.

Haldane Is Chancellor.

London, June 11.—Earl Loreburn, Lord High Chancellor since December, 1905, resigned yesterday.

Viscount Haldane, Secretary of State for War, was appointed to succeed the earl.

Lord Loreburn is known to have been out of sympathy with much of the recent radical legislation and to be openly hostile to the attitude of Reginald McKenna, Secretary of State for Home Affairs in refusing adequate protection to non-unionists who were willing to take the place of the dock men out on strike.

Col. John Seely, hitherto Under-Secretary for War, has been appointed Secretary of State for War in succession to Viscount Haldane.

Showered by Volcano Ashes.

Vancouver, B.C., June 11.—Passengers on the steamer Camosun, which arrived yesterday morning from Prince Rupert, experienced a remarkable phenomenon all the way down until within 100 miles of Vancouver.

A steady shower of ashes, presumably from the recent volcanic eruption in Northern Alaska, started to fall into the sea and on to the vessel's deck soon after clearing from the northern port. The shower kept up steadily from Saturday morning until Sunday night at midnight.

The ashes fell to the depth of over an inch, and extra hands were set to work to sweep them away. The steamer still bears traces of her novel experience.

JAP-RUSSIAN ALLIANCE ?

London, June 11—A Times' despatch from Tokio announces that ex-Premier Prince Katsura will leave early in July on a tour of Europe, returning by way of America.

The Jiji expresses the belief that Katsura's special endeavors will be directed toward clearing away the clouds obscuring the value of the Anglo-Japanese alliance in England. On the other hand, the equally influential Asahi frankly confesses that it is hopeless to think of installing again into the alliance the life it had before the Russo-Japanese agreement, and declares that Katsura will find more to do in St. Petersburg.

THE CHATEAU LAURIER, OTTAWA, CANADA

Erected by the Grand Trunk Railway at a Cost of Over $2,000,000, and Situated in the Heart o the Dominion Capital.

The "Chateau Laurier," named after the Right Honorable Sir Wilfrid Laurier, P.C., G.C.M.G., ex-Premier of Canada, built by the Grand Trunk Railway, at a cost of $2,000,000.00, is situated in the southwestern corner of the historic Major's Hill Park, where Colonel Bolton of the staff of Colonel By lived in the days of old Bytown, and commands beautiful and magnificent views of the parliament buildings, the Rideau canal, the Gatineau and Ottawa valleys, and the grand old Laurentian Hills.

An old style of French architecture has been used for the "Chateau Laurier," and it is built of granite and light buff Indiana sandstone with a copper roof. It contains 350 bedrooms, two-thirds of which have private baths; all are outside rooms and all the windows on the bedroom floors command views of the provinces of Ontario and Quebec.

On the main floor is the office, rotunda, ladies' reception room, dining room, and the dining room corridor, also cafe, lounge of gentlemen's waiting room, and palm room; the latter will be used as a tea room. The ladies' waiting rooms are on the mezzanine floor, and the foyer, banquet room, ball room and the state apartments are on the first floor. In the basement are the grill room, bar and bar room, barber shop and manicuring parlors and public lavatories. The second, third, fourth, fifth and sixth floors have each fifty-three bedrooms, and in selecting the furnishings for these rooms the thought to make them homelike has been foremost. On each floor, particularly well-located rooms will be furnished in an especially attractive manner for parlor bedroom suites. The corridors are divided into sections by means of fire doors to separate them in an emergency, although the hotel is absolutely fireproof, no wood except door frames and baseboards being used in its construction. The main corridors lead directly to fire escapes, iron balconies and stairways inside the building. All the windows and service doors will be screened with the best Canadian make of fly screens, and a special refrigerating room will be provided to freeze the garbage until it is removed from the building.

The kitchen and its equipment will be equal to the best on the American Continent. An especial refrigeration system has been installed and an ice plant added to furnish the hotel and station with artificial ice made from distilled water, sterilized by an effective method to provide pure drinking water to the guests.

The hotel laundry, with all the latest improved machinery for doing guests work, is in the sub-basement. All the power for lighting and heating, steam for kitchen and laundry, ice and refrigerator, is supplied the hotel by its own plant in the rear of the station, 400 yards from the hotel, so that the usual vibration from the machinery located within the building will not be felt. The hotel is also connected with the Grand Trunk Central station by means of a subway at the foot of the main stairway.

Rotunda—The rotunda is entered from the "Plaza Laurier" through a loggia, and is decorated in Francis the First style with richly pannelled and modelled ceilings. The walls are of caen stone and the floors are Belgian black marble. Tiffany's leaded art glass is used in decorating the three clerestory windows, in which are placed attractive flower boxes. To add further charm to this magnificent room is the finely carved caen stone fire-place and a marble drinking water fountain, which is placed near the elevator. There is also located the main office of the hotel, telephone exchange and Telegraph Office.

Palm Room—This room is titled the "Barrel Vaulted Room" because of the style of its ceiling. It is Renaissance in character with caen stone walls and floors of Gruby tiles, in shades to match the scheme of decoration. Here is also a caen stone and marble fire-place. Especially designed tables and chairs and settees in verde antique were chosen for this room, in which tea is served every afternoon between the hours of four and six

The Lounge—Simple Flemish style is used in this room with wainscoting of oak and richly modelled plaster freize and cornices. This room is chiefly used as a gentleman's writing and smoking room. The marble staircase in the centre of the room leads to the grill room, bar room, barber shop manicure parlors and lavatories.

Main Dining Room—The main dining room, which is situated at the end of the dining room corridor in the extreme southwest corner of the hotel and facing Major's Hill Park and Parliament Buildings, is quite different from the other rooms. It is 83 feet long, by 50 feet wide, by 29 feet high, and is decorated in the Elizabethan period with wainscoted walls of oak.

The magnificent view from the many large, full length windows is a particularly attractive feature of this room. Tiffany's art glass is used in the upper part of the windows, the tone of which is in keeping with the rest of the decorations. This room has also a large fire-place, above which is a mural painting of the period in which this room is decorated

The Mezzanine — The Mezzanine floor consists of ladies' writing corridor, ladies' parlor, balcony overlooking the rotunda, musicians' gallery overlooking main dining room and cafe, manager's office, accountant and auditor's office, public stenographer's office. The decoration of the ladies' writing corridor is in Louis XVI period with panelled ceiling and French grey enamelled woodwork.

The Banquet Room.—The banquet room is very spacious, has a seating capacity of 250 and is decorated in Louis XVI period. The large windows extending the full height of the room face Major's Hill Park and give a fine view of the Ottawa Valley. It is connected with the foyer, a large room facing "Plaza Laurier," which is used for the assembling of guests before banquets and during the intermission of dances The foyer, like the ball and banquet rooms, is decorated in Louis XVI period and the furniture is of Italian walnut.

Ball Room—A superb Louis XVI room, seventy feet long by forty feet wide, by twenty feet in height, and admirably adapted for the purpose. It is divided into bays, with druble fluted columns which support massive beams that span the room. In the apsidal ends there are wall decorations of large painted panels portraying classical subjects which harmonize beautifully with the brown and gold tone of the room. The floor is laid according to the latest improvements in ball room floor construction.

"THE GRAND TRUNK CENTRAL STATION, OTTAWA."

This passenger station building is erected on the southerly side of Rideau street between the Corry office building and the Rideau canal. Immediately adjoining, in the rear, next to the platform and tracks affording easy communication and most convenient operation, is the baggage and express building with its main elevation on Besserer street and facing the large square recently acquired and paved to provide for the vehicular traffic to the concourse of the station. In the baggage and express building are also provided the mail rooms, emigrants' quarters, engine room, coal elevators, conveyors and boiler plant—in the latter the most up-to-date labor-saving devices and mechanical equipment have been installed; these include the electric generators for light and power, the refrigeration plant, filters, pumps engines, etc., required in the operation of both the "Chateau Laurier" and station.

The station building is entered from Rideau street on the second floor through a large main corridor in the centre leading by a marble stairway down to the general waiting room which has an area of over 9,000 feet and extends the whole width of the building on the lower or ground floor. In height this magnificent room is equal to the total height of the office building in the front or main portion of the building. The walls of the room are in Travertine finish, the flooring is of marble, and the ceiling is vaulted and richly coffered.

The men's waiting room, smoking room, barber shop and toilets are approached from this room, also the ladies' waiting room, rest room, toilets, and the lunch room, parcel room, telephone and telegraph booths, news stands and information bureau. One important feature here is the doorway leading to the subway to the "Chateau Laurier." Its location in the centre of the room is emphasized by the two flights of marble stairs leading to Rideau street, and the communication it provides for easy and immediate approach to the hotel, will be much appreciated by the guests of the hotel and the patrons of the railway.

From the main waiting room, the concourse and platform are reached through a ticket lobby with ticket offices on the left and the lunch room on the right. The concourse extends in length the full width of the main building by a width of sixty feet, and has a carriage entrance from Besserer street. Through this concourse at the easterly end a vestibule leads directly to the baggage building. As a terminal the divisional offices of the railroad are located in this building, and the Railroad Commission also have their principal offices and the court room on the upper floors of the Rideau street portion of the building.

The structure has been planned to meet the practical and local requirements of the city railroad division, peculiar and difficult conditions with regard to track, street and bridge levels have been most successfully overcome and the result provides for the Captial City of the Dominion not only a railroad terminal adequate to meet the needs of the city and the traveling public but is also an architectural adornment to the city and is already regarded as one of the best among the railroad terminals recently erected and projected on this continent.

WANT HOME FOR RAID VETERANS

Ottawa, June 11.—Flushed with victory after long, patient years in the winning of the recognition of their services to the country, to the extent of $100 each, it is understood that the Fenian Raid veterans have yet another request to make. It is now suggested that the Government be petitioned for a grant towards the erection of a home here in the capital where veterans, who are without friends to care for them in their remaining years, may end their days. This, it is thought, would be a worthy and fitting manner by which the Government could show its genuine appreciation of the men of '66 and '70.

It is urged that this scheme would entail only a small expenditure and save a number of the veterans from ending their days in poverty and want.

ESCAPED LUNATIC SLEPT IN HOUSE OF THE QUEEN MOTHER

Special to the Review.

New York, June 11.—A cable to the Times from London says that William Woodley, an escaped lunatic from Norwich, aged forty years, yesterday eluded the special guard of police and soldiers surrounding Marlborough House, the residence of Queen Alexandra, gained admittance, and roved about many rooms finally going to sleep in a bedroom on the first floor. Queen Alexandra was not at Marlborough House when the intruder entered but Princess Victoria was asleep in her apartment at the time. He was discovered by a housemaid after sleeping all night and seemed surprised that his presence caused so much commotion when the police came to take him in charge.

Eight Slain In Their Beds.

Villisca, Iowa, June 11.—Joseph Moore, a prominent Villisca business man, his wife and four children, and two women supposed to be Mrs. Van Gilder and her daughter, relatives of the Moores, were found murdered yesterday morning in the Moore home. Their heads had been smashed, and an axe covered with blood and hair was found.

All were murdered in their beds. No robbery was committed, and it seems that only a desire for revenge could have prompted the murder, unless the work was done by a madman.

PRESBYTERIANS AGREE TO MAKE TEST OF CHURCH UNION

First Great Step Is to Be Taken in the Matter of Co-operation in Home Missions and Social Service—Duplication in College Work Will Be Avoided by Common Consent—An Impressive Session.

Edmonton, June 11.—"We give praise to Thee for the great and blessed interest of this afternoon. We give thanks to Thee for all that our ears have heard. We thank Thee and praise Thee as we think of the years that are to come. We praise and thank Thee as we think of all that this will mean to this vast new country. We praise Thee as we think of all that it will mean to the endeavors to Thy people in other lands, foreign lands. We praise and bless Thee that in Thine infinite and divine mercy and compassion, Thou hast brought these negotiations to so blessed and happy a conclusion."

In these words Rev. Dr. Gilray of College street Presbyterian Church, Toronto, yesterday committed the great Presbyterian Church in Canada to the cause of organic union with the Methodist and Congregational Churches, with which negotiations have been carried on for eight years.

The actual statement adopted by the assembly does not formally and legally bind the body to this course; but the denomination will never forget the solemn ceremony of yesterday afternoon and can never, even if it is desired to do so, escape its consequences. In it the chief leaders of the union cause and the chief opponents of the proposal, with the assembled delegates, entered into covenant to test the plan by actual experiment and to follow faithfully wherever they might be led by the great head of the church. Everything that was said and done, both before and after the service, in praise and prayer, which concluded the discussion of church union, was based on the idea that the denomination had terminated the controversy and had entered on a new life under new conditions and with new relations.

The act of Rev. Dr. Scott of Montreal, editor of The Official Journal of the Church, who through the entire controversy has been the strongest opponent of union, in moving that telegrams advising them of the decision of the assembly be forwarded at once to the other churches interested, gave the final touch to the proceedings. Nothing remained to be said or done.

The statement adopted was in part as follows:

(1) That it be an instruction to the home mission committee to arrange with the other negotiating churches for the further delimitation of territory within which they shall severally establish new missions, as well as for the fuller application of the principle of the co-operation already adopted by the assembly.

(2) That it be an instruction to the foreign mission committee to confer with the mission boards of the other churches with a view of co-operation in every possible way.

(3) That similar instructions be given to the board of social service and evangelism.

(4) That it be an instruction to the committees charged with the publications of the church to enter into correspondence with similar committees of the other churches as to the possibility of combining their work in whole or in part.

(5) That it be an instruction to the board of the colleges to consider the possibility of co-operation with the colleges of other churches situated in the same localities so as to avoid unnecessary duplication in teaching.

(6) That the union committee be authorised in conjunction with the other negotiating churches to provide for the oversight of union congregations not originally connected with any of the three churches.

TO-DAY'S SESSION

In a vigorous speech, in reference to the work in the Province of Quebec, and the Point Aux Trembles school, before the General Assembly this morning, Rev. Dr. Kelly, Montreal, declared that all true Canadians should give thanks to God for the Gouin Government in Quebec He declared that schools like that at Point Aux Trembles was the key to the situation in Quebec and that scholarships for the education of the French born could be established for $50 each.

Dr. G. C. Gordon declared that a large number of these scholarships should be created and he would be responsible for as many in Toronto. The response from other sections was immediate and gratifying, a large sum for this purpose being pledged.

The feature of this morning's session was an address on the work in India by Rev. Dr. Wilkie of Gwalor Mission, India.

KING AND QUEEN MEET DELEGATES

London, June 11.—King George and Queen Mary yesterday received at Buckingham Palace all the delegates to the international radia-telegraphic conference. There were about 250 guests, including most of the American delegates. The King and Queen welcomed the visitors in the gardens of the palace, chatting cordially with many of the most prominent among them. They subsequently entertained the delegates to tea in the state dining-room.

The proceedings of the congress were enlivened yesterday by a fight by England to have her vote increased from one to six on behalf of her colonies. At present each country represented at the conference has only a single vote, no matter how many delegates may be sent by that country. The American delegates will only concede the British claim if five votes are given to the United States.

The conference to-day begins its consideration of a proposition for the regulation of wireless rates.

SOUTH SIMCOE BY ACCLAMATION

Special to The Review.

Barrie, June 11.—W. A. Boys, K. C., has been elected by acclamation to the Dominion House in South Simcoe, to fill the vacancy caused by the elevation to the bench of the former member.

The Liberals made no contest.

AMERICANS IN FIGHTING ZONE

El Paso, Texas, June 11.—Fighting was in progress between rebels and federals at Pearson, about 200 miles south of the international border, according to telegrams received by the Mexico Northwestern Railroad in Juarez yesterday.

Dr. F. S. Pearson of New York and his London and Montreal associates own a big lumber mill at Pearson, and the majority of inhabitants of the town are Americans. The town is in what heretofore has been considered rebel territory.

Can't Stop "La Lumiere."

Montreal, June 11.—In reference to the ban placed on La Lumiere, an advanced Liberal paper, published here by the Roman Catholic authorities, the publishers announce that publication will be continued.

TAFT'S MACHINE STILL BUSY PACKING THE CONVENTION

Manager of the President's Campaign For the Republican Nomination Is Now Jubilant Over His Success—Fifty-Nine Taft Delegates Are Given Their Seats to None of the Supporters of Col. Roosevelt.

Chicago, June 11.—The steam roller is still working smoothly and effectively and the Taft column was further swelled.

In the Indiana case, the Republican national committee again gave the decision for the sitting (Taft) delegates at large, adding four to the seventy-two given the Taft side last week in the cases from Alabama, Arkansas, Florida and Georgia.

The four, however, was the first Taft gain from the north.

The vote on the roll-call was unanimous, fifty-two to none in favor of seating Taft delegates.

Senator Borah voted for the Taft delegates, as did all the other Roosevelt members of the committee.

Postponement of the hearing of the contest in the fourth California district yesterday morning brought to high intensity the heated conflict between Taft and Roosevelt factions in the Republican national convention. The vote of 36 to 13 by which the postponement was effected on motion of Senator Crane of Massachusetts drew beyond any possible doubt the lines between the factions.

Congressman McKinley of Illinois, manager of the Taft campaign, plunged into his final week of pre-convention work with the declaration that Taft's prospects for renomination had been made certain.

There was talk Sunday night and yesterday of a third candidate as the only means of settling the Taft-Roosevelt fight. Leaders on both sides declare that such a contingency is beyond the range of possibilities.

Roosevelt Holds Aloof.

New York, June 11.—Theodore Roosevelt denied yesterday that he intended going to Chicago by special train at a moment's notice.

"I know of no such plan," he said. "I have no present intention of going to Chicago this week, and I won't go unless it is necessary. Mr. Perkins telephoned me this morning, and I am very sure that if such a trip had been contemplated he would have told me about it."

THE DUKE WILL STAY TWO YEARS

Montreal, June 11.—"Absolutely without foundation," said Col. Lowther, aide-de-camp to the Duke of Connaught, yesterday afternoon, when a statement published in The Manchester Guardian, in reference to His Royal Highness resigning the position of Governor-General of Canada at the end of the year was read to him.

Col. Lowther said that the Duke took the office for two years, and would occupy it for that length of time, with the possibility of extending his stay here for five years, the regular Governor-General's term.

NEW GARBAGE CONTRACT

At last the City Council seems to have placed the collection of garbage upon a business basis, when at their meeting last night, the aldermen awarded the contract to A. E. Downer the price for the work being fixed at $3,500 from to-day until June 1, next year. Since the former contractor threw up the contract, Mr. Downer has been doing the work and so has had an opportunity to figure intelligently on the cost. He asked $4,000 for a full year and as the Council closed with him at $3,500 for about ten and a half months, Mr. Downer has practically secured his own terms

Citizens are asked to aid the collector in this work by keeping all garbage in proper receptacles so placed that they may be gathered with reasonable facility and once more, the public is warned not to mix ashes with garbage.

The new contractor will save the city from worry and threatened litigation in the matter of a dumping ground as he agrees to dispose of the collections on his own land. And finally, he will be required to give substantial bonds for the faithful performance of his work, so that it will be impossible for him to follow the example of his predecessor and threw up his job, should he find it other than a paying business.

All that is required now is the cooperation of the citizens and this important work in the interests of public cleanliness and health, will no doubt be thoroughly and satisfactorily performed.

WESTERN MARKETS

The Toronto Globe once more turns on the tap and sheds a few crocodile tears over the condition of the farmers in the West. The most recent incident to call up the spirit of paternal protection in the Globe was the arrival in Toronto the other day of twenty-six carloads of cattle from Western Alberta. This elicits from the Liberal organ the reflection that had there been free trade with the United States—in other words had Reciprocity been in effect—these cattle would have been sent to the nearest market in the American Republic and a large saving made in the matter of freight.

Considering the high price of meat and the reason for it as given by the dealers, a scarcity of beef cattle, the wisdom of suggesting that what is required at home be exported to another country may well be questioned. But aside from the phase of the matter the Globe fails to make out a case and the Alberta cattle men have no just cause of complaint.

In competition with the cattle raisers of Eastern Canada, the Western rancher has all of the advantage. His land is cheaper to begin with and for that reason alone his business can be conducted upon a larger scale In Alberta, the comparatively mild winter climate is another factor in the cheap production of beef.

The Alberta ranchman can send his carload of cattle to Toronto and sell them, for say, an average of $75 a head. The Ontario farmer ships his stock from a distance of 100 miles or it may be he is close enough to the city to drive his cattle on foot to the market. He sells at the same price, weight for weight and quality for quality, as the Western man and then the profit of the latter, in spite of a large bill for freight, is greater than that of the Ontario stock man.

If the Globe is sincere in its championship of the cause of the Western farmer, how does it come that it has all these months opposed any move in the direction of securing a reduction of freight rates on the C.P.R.? The shadow of an excuse which it has always pleaded for this course, is that a reduction of rates would force the other two great railways into bankruptcy while the older and wealthier road could stand it without damage to its corporate life.

In commenting upon the proposed reduction of duty on cement, the Globe ignores the explicit explanation of Finance Minister White and proceeds to draw its only conclusions. It asserts that the duty is cut down by one half in order to ensure the success of the Conservative party in the approaching election in Saskatchewan. What credence can be given to the statement, or what weight attached to the argument that the Dominion Government would suspend for a short time even any part of its tariff schedule for the sole purpose of influencing a provincial contest?

Mr White has given business like reasons for the lowering of the duty on cement. He recognizes the fact that a shortage of this important building commodity exists in the West and that the eastern producers are unable to supply the demand, two facts that have been made apparent to everyone. Mr. White is satisfied that it is only fair and just, under the circumstances, to remit half the duty, for a short time until the pressure is relieved.

This should satisfy even the Globe that the move has been made with no political object in view.

NOTE AND COMMENT

How is this senseless destruction of meat in Chicago and New York going to reduce the price of that already too scarce article of diet?

* * *

A Bracebridge dealer advertises for sale "cracking good patent, leather shoes." Is the phrase a slip on the part of the dealer or really a bold statement of the truth?

* * *

There must be something seriously amiss with the marksmanship of a volunteer who misses the target and hits the marker who is hidden for safety in a pit.

* * *

The fact that the White Star Line's new 50,000 ton vessel is to be called the Britannic, because the company has had several successful boats of that name, shows that builders and sailors alike have not yet lost their superstitition of the sea.

* * *

While Hon. R. Rogers, Minister of the Interior, is in the West, at the request of the farmers, working reforms in the land laws, the Liberal press ascribe to him no higher motive than a desire to influence the impending election in Saskatchewan.

Perhaps President Taft might be induced to withdraw in the interests of harmony if assured of a seat on the Supreme Court bench, a position to which he aspired before Col. Roosevelt dragged him into politics.

Union Stock Yards.

TORONTO, June 10.—Receipts of live stock at the Union Stock Yards were 147 cars—2749 cattle, 373 hogs, 383 sheep, 100 calves and 63 horses.

Exporters

Mr. Howard bought for Swift Co. 350 export steers; 150 for London, at $7.75 to $8, and 130 steers for Liverpool, at $7.65 to $8.00.

Butchers.

Best steers of export weight and quality for butchers' purposes, $7.75 to $8; good, $7.25 to $7.60; medium, $6.75 to $7.15; common, $6.25 to $6.80; inferior, light cattle, $5.50 to $6; cows, $4 to $6.50; canners, $2.50 to $3.

Stockers and Feeders

Springers and Milkers

Milkers and springers sold at from $40 to $80 each, and there was one springer of superior quality for which $100 was refused. Notwithstanding this, the average prices were reported $5 to $10 per head lower.

Veal Calves.

Prices for veal calves remained steady at $4 to $7.50 for the bulk, with a few choice veals at $8 to $8.50 and one new milk-fed calf at $9 per cwt.

Sheep and Lambs.

Prices for sheep took a 50c drop. Ewes sold at $4.50 to $5; rams, $3 to $4 per cwt. Spring lambs sold at $9 to $10 per cwt., and one odd lamb brought $10.50 per cwt.

Hogs.

W. J. Johnston, buyer for Gunns (Limited), reported selects, fed and watered, at $8.50, and $8.15 f.o.b. cars.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, June 10.—At the Montreal Stock Yards, West End Market, the receipts of live stock for the week ending June 8 were 1650 cattle, 650 sheep and lambs, 2100 hogs, and 1050 calves. The offerings on the market this morning for sale were 600 cattle, 200 sheep and lambs, 300 hogs and 350 calves.

Altho the supply of cattle was a little larger than this day week it did not seem to have any influence on the condition of the market. The feeling was stronger than ever and prices for steers scored another advance of 25c and bulls were 25c to 50c per cwt. higher, the top prices realized for the former being $8.50 and for the latter $7.75, making a new high record for the season so far. The gathering of buyers was large and the demand from butchers was good, but packers were not operating to any extent. Some of them wired to Toronto for supplies, as they were under the impression that they could do better, there being a run of 140 cars on that market to-day. The bulk of the offering was cleared, notwithstanding the higher prices.

Owing to the steady increase in the supplies of hogs coming forward the tone of the market continues weak and prices scored a further decline of 10c per cwt. and 25c per cwt. more for the balance of the week. The demand from packers was good and an active trade was done with sales of selected lots at $9 to $9.15 per cwt. weighed off the cars, but for the balance of the week packers will only pay $8.75 to $9.

A weaker feeling has developed in the market for sheep and lambs, and prices have declined 25c to $1 per cwt., on account of the more liberal supplies offering. Lambs are also weaker and 50c per cwt. lower, but calves are steady under a good demand.

Butchers' cattle, choice, $8.25 to $8.50; medium, $6 to $7; common, $5.25 to $5.75; choice cows, $6.50 to $7; medium, $5.75 to $6; bulls, $6 to $7.75; milkers, choice, each, $80 to $90; common and medium, each, $65 to $75; springers, $50 to $60.

Sheep, ewes, $5.50; bucks and culls, $5; lambs, $6.75 to $7.

Hogs, f.o.b., $9 to $9.10. Calves, $3 to $10.

Cynthia's Chauffeur

By LOUIS TRACY

Copyright by McLeod & Allen, Toronto

This blow dished his hopes. He had counted strongly on gaining Vanrenen's friendship and sympathy before Cynthia's dainty vision met his eyes again.

"Has he gone to Paris?" he inquired.

"Can't say, sir, I'm sure. My orders are to tell callers that Mr. Vanrenen will be in town next Tuesday."

So, if present arrangements held good, Cynthia would reach London two days before her father. Well, he must contrive somehow to get Lady St. Maur in a proper frame of mind. Mrs. Leland's presence would be a positive blessing in that respect. Meanwhile, there would be no harm done if he—

Lest prudence should conquer him a second time he sat down and wrote:

Dear Miss Vanrenen—I hope the car is behaving in a manner that befits the messenger of the gods, and that Dale has justified my faith in him. I am here in fulfillment of my promise to call on Mr. Vanrenen: unluckily, he is out of town, and the hotel people say he is not expected back till a day early next week. If you make any change in your programme or even if you have a minute to spare, though providing yourself a true American by rightly adhering to schedule, please send a line to yours ever sincerely—

Once more he hesitated at the name, and contented himself by signing "George, the Chauffeur."

The problem of an address offered some difficulty, but he boldly declared for "91 Grosvenor Square" in a postscript, believing, and correctly as it happened, that Cynthia shared with Sam Weller a peculiar knowledge of London that rendered one address very like unto another in her eyes.

The failure to meet Vanrenen was the first real drawback he had encountered. It was irritating, at the time, but he gave little heed to it after he first pang of disappointment had passed. Fate, which had proved so kind during six days, did not see fit to warn him that her smiles would now be replaced by frowns. She even lulled him to the belief that Vanrenen's absence might prove fortunate.

"Perhaps," he fancied, "I would have rubbed him up the wrong way. He is devoted to his daughter, and he might look on my harmless but unavoidable guile with a prejudiced eye. In any event, I should be compelled to go slow in analysing Mrs. Devar's motives, and this pertinacious Marigny seems to have been fairly intimate with him in Paris. Yes, on the whole, it is just as well that I missed him. Cynthia can put matters before him in a better light than is possible to one who is an utter stranger. I must tell her, in my best American, that it is up to her to explain Fitzroy to pap."

Before leaving the hotel he inquired for Count Edouard Marigny. He drew a blank there. No such name had been registered during the year.

The dinner passed without noteworth incident. Sir Ashley Stoke condemned the Government, the Marquis of Scarland was more than skeptical as to the prospects of grouse shooting after the deluge in April and May. Lord Fairholme growled at the pernicious effects of the Ground Game Act, and Medenham spoke of these things with his lips but in his heart thought of Cynthia. The four men were in the smoking-room, and the Earl was chaffing his son on account of his inability to play bridge, when Tompkinson entered. He approached Medenham.

"Dale has arrived; he wishes to see your lordship," he said in a stage whisper.

"Dale!"

The young man sprang to his feet, and his troubled cry brought a smile of wonderment to his brother-in-law's face.

"By Jove!" said the Marquis, "you couldn't have jumped quicker if Tomkinson had said 'the devil' instead of 'Dale.' Who, then, is Dale?"

Medenham hurried from the room without another word. The Earl shook his head.

"More mischief!" he muttered. "Dale is George's chauffeur. I suppose he is mixed up in this Vanrenen muddle again."

"What muddle is that?" asked Scarland. Is George in it?—that would be unusual."

"Something to do with a motor," he said vaguely. "The Vanrenens are Americans, friends of Mrs. Leland's. You remember her, Arthur, don't you?"

"Perfectly. Is 'Vanrenen' the Peter of that ilk,"

"I think so. Yes—that is the name —Peter Vanrenen."

"Oh, he's all right. If George has any dispute with him I'll settle in a minute. He is as straight as they make 'em—bought two of my prize bulls three years ago for his ranch in Montana. By the way, someone told me the other day that he has a very pretty daughter—'a real peach the man said. Wonder if George has seen her? Begad, he might go farther and far worse. We effete aristocrats can do with a strain of new blood occasionally, eh, what?"

"'Vanrenen' sounds like a blend of old Dutch and New England," said Sir Ashley Stoke, who was sane on all subjects save one, his pet mania being the decay of England since the passing of the Victorian age.

The Earl helped himself to a whisky and soda. His egotism was severely shaken. Who would have thought that a pillar of the state like Scarland would approve of this Vanrenen girl as a match for George, even in jest? But he had not the good sense to steer clear of explanations. When he found his voice it was to swear at the quality of the whisky.

Medenham, meanwhile had rushed into the hall. He expected to find Dale there, but saw no one except the suave footman on duty. The man opened the door.

"Dale is outside, in the car, my lord," he said.

"In the car!" That meant the bursting of a meteor in the blue sky.

Sure enough, there stood the Mercury, dusty and panting, but seemingly gathering breath for another mighty effort if necessary.

"Come in!" shouted Medenham, on whom the first strong shadow of impending disaster had fallen as soon as he heard those ill-omened words "in the car."

Dale scrambled to the pavement and walked stiffly up the steps, being weary after an almost unbroken run of one hundred and eighty miles. He nodded to the Mercury, and the footman rang for a page-boy to mount guard. Medenham led the way into a small anteroom and switched on the light.

"Now," he said.

"Mr. Vanrenen kem to Chester last night in Simmond's car, my lord. This mornin' he sent for me an' ses 'who are you?' 'The chauffeur, sir,' ses I. 'Whose chauffeur?' ses he. 'Yours for the time,' sez I, bein' sort of ready for him. 'Well, you can get,' sez he. 'Get what?' sez I. 'Get out,' sez he. Of course, my lord, I knew well enough what he meant, but I wanted to have it straight, an' I got it."

Dale's style of speech was elliptical, though he might have been surprised if told so. For once, Medenham wished he was a loquacious man.

"Was nothing else said?" he asked. "No message from—anyone? No reason given? What brought Simmonds to Chester?"

"Mr. Vanrenen picked him up in Bristol at 4 a.m. yesterday, my lord. Simmonds made out that that there Frenchman, Monsieur Marinny" (Dale prided himself on a smattering of French), "had pitched a fine ole tale about you. In fact, the bearings got so hot at Symon's Yat that Simmonds chucked his job till Mr. Vanrenen sort of apologised."

"Can you be specific, Dale? You are hard to follow."

"Well, my lord, I could do with a drink. It's a long road that stretches between here an' Chester, an' I left there at ten o'clock this morning, runnin' through any Gord's quantity of traps, an' all."

Medenham did not smile. He touched a bell, and found that Dale's specific was a bottle of beer.

"I never set eyes on Miss Cynthia," continued the chauffeur, his wits quickening under the soothing draught. "Another lady kem out an' looked me up an' down. 'Yes, that is the car,' she said, an' with that I remembered seein' her at San Remo. Mrs. Devar seemed as if she wanted to say somethink, but she daren't, because Mr. Vanrenen's eye was on her. He made no bones about it, but told me to hike back to London the minnit Simmonds got the carrier-off."

"I am quite clear on that point. What I really want to know is the reason behind Simmond's statement about Count Marigny's tale-pitching, as you term it."

"Oh, of course Mr. Vanrenen didn't say anything. Simmonds was what you call puttin' two an' two together. From what Mr. Vanrenen arsked him it was easy enough to get at the Frenchman's dirty tricks."

"Tell me how Simmonds put it?" said Medenham, with the patience of a great anger. Dale scratched the back of his ear.

"For one thing, my lord, Mr. Vanrenen wanted to know if you were really a viscount. It was a long time before Simmonds could get him to believe that the accident in Down Street wasn't a put up job. Then, he was sure you stopped in Symon's Yat just in order to throw Mr. Marinny off your track. Simmonds is no fool, my lord, an' he guesses that the Frenchman brought Mr. Vanrenen hot-foot from Paris so as to—to—"

Dale grinned, and sought inspiration in the bottom of an empty glass.

"Well, my lord, excuse me," he said, "but you know what I mean."

Medenham completed the sentence.

"So as to prevent me from marrying Miss Cynthia."

"Exactly what Simmonds an' me said, my lord."

"He will not succeed, Dale."

"I never thought he would. Once your lordship is set on a thing, well, that thing occurs."

"Thank you. Good-night!"

Medenham did not feel equal to facing the men in the smoking-room again. He went out, walked up Oxford Street and across the park, and reached his room about midnight. Next day he devoted himself to work. In view of the new and strange circumstances that had arisen he believed confidently that Cynthia would reply to his letter by return of post, and there should be no chance of delay, because she meant to stay two days at Windermere, making that town the centre of excursions through lakeland.

While the son was seeking forgetfulness in classifying a collection of moths and night flies caught during a week at La Turbie, the father found occupation in prosecuting diligent inquiries into the social and financial standing of Peter Vanrenen. As a result, the Earl visited Lady St. Maur, and, as a further result, Lady St. Maur wrote a very biting and sarcastic note to "My dear Millicent." Moreover, she decided not to press her nephew to visit her at present.

Next morning, Medenham was up betimes. He heard the early postman's knock, and Tomkinson in person brought the letters.

FIELDING ON STAND.

Ex-Finance Minister Explains Giving Bank Charter.

Ottawa, June 11.—Hon. W. S. Fielding, former Minister of Finance, was the only witness examined by the royal commission of enquiry into the circumstances attendant upon the failure of the Farmers' Bank.

The evidence of Mr. Fielding was most interesting, dealing as it did with the steps that led up to the granting of the certificates to Travers to commence business for the bank. Hon. Mr. Fielding stated that while he had opinions and verbal statements that there was something wrong, no one had ever made a definite charge that all was not right, and in view of this, as the money had been deposited, he had, practically been forced to issue the certificates. If he had not, public opinion would likely have said that he was endeavoring to prevent competition with the older banks.

Other features in the evidence of Mr. Fielding was a suggestion that in the new Bank Act care should be taken in making it optional with the Finance Department as to whether a certificate should be immediately operative.

The ex-Minister also contradicted the statements of General Manager Travers that the latter had several interviews with him regarding the issuing of the certificate, and that they had discussed only in a general way the subscription list presented to the Department. Mr. Fielding also denied the evidence of Mr. David Henderson of Halton and Sir Edmund Osler, M.P., who stated at Toronto that they had repeatedly warned the Finance Minister of definite instances in which the law was being violated in the borrowing of money to pay stock subscriptions.

In this connection he said that no definite accusation had been made, and it was the mere opinion of these gentlemen, against the sworn affidavit of Travers, who at that time was a reputable business man and citizen. The ex-Minister also stated that Sir Edward Clouston's letter, received the day after the certificate had been granted, was only an opinion which he could not consider as against a sworn affidavit.

Mr. Fielding made it plain that all along he had "viewed with anxiety" the efforts of this bank to obtain a charter, and would have been only too glad if he had been given something definite to go on in opposition. He had to grant the certificate under the act, after holding it up for six months, being overruled by members of the board when he had asked that a longer period than this be allowed to elapse before it was considered.

A. B. DOWNER WILL COLLECT GARBAGE OF THE CITY TILL NEXT JUNE FOR $3,500

Mr. A. B. Downer, who has been temporarily looking after the collection and disposal of garbage for the past few days, agreed last evening at a meeting of the City Council to enter into a contract binding him to continue the work from now to June 1st, 1913, for the sum of $3,500.00. Mr. Downer's offer came following the throwing up of the job by Mr. Scriver, who quit because he found that he was losing money at the price he contracted for, namely, $2,750.00. At the time of Mr. Scriver's resignation he stated that the job was worth $6,000.00 at the least, and would not consider anything under that figure. It remains now to be proven whether Mr. Downer can satisfactorily and with profit to himself rid the city of its garbage problem.

Mr. Downer first held out strongly for $4,000.00, stating that he considered it absolutely impossible to carry on the work for anything less. That price represented an advance of $1,250.00 over Mr. Scriver.

Ald. Graham said that he couldn't see where the Council could do any better than that. Several men had spoken to him, and they all said that the job was worth from $5,000 to $6,000.

Ald. Johnston felt that the garbage collection system had not had a fair show. It had not been demonstrated whether the plan would be satisfactory or not to his mind.

Ald. Gillespie—"It will require five or six months to bring it down to a system."

Ald Johnston—"I think the trouble with Scriver was that the people loaded him down with a lot of rubbish which he was not supposed to carry away."

Mayor Bradburn—"Mr. Spence told me that garbage collection the way it has been done for the past few days would cost $11 to $12 a day."

Mr. Downer, who was present at the meeting, stated that he would supply a dumping ground for the garbage if he was given the $4,000 reimbursement asked. He stated that it was no small task, and that he estimated it would occupy about a year to get the people educated up to making the work easy for the collector.

After some further negotiations Mr. Downer came down to $3,000.00 for ing the work up to May 1st next year, on condition that the garbage be put in proper receptacles and left in a handy place for collection. He stated that he would not include the work he has already done in the $3,500.00 price. He refused absolutely, however, to consider $3,500.00 as remuneration for doing the work for a full year. Some negotiations, however, resulted in Mr. Downer consenting to undertake the work from now until June 1st, 1913, for the sum of $3,500.00.

Mr. Downer assured the Council that now he had put his shoulder to the wheel, he would carry out the work to the best of his ability.

It is urged upon those who would lighten the duties of the collector as much as possible, to see that they have their garbage receptacle cans in convenient positions for the collector when he makes his daily rounds. In time it is expected that the system of calls will be so perfectly timed that householders will know within a half hour, at the least, the time of the garbage man's visit, much the same as the time of the milk vendor's arrival is timed.

Henceforth the slogan should be: "Madame, is your garbage can out?"

PETERBORO STREET RAILWAY CONDUCTOR IN COACH WHERE MRS. BABCOCK WAS KILLED

Mr. H.H. Spence, who resides on Bonaccord street and is a conductor for the Peterboro Radial Railway, was travelling on the G.T.R. passenger train, on Saturday, when the fatal accident occurred at Grass Hill.

Mr. Spence was on his way to Lorneville, to visit Mrs. Spence, who has been visiting friends in that vicinity, and recuperating her health.

He was in the same coach as occupied by Mrs. Babcock the lady who lost her life, and assisted by another man, he released Mrs. Babcock from the wreckage.

Mr. Spence gave the following story to the Lindsay Warder, shortly after the accident.

"The terrible crash came and then everything was quiet for a minute or two, after which the moans of the injured were heard. 'I was thrown headlong against the seat in front of me, my leg catching under the seat on which I was sitting. The limb was badly wrenched and I am lame as a result. My back was also injured, although I did not notice it at the time. I was sitting with other gentlemen about the middle of the car, and almost directly opposite from where the two ladies, Mrs. Babcock and Mrs. Plank were sitting. There was no person sitting behind Mrs. Babcock, although previous to reaching Grass Hill station a lady and gentleman had occupied seats at the rear of the coach. Eleven passengers got off at Grass Hill, which indeed was very lucky for them. The wonder to me is there was not a greater loss of life.

"Reeve Richman, of Bexley, who was a passenger in the same coach, lifted the seat off my leg and we then commenced to clear away the wreckage from around the two ladies. Mrs. Babcock was apparently struck from behind by some board or other object and knocked across the seat in front of her. She was thus pinned about the abdomen and breast and no doubt was crushed to death. Mrs. Plank was pinned underneath her. We succeeded in getting the two ladies out and apparently Mrs. Babcock was quite dead. I felt her pulse and could feel no beat, although the nerves in the neck and other parts of the body seemed to be twitching.

"I understand that there were two passengers in the rear coach, Messrs. Jas. Steele, and Ben. Stacey, but they were apparently unhurt. There were also passengers ahead in the smoker."

CITY COUNCIL WILL ATTEND MEETING AT THE COLLEGIATE

Hon. Clifford Sifton to be Heard Friday Evening

After the garbage question had been settled last evening by the Council, a letter was read announcing the fact that Hon. Clifford Sifton would be in the city to address a meeting in the interests of conservation of water supply in the back lakes, on Friday, June 14th. The address will be given in the Collegiate Assembly Hall, and an invitation was heartily extended to the Mayor and City Council to attend.

Ald. Anderson moved that the Council should attend in a body.—Carried.

Mayor Bradburn stated that this was an important question and that the Council should make an effort to be present. Prof. Fernow will also speak at this meeting.

Another letter from Peck, Kerr & McElderry was read, asking what action had been taken in regard to the pollution of the Otonabee River by sewage. On the authority of the Mayor a letter had been sent to the firm, stating the plans of the Council to remedy the trouble by securing an engineer to report on the feasibility of a sedimentation tank being constructed.

Another matter was the passing of a by-law appointing a chairman of the Board of Health, to fill the vacancy caused by Dr. F. P. McNulty's resignation.

On motion of Ald. Johnston and Graham, Ex-Alderman Joseph Metheral was recommended.—Carried.

Ald. Gordon suggested L. M. Hayes K.C's name, but withdrew it later in favor of Mr. Metheral.

SMITH STREET PEOPLE START REVOLUTION OF THEIR OWN

Independent Miss Pays $4.60 for Trespassing on C P.R. Bridge.

A local young lady was assessed $4.60 in all this morning for trespassing on the C.P.R. tracks. Special Constable Pinchin laid the information resulting in her appearance before the Magistrate. She admitted the trespassing, and tossed out the amount of her fine, $4.60 in all, with the remark, "I hope it will do you more good than it will me." The young miss was quite independent and treated it as more of a joke than anything.

ASSAULT CASE.

When women take up the cudgels there is bound to be trouble. It appeared so this morning when a case of assault was aired, the trouble having occurred on Smith street last Thursday night. The dispute was more or less complicated, but it seems that two families quarrelled over fights which have been occurring between their children; in this case, young hopefuls of apparently nine or ten years of age. The boys scrap, knock each other's hats off and arouse the ire of their respective fond parents. One family is English, and the other evidently French, by their names, both of which are withheld by request.

WOULD DECAPITATE HIM.

Last Thursday the English male parent chased the little son of his neighbor's daughter, home, following him almost into the house. He was quite wrathy, so the evidence showed, and threatened to "knock the little brat's head off" for knocking his own little boy's hat off. His neighbor's daughter, and her mother, an elderly woman, tried to explain and informed him that they would be glad of his room rather than his company. When he threatened the daughter, she resorted to a woman's weapon, in the shape of a basin of dish water, which she emptied over his head. The neighbor, of course, flared up and showed his fists, and the young woman then directed a stick of wood at him. He then retired and when outside threw a stone, evidently aimed at the young woman, but which instead, struck her mother on the arm, inflicting a nasty wound. She showed the injury in court, which had been dressed by a physician.

His Worship was satisfied that it was evidently a case of family squabbles over children, but, nevertheless, condemned the man's action in throwing the stone at a woman. For that offence he imposed a fine of $5, to be paid in ten days.

Baseball Games and Tug of War, Included in Sports

There will be a baseball match between the teams of the Sacred Heart School and St. Peter's School, while the men of the parishes of the Sacred Heart and St. Peter's will take part in a similar struggle. These will be strong attractions. Another feature on the bill will be a tug-of-war, between two teams picked from Otonabee and South Monaghan.

Two steamers, the Islinda and Rainbow have been chartered to carry the crowds to and from the wharf and the Park, and there will also be a free ferry service across the river. The list of sports will be long and interesting. There is no canvass for prizes but any who would like to assist are asked to communicate with Mr. P. Kane.

Navigation Notes

Mr. Law, representing the firm who has bought the Otonabee, arrived in the city last night to superintend the work of repairing, refurnishing and repainting the boat. This year the Otonabee will operate in the waters near Barrie.

The high water is beginning to lower all along the Kawartha water system, but it will be some time yet before it has decreased to the normal level.

The Stoney Lake Navigation Co's boats, which operate in the lakes north of Lakefield, are now making the regular trips.

Gospel Hall

Douglas Russel's meetings in the Gospel Hall commenced auspiciously on Sunday evening, followed by a large "after church" service in the park from 8 to 9 o'clock, when the Gospel was told out in word and song by the well-known Scottish evangelist.

To-night's meeting will be one of special interest when the story will be told of how the present Queen of England obtained the "peace" which is to be the subject of the discourse. Special original hymns will be sung.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years, was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucuous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

TURNBULL'S

THE HOUSE THAT VALUE BUILT

MESSRS. SIFTON AND FERNOW SHOULD HAVE BUMPER HOUSE

To the Editor of the Review.

Sir,—The Honorable Clifford Sifton and Prof. Fernow, the forestry expert, have consented to address the Central Ontario Conservation Association and the public on Friday evening next in the Collegiate Institute Hall here. These gentlemen have responded to an earnest request made by those who realize how tremendously important the properly handling of the natural resources of the Trent district is to the future of that district. Our timber is gone. Our wood is gone. A great deal of our soil, especially in the formerly wooded district, has disappeared. Large areas have practically gone back to the condition of a desert waste and people are leaving and going to the West, taking their money with them. We have already begun to feel the loss. If we are to put ourselves upon our feet again and regain what we have lost, and more, too, it must be done as all agree, by intelligent and prompt action. No more favorable opportunity can arise than that of next Friday evening, when those two gentlemen, who have been entrusted by the Federal Government with full charge of the great work of conservation and reclamation throughout Canada will address the people at the people's own request, on the condition of the Trent district. It remains for those present to impress upon the speakers the strong desire of the people of this district to have the work taken up. Naturally those who have the benefit of the Trent district at heart are alive to the very serious necessity of paying intelligent attention to their future. It certainly cannot be expected that other districts will neglect such opportunities. Western Ontario has already beaten us in this respect. Let us see to it that we do not beat ourselves. The public is invited to attend the meeting, and it is to be hoped that there will be a bumper house to show the speakers that we are in earnest.

Yours, etc.,

J. H. BURNHAM.

BILL SCHAEFFER HANDED ROUGH DOSE TO LOUIE COOK'S SENATORS

Well, what do you know about this one that our old friend William Schaeffer puts over on us. Support or no support, Bill didn't appear to have the goods when he hurled for the White Caps, and he failed to stall off the batters at Berlin. Bill's address is now Guelph, Ont., and yesterday the big one was sent in against the star pegger of the Louie Cook aggregation, and behold, it was almost a goose egg for the Senators. Schaeffer allowed but five scattered bingles, and would have prevented the Ottawas from crossing the pan at all if his team had not made misplays. He only passed two. Herbert was touched up for eleven hits, including a home run by Wright, and a three base clout by Manager Needham. Such is baseball.

CHRISTY MATTHEWSON'S FORMER BACKSTOP WITH THE LONDON SPEED BOYS

The home coming of the White Caps to-morrow for a series of two games with London promises to attract big attendances. The London manager will be an attraction in himself, as all the fans will want to see the ex-backstop for Matthewson, the premier twirler of the big leagues. Bowerman is a fighter every moment and like Hughey Jennings of the Detroit Tigers, keeps his team alive all the time. The pitching staff includes Furrendon, who was with Joe Kelly's International team early in the season.

In all probability, one or both games will have to be played at the Oval, which is now in splendid condition for baseball. Riverside Park is drying nicely, the diamond being alright. The garden however is very wet and it will be several days before playing conditions are all they should be.

In London, the Petes will have a hard put to crack, but who knows but that Templin's Terrors will put one or two over as smoothly as in the case with the Senators. The games will be called at four o'clock. Bulletins at the newspaper offices at noon will inform the fans as to where the first game will be played. Enquiries by phone will be cheerfully answered

Earl Hartman dropped into town last night, following his release from the White Caps. Its dollars to doughnuts that if Hartman lands another berth in the Canadian League he will deliver the goods.

A despatch on the London-Hamilton game yesterday says that the Hams looked like a bunch of amateurs, beside the winners.

CENTRALS ARE JUNIOR CHAMPS OF PUBLIC SCHOOL LEAGUE

The championship in the junior series of the Public School Baseball League, was decided yesterday afternoon at the Oval when the Centrals defeated the South Centrals, by a score of 15—7.

The contest was inclined to be one-sided as the Central secured an early lead and had little difficulty in taking the honors.

The batteries were, Centrals—Armstrong and White; South Centrals—Bartley, Williamson and Soden. Umpire—F. D. Craig.

Owing to the inability to play off the scheduled games, an elimination series was decided upon. In the first game East City defeated Queen Alexandras 14—10, and then lost the next game to Centrals by one run. Centrals and South Centrals went into the finals.

SENIOR SERIES.

The senior series has yet to be decided. The Centrals meet St. Peter's at the Oval to-morrow afternoon. St. Peter's next have to play South Centrals. Centrals meet the South Centrals and then end the scheduled games with a contest with St. Peter's team.

Scottish Copper Discovery.

What is confidently believed to be a payable copper deposit has been discovered at Killfinan, in Argyllshire, near the shores of Loch Fyne. For some weeks past a company has been energetically prosecuting prospecting operations, and as a result a lode at least six feet thick has been proved for a considerable distance north and south of the point at which it was found. The copper is found in the form of carbonate and sulphide in a limestone formation. Mining operations are to be initiated on a considerable scale without delay.

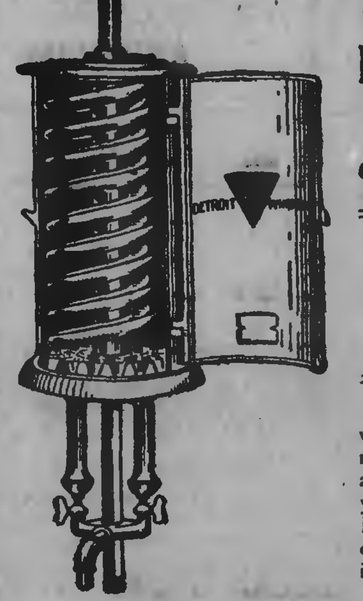
You Don't Have to Start a Fire in the Coal Range When Someone Wants a Bath

IT'S no longer necessary to hustle around gathering up paper, carrying up wood and lugging up coal every time somebody wants to take a bath. You no longer need to heat up your kitchen, in fact the entire house every time an extra quantity of hot water is desired.



THERE'S AN EASIER WAY
USE AN "IDEAL"
GAS
Water Heater

This heater occupies but very little space. It is connected to your kitchen boiler and is operated as easily as your gas range. The IDEAL Heater heats water very quickly—enough for a bath in 20 minutes.

This Heater Will Not Overheat Your Kitchen

We have an IDEAL connected and in operation at our office. We'd be glad to show it to you if you'd pay us a visit. If that isn't possible, have us send a representative to tell you more about it.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The Review does not hold itself responsible for opinions expressed by its correspondents

REFERRING TO MR. McWILLIAMS.

To The Editor of The Review.

Dear Sir,—As yet, I see Mr. Burnham, M.P., has not seen fit to reply to Enquirer's letter published in your issue of the 20th inst., therefore I presume, we are to take the statement as correct, viz., that Mr. J. B. McWilliams is employed by, and in the pay of the Dominion Government.

Yours truly,
CONSERVATIVE.

"PATTERSON STREET" RETORTS.

To The Editor of The Review.

Dear Sir,—Only those within the confines of conventionality have freedom; compliments are usually given away that they may be returned; a flatterer is a self-appointed scratcher of his fellows, and the apology of "Spectator" in your issue of Saturday on behalf of the judges of the baby show is an illusion, which, like soap bubbles, the greater and more opalescent they are, the sooner destroyed.

The conventional, orthodox, and conservative are so because of moral lethargy and mental indolence. They it is who strengthen the bonds of traditional superstition; chain the limbs of free living men in the fetters of a dead past; shut out the light of progress from the dark places of ignorance; deny to dry lips the cup of truth. And all because it is easier to remain in a comfortable rut than to climb the steep hillside of investigation.

A real gratification is delicious and very satisfying, yet it must leave one hungry. The reading of "Spectator's" letter is no doubt consoling and comforting to those it seeks to justify, and I hope Messrs. Morrow, Wainwright and Kerr are not depressed by their acquaintance with the numerous fetes and festivals they are daily accustomed to in connection with the judging of babies, to which I simply add my sympathy with the remark that I am still hungry.

MR. HATTON'S OFFER TO BOARD OF EDUCATION

Will not Consider Further Negotiations for Purchase of His Property

Mr. G. W. Hatton has sent a copy of the following letter to the Board of Education:

Peterborough, June 10, 1912.

To the Members of the School Board,
Peterborough:

Gentlemen,—I notice by this evenings papers that you intend to further consider the site for a Ward School in the West End of the City. In explanation, and so far as I am concerned, let me say, that at the repeated urgent requests of certain members of your Board. I consented to place a price on certain property chosen by the members above referred to. I am not, nor was I anxious to dispose of the property for purposes mentioned. I did not, nor do I intend to bear or enter into competition with other property. In order to minimize the difficulties of the Board in this respect, I beg to advise, that I do not intend to further consider any negotiations for the purchase of the property at the present time.

Yours truly,
G. W. HATTON.

OPENING OF NEW LODGE ROOMS FOR THE W.O.W.

There was an unusually large attendance at the opening of the new lodge rooms of the Sherwood Forest Camp No. 50, Woodmen of the World last night. The Head Camp was represented by Clair Jarvis, Head Clerk, of London, and D. Cinnamon, Advisory Lieutenant of Lindsay. In the absence of Head Council Commandant Harrison, of Toronto, Mr. Cinnamon performed the ceremony of the opening of the new camp.

A large initiation of new members took place after the formal opening of the rooms and the usual routine of business was proceeded with.

Addresses were given by Head Clerk Jarvis, of London, Mr. Cinnamon, of Lindsay, Mr. John Crane, of Peterborough, and Aldermen Gordon, Gillespie, Anderson and Brown. A number of local members also gave brief addresses as did some visiting members from other camps.

At the conclusion of the business of the lodge, a tasty offering of refreshments were served.

The members are very proud of the lodge rooms and the lodge furnishings which they declare are among the best to be found anywhere.

WEDDING BELLS

PUGH—BRECKENRIDGE

A happy matrimonial event was solemnized on Thursday, May 23rd, at the George street Methodist parsonage, when Miss Elizabeth Pugh, youngest daughter of Mr. John Pugh of Lensfort, was united in holy matrimony to Mr. William Breckenridge of Indian River. Rev. Isaac Couch performed the ceremony. The bride was beautifully attired in pearl grey silk with seed pearl trimmings, and wore the groom's gift, a gold watch and chain.

After the ceremony, the happy couple left on a trip to Barrie and other points. On their return they will reside at Indian River.

Their many friends join in wishing Mr and Mrs. Breckenridge many years of unalloyed happiness.

WHY SOME FARMS WERE FLOODED

There is no doubt that the level of water in the river and lakes is high, probably beyond anything of the kind experienced in the last ten years. The cause is known, excessive rain, and a full spring supply, combined. This, with the work going on at points along the Trent river, and carried on with difficulty and would be with enlarged difficulties if the water were let off freely, account for the quantity held back, in some measure.

However Mr. Jos. Clarke, of South Monaghan, has something to say and writes the Review as follows—

To The Editor of The Review.

Sir—Before I made any settlement the Government sent me a paper to sign claiming eight feet on the sills of the old locks at Hastings, for navigation on the Trent Canal. Before I signed that paper, I went to Hastings and measured the water on the sills of the locks and found eight feet and four inches on them. I then signed the paper and sent it back.

Why does not Supt. J. H. McLellan hold the water at eight feet at Hastings? If he did so, the farmers of three townships would not have their land flooded.

Mr. McLellan has rendered the Government liable to another claim for damages by failing to hold the water at eight feet as per agreement. The superintendent does not state the facts to me when I call at his office to complain of how he is holding the water and flooding my land.

On April 28, 1909, Mr. McLellan told me that the stop logs were all out, but I told him they were not. He offered to pay my way to Hastings to see for myself. I went to Hastings on May 13, and asked Lockmaster Tracey about it, but he would give me no information.

Again, I was in his office and asked him what depth of water was on the sills of the locks on April 4, 1910. He said nine feet but the report of Samuel Fetcher, C.E., for the same date made it 13 1-2 feet. You see Mr. McLellan was holding the water 5 1-2 higher than is required by the government for navigation. No wonder our lands are flooded.

Superintendent McLellan has broken the agreement by holding the water above what my agreement calls for.

Here is what the superintendent says: The normal flow of the river at Peterboro was 44,000 cubic feet per minute. On page 35 and 36 of his report, he says the flow of the river Otonabee was increased to 90,000 cubic feet per minute, being just twice what it was five short years ago. This shows that the water has been raised and the contract broken. This leaves the crown liable for further damage.

It is a deliberate falsehood to say that I am going to sue the government.

JOSEPH CLARK,
South Monaghan.

The Sea is Calling You

Much interest is being taken in the district contiguous to New London, Conn., by the summer resident if requests for literature and information is any criterion. Thousands of copies of the booklet "The Seashore" which may be had for asking, from Grand Trunk Agents, have been distributed. The booklet is profusely illustrated and also contains valuable information as to names of hotels, rates, etc. New London is only twelve hours from Montreal and a new train service will be inaugurated from Montreal on June 23rd. GENERAL SESSIONS OPENED AT THE COUNTY COURT

One Case Settled Out of Court — Collier vs. Brown Being Heard.

With His Honor, Judge Huycke, presiding, the Court of General Sessions opened this afternoon at one o'clock with the following docket of civil cases up for consideration.

Hall vs. McBain —The plaintiffs, Richard Hall & Son, claim from defendant, Mr. J. McBain, executrix, and Sarah McPherson, the amount of an account of goods supplied to Sarah McPherson. The defendant executrix, denies that her estate is liable The other defendant denies her liability, and set up the liability of the estate.

Collier vs. Brown—The plaintiff H. B. Collier, claims from defendant, Andrew Brown, $400 for return of $150 commission paid by plaintiff to defendant in respect of a certain real estate deal in which the plaintiff's property was turned over as part of the consideration for property taken by the plaintiff in the deal, and for $150 which the defendant received as commission from the party with whom the plaintiff made the deal the plaintiff alleging that the defendant acted as his agent and received from plaintiff $150 commission, which the plaintiff seeks to get back, and from the other party to the deal, $250 commission, the plaintiff alleging that he was unaware of the defendant receiving the $250 commission from the other party to the deal and that therefore he is entitled to recover from the defendant the commission the plaintiff paid and also the commission paid the defendant by the other party to the deal.

NON-JURY CASE.

Betts vs Quaker Oats Co.—The plaintiff, John Betts, claims from defendants, the Quaker Oats Co. $500 damages for personal injuries alleged to have been sustained by the plaintiff while in the employ of the defendants, the injuries complained of being the plaintiff's left hand, which was caught in the machinery and severely lacerated, and making it necessary to have the index finger amputated. Defendants deny negligence and liability.

The initial case of the three, owing to a settlement having been reached by the parties out of court, did not require to go before the judge. Mr. S. T. Medd was present for the plaintiff, and Mr. F. D. Kerr represented the defendant.

In the case of Collier vs. Brown, Mr. S. T. Medd acted for the former, and Mr. Kerr conducted the defendant's interests.

The proceedings, as customary, opened with the selecting and swearing in of the Grand Jury, as follows:—John Lang (foreman); James R. Bell, R. Croft, John Hoard, W. H. Meredith, R. Nurse, John O'Connor, G. Rutherford, J. H. Sherin, R. Sexsmith, George Savigny, Ernest Taylor and Harry Thompson.

ADDRESS TO THE JURY

The judge in addressing the Grand Jurymen and instructing them in their duties, emphasized the fact that at the present time there are no prisoners in the county jail, or any out on bail, awaiting trial. This he considered a very unusual occurrernce and a condition of affairs upon which congratulations were due. It indicated furthermore an apparent absence of crime. But while indicating an "apparent" absence of crime it did not mean that crime was necessarily extinct. There were many cases, he informed the jurors which came before him as county judge, and before the police magistrate which were dealth with without the aid of a jury.

The calendar of the jail conditions before him showed, however, that a number of people were confined there for minor offences and for vagrancy, but the latter he was pleased to note were growing less. It was neither humane or just he felt that these poor unfortunates, whose probable only cause of incarceration was poverty, should be herded with criminals. This injustice was being recognized both in other counties and in Peterborough. This county particularly had removed that stigma and had established the County House of Refuge.

SOME IMPROVEMENTS

His Honor, during his address, pointed out several places where the jurymen could bring in a report advocating much needed improvements One of the places that might receive attention was the condition of the Judges Chambers, which badly needed paper and paint. The court room also was very noisy underfoot, and this might be remedied by recommending the laying of matting to deaden footsteps.

The jury then retired and the case of Collier vs. Brown was taken up, after a petty jury had been duly sworn.

Mr H. B. Collier of Toronto, the plaintiff was the first to occupy the witness stand. Mr. Medd commenced the examination of plaintiff.

Witness under the questioning told his story of how he had been induced to enter into a real estate deal with the defendant, and of the circumstances that had arisen from the transaction.

The other witnesses in the case were excluded.

MR. DUMBLE'S CASE AGAINST THE CITY

D. W. DUMBLE
Plaintiff,
—and—
THE MUNICIPALITY OF THE CITY OF PETERBOROUGH.
Defendants.

This action was tried by me at the City of Peterborough on the 31st day of May, A. D., 1912, at the request of His Honour Judge Huycke, Judge of the County Court of the County of Peterborough.

THIS ACTION was commenced by the special summons issued on the 21st day of March last and duly served upon the Defendants.

The Plaintiff in person.

Mr. Hall for the Defendants.

THIS ACTION was brought to recover the sum of $70.00 alleged to be due to the Plaintiff as one of the Official Registrars under the Manhood Suffrage Act 7th Edward 7th Chapter 5.

The Defendants admit their liability to pay the last item of the account and have, so it was admitted, tendered a cheque in payment of the first and last items of the account. At the hearing the Counsel for the Defendants objected to the first item and requested me to decide if this item was chargeable against the Defendants. I therefore decide that it is a proper item under the circumstances detailed at the hearing. The Defendants contend that they are not liable to pay the second item as they have no right to pay more than one Registrar for each Registration Subdivision or District and that they have already paid one Registrar for this District and that the Plaintiff should have performed all the duties of the Office himself, and that it was not necessary to appoint the Officer that they have already paid who they contend performed all the duties as such Registrar.

The Plaintiff is one of the Board of Manhood Suffrage Registrars appointed by the Act 7 Edward 7 Chapter 5 Sec. 5SS5 by virtue of his Office of Police Magistrate of the City of Peterborough, and is also a member of the Board constituted by SS1 of Sec. 5 which reads as follows:

"The Board shall consists of the officials hereinafter mentioned (Sec. SS6), who may from time to time appoint so many Registrars as shall be necessary to carry out the Provisions of the Act." It is quite evident that under this clause the Board are to Judge of the necessity for such appointments of additional Registrars and neither the Treasurer of the City nor the City Council have any right to dispute their Statutory authority nor to review their findings as to the necessity for such appointment.

The 43rd Section of the Act deals with the compensation of and mode of payment of the Officers created by the Act as follows: "A Registrar for each Sittings and each member of the Board of Appeal for each day on which a Sitting is held, $10.00." Such sums shall be paid by the Treasurer of the City upon the presentation of a certificate of the Registrar approved by the Chairman of the Board. The Treasurer is simply a ministorial Officer and upon the presentation of the necessary certificate he is bound to pay the amount. In this case it was admitted that no certificate was presented to the Treasurer and therefore there can be no recovery.

I dismiss the action without costs, but reserve the right to the Plaintiff to sue or to take such proceedings as he may be advised on the refusal of the Treasurer to pay upon presentation to him of a proper certificate approved by the Chairman as required by the Act.

Dated at Lindsay this eighth day of June, A.D., 1912.

JOHN E. HARDING,
Judge.

BASEBALL

The White Caps came to life again yesterday at Berlin and defeated the champions in a hard hitting contest by 8-7

Tully and Tracey were the only two players who did not get a run but each had a hit. The Petes had five two baggers.

Each team scored one in the first. The White Caps shot ahead in the second, but Berlin went ahead in the third. The Petes won the game in the eighth, when two men crossed.

Barthold took the only three bagger of th egame. He also had a sacrifice hit and a sacrifice fly. The Petes had ten men left on the bags

THE CHAMBERS OF COMMERCE FAVORS CANADA'S PROPOSAL

W. P. Gundy of Toronto Urges That the United Kingdom and the Colonies Provide a Cable and Steamship Service—W. F. Cockshutt Presents Resolution on Trade—Foster is Reorganizing Commerce.

London, June 12.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—W. P. Gundy, Toronto, had a resolution carried by the Congress of the Chambers of Commerce of the Empire, favoring "all red" steamships and cables.

W. F. Cockshutt, Brantford, submitted a resolution on Imperial preferential trade, and G. E. Drummond, Montreal, supported it. The debate was adjourned.

Premier Asquith welcomed the delegates and Lord Desborough, the president, said: "If the Empire is to live it must consolidate in commerce as well as in defence."

Lieut.-Col. MacKay, Montreal, moved a resolution favoring a universal penny post, but Sir A. Firth was opposed, saying it was unfair to ask the Government to create such a system, irrespective of cost of transport or the quantity of communications. The motion was dropped.

Reorganizing Trade.

London, June 12.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—Hon. Geo. E. Foster, interviewed, said that considerable changes were probable in Canada's system of developing trade here. Reorganization would tend to greater efficiency.

Replying to the suggestion that French-Canadians were hostile to Canadian participation in Imperial defence, Hon. Mr. Foster said that side of the question was perhaps exaggerated. A plebiscite would be clumsy and unnecessary. He added that Taft's disclosures on reciprocity left no soreness with Canadians.

AT TO-DAY'S SESSION.

The Congress of the Chambers of Commerce of the British Empire today adopted the proposal of the Toronto Board of Trade in favor of preferential trade within the British Empire by 122 votes against 9. Fifty-eight chambers abstained from voting. Another resolution agreed that trade reciprocity and close political union is desirable between Canada, the West Indies and Newfoundland in view of the approaching completion of the Panama Canal was also adopted. Next Congress will be held in Toronto, in 1915.

Five Years for Bicycle Theft.

Owen Sound, Ont., June 12.—Percy Hingo (colored) was sentenced to five years in Kingston Penitentiary by Police Magistrate A. D. Creasor. Hingo pleaded guilty to entering two stores and stealing various articles, also to the theft of seven bicycles, six of which were purloined during the past six weeks.

For the past several weeks the police had apparently been at a loss to place the man who was stealing bicycles and entering stores with such regularity.

CHICAGO PASTORS ON DIVORCE EVIL

Chicago, June 12.—Methodist preachers of Chicago have agreed that hereafter they will not marry divorced persons who refuse to grant ten days for examination of their records. These preachers believe that this precaution will tend to lessen the number of divorces.

This was decided on after Rev. Francis Miner Moody of San Francisco, field secretary of the California State Commission of Marriage and Divorce, had told the clergymen that 100,000 divorces have been granted in the United States in the last year, this being seven times as many as were granted in Europe.

Divorce, since 1870, has increased three and a half times as rapidly as the population, said Mr. Moody.

TWO CHILDREN BURNED TO DEATH

Special to the Review.

Quebec, June 12.—Robert and Rene Castonguay, aged eight and five, lost their lives this morning in a fire which partly destroyed their home. Five other children were rescued by the father and mother. Rene was found burned to a crisp in his bed and Robert was asphyxiated without any burns.

ONLY ONE VOTE FOR EVERY MAN

Special to the Review.

London, June 21—Premier Asquith announced in the Commons to-day that the Franchise Reform Bill would be introduced at an early date. The bill is drafted to give one man one vote, on short residential qualification, with the simplest possible form of registration, the latter to be at public expense. A clause fixing all elections for one day may be added. The woman suffrage amendment cannot be forthcoming until the bill is printed.

Atlantic City, June 12.—May Yone, the actress reported missing, some days ago, has arrived here. She explains that she was on an automobile trip.

C.P.R. WILL SPEND SIXTY MILLION

Montreal, June 12.—Sir Thomas Shaughnessy yesterday added to the announcement he made to the Canadian press a month ago in regard to the double-tracking of the C.P.R. system through the Rockies. Sir Thomas at that time announced that the step was contemplated. He now says surveys will start at once for the work, which will cost $60,000,000.

Two Years and Thirty Lashes.

Toronto, June 12.—Samuel Boyle was sentenced to two years in Central Prison with 30 lashes by Magistrate Kingsford yesterday afternoon, for an assault upon a little girl three years of age. This is the third man that has been punished for a similar offence during the past week.

Quebec's New Chief Justice.

Ottawa, June 12.—Justice Charles Peers Davidson of Montreal was appointed by the Government yesterday to succeed Sir Melbourne Tait, who recently resigned as chief justice of the Superior Court of Quebec.

He is of English descent and a Protestant.

Importing Cement From U. S.

Calgary, Alta., June 12.—About 180,000 barrels of cement have been ordered already from the United States by Calgary contractors. Of that amount 30,000 barrels have been delivered. Another 10,000 will probably have been delivered by the time the reduction goes into effect, leaving approximately 140,000 barrels of the quantity now on order to get the benefit of the reduction.

Approximately 250,000 barrels will be needed yet to tide Alberta over the shortage. The mills of Alberta will be able to handle at least 50,000 barrels of that.

ARMY AEROPLANE KILLS TWO MEN

College Park, Md., June 12.—Lieut. Leighton W. Hazlehurst, 17th Infantry, U.S.A., of Macon, Ga., and A. L. Welch of Washington, D.C., were killed here at 6.15 o'clock last night when a new army aeroplane of the Wright type in which they were flying, fell to the ground at the army aviation school, and was wrecked.

Welch was flying the machine and Lieut. Hazlehurst was with him as a passenger. They had ascended a distance of about 200 feet, when they dipped to come down and go up again. When about thirty feet from the ground and going at a tremendous speed, the machine collapsed and crashed to the earth. Apparently the weight of the engine and the two aviators caused the collapse. The machine struck the ground with terrific force and both men were instantly killed.

Welch, whose home was here, had been for three years in the employ of the Wright Brothers, and was said by Orville Wright to be one of their best teachers.

TAFT MEN ALLOW ROOSEVELT ONE CONTESTED DELEGATE

Process of Protesting the Roosevelt Men Elected at the Primaries on Various Grounds Goes on at Chicago and Score Now Stands at 101 to 1 In Favor of the President and His Machine Operators.

Chicago, June 12.—One delegate for Col. Roosevelt, the first awarded him since the national committee began the hearing of contest cases last Friday, and 17 for President Taft, were the net results of yesterday's session of the Republican national committee.

In all 101 delegates have been accorded President Taft since the committee opened its hearings. The one placed in the Roosevelt column yesterday was D. C. Edwards, from the 11th district of Kentucky. The Taft forces on the committee refused by a vote of 33 to 19, to seat both of the Roosevelt delegates whose places were contested, but agreed to a split, which gave Col. Roosevelt and President Taft each one delegate from the district.

The half victory for Col. Roosevelt came at the end of a day in which all of the other much-discussed contests from Kentucky had been decided in President Taft's favor. In some of these the Roosevelt men had acquiesced, in others they had mustered a vote from 11 to 17 against the Taft decisions.

Senator Borah, the most active Roosevelt adherent in the committee, protested against splitting the 11th district delegation.

"There is no justification for it," he declared. "If one is given both should be."

Arthur Vorys of Ohio had made the motion to seat the divided delegation. John G. Capers, Senator Borah and Francis J. Heney led an effort to adopt a substitute to seat both Roosevelt men, but they could muster only 19 votes. The split delegation was then unanimously seated.

President Taft's four contested delegates-at-large from Kentucky, headed by Senator W. O. Bradley, were seated with only eleven votes in the negative. He was given the six from the first, second and tenth district unanimously.

The contest against the two in the fourth district was withdrawn, and the six from the seventh, eighth and eleventh districts were won against the votes of the Roosevelt forces.

Sharp interchanges between Francis J. Heney of San Francisco and Taft members of the committee characterized the long day's session over the Kentucky contests. Mr. Heney, who will appear to-day in the hearing of the California contests, repeatedly referred to frauds in Kentucky elections and compared conditions to those that existed in California under Abe Ruef.

Restrictions upon the time of argument were abandoned in the Kentucky cases yesterday, and all evidence was heard at length. As a result the committee to-day will begin its session at 9 o'clock with the prospect of night sessions the remainder of the week.

Nearly Treason, Says Teddy.

Oyster Bay, June 12.—With an attack on his opponents in the Republican National committee and President Taft, Col. Roosevelt again protested against the course of affairs at Chicago. In a statement issued at Sagamore Hill, he said Mr. Taft assumed "that the Presidency is to be treated as a fight within the bestowal of the politicians, in defiance of the duly expressed wish of the people." He adds that bosses like Crane of Massachusetts, Penrose of Pennsylvania, Mullane of Kansas, Franklin Murphy of New Jersey, who have been beaten at the polls, are trying to thwart the will of the people.

"Such conduct," Col. Roosevelt wrote, "comes dangerously near being treason to the whole spirit of our institutions, to the whole spirit of democratic free government."

Saved From the Gallows.

Halifax, June 12.—"Guilty of manslaughter," was the verdict of the jury at Digby yesterday in the case of Harry Wilson, charged with shooting his brother, George.

At the September term of the Supreme Court, Wilson was convicted of murder and sentenced to die Dec. 15, but his lawyers appealed to the full bench of judges and a new trial was granted.

Chatham's Tax Rate Higher.

Chatham, June 12.—Chatham's tax rate this year will be 27 1-2 mills. Last year the rate was 27 1-4 mills, but this year a large number of unforeseen expenditures will increase the rate, notwithstanding the fact that the assessment was increased this year about $200,000.

ENGLAND HAS A FALL OF SNOW

Special to the Review.

London, June 12—The Daily Mirror reports a heavy fall of snow in Nottinghamshire. The roads are covered with lumps of ice and the fruit crop is badly damaged.

Corporal Won't Go To Bisley.

Toronto, June 12.—Corporal A. Rutherford of the Queen's Own Rifles will not accompany the Canadian Bisley team to England. He wired Ottawa yesterday of his intention to drop out. There is much disappointment among members of the Q.O.R. over the corporal's refusal to represent Canada. He was the only marksman in Toronto to be appointed to the team. It is understood that his action is due to the new regulations making alterations in the conditions of the "low position," which he has been using for four years. Pte. Clifford, the King's prize winner, a year ago, used this position in his great victory, and since then the new regulations have been enforced.

Can't Expel Ne Temere.

Belfast, June 12.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—The Presbyterian Church committee on the ne temere decree reports to the General Assembly here that they considered it useless to approach the Government in the hope of securing the decree's withdrawal.

Dr. Davidson said the priests in Scotland and Ireland were manifesting a vigorous determination to carry the decree to the uttermost.

U. S. Commerce Court Abolished.

Washington, June 12.—The Senate late yesterday by 36 to 23 voted to abolish the Commerce Court by refusing to provide for the court in the judicial appropriation bill. The House had struck out the provision for the court and the Senate voted down an amendment to restore it.

Fifty-Nine Burned In Barn.

St. Petersburg, June 12.—Fifty-nine field laborers were burned to death early yesterday morning while sleeping in a barn near Tamboy, Central Russia, on a property belonging to Count Orloff Davydoff.

The cause of the outbreak is not known.

KING GEORGE WON CATTLE PRIZE

Special to the Review.

London, June 12—King George, at the Royal Agricultural show at Guildford yesterday won the special prize of the Shorthorn Society for the best yearling bull, and first prize in the two year old heifer class.

BRITISH LAW MUST BE MADE THE SUPREME LAW OF CANADA

Judge Greenshield's Caustic Comments on the Morin Libel Suit Tried Before Him, and His Views on Quebec Marriage Law

The Toronto Globe in its leading editorial this morning, says:

"This is a British country, and British law must be supreme in it. The outspoken statement of Judge Greenshields in Montreal yesterday, when the suit of Madame Morin against La Croix came before him, will have the commendation of all good citizens, whatever their race or creed.

"La Croix, an Ultramontane paper of Montreal, some time ago contained an article stating that Father Chiniquy, Madame Morin's father, had taken vows of perpetual chastity as a priest; and therefore he could never be married legally. The woman with whom he went through the marriage ceremony after he became a Protestant was in reality only his concubine. From this it follows that Madame Morin, of whose existence La Croix seemed to be in ignorance, must be an illegitimate child. Madame Morin is the wife of a professor of McGill University, and she brought action against La Croix for $10,000 damages.

"In opening the case counsel for the paper declared that Father Chiniquy had been a public man, and that his life and works were open to criticism. Whereupon the Judge replied:—"That may be so, but what possible interest could a paper have in dragging the name of his wife, who has been dead thirteen years, into the argument? If it had desired to counteract the effect of Chiniquy's anti-Catholic books it could have done so without doing that. Calling the woman he lived with a concubine did not do the Catholic Church any good. Why, you might as well blame the wife of a novelist who had written objectionable books for these works. I concede the right of a Church paper to advocate its doctrines but always with due respect to the rights of private persons. I deny the right of a paper to single out one person, who, in its opinion, has violated a dogma, and stigmatize her as a prostitute and her children as illegitimate. I deny that right. This woman married and lived with her husband in good faith. Whose business is it to now drag her name through the mud? She was an ideal wife and mother, and not even the Church of Rome should be permitted to call her a concubine because her husband had violated one of its laws."

"Judge Greenshields put his finger upon the sore spot in the marriage laws of Canada to-day when he pointed out that the violation of a dogma of the Church of Rome by Father Chiniquy was the sole reason for declaring his marriage no marriage at all and his wife a concubine. Father Chiniquy was a Protestant when he married. He was not even married in the Province of Quebec. The marriage took place in legal form, and the person celebrating it did so as an officer of the State. There is nothing in British law forbidding a priest to marry after he renounces the Catholic Church, or even without any declaration of renunciation. The contention of La Croix in effect is that no person born and baptized into the Catholic Church can ever be anything else than a Catholic in the eyes of the civil law of Quebec as well as of the Church. Once for all the monstrous pretension that no Quebec Catholic can legally become a Protestant must be set aside. Judge Greenshields' words were not a bit too strong. It is time to speak out."

FREIGHTER MOUNT OSWALD NOW GIVEN UP FOR LOST

Special to the Review.

Berlin, June 12—The Hamburg Transatlantic freighter, "Mount Oswald," which sailed from Boston for this port, February 17, and was due here the first week in March, is lost and the insurance companies responsible for the amounts, aggregating one hundred thousand dollars on her cargo, have informed the consignees they are ready to pay the claims due on the policies. The steamer carried a crew of forty or fifty. It has not been heard of since leaving Baltimore

GENERAL ASSEMBLY TAKES UP EDUCATIONAL QUESTION

Edmonton, June 12.—The Assembly resumed consideration of the colleges yesterday. Acting Principal Baird reported for Manitoba College. A new charter is being sought, and it will be submitted to the Assembly for approval. The board is not yet prepared to nominate a principal in succession to Dr. Patrick, and permission was given to them to fill the vacancy when a suitable man can be found. Some large bequests recently make the financial future of the college very bright.

Rev. J. S. Sutherland moved and Rev. C. Young seconded the adoption of the report.

A delegation from the Methodist Church of Alberta visited the Assembly and brought greetings. References to the proposed union were loudly applauded, and the Moderator's reply left nothing to be desired on his part by the advocates of union.

Ally Churches For Reform.

Toronto, June 12.—To fight the white slave traffic and the many other evils confronting civilization, Hon. S. H. Blake, in a spirited address at the meeting of the Anglican Synod yesterday, in St. James' Parish House, said that all creeds and beliefs should be amalgamated and all Christians should become an allied army for the triumph of moral and social reform. He referred to the great influx of foreigners to this country and the needs of the church in looking after them. "Have we offered any inducement to the poor wayfarers who leave home to come, as he thinks, to a land of justice, equality and imperialism?" he asked.

Barriefield Camp Poorly Attended.

Kingston, June 12.—There are 1,350 officers and men in the military camp at Barriefield. This is a little over half the strength of the regiments. Officers state it was before never so hard to get men, the men finding there is more money staying on the farm.

Hon. Sam Hughes says the success of the camps of the city and rural regiments depends alone on the enthusiasm displayed by the officers.

Premier Off to Nova Scotia.

Ottawa, June 12.—Premier Borden left this morning for Halifax, en route to Grand Pre, N.S., where he will spend a couple of days with his mother. Subsequently he will spend several days in Halifax. The Premier will then return to Ottawa and will preside at several meetings of the Cabinet Council before sailing for England on June 26.

Louisiana Legislator Killed.

Washington, June 12.—Representative Robert C. Wickiffe, of Louisiana, met a tragic death here yesterday.

His badly crushed body was found on the tracks at Potomac Park, near the entrance to the bridge across the Potomac River. It is presumed he was either knocked off or fell from the train bound for the south.

Katmai In Eruption.

Kodiak, Alaska, June 9 (via tug to Seward), June 12.—Dodiak and Woody Island villages are buried under a foot of ashes as a result of the eruption of Katmai volcano, beginning Thursday afternoon and lasting 48 hours. No lives have been lost here, but many other settlements near the volcano must have suffered indescribably.

The revenue cutter Manning was in port here when the eruption began and furnished refuge for all the inhabitants of the town, 500 men, women and children, doubtless saving many lives. The Manning is now serving distilled water and Government rations to the destitute people, the water supply having been polluted and springs filled with ashes.

Will Get Cannon Back.

Ottawa, June 12.—The Department of Militia has just received a request from the Bunker Hill Memorial Association of Boston, that one of the revolutionary guns captured by the British troops at that battle, and which now rests at the citadel at Quebec, be returned to the United States.

In view of the amicable relations between the two countries, and the coming joint celebration of the hundred years of peace between the two peoples, the Canadian Government will send back to Boston this gun, which has always stood as a proof that has been used by British and Canadian historians in their contention that this much disputed battle was actually won by the British troops.

Muzzling Western "Wild Cats."

London, June 12.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—The Canadian Chamber of Commerce in London with a view to protecting land investors from buying worthless lots near new western towns have asked the leading firms dealing here in Canadian land to pledge themselves to refuse to sell unless the plans follow certain detailed conditions.

Thibetan Dogs.

New exhibits at the Zoological Gardens in London include six Thibetan mastiffs—husband and wife and four children. These are part of the King's Indian collection, which will be a great feature of the gardens this summer. The work of preparing accommodation for the collection is advancing rapidly. The Thibet dogs, which have come in advance, are of great interest, and previously have been known in this country only through books of Asiatic travel; such books have always pretended that dogs of Thibet were like lions in the paths of travelers there—huge, shaggy, and ruthless creatures which bit a man before asking for his card. In their native country they are trained to give notice of all strangers and to guard the sheep from wolves.

Edward Voisard has been appointed manager of St. Catharines gas works.

TRANSPORT WORKERS MAY LOSE IN BRITISH STRIKE

The Ship-Owners Steadily Refuse to Make Any Concessions to the Men Although the Government Is Doing Everything In Its Power to Effect a Compromise—Workers Are Obeying Order Tardily.

London, June 12.—Undeterred by the failure of previous attempts, the Government yesterday resumed negotiations with a view to arranging a peaceful settlement of the dock strike. The prospects of success are slender, as the ship owners, convinced that a national strike cannot be successfully engineered, have taken an unyielding attitude. The number of men outside of London who have responded to the call for a national strike does not exceed 25,000, but several ports, including Bristol, Swansea, Southampton and Manchester are partially tide up.

Much depends upon the result of the ballots which are being taken by the Seamen's and other unions, but from all appearances the movement is foredoomed to failure.

The strike leaders, nevertheless, are hopeful that they can so dislocate the country's trade as to compel the Governmnet to pass legislation for the purpose of coercing the shipowners. The Cabinet Ministers, on the other hand, are doing their utmost to avoid adding to the labors of the already overloaded Parliamentary machine. The London situation remains unchanged.

Serious rioting occurred at Bermondsey, a parish of London, last night, when strikers and police came into collision. Six policemen were injured and the windows of shops and houses were broken.

The Transport Federation has issued an appeal to other trade unions to come to their assistance with funds "to carry on the fight against the capitalists," their own funds being depleted.

At a meeting of the West Ham Town Council last night Will Thorne, labor member of Parliament for the south division, moved a novel resolution, designed to prevent convoys from proceeding from the docks by destroying all the roads in West Ham leading to the docks. The mayor refused to allow the resolution to be put.

CARPATHIA HEROES GET THEIR MEDALS

CAPTAIN ROSTRON HOLDING CUP PRESENTED BY TITANIC SURVIVORS,

A pleasant interruption to the routine of duty came to the officers and the crew of the Carpathia, of the Cunard line, when, on the arrival of the steamship in New York from the Mediterranean, she was boarded by a commitee of the Titanic's survivors and medals were given to every man, woman and boy who in any way took part in the memorable rescue.

To Captain Arthur H. Rostron was given a massive silver cup and a gold medal. Gold medals also were bestowed on his chief officer, his first officer, and his chief engineer, and on the Carpathia's surgeon, purser and chief steward. All the junior officers received silver medals, and every other man, woman and boy of the crew that was on board when the Carpathia saved the Titanic's survivors received a bronze medal.

Owing to the great influx of foreigners of late the Trades and Labor Council of Berlin is drawing to the attention of the City Council that these men are being given the preference over local labor on municipal work.

Reports from Chicoutimi, Que., are to the effect that a snow flurry of about an hour's duration passed over that district Monday. There were also light falls of snow along the line between Lake Edward and Chicoutimi.

Land Being Taken Up.

Toronto, June 12.—Since the opening of spring there has been a considerable influx of settlers in the vicinity of Cochrane, some two hundred applications for lands having been received by the crown land agent at that point for lands in the Townships of Blake, Glackmeyer, Lamarche and Brower. These, with previous applications, have pretty well exhausted the lands in these four townships open for settlement under the Cochrane agency. From the volume of enquiries made by people desirous of settling in the clay belt it is evident that public interest has been awakened to the possibilities of that fertile region.

In order to provide farms for the greatly increased number of people wishing to locate in the vicinity of Cochrane, the following townships have been thrown open for settlement: Blount, Leitch, Colquhoun, Calder, Fourier, Fox and Pyne. The following townships have been opened under the Matheson agency: Matheson, German, Stock, Beatty and Bond.

'PRENTICE BOYS REPORT FINE YEAR

Toronto, June 12.—A banquet, attended by four hundred members and delegates of the Protestant Association of 'Prentice Boys of British North America, tendered to the grand lodge officers and delegates of the P.A.P.B. by Walker-Murray Lodge and the City of Toronto, held last night, marked the opening of the forty-second annual convention of the association.

The convention is the largest held during forty-two years of the association, and is attended by delegates from the two hundred and fifty lodges throughout Canada, some of the delegates having came as far as from St. John, N.B., and Vancouver, B.C. The registration of delegates and formal opening took place yesterday afternoon at Victoria Hall. Rt. Wor. Bro. H. Sellen of St. John, N.B., grand master of the P.A.P.B., read the opening address.

Grand Secretary C. O. Brickman of Belleville, in addressing the convention, stated that the P.A.P.B. had during the year had the remarkable growth of nearly ten per cent. This beats all previous records and merited the heartiest congratulation on all concerned. Most important of all it showed that Protestantism was holding its own among the younger generation of Canada.

JUDGE SAYS PAPER WENT TOO FAR

Montreal, June 12.—"She was an ideal wife and mother, and not even the Church of Rome should be permitted to call her a concubine because her husband violated one of its laws."

So declared Justice Greenshields yesterday, after hearing arguments in the suit brought by Madame Rebecca Morin against the publisher of La Croix for references made to her father, the famous ex-priest, Father Chiniquy, and his wife.

Replying to Gustave Lamothe, K.C., who defended the article on the claim that Chiniquy had been a public man and that his life and works were open to criticism.

Judge Greenshields said: "That may be so, but what possible interest could a paper have in dragging the name of his wife, who has been dead thirteen years, into the argument? If it had desired to counteract the effect of Chiniquy's anti-Catholic books, it could have done so without doing that. Calling the woman he lived with a concubine did not do the Catholic Church any good. Why, you might as well blame the wife of a novelist who had written objectionable books for these works."

Judgment was reserved.

EXCURSION TRAIN WAS WRECKED

Special to the Review.

Atlanta, Ga., June 12.—A train of the Western and Atlantic railroad carrying an excursion, has been wrecked near Dalton. Wires are down and particulars are difficult to obtain. Officials say two passengers were killed and seventy-five injured, but rumors are that many have been killed.

BOOM OLD ONTARIO

"Let us boom Old Ontario rather than the West," was the policy agreed upon by a large number of newspaper publishers at the Ottawa meeting last week.

And what better course could be adopted, seeing that it is certainly time for a change. The West has for years been coddled by the newspapers and by politicians until it has become the spoiled child in the family of Canadian Federation. Now that it has passed the age of infancy it can surely be trusted to go alone and if any booming is required, all evidence goes to show, that its own efforts in that direction will suffice.

THE BIBLE CRUSADERS

Rev. W. F. Roadhouse has given up his pastorate of a Baptist church in Toronto, to go into the reform business as a profession and is now known as the head and front of the "Alliance of Bible Crusaders," the great object of which is fighting against what is popularly known as the higher criticism of the Bible. The University of Toronto, the Crusaders have reason to believe, is not altogether orthodox in its teachings inasmuch as it does not always strive to reconcile science and religion and this is one of the cases upon which the new organisation proposes to get busy forthwith. We have all been laboring under the impression that McMaster College stood for the direct inspiration of the Scriptures and that Knox College was a veritable Gibraltar in the matter of Presbyterian orthodoxy. But not so in the estimation of the Crusaders. With the University, they are regarded as the very hotbeds of heresy and are to be made the subjects of investigation.

But surely all this alarm is uncalled for. Whence the danger to the religious faith of the day and to the Bible as the basis of that faith? What has the University done, secular as it is entirely in its teachings to overthrow the scriptures? Nothing that anyone of us has heard about and nothing that has warped the faith of its army of graduates. If McMaster has taught, or is teaching heresy, then its teachings have been lost on the graduates from that institution who preach in Baptist pulpits every Sunday. When the late Dr. Cavan was at the head of Knox College no one ever dreamed that heretical teaching was tolerated. When a new principal was selected a short time ago, Rev. Alfred Gandier, one of the most conservative ministers in the church was appointed, Knox College is safe from heterodoxy, the Crusaders to the contrary notwithstanding.

The new alliance wants members and co-operation, but chiefly members. No matter where you live if you send in your name and fifty cents you are enrolled as a Crusader. Your duty then will be to exercise an unfaltering vigilance over the pastors in your community. If your own minister shows a disposition to abate by one jot or tittle the faith of our fathers report him to the headquarters of the alliance and the executive committee of the Crusaders will do the rest. If he be a Presbyterian preacher watch carefully lest his feet stumble among the mazes of such matters as infant baptism, election and future punishment.

No one seems disposed to take the new organization seriously. Toronto is simply obsessed with the desire sire to reform the world. Nothing daunted are the so-called reformers by the fact that one of their most active moral vigilants is now held to a court for trial on a serious charge, a position in which he finds himself through excessive zeal. The thoughts of mankind will expand, new ideas on religion and every other matter of import and human interest will grow in spite of such organizations as the new one in Toronto.

Here is an incident which it might be in order to call to the attention of the Crusaders as showing what grave changes have occurred in the religious life of a generation. Rev. Dr. Lyle, one of the leading ministers in Hamilton, and a pillar of the Presbyterian church in Canada, not so long ago publicly declared that he did not believe in the eternal punishment of the wicked, and that if he thought for a moment that the Creator would so treat a human being, he would walk out of the pulpit and work in His cause no more. Dr. Lyle was never haled before a church court for this utterance and never lost caste in his denomination because of it. On the contrary he was since that time elected moderator of the General Assembly, the highest office in the gift of the Presbyterians.

A short generation ago a Toronto divine stumbled over this same doctrine which he did not renounce but simply questioned. He retained his place in the church only by an unqualified retreat from his position and a renewed avowal of his belief in this article of the creed.

MR. FIELDING'S EVIDENCE

The testimony of ex-Finance Minister Fielding in the Farmers' Bank inquiry is of peculiar interest as bearing upon the question of who loaned the money to get the bank afloat, and what Chief Justice Meredith and Mr. Fielding himself have to say of such action. In one particular instance Mr. Fielding's testimony possesses a local color for the people of Peterboro. From the report of the proceedings in yesterday's Globe, we take the following—

Mr. Fielding recalled a conversation he had with Mr. George Burn of the Bank of Ottawa, who suggested to him that he could secure some information with regard to the Farmers Bank from Hon. J. R. Stratton, then President of the Trusts & Guarantee Company, Toronto, who was in Ottawa at the time. This was in reference to money borrowed from the company and not paid back at that time. He had not seen Mr. Stratton and did not think it his business to do so. If anything was known by any person it was their duty to bring it before him in a definite manner. No one had done so.

Chief Justice Meredith then took a hand in the examination as follows—

Chief Justice Meredith—If you had known that a portion of the capital was raised by borrowing money which was to have been afterwards paid back would you have advised the Treasury Board not to have issued the certificate?

Hon. Mr. Fielding — Assuredly. There is something else I would like to say here, owing to an impression which has been made upon the public mind. The failure of the bank was in no way due to the irregularity in the paid-up capital to qualify for certificate; on the contrary, there was afterwards ample capital paid in to qualify and conduct the bank, and there was no reason for it failing if it has been wisely and honestly administered.

Chief Justice Meredith—In view of specific charges by Sir Edmund Osler and Mr. Henderson, M.P., why was not the method of raising the capital investigated?

Mr. Fielding—There were no specific charges—Sir Edmund Osler's attitude when the certificate issued was the same as mine, that it was to be regretted that a bank was to be started in this way, with subscriptions from farmers of moderate means unaccustomed to the banking business.

NOTE AND COMMENT

The Toronto Star hopes that for the last time in Canada the tariff is used as a bribe to a Province. Now, really is there no Province in the Dominion outside of Saskatchewan, using cement these days.

Prof. Frank H. Norman, a Montreal dancing master, goes to Chicago to protest against the turkey trot and the bunny hug, but the bear dance now in progress in the Republican convention has the front of the stage at present.

Comparing the reports of the volcanic eruption in Kodiak with Hall Caine's description of a similar occurrence in Iceland, we can no longer regard the latter as an exaggeration of fiction.

Major Leonard thinks that the Transcontinental will be completed in time to help move the wheat next fall by way of Cochrane and the T. & N. O. road to Toronto and Montreal. If this is done the prairie farmer will have one less cause to grumble.

Andrew Carnegie advised the students of Aberdeen University to be "teetotallers until they became millionaires." Safe advice this for if it is followed ninety per cent. or more of the graduates will ride the water waggon to the end of their days.

SOUR RISINGS FROM STOMACH

Those Who Experience Fullness and Pain After Meals, Stomach Disorders, and Indigestion, Should Read Below.

"When I was working around the farm last winter I had an attack of inflammation," writes Mr. E. P. Dawkins, of Port Richmond. "I was weak for a long time, but well enough to work until spring. But something went wrong with my bowels, for I had to use salts or physic all the time. My stomach kept sour, and always after eating there was pain and fulness, and all the symptoms of intestinal indigestion. Nothing helped me until I used Dr. Hamilton's Pills. Instead of hurting, like other pills, they acted very mildly, and seemed to heal the bowels. I did not require large doses to get results with Dr. Hamilton's Pills, and feel so glad that I have found a mild yet certain remedy. To-day I am well—no pain, no sour stomach, a good appetite, able to digest anything. This is a whole lot of good for one medicine to do, and I can say Dr. Hamilton's Pills are the best pills, and my letter, I am sure, proves it."

Cynthia's Chauffeur

By LOUIS TRACY

Copyright by McLeod & Allen, Toronto

"There's nothink in the name of Fitzroy, my lord," said he, having been warned in that matter overnight.

Medenham took his packet with the best grace possible, trying to assure himself that Cynthia had written at a late hour and had missed the first London mail in consequence. Glancing hurriedly through the correspondence, however, his glance fell on a letter bearing the Windermere postmark. It was addressed, in an unfamiliar hand, to "Viscount Medenham," and the writing was bold, well-formed, and business-like. Then he read:

Sir—My daughter received a note from you this morning, and she was about to answer it when I informed her that she was communicating with a person who had given her an assumed name. I also asked her, as a favor, to permit me to reply in her stead. Now, I have this to say—Miss Vanrenen does not know, and will never know from me, the true nature of the trick you played on her. You bear the label of a gentleman, so it is my earnest hope—indeed, my sincere belief—that you will respect the trust she placed in you, and not expose her to the idle chatter of clubs and scandal-spreading drawing-rooms. During two days I have been very bitter against you. To-day I take a calmer view, and, provided that neither my daughter nor I ever see or hear of you again, I shall be willing to credit that you acted more in a spirit of youthful caprice than from any foul desire to injure the good repute of one who has done no harm to you or yours.

I am,
Yours truly,
Peter Vanrenen.

Medennham read and reread this harsh letter many times. Then, out of brooding chaos, leaped one fiery question—where was Marigny?

The gate which Cynthia's father had shut and bolted in his face did not frighten him. He had leaped a wall of brass and triple steel when he won Cynthia Vanrenen's love in the guise of an humble chauffeur, so it was unbelievable that the barrier interposed by a father's misguided wrath should prove unsurmountable.

But Marigny! He wanted to feel his fingers clutching that slender throat, to see that pink and white face empurple and grow black under their strain, and it was all-important that the scoundrel should be brought to book before the Vanrenens returned to London. He gave a passing thought to Mrs. Leland, it was true. If she shared with Vanrenen the silly little secret of his identity, it was beyond comprehension that she should let her friend hold the view that he (Medenham) was merely an enterprising blackguard.

Still, these considerations were light as thistle-down compared with the need of finding Marigny. He and Dale began to hunt London for the Frenchman. But they had to deal with a wary bird, who would not break covert till it suited his own convenience. And then, the sublime cheek of the man! On the Friday morning when Medenham rose with a fixed resolve to obtain the services of a private detective, he received this note:

Dear Viscount Medenham—I have a notion, as our mutual acquaintance Mr. Vanrenen would say (Do you know him? Now that I consider the matter, I think not), that you are anxious to meet me. We have things to discuss, have we not? Well, then I await you at the above address.

Yours to command
Edouard Marigny.

CHAPTER XIV

—And Good Judgment Yields to Folly

At any other moment the tone of confidence underlying the effrontery of this letter would certainly have revealed its presence to a brain more than ordinary acute. But in the storm and stress of his rage against gods and men, Medenham did not wait to ponder subtleties of expression. No matter what the hidden reason that inspired Marigny's pen, it was enough for Medenham to know that at last that arch-plotter and very perfect rascal was within his reach. He breakfasted in a fury of haste, crammed on a hat, and rushed away, meaning to drive in a cab to the hotel in Northumberland Avenue from which Marigny wrote.

Such was his agitated state that he was not even surprised when he found the Mercury waiting outside, with Dale, taciturn as ever, scrutinizing the day's sporting news. In sober fact, the man was almost as perturbed as his master. For an hour in the morning, and again during certain periods of suspense in the afternoon, he forgot his troubles in the effort either to "spot winners" or to persuade himself that the horses he had selected for particular races had not run, since their names failed to appear among the "first three." But these spasms of anticipation and disillusionment soon passed. During the remainder of the long hours of daylight Dale was ever on the qui vive for a wild rush of two or three hundred miles in pursuit of the woman whose charms had so effectually subjugated the young Viscount. Even the hunt for Marigny did not weaken Dale's belief, and Medenham was never in Cavendish Square or at his club at any practicable hour that the Mercury was not at hand, with petrol tanks full, luggage carriers attached, and a full stock of spares and reserve spirit on board. At any rate, on this occasion Medenham merely gave him Marigny's address, and pumped inside. Dale was disappointed. He expected the order to be "Carlisle," at least.

Soon his lordship was being conducted by an hotel servant to a private sitting-room. The Frenchman, who was seated at a table, writing, when he entered, rose and bowed politely.

"I thought it highly probable that I should have the honor of seeing you this morning, Viscount Medenham," he said, and there was a touch of restraint, of formal courtesy, in his voice that the other, even in his anger against the man, did not fail to notice. Oddly enough, it savored of brutality to attack him without preface, and Marigny seemed to be unconscious of his visitor's unconcealed animosity.

"I am glad you are here," he went on glibly. "Recent events call for a full discussion between you and me, do you agree? But before we come to close quarters, as you say in England, I wish to know whether the argument is to be conducted on lines that befit gentlemen. On the last occasion when we differed, you used the methods of the costermonger."

"They served their purpose," said Medenham, annoyed at finding the Frenchman's coolness rather disconcerting.

Suddenly, he decided on a new plan of action, and resolved to let the man say what he chose. Dearly as he would have liked to wreak physical vengeance on him, he felt that such a proceeding offered the least satisfactory way out of a situation fraught with no small risk of publicity. Marigny must have had some all-powerful motive in sending for him; better learn that before his bitter and contemptuous words sealed an adversary's lips.

"Won't you sit down?" came the urbane request.

"I prefer standing, if you don't mind," said Medenham curtly; then he added, after a little pause:

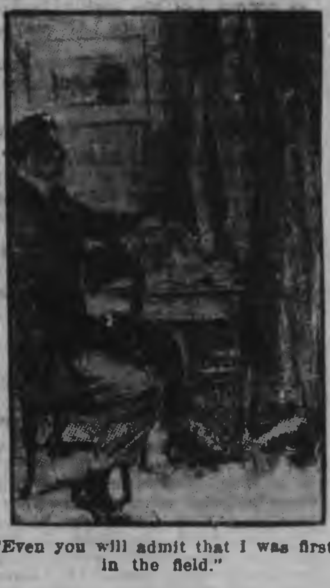
"It may clear the atmosphere somewhat if I tell you that I threatened you at Bristol merely because a certain issue had to be determined within a few seconds. That consideration does not apply now. You are at liberty to say what you like without fear of consequences."

The Frenchman elevated his eyebrows.

"Fear?" he said.

"Oh, don't bandy words with me. You know what I mean. I suppose a man must possess courage of a sort even to become a blackmailer, which is what you threaten to develop into. At any rate, I promise to keep my hands off you, if that is what you want."

"Not exactly," was the quiet answer.



"Even you will admit that I was first in the field."

'One may draw distinctions, even in that regard, but I do wish for an opportunity to discuss our quarrel without an appeal to brute force."

"In other words," said Medenham sternly, "you want to be free to say something which under ordinary conditions would earn you a thrashing. Well—say it!"

Marigny nodded, pulled a chair round so that he was straddled across it, facing Medenham, with his arms resting on the back. He lit a cigarette, and seemed to draw inspiration from the first dense cloud of smoke, for his eyes dwelt on it rather than sought the Englishman's frown.

"In a dispute of this kind," he said, "it is well to begin at the beginning, otherwise one's motives are apt to be misunderstood. Even you, I suppose, will admit that I was first in the field."

There was no answer. To his credit, Medenham thought, Marigny showed a curious unwillingness to mention Cynthia's name, but, no matter what he had in mind, Medenham certainly did not intend to render his task easier.

"You see," went on Count Edouard, after a thoughtful puff or two, "I am quite as well-born a man in my country as you are in yours. I have not ascertained the date when the Fairhome Earldom was created, but there has been a Count Marigny on the Loire since 1434. Of course, you understand that I do not mention this trivial fact in any ridiculous spirit of boasting. I only put it forward as constituting a claim to a certain equality. That is all. Unfortunately, recent events in my family have robbed me of those necessary appurtenances to rank and position which a happier fate has preserved to you. I am poor, you are rich; I must marry a wife with money, you can afford to marry for love. Why then, Viscount Medenham, should you step in and rob me of a rich wife?"

In spite of his loathing of the means adopted by this self-proclaimed rival to snatch an advantage, Medenham did not hesitate to reply:

"My answer to that is, of course, that I have done nothing of the sort. I simply intervened between a crew of adventurers and their possible, though most improbable, victim."

Silent John Burns.

John Burns is going down to Lancashire, where he will shake off "the cold chain of silence that has hung o'er him long." English gossips, who will insist on putting two and two together so as to make five, assert that his silence arises from the fact that there is no love lost between him and Mr. Lloyd-George, who was not sufficiently careful to ascertain John's views about old age pensions, budgets, and insurance schemes. "J.B.," as he sometimes names himself, therefore held his peace on all those legislative efforts. For a strange compound is John. As the first workingman to attain to Cabinet rank, he reflects unbounded credit to the class from which he sprang, and the credit is not lessened by the fact that he is entirely a self-made man; but it is equally undoubted that Heaven has given him a good conceit of himself. The late King Edward, who dearly loved his little joke, was wont—so cynical people said—to point out with bated breath to visitors to Windsor Castle the chair on which John Burns once sat, and the bedroom in which John Burns once slept; and there were other evil-tongued people who told that when Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman offered him a seat in the Cabinet, the imperturbable elect of Battersea replied: "The most popular thing you have done yet." But when all is said, the fact remains that he is one of the most remarkable men of our time. He has about him all the charm of a strong, self-reliant manhood, and his dark, soft, gleaming eyes invite that confidence which men of all shades of political thought have not been slow to repose in him.

Bullets in Battle.

Instancing the fact that in the Boer war "it took 5,000 shots to hit a man," the celebrated rifle shot Ommundsen says, "In spite of improvements in the power, precision and rate of fire of modern weapons, the percentage of hits was immeasurably greater a hundred years ago than it is today."

HARD ON POSTMASTERS.

Renfrew Man Says Rural Delivery Increases the Labor.

Toronto, June 12.—How postmasters are forced to do a large amount of extra labor without special remuneration, was related by Postmaster Wright of Renfrew, when he told of the workings of the rural mail system at the convention of the association yesterday afternoon.

As an example of the work entailed on the rural delivery route without more money, Mr. Wright cited his own case. There are from 60 to 70 patrons on the route. Before the adoption of the scheme these people all rented boxes in the office, and the money thus derived recompensed the official for his trouble. With the loss of the subscribers one of the greatest sources of revenue was cut off. The routes extended over a distance of 20 miles, and the mail has to be arranged and delivered to the courier upon its arrival.

According to Mr. Wright a large amount of the work was made by patrons taking several daily newspapers and one or more periodicals, providing the postmaster with an abundance of labor, but no revenue.

"Rural mail routes are not revenue producers, and never will be," declared the speaker.

A great Canadian daily in the hands of a farmer would do more for his intellectual welfare than three such papers read by a business man, simply because the tiller of the soil had more time to digest the news than did the city man.

"It is one of the greatest educational forces that the world has ever seen," continued Mr. Wright, "and when the Parliamentary representative comes to the farmer to tell him what to do, the latter will be able to point out the way."

Preacher Wins a Wager.

"The sporting parson" is the name that all Toronto gives Rev. J. D. Morrow, the athletic pastor of Dale Presbyterian Church, and on a Toronto street car the other day Mr. Morrow gave a very good demonstration of why he holds the title. Once upon a time the preacher held the Canadian amateur 100 yards dash record, and this fact is well known.

On the street car the other day Mr. Morrow was accosted by a man who evidently had scant faith in the preacher's fleetness of foot. In plain words he spoke his doubt. Mr. Morrow is always game, and he asserted that he was still able to run a bit.

"Tut!" said the man. "I can beat you myself. I'll bet you $2 for your new church funds that I can beat you in 100 yards."

Now, it happens that the preacher is having a hard time raising the money to put a roof on his church, and that two spot looked good to him.

"Done," said he. "Get off the car and we'll run it now."

At the next stop they alighted, ran the 100 yards, and Mr. Morrow made it a walkaway.

The $2 is now in the church building fund—wager made and won to the glory of the Lord, as Mr. Morrow puts it.

COX PROPERTY THE SITE FOR

(WILL COST $9,000)

THE NEW WEST WARD SCHOOL

The Board of Education met in special session last night to consider the matter of purchasing a suitable site for the new West Ward school. There were present chairman John Crane and Messrs. V. Eastwood, W. H. Hill, Dr. Morrison, B. F. Ackerman, T. H. Adams, Dr. Burnham, L. M. Hayes, K. C., Col. Miller and R. Fair.

Dr. Morrison, chairman of the Building Committee presented the following report.

Gentlemen—Regarding the matter of obtaining a suitable site for the new school to be erected in the West Ward, your committee secured options on several properties and after careful consideration, having in mind suitable playgrounds for the children the convenience for sewer and water connection as well as the matter of sidewalks, your committee recommend that the Board purchase from the Toronto Savings and Loan Company for the sum of Nine Thousand Dollars ($9,000.00) Lots Nos. 4, 3, 2 and 1 North of Hopkins Avenue, Lots 29, 30, 31, 32, 34 and 35 west of Albertus Avenue, all of Wallis Avenue extending from Albertus Avenue East to the Monaghan Road, and the Southerly 44 feet each of Lots 6, 5, 4, 3 and 2 North of Wallis Avenue containing approximately 426' 6" on the Monaghan Road by 400' deep, according to plan No. 29 Township of Monaghan, The said lands and premises to be purchased when and as soon as the same have been annexed to the City of Peterborough.

The report was adopted as read on the motion of Dr. Morrison and B. F. Ackerman.

On the motion of Messrs. Ackerman and Miller, the purchase of the property in question was authorized.

The amended offer gave the Board an increased acreage above the first offer, and the price had been reduced by $500. Dr. Morrison remarked that the committee would gladly have adhered to their policy of securing six acres of land for a twelve room school, but they had not found it feasible owing to the land values in the immediate vicinity of the new site.

Messrs. Hill and Eastwood were in favor of getting six acres for $11,000 or $12,000 and Mr. Hill thought it might be possible to add two acres at a future date.

It was explained that this could only be accomplished at considerable additional expense.

SCIENCE MASTER'S SALARY

On the motion of Messrs. Hill and Adams, the salary of the P.C.I. science master was changed from a minimum of $1,500 and maximum of $1900 with a yearly increase of $80 to a minimum of $1,600 and maximum of $1,900 with yearly increase of $60.

BIG MID-SUMMER MEETING IN SMITH TEMPERANCE HALL

The mid-summer meeting held by Mr. Burnham, M.P., at the 4th Line, Smith, last evening, was well attended and the large audience took a deep interest in the member's address. Mr. C. Moore, Jr., was chairman.

After giving an entertaining description of how some men get rich by selling the property of the people at an immense profit, as in the case of Burleigh Falls, the speaker directed attention to the sensational trial of strength now going on in Montreal between G. Langlois, M.P.P., owner of Le Pays, and Archbishop Bruchesi. There was no objection he said to people's considering themselves infallible in matters of faith, and he had nothing to say against the devotion and sincerity of members of the Catholic faith, but when the priesthood undertook to be infallible in "morals" as well, then there was nothing left of popular liberty to anybody of any faith and the conflict must begin. In Montreal it was not a fight between Protestant and Catholic, but between Catholics, and he read the following despatch in Tuesday's Globe without further comment:

"A good deal of interest is taken especially by the English-speaking people, in the threat made by Archbishop Bruchesi yesterday to put Le Pays under the ban. On every side people were loud in their condemnation of the Archbishop's action, and designated it as the most intolerant piece of clerical domination ever attempted in Canada. Simply because Mr. Godfrey Langlois, the editor of Le Pays, has been an advocate, season and out of season, for free and compulsory education, the Archbishop has seen fit to threaten his paper with extinction.

MR. LANGLOIS SURPRISED

In an interview with your correspondent to-day Mr. Langlois expressed his great surprise at the threatened action of the Archbishop "We have never during the two and a half years that the paper has been in existence uttered a single word against religion. We have simply dealt with educational questions and emphasized over and over again the necessity of having our boys and girls in the Province given a common school education. We have also protested against the very supreme egotism of the Nationalists and others, who seek to glorify the wonderful qualities of 'Jean Baptiste.' They represent the French-Canadians as being the most intelligent, the freest and the most enlightened people in the world, when as a matter of fact there are few peoples more downtrodden and illiterate than a large proportion of the French of this Province. We have talked very plainly to the French-Canadians about their material interests, about the necessity for their educating and training themselves to take a larger share in the financial, industrial and commercial progress of the Dominion, but we never," declared Mr Langlois, emphatically, "interfered in any shape of form with religious questions. It seem shardly right that we should be interdicted because we have appealed and asked for a better chance for the illiterate of the Province.

REFORMS ARE NEEDED

"According to the census of 1901, there were over 250,000 people in the Province of Quebec, who were unable to read or write. There are today over 130,000 children in the Province who have never gone to school. The average pay for our female teachers in the public schools is only $133, as compared with $483 for Ontario female teachers. Even at that the pay of the Quebec teachers has been almost doubled in the past few years. In this Province we have but 632 Normal school teachers, while Ontario has 5,420. Because we have championed the cause of these 130,000 little children, who have never gone to school, and of thousands of others who are almost illiterate, Archbishop Bruchesi has seen fit to threaten us with an interdict. This is certainly not consistent with British fair play or with the religious tolerance which we should expect in the 20th century in a British country.'

Mr. Godfrey Langlois, editor of Le Pays, is a member of the Local House for the St. Louis Division of this city He is a brilliant journalist and has proved one of the most valuable and influential members in the Local House. At the last election he was opposed by Mr. Chas. Bruchesi, brother of the Archbishop, as well as by two other candidates. Although opposed by the Church, Mr. Langlois easily won, all of his opponents losing their deposits.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The Review does not hold itself responsible for opinions expressed by its correspondents

To The Editor of The Review.

Sir—Permit me to suggest that as the 67th Regimental Band was unable to give the first band concert in Victoria Park last Friday night, a program be given on the evening of Dominion Day.

Why is it that the Salvation Army Band has not commenced the Tuesday night concerts as the city's grant calls for?

MUSIC LOVER.

CATERPILLARS

To the Editor of the Review.

Sir,—There will be, and is at the present time, a more serious plague than the great majority of people in this Province dream of. The result will be far reaching. Only the farming community have any idea of the extent of damage that is being done. We remember the manner in which the trees were stripped a few years ago. The plague is much more extensive to-day. They are now on the move. The writer has had men over his orchard at times for weeks and had the cocoons and insects killed off locally. To-day with three men working hard, it is really only waste of time. For south and north of me are cocoons with hundreds of thousands ready to crawl, and my neighbors take no steps whatever to kill or remove them. The trains have been stopped in the Ottawa District, and all things green will die this time, if some measures are not taken at once. It is now so serious that the Government should legislate and aid the destruction.

A SUFFERER.

"Sufferer" has the sympathy of every householders in the city. The caterpillars have become more than a pest in Peterborough. They are now a plague and if they keep on increasing there is no saying where the trouble will end. While the citizens generally responded to the request of the Horticultural Society to wage war on the pests early in the season when their extermination was within the range of possibility, certain residents have neglected to care for their own trees and shrubs with results disastrous alike to themselves and to their neighbors. It is not yet too late to prosecute with increased vigor the war of extermination. Every nest destroyed means thousands less of caterpillars.

SCHOOL CLOSING

Public Schools to Close Thursday, June 27

The Educational Department has brought on the High School Departmental Examinations at an earlier date this year than in previous years. The High School entrance examinations for Public School pupils is also being held at an earlier date than heretofore.

These changes, however, do not affect any of the Public School classes except the entrance classes.

The Peterborough Public Schools close on the afternoon of June 27th, and the regular school work including the final promotion examinations will continue until that date.

Pupils missing these final examinations without presenting a doctor's certificate for illness will have no chance of promotion. — A. Mowat, I. P. S.

GIVING MORE TO THE PUBLIC

Commencing to-day the Royal Theatre will show six reels of pictures of 6,000 feet of film at every show, afternoon and evening, together with one of the best refined vaudeville acts. The pictures will be all of the Licensed Pictures production, which can be seen only at the Royal, and nowhere else in Peterborough. The pictures will be changed three times each week, on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays. The vaudeville be changed twice a week on Mondays and Thursdays. Owing to the big extra expense of producing so many reels of the best pictures, that is eighteen reels or 18,000 feet of film, weekly, the Royal must ask its patrons to pay 10 cents admission every afternoon, as well as in the evening. Children with adults will be admitted for 5 cents. The shows will be continued with no stops for changes, as two operators with two of the best moving picture machines are employed.

Mr. Fred Skitch has received word from the Secretary of the New Bedford Homing Club, to the effect that 75 per cent of the pigeons liberated by Mr. Skitch from Armour's Hill, on the morning of June 2, arrived at their destination during the week. The first pigeon arrived at 5.59 p.m. Sunday and the second at 6.44 p.m. These two birds alone made the trip that day. The writer states that another pigeon arrived on Monday morning at five o'clock. The birds were liberated here at 5 a.m.

WHITE CAPS STRENGTHENING; TEMPLIN LANDS MORE MEN

Byrnes, the New Infielder, Showing Class—Mooney Gives Way to Another Catcher—Beard is Probability for Pitching Staff—Caps Took Second Game from Berlin

The White Caps and Manager Bowerman's London team are here to-day. The Petes had a busy day yesterday when with Jimmie Beard on the twirling mound, they took the second game from the Berlin champs by a score of 10 to 1. At the same time, London was being walloped by Hamilton to the tune of 15-4. In the two battles the Caps have hit out 23 safeties, including 6 two baggers, and scored 18 runs.

Beard was touched up frequently in yesterday's affair, but the team were playing ball all the time, only one slip up being recorded.

Byrnes, the new man is playing at short, Nasher being removed to third. The change has made a wonderful difference in the style of play. Jack White, an outfielder from the Tri State League is billed to blow in any time, as is also another catcher, Mooney being released.

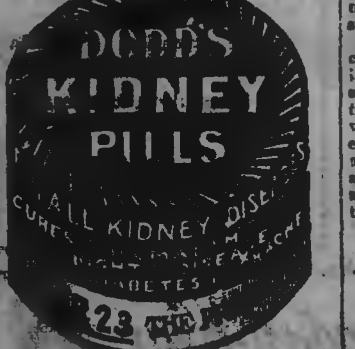
To-day's engagement was billed for the Oval at 345 o'clock. Riverside Park being all to the bad, on account of too much water.

TORONTO WON NINETEEN INNINGS GAME AT BUFFALO

Buffalo, N.Y., June 12.—Successive triples by Bradley and McConnell gave the Maple Leafs the decision over the Herd this afternoon after nineteen of the most sensational and spectacular sessions ever staged on a ball field, by a count of 4 to 3. For fourteen innings the strong pitching arms of clever Dick Rudolph and Lanky Fred Beebe turned the swatters away from the plate with resistless monotony, and but two men reached third base after the fourth until the last inning.

Rudolph pitched a wonderful game and was supported in sensational style by his teammates, who robbed the Herd of at least a dozen hits by spectacular fielding and great throwing. Although their work was marred by five errors, at least three of them were of the excusable variety and had nothing to do with the ultimate result.

Beebe also twirled an excellent brand of ball and had the visiting delegation falling over themselves trying to connect with his mysterious fast ball, which developed a wicked hop. In the final session, however, the long strain began to tell and the Toronto heavy artillery took advantage of his plight by combining a pair of triples, which took away the laurels.



Major D. H. McLaren broke two ribs by a fall from his horse at Niagara camp.

Rev. Percy Harding of London, has been appointed curate of All Saints Church, Windsor.

FORMER STARS OF THE DIAMOND IN TO-DAYS GAME

To-day's bill o'fare at the Oval will introduce to Peterboro fans, two celebrities of the baseball game, Frank Bowerman and Bill Phyle, the former being, several years ago, Christy Matthewson's right hand man behind the bat and the latter the home run-clouter of the Toronto Eastern League team.

Bowerman is now managing the Ottawa club and making a success of his "bush town" job, while Phyle is equally a favorite as arbitrator in the Canadian Ball League.

BREEZES FROM THE DIAMOND

Rube Marquard will pitch Thursday, June 13 and endeavor to take his thirteenth straight win.

Harry Burridge made a home run for Eaton's last Saturday, when the bases were all working.

Curly Belleghem, is twirling good ball this season for the Parkdale team, who were champions last year and are now in second place.

Jimmie Beard and Manager Templin did not get a hit, but each made his way around the sacks for a run.

That 5-4 victory for Toronto against Buffalo after nineteen innings, should be some solace for the Toronto fans.

Berlin has made nineteen errors in two games. The Petes offended but once yesterday.

The official scorer of the Ottawa club has joined the team at Guelph. The Citizen says he will give the western scorers a few pointers on base hits, sacrifice flies, etc. Peterboro players say every old thing goes for a hit at Ottawa.

Herbert got four men leading off first base in the first Guelph game.

An even break with London will make everything look lovely.

The Petes are coming along nicely these days. That celebration at Berlin must have swallowed the jink.

Jack White the new man to join the Petes, will likely be located at centre field.

Tully will be carried as utility material. The probabilities are that Jimmie Beard will get a regular job at the twirling game.

Manager Templin has been working with injured ligaments in his throwing arm. A Guelph specialist ordered a rest but Old Folks is still at it and has been playing swell ball in the recent series.

Kid Spears was due to do the catching for London this afternoon. Manager Bowerman may go in to-morrow.

Honored Submarine Victims.

Cherbourg, France, June 11.—As a further investigation only confirmed the impossibility of recovering the bodies of the crew of twenty-three of the submarine Vendemiaire, which was sunk off the Cherbourg peninsula Saturday, the Minister of Marine, M. Delcasse, went out to the scene of the disaster aboard the armored cruiser Gloire to pay homage to the dead.

The warship steamed up slowly to the spot where the submarine disappeared, and the Minister of Marine, standing on the bridge surrounded by admirals, bared his head and made a brief address. The marine guard presented arms, the band played the Marseillaise, and the guns boomed a salute.

McLAUGHLIN-BUICK MOTOR CARS

Automobile purchasers may be divided into three classes:

Those to whom low price is a greater consideration than service ability.

Those to whom price is no obstacle in gratifying a taste for the exclusive and the luxurious.

Then there is the great middle class—those who are prepared to make only a moderate expenditure but at the same time demand a car with power, style, stamina, and beauty.

It is the latter who will purchase the two thousand odd cars the McLaughlin Carriage Co. is building this year.

The style and beauty can be judged from the many McLaughlin cars to be seen on the streets and in the McLaughlin showrooms.

The power plant and the stamina of the McLaughlin car as a whole is guaranteed by the stability and integrity of the house of McLaughlin. To appreciate what this means it must be known that the McLaughlin Carriage Co. embodies in every car forty-three years of experience.

The service of a McLaughlin car is assured by the immense factory at Oshawa and the branch houses and agencies in all the leading cities and towns in Canada.

If moderate price, power and beauty are considerations, your choice is logically the McLaughlin-Buick.

LUMBER JACK OUT ON JOLLIFICATION

Was Relieved of $2 and Given Some Advice

The apparently unconquerable appetite of lumber-jacks for liquor, when in the city, resulted in an athletic young fellow being arrested in a badly intoxicated state in a public place last night. He sojourned in the cells over-night and this morning received an introduction to the police magistrate.

He stated that it was the first time that he had ever been in a police court. He was brought up in Fenelon Falls, but his wife was living back in Haliburton, while he has been working for the Cavendish Lumber Company, near Crane Lake, back of Buckhorn.

A $2 fine was imposed with a warning to let liquor alone, to which he said he would give heed in future.

SUGGESTED PROGRAM FOR DOMINION DAY CELEBRATION

Arrangements are coming along fast and shaping up well for a monster celebration here on Dominion Day, July 1st. A meeting of the committee in charge last night resulted in the outlining of a general plan of a program for the day, with the details to be arranged when further specific information is to hand.

It is practically assured, however, that there will be a grand military parade in the morning, when two, or perhaps three visiting regiments, and the 57th Regiment will march. This may be followed by a big automobile parade, in which as many autoists as possible will take part. It is estimated that if this event is pulled off, one hundred automobiles, or more, will be in line.

SPORTS AT RIVERSIDE.

Then in the afternoon Riverside Park will be the rendezvous of the patrons of sport. A classy program of sports is being arranged by Dr. McPherson, chairman of the Sports Committee. Some novelty races will likely be introduced, such as the greased pig race, obstacle events, etc. No admission fee will be levied for this part of the day's entertainment.

MILITARY TATTOO

In the afternoon the visiting militia and the 57th Regiment will assemble in Central Park. For a military tattoo, after which some manoeuvres will take place, concluding the day's celebration. Nothing is being omitted that could in any way assist in making the day a success. Indications are that it will be a big and eventful day in every respect.

A large number of guests were present.

Mr. Frank Crough, brother of the groom, acted as groomsman and Miss Flossie Killen, sister of the bride, as bridesmaid.

Both the bride and bridesmaid were attired beautifully in appropriate costumes and quite an assembly of invited guests, including friends and relatives were present at the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Crough will reside in Ennismore.

KENNER—PEACOCK

A very pretty wedding was celebrated in the George street Methodist church this morning, when Miss Margaret Peacock, of Edinburgh, Scotland, was united in marriage to Mr. Henry Kenner, of Souris, Man. The Rev. Wm. Kenner of this city assited by the Rev. Mr. Keith, performed the ceremony.

The bride was charmingly attired in a dress of grey silk, trimmed with silver braid, and silker braid, and silk embroidery. She carried a large bouquet of roses and lilies of the valley.

The bridesmaid was Miss Wells of this city, and the groomsman Mr. H. R. H. Kenner.

Mr. and Mrs. Mann will reside in Edmonton, Alta.

FARM HAND AWARDED $40; CONVICTION IN ASSAULT CHARGE

A farm hand named Edward Brown was awarded the sum of $40.00 in County police court yesterday afternoon by His Worship County Magistrate Edmison, the above sum being the amount of wages claimed by the plaintiff from a prominent farmer of Otonabee. A conviction was also registered against the latter on a charge of assault laid by the same plaintiff.

The trial was marked by some interesting evidence, there being several witnesses heard on the assault charge. The evidence was not strictly corroborative, and the stories of a couple of the witnesses differed somewhat as each gave their version of the tracts, and of the circumstances terminating in the clash between the two men.

Mr. G. N. Gordon, the plaintiff's counsel, presented the case for his client, while Mr. W. J. Bennett appeared in the interests of the defence.

The most of the trouble appeared to be the defendant's resentment of some nasty language, which was alleged to have been used by the plaintiff to defendant's mother.

Brown quit his job, the same morning on which the language, was alleged to have been used, and was followed off the premises by his employer, who endeavored to find out if the plaintiff had really referred to his mother in the terms alleged.

A struggle ensued after some words had been exchanged, in which Brown received a severe drubbing, his employer being an expert boxer.

Witnesses for the defence were the mother of defendant, and Amy Ashley, the maid.

Defendant's counsel considered that the fact was established that plaintiff had made use of the expression relating to defendant's mother. On that ground he felt that it was a justifiable assault.

His Worship interrupted with the remark that there was no question that the assault had not been committed. The only consideration was whether the assault had been justified. He did not consider that the defendant had any right to take the law in his own hands. He therefore thought that sufficient evidence was to hand to make a conviction, but he would reserve judgment.

Defendant agreed to pay plaintiff $40 wages, which he was claiming, and also consented to agree to the release from further service for him.

THE SITUATION REGARDING (AN OFFICIAL STATEMENT)
"THE ORIENTAL HOTEL LEASE

In an interview with a Review representative to-day, Mr. J. C. Shook of the Dickson Company with reference to the litigation proceedings with the Oriental Hotel, said that the article in Monday evening's Examiner issue gave a wrong impression as to the controversy between the Company and Mr. Graham, as by the terms of the lease of December 31st, 1906 which expired on May 1st, 1912, the following convenant was one of the express conditions on which the lease was granted at that time.

"That he will at the expiration or other sooner determination of said term, make, procure, or cause to be made or procured, a proper and sufficient transfer of the license to sell liquors upon the said premises to the person specified by the lessor or the Company for that purpose, and that he will lend his assistance to procure the assent of the License Commissioners to such transfer, upon the completion of such transfer with the assent of the License Commissioners, the lessee to be entitled to be paid by the assignee thereof, as consideration money, an amount equivalent to the proportionate part of the license fee for the unexpired part of the license term, and that he will at all reasonable times during the last twelve months of the said term, suffer and permit a reasonable inspection of said demised premises by prospective tenants and purchasers thereof, or by persons enquiring with a view to same and will do nothing to hamper or hinder the lessor or Company in their efforts to lease or sell the said premises or any part or parts thereof."

Mr. Graham declined to execute a lease for one year, with a provision therein which would have the effect of vesting the license in the Company at the end of such term and also refuses to give up possession of the premises hence the present litigation.

RECITAL AT THE CONSERVATORY

A vocal and piano recital at the Conservatory of Music last evening, given by the pupils of Mrs. W. A. Greenslade, assisted by Mr. Frank Whitehouse, violinist, afforded ample opportunity for the performers to exhibit their proficiency, and skill, to a fairly good sized audience.

The program was rather lengthy, although that fact was lost sight of owing to the extreme merit of each number.

Special reference must be made of the opening number, "Welcome Pretty Primrose." This is a remarkably fine chorus and was rendered by thirty childish voices in a most effective manner.

Solos were rendered by Miss Katie Masterson and Mrs. B. Reid in excellent voice, while a vocal duet, "For All Eternity," by Mascheroni, with violin obligato, by Miss C. Soucie, contralto, Miss K. Masterson and Mr. F. Whitehouse, was probably the feature item of the musical bill-of-fare.

Mrs. Greenslade's pupils showed evidences of splendid training, and brought no small portion of credit to their instructress, and also to themselves.

The program consisted of twenty-five numbers.

Following the Titanic Disaster no one will think of travelling without first taking out an Accident Policy.

It is interesting to know that practically all the Canadians who lost their lives through the Titanic wreck carried Accident Insurance. The average amount to be paid by Accident Companies alone, is over $30,000 for each Canadian lost.

The Double Indemnity and Bonus feature of The Dominion of Canada and General Accident Assurance Company policies are worthy of investigation before placing your Insurance.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years, was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. CENTRAL BOARD PLANNED FOR PRESBYTERIAN WORK

Superintendent of Presbyterian Missions Secures Approval of Church Gathering For His Scheme of Reorganising the Work and Abolishing the System of Separate Committees and Reports.

Edmonton, Alta., June 13.—Rev. A. S. Grant, the millionaire general superintendent of missions for the Presbyterian Church, carried the general assembly completely with him yesterday in a proposal made by him to reorganize completely the mission work of that body.

In past years this work has been done by a variety of committees. Each of these bodies made a separate appeal to the church for money. Each of them also reported to the presbytery, the synod and the general assembly. The proposal of Dr. Grant was that a number of these committees should be amalgamated and that so far as the collection of money from the church was concerned, that they should all be amalgamated. For this last purpose he proposed that the church should name a treasury board, which would take full charge of the finances of the church and distribute money to the various committees.

The resolution affecting the change is as follows:

1. That a board of finance be appointed to take the place of the present systematic giving.

2. That the duties of this board shall be (a) to secure the revenue for all the benevolent work as set forth in the budget; (b) to receive the estimates and adjust the same for the assembly; (c) to supervise the expenditures as far as ordinary revenue is concerned.

3. That the finance board consist of two members to be named by the general assembly, two from each synod, one-third to retire each year, the retiring members to be eligible for re-election. An executive of seven is to be chosen by the board.

Vacancies occurring during the year are to be filled by the board. In the presbyteries the committees on systematic benefices are to be retained.

In the matter of the unification of mission work the committee recommended as follows:

1. That the home missions committee, the augmentation committee and the board of foreign evangelisation be merged into one committee to be known as the board of home missions of the Presbyterian Church in Canada and that the work formerly done by these committees be undertaken by this board of home missions.

2. That in addition to the work done among the Indians and Jews of Canada and all other mission work in Canada apart from the work among the Chinese be done by this board.

3. That the board be instructed to organise its work in accordance with the conditions as set forth in the report of the committee on systematic giving under the head of unification of work in Canada.

4. That fields in the Maritime Provinces formerly under the care of French evangelization be handed over to the home mission committee eastern section to be cared for by that committee.

5. That, in accordance with the desire of the board of French evangelisation, as expressed in paragraph three, under the head, "Unification of Work in Canada," in the report of committee on systematic giving, the assembly appoint a board of management for the Point Aux Trembles school.

6. That the board of home missions be composed of members representing the different interests involved.

TEN YEARS FOR VINCENT McNEILL

Kingston, June 13—Vincent McNeil, aged 19, who took part in the sensational escape of prisoners from the penitentiary several weeks ago, appeared before Judge Madden in general sessions court yesterday afternoon and pleaded guilty to escaping and assaulting two guards, Ross Davis and Patrick Madden. He was given ten years hard labor, two years for escaping and ten years for assault, the sentences to run together. He has already served a little over a year on a five-year term for horse stealing. He was sentenced at Woodstock.

Walter Collins, aged 19, another convict, pleaded guilty, to having stabbed a fellow convict, Lloyd Smeltzer, on Feb. 3 last, and two years' hard labor was added to his term. Collins comes from Chicago and was given five years for burglary at Welland.

Brown, Kelly, Bonnar and Jones, the four convicts from Stony Mountain, who also figured in the sensational escape from the penitentiary, will come before the court to-day.

McNeill is a Peterborough boy. Mr. Daniel O'Connor appeared for him at the trial in Kingston.

FRANCHISE REFORM BILL FOR BRITAIN

London, June 13.—Premier Asquith announced in the House of Commons yesterday that a franchise reform bill would be introduced at an early date. The bill as drafted will give one man one vote on a short residential qualification with the simplest possible form of registration, the latter being at the public expense. A clause fixing all the elections for one day may be added.

The official woman suffrage amendment to the bill cannot be forthcoming until the bill is printed. There will probably be some limitation regarding women voters. Simple adult suffrage, without reference to sex cannot be put forward with any hope of success, since such a course would give the register in each constituency a majority of women. This matter is likely to cause trouble.

BELLE ISLE ROUTE IS NOT YET OPEN

Special to the Review.

Montreal, June 13—The lateness of the arrival of summer is indicated by the fact that the Straits of Belle Isle route to Canada is not yet navigable. An attempt was made by Capt. Jones of the Furness liner, "Peruvian" to come by that passage in his trip which ended yesterday, but he found it impossible.

TO CLOSE PORT AT SOUTHAMPTON

Special to the Review.

New York, June 13—A London cable to the Times says that a proposal is being considered by the Transatlantic steamship companies, for the removal of ships which now sail from Southampton to Plymouth. The proposal to close Southampton as a Transatlantic port, is said to be due to the series of vexatious strikes promoted by the Seafarers' Union. If the scheme goes through, Southampton will be practically ruined.

PRESIDENT TAFT EXTENDS WARM WELCOME TO OFFICERS OF VISITING GERMAN SQUADRON

SCENES AT PRESIDENT TAFT'S REVIEW OF VISITING GERMAN SQUADRON

PRINCE HENRY XXXVII OF REUSS

THE MOLTKE LEADING THE STETTIN AND THE BREMEN ENTERING THE ROADS

PRESIDENT TAFT REVIEWING THE GERMAN SEAMEN ON BOARD THE MOLTKE

In return for the courtesy shown the American squadron by the Kaiser on its visit to Kiel last summer, President Taft extended a formal welcome to Rear Admiral von Rebeur-Paschwitz and the officers and men of the visiting German squadron in Hampton Roads.

The reception ceremonies, enlivened by music and the blast of saluting guns, changed the appearance of Hampton Roads into a scene of international festivity witnessed by thousands afloat and ashore. The President's yacht Mayflower and eight American battle ships were part of the picture.

Prince Henry XXXVII. of Reuss, an officer of the fleet, was delighted with the spirit of friendliness shown by the American officials.

CANADIANS DISAPPROVE OF SENDING BACK CANNON

Report That Gun Captured by the British at Bunker Hill Is To Be Sent Back to the United States Arouses a Storm of Protest—Would Not Know Where to Draw the Line They Say.

Ottawa, June 13.—The announcement that the Minister of Militia, Hon. Col. Sam Hughes, has received a request from Boston for the return of the gun captured at Bunker Hill in 1776, and which is now at Quebec, does not mean that the gun will be returned. It may, or may not, be handed back, but there is little probability of it leaving Quebec.

This is not the first time that such a request has been made for the return of this historical relic. A similar proposition was made to the Government of Sir John Thompson, and when this was rejected, it was renewed to the Laurier Government, which also refused it.

Col. Sam Hughes has the distinction of being the first Minister of Militia to consider the proposition so seriously as to enter into official correspondence with the United States Government on the subject. It must be said, however, that the Minister of Militia is non-committal as to what he will do.

Col. Hughes referred interviewers to the press statements, and said that he had nothing to add to the statement that he was in correspondence with the War Department of the United States on the subject.

There is general resentment here at the idea of returning a war trophy of the type of the Bunker Hill gun. It is argued that the precedent which would be established by the return of this gun would involve similar requests from other powers, which might lead to difficulties. For instance, if the request were granted, the Dominion could hardly refuse to return the guns captured from the Boers in South Africa, and which occupy various places in Canada. And France and Russia might also ask for the return of trophies captured by the British in various wars. It is just a question whether Canada could give up the gun without Britain's consent.

Bostonians Have Little Hope.

Boston, June 13.—President John C. Warren and Secretary Francis H. Brown of the Bunker Hill Monument Association said yesterday that the organization has received no word recently regarding the return to Boston of the historic Bunker Hill battle gun which now rests upon the citadel of Quebec.

The Massachusetts Historical Society, it was said has never actively undertaken to secure the return of the old-time gun. The Bunker Hill Monument Association, on the contrary, has tried several times to induce the proper authorities to return the field piece.

The matter has lain apparently dormant for several years, and no direct information has come to the societies in this city that the Canadian Government has agreed to return the gun. The officers of the Bunker Hill Monument Association feel there is little probability of its return.

RECRUITED MEN IN TORONTO

Niagara-on-the-Lake, June 13.—That the 44th and 36th Regiments engaged men in Toronto to fill the ranks during the Niagara camp, was the finding of the board of enquiry, which sat for two days investigating stories printed in the Toronto papers, charging that men were recruited in Toronto for the camp. Officers of the two regiments admitted to the board of enquiry that they had secured men in Toronto who were out of work, and had given them uniforms for camp.

The board decided that while men were recruited in Toronto, they were not unreliable, unemployed, and made good soldiers.

One of the militia regulations is that men in rural regiments must be recruited in the district in which the regiment is stationed.

All will have wide powers, but their jurisdiction does not include municipalities incorporated as cities. They will, however, supervise elsewhere all matters affecting public health. WOMEN WRECKED A BUTCHER SHOP

New York, June 13.—While a women's committee was organized to urge retail butchers on the east side of Manhattan to close up their shops as a blow against wholesalers and high prices, announced yesterday that violence would not be favored, the situation in Brooklyn, where the committee is not at work, was not so peaceful.

Fifty housewives in the Williamsburg section descended upon and tried to wreck two retail shops. Police reserves scattered the mob after the women had ruined quantities of meat with kerosene. Several policemen bore scratches and teeth marks on their faces and hands.

No arrests were made. The housewives had driven out customers and scattered the contents of market baskets in the gutters.

Further efforts to induce these butchers to close shops will be made today. Picketing by housewives is planned, but no violence, it is declared, will be countenanced.

Moscow, June 13.—A monument to Alexander III. was unveiled yesterday by the Emperor in the presence of two score members of the ruling family and deputations from Bulgaria, Servia and all parts of Russia. Seventy-nine wreaths were laid at the base of the monument.

Thirty regiments took part in the march along the Moscow River, while hundreds of thousands of Muscovites massed at points of vantage and cheered heartily.

LOCAL OPTION FOR BROCKVILLE

CALIFORNIAN WAS AT FAULT

Special to the Review.

London, June 13.—Lord Mersey, at the Titanic enquiry this morning, said he had no doubt the Californian did see the distress signals; that they were signals from the Titanic and that the Californian ought to have made an effort to get to the Titanic. This statement is taken to indicate that the court will find that the Californian defaulted from duty.

SULPHURIC ACID RAIN IN ALASKA

Cordova, Alaska, June 13.—Although six days have passed since the Katmai volcano burst forth in eruption, there has been little relief from the volcanic smoke and ash which hung low over the mountains.

The first real danger here from the volcanic action was made apparent Tuesday night, when a heavy rain began to fall, the water mixing with the ash in the air, forming sulphuric acid, which burned painfully whenever it came in contact with any one's face or hands.

Before the cause was realized many persons received painful burns in the eyes, although none were severely injured. Analysis of the drinking water showed that it contained sulphuric acid, and physicians directed householders to use lime water as a counter-irritant.
